Fierce Fighting at Manilla Between Spaniards and Insurgents--Spanish Officials Report the Government in Deplorable Condition and on Verge of Overthrow.

A New Move.

By Telegraph to Reflector.

New York, June 7.—A World special from Washington says President McKinley will soon send the flying squadron to Spanish waters. Hurry orders have been issued for a heavy armament to be placed on the Yale and St. Louis before Saturday.

Sampson's Great Victory

By Telegraph to Reflector.

New York, June 7.—Journal bulletins says achieved yesterday a glorious victory at Santiago. Ten American warships began firing at seven forty five o'clock and the firing continued until eleven o'clock. Fifteen hundred shots were fired. The fortifications at Santiago are demolished. Many Spaniards were killed. The Spanish cruiser Reina Mercedes was riddled and reported sunk. Americans landed troops. Aguadores was bottled up with Spaniards. The Spanish infantry and cavalry were routed. Several Spanish generals were killed. No American losses are reported.

Fighting at Manila.

By Telegraph to Reflector.

Hong Kong, June 7.—Latest Manila advices says that fierce fighting between Spaniards and insurgents continued from May twenty-ninth to June second. Although Spaniards were worsted at every point they remain confident that they will gain ultimate victory over the insurgents and Americans. There was a fierce fight near Manila on May thirtieth. The Spaniards lost one hundred and fifty men, but the insurgents finally retired, Spaniards claimed a victory. The Spaniards are fortifying every possible point and are closely watched by Dewey. Steady advance is made by the insurgents along the coast supported by the American gunboat Petrel. The insurgents have made the Spaniards reconcentrate, gradually penning them in Manila. The Spanish out posts were reinforced by four thousand troops but on May thirty-first they were forced back along the whole line after desperate fighting and a thousand Spaniards being killed.

Must be True.

By Telegraph to Reflector.

Washington, June 7.—While nothing official has been announced it is almost certain that President McKinley has received advices from Sampson confirming the landing of troops and the bombardment of Aguadores at Santiago yesterday. It is known that it had been planned to begin the reduction of the batteries at six o'clock yesterday morning, also that it was intended to land forces in the neighborhood of Santiago and seize a strong position. The work it is believed was entrusted to nine hundred marines, to be joined by fleet and troops on the auxiliary cruiser Resolute. The marines landed yesterday.

Spanish Officials Talk

By Cable to Reflector.

London, June 7.—The Madrid correspondent of the Post interviewed Moret, ex-Secretary of the colonies this morning. Moret says that the government does not know where it is going, nobody in Spain foresees the outcome of the situation, which is far graver than is confessed. The Ship of State is drifting, the cabinet is unsolid, and confusion is complete if the truth was known. Serious complications will follow. The ministers talk, never act. They are absolutely impotent to simplify affairs. They are trusting to chance to extricate them from the troubles. The campaign in favor of peace begun by the press, is progressing. The populace are convinced if the plebiscite were held everybody would vote for peace, even the soldiers. The Queen has been unjustly attacked by Costellar who is already posing as president of the Republic. I doubt his ability to instigate a movement against the regency. The regency was menaced, but recently the adversaries of the Queen discovered the injustice of the attacks. It is difficult to say whether the Regency will be overturned. None can say what will happen to the country without guidance. Foreign war bonds are daily forcing fresh complications. If the Regency is overturned it will be an immense misfortune to Spain. The Parliament is divided as well as the ministry. The affairs of Spain are in complete disorder.

The Financial News publishes an interview with Romero Girón, Minister of colonies, which prophesies that Spain will find a way of meeting the interest of the Cuban debt, adding at the time my predecessor was negotiating a loan of fifty million dollars from France, but depended upon renewal of railway concessions by Spain, that it was a measure I always opposed in Cortes.

Referring to Manila, Romero said Dewey was short of ammunition and that the small pox was decimating his fleet. The natives are uncertain and may take either side. A large number have volunteered their service to Augusti since the Cavite engagement, and I think Americans will find little reliance can be placed in promises of Aguinaldo.

Too Late to Squeal Now

By Cable to Reflector.

Madrid June 7.—Duke Almodovar de Reo, foreign minister, despatched all Spanish Ambassadors a note and memorandum declaring that America had violated the international law by capturing Spanish vessels before the declaration of war, by bombarding ports without notice, and using the Spanish flag at Guantamund.

TUESDAY, JUNE 7, 1898.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)
Washington, June 6, 98.

There are reasons for the statement that too many orders from Washington are seriously hampering and delaying our naval success in Cuban waters. The Spanish fleet would have been located several days earlier than it was had there been no orders from Washington. It was an order from Washington that sent Admiral Sampson to take command of the blockading squadron off Santiago de Cuba, after Commodore Schley had run the game down and was preparing to bag it. This may not effect the fighting of the squadron, but it certainly will not increase its efficiency. Without pretending to say which of the two men is the best to be in command, anyone can see that justice would have allowed Schley, who is in reality Sampson's senior officer—they are both Commodores, Schley the senior, but Sampson was made acting admiral when the war began—to have an opportunity to carry out his plan and get all the glory he could out of capturing or destroying the Spanish fleet. Sampson was ordered from Washington not to attack until the army, which ought to be there by this time, was landed to assist in taking Santiago. It was this order that caused Sampson to blockade the entrance to the harbor, and thereby bring about one of the most heroic deeds of the war—the sinking of the United States collier Merrimac in the channel at the harbor entrance by a volunteer crew under Lieut. Hobson. If he couldn't go in after the Spanish fleet, he wanted to make sure that the Spanish fleet couldn't get out if one of the sudden storms, frequent at this season in these waters, should compel a temporary withdrawal of his ships. Lieut. Hobson and his brave crew, whose daring deed is unsurpassed in naval history, were all captured, but steps are being taken to bring about their immediate exchange for Spanish prisoners held by this government. If the orders from Washington are not for a pacific siege, Gen. Shafter and his army and Admiral Sampson and his squadron ought to be in possession of the Spanish fleet, or so much of it as is afloat after the assault, and of Santiago before this week is ended. They cannot, of course, act contrary to their orders. It is about time for Secretary Long to repeat that fairy tale about Sampson and Schley not being hampered by orders from Washington.

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, indulged in some very plain talk, just after the Senate had by a vote of 45 to 31 decided to put the clause for the issue of bonds and certificates of indebtedness back in the war revenue bill in place of the clause for the issue of greenbacks, which was put in the bill by the Senate Finance committee. He declared that the national bank combination, which he believed to be far stronger in the matter of controlling the destiny of the country than the 150,000 soldiers now in the field for the United States, was behind the conspiracy to force a bond issue upon the people, and that no government has ever been ridden by such an incubus as this, and no government ought to yield to such an imposition. No surprise was caused by the vote in the Senate, as it had been a foregone conclusion from the first. The Democrats who voted for bonds were, Caffery, Faulkner, Gorman, Gray, Lindsey, Mitchell, and Murphy. The silver Republicans voted solidly against bonds; also the Populists.

The bill, to permit volunteer soldiers in the field to vote at Congressional elections wherever they are stationed, has been favorably reported to the House, from the Elections committee. The report says: "The justice and propriety of permitting our citizen soldiers in the field to exercise their civil rights as voters during their military service will be conceded by all. Our policy as a nation has been to call on a citizen to perform duty as a soldier at any time when his services may be needed. To deny him the right to vote while performing such duty would deprive many of the best of our citizens of all participation in civil government."

Senator Wolcott lost his temper and said a number of things that might better have been left unsaid, just because Senator Allen remarked that the money spent by the Bimetallic Commission in going to Europe was uselessly squandered—an opinion held by nearly everybody in Washington. Senator Allen replied without using language as open to criticism as Mr. Wolcott's closing thusly: "While I do not have the collegiate education of this most distinguished star from Colorado, I have respect enough to refrain from epithets. Now, sir, I have said nothing to offend that gentleman, and I have no apologies to make to him."

Czar Reed decided to eat that humble pie as privately as possible. In order to avoid caucus action that everybody would recognize as a slap in his face, he has promised to allow the House to vote upon the resolution for the annexation of Hawaii during the present week. It has been hinted, however, that this concession isn't as great as it appears to be, and that Reed held the House up until a combination had been arranged in the Senate that will be strong enough to prevent the Senate voting on the resolution before adjournment. Mr. McKinley's friends are saying that if the Senate doesn't act, he will, by seizing Hawaii as a war measure.

"North Carolina has no general," says a contemporary, "not for the lack of material, but evidently for the lack of proper effort on the part of our representatives at Washington." It was ever thus. In the war between the States North Carolina soldiers made the reputations of the generals of other States. In this case we do not know how it is that the State has secured no general's commission. Senator Pritchard ought to be strong enough to secure us something. As for the other poor creature up there, nothing is to be expected of him.—Charlotte Observer.

The tonnage tonza fertilizers has thus far this year yielded the Agricultural Department $52,362. This shows that over 200,000 tons were sold.

A Lively Corpse

There was a man in this her town who bought a pig and put him in a pen to fatten, when behold the foresaid pig turned up his toes and to all appearances died. Our friend, though extremely sad, could do nothing but order the removal of the animal; so he came up town and hired a drayman and cart to take the carcass of to the woods. On the way to Herminy, just as the procession reached the ballgrounds, the pig, with one sudden squeal jumped out of the wagon and fled.

The driver came back and reported and collected his fee and was then offered a dollar to go back and catch the animal, but alas, that pig was no more to be caught than a will-o-the-wisp. The man ran him until he was sick of his job and gave it up.

The strange part of the whole matter is that from early morning until the afternoon the pig lay in the pen, to all appearances dead, and never a sign of life did he show until he had been carried out of town.—Wilson Advance.

An old gentlemen speaking to a young lady, and commenting upon her freshness and good looks remarked: "Ab, my dear, may you long retain them. Yours is a happy period of life; you know nothing yet of the jealousies, the heart-burnings, the contentions, the revillies that beset the pathway of existence." "Don't I, though?" she interrupted. "I want you to understand that I belong to a church choir."—Tit Bits.

There are too many in this world who will not cast their bread upon the water, unless they are assured beforehand that it will come back in a few days full grown sandwich, all trimmed with ham, buttered and rolled up in a warrantee deed for one half the earth and a mortgage on the other half.

Why Allow Your Child to Suffer.

Goldsboro, N. C. March 30—'98.
 Mrs. Joe Person,
 Dear Madame, My two small children were completely covered in running sores from impure blood, for which I could find no remedy, until I got a bottle of your Remedy. In a few days they were free of fever, and were well by the time the bottle was empty. I gave it after meals in sweetened water, and they bagged for it. Afterwards my litt girl became restless at night, would scream as if in nightmare every little while until after 12 or 1 o'clock. I commenced giving her the Remedy on Thursday night and by Saturday night she was resting quietly. I shall continue to use it for my children.

Yours very truly,
 Mrs. M. T. Witherington.

Cablegrams Indicate Victory

By Cable to Reflector.
 Cape Haytien, June 7.—No details of the fighting at Santiago yesterday have been received. It is believed, judging from the tone of cablegrams between Blanco, Pando, Cervera and Madrid that Sampson has achieved a great victory and inflicted considerable damage to Spanish ships. The biggest guns of the American fleet were used in the bombardment yesterday which continued for four hours. Spanish reports mention a repulse at Aguadores and the hurried movement of troops from Santiago to the seacoast to repel attacks.

Maria Teresa

By Telegraph to Reflector.
 New York, June 7.—A World special from Cape Haytien says it is reported that the Spanish cruiser Maria Teresa was sunk yesterday by Sampson.

Assignment of Troops.

By Telegraph to Reflector.
 New York, June 7.—The assignment of the regiments of volunteers of the department of the east was announced today at Governor's Island. Twenty-second second New York, goes to Willets Point and Fort Slocum Scuyler. First New York goes to Fort Hamilton and Wadsworth. Forty seventh New York goes to Fort Adams, Rhode Island, and Dutch Island, First Connecticut goes to Buck Port, Maine. Fourteenth Pennsylvania goes to Fort Mott, New Jersey, and Fort Delaware. The Eighteenth Pennsylvania, Delaware City and Alliance, Ohio remain to guard the gun works. Fifteenth Pennsylvania goes to Sheridan Point, Virginia and Fort Washington, Maryland.

Excitement Around the Depot

There were two incidents at the depot to break the monotony of things in that quarter. The first was an African uprising in which two youthful sons of Ham, failing to find words effective enough, began using their fists pretty lively on each other. The bombardment was rapid from each fort. There was a temporary suspension of hostilities during which one of the boys got hold of a buggy whip. The other belligerent forced an entrance into the harbor and after the first round both came up with a piece of the whip and began pelting each other again. By this time bystanders interfered and stopped the rumpus.

Just as the fight was dying out, Gus Forbes' horse which was left standing to a buggy, took a notion to caper some and dashed off. Trying to get out of the tangle of vehicles to the open, the runaway rig collided with another buggy occupied by Charlie Forbes and a young lady and gave them a close call from being upset. One wheel of the latter buggy was so badly twisted up that it had to be sent to port for repairs. The collision turned Gus' horse out of his course and both horse and vehicle dashed off the embankment in rear of the depot. Both struck bottom right side up and the horse galloped off to the Planters warehouse stables without doing further damage.

Pearson Meeting.

Monday morning Mr. Pearson gave his hearers a talk especially for mothers. He took as examples seven characters from the Bible and showed how they had influenced their children for good or evil. He discussed many very important points, among them being marriage and divorce, the sacredness of the family and home, God's honor upon motherhood, a mother's influence in shaping the character and destiny of her children, things that a mother should protect her children against, and so on. It was a thoughtful, earnest, impressive talk, and if Mr. Pearson had delivered no other sermon in Greenville but this one to mothers, even then his coming would have been a blessing to the town, to say nothing of the other excellent talks he has given.

Monday night he preached about "The Brazen Serpent" from the text John 3:14-15, and the parallel found in Numbers 21:4-9. He laid down three propositions from the narrative in Numbers and put beside them three from the New Testament reference. (1) Those Israelites were snake bitten—You and I are Devil bitten. (2) A brass snake was the remedy for the bitten Israelites—Jesus Christ on the cross is God's remedy for sin. (3) A look on the part of a bitten Israelite was the condition of a cure.—Faith of the sinner in Jesus Christ is the condition of salvation.

Then drawing several imaginary pictures of Moses going through the camp of Israel and asking those who were bitten why they did not look on the brazen serpent and live, he cited their excuses and made application of them to sinners who will not look to the Savior on the cross and find pardon for their sins.

There were several professions at the close of the sermon and many requests for prayer.

An Old Sword.

Mr. Geo. H. Joyner, of Chase City, Va., who has been spending a few weeks with relatives near Farmville, left for his home this morning. He called at THE REFLECTOR office Monday evening to renew his subscription, and while here showed us an old sword that was used by his great-grandfather, Gen. Benjamin May, in the Revolutionary war. The old sword is three cornered groove pattern and has a silver and ivory hilt. It has been well preserved.
