Tetter on the Hands.

For several years I was a sufferer from Tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples, and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from the scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one-half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS

Made by the Orange Va Observer.

Many a congregation is often sold by the choir.

The banana skin generally opens the fall business.

An actor knows his lines when they are cast in pleasant places.

Predigal sons are mighty few who won't go home to eat veal stew.

The liniment of repentance is a certain cure for a sprained conscience.

The power of the press is now being felt more than ever--at the cider mill.

Your face is the bulletin board upon which the news from your soul is written.

The new army recruits are very proud and happy--they are now "dressed to kill."

Some men are so stingy that they won't even wash their faces for fear of losing the dirt.

They never hang men for "killing time" in this country--it would keep the officers too busy.

Very often a soldier, while having the highest motives, will leave the army for lough purposes.

There is one beauty about the American jury system--if the jurors don't hang the criminals they usually hang themselves, and that is pretty nearly as good, only it isn't permanent enough.

Pleasant Prescription

Every one likes to look pretty and attractive and fascinating. Every one likes to print a good impression upon all with whom they come in contact. Well, we know something that never fails to produce this desired result, and it is within the reach of all. It gives a fairer complexion than "lily white," a richer hue than the costliest rouge, a more radiant glance than the powerful belladonna. It is a cheerful disposition, for nothing on earth adorns a face more than the lustrous witchery of a constantly teaming cheerfulness. When the heart has blossomed out into the beautiful and fragrant flower of good cheer for all, its bloom goes to the cheek in all of its rosiest colorings, and leaves those glorious tints of loveliness which are fadeless and eternal--Orange Va. Observer.

The Lawn Party

Talk about pretty places, but the Academy grove, during the lawn party given by the King's Daughters Friday night, was one of them. The grove was beautifully decorated with flags and brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns. The ladies made a nice sum from the sale of refreshments.

Yankee Hall Picnic.

There was a large crowd in attendance upon the picnic at Yankee Hall on Friday and it was one of unusual enjoyment. The dinner was elegant and bountiful, even the large crowd not being able to consume all that was there. A good band of music was present and those who enjoy dancing had ample opportunity for engaging in that pleasure. The managers deserve much credit for the success of the occasion.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Star Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 5, '98.

Just when the administration is bringing the war to a successful close by forcing the acceptance of its terms of peace by Spain may seem an inappropriate time to entertain suspicions of the intentions of that administration; but those who keep their eyes open cannot ignore facts.

to what matters should be left for the Peace Commissioners to determine. Mr. McKinley and his administration have been loyally supported by Congress and by the people, regardless of politics, in the conduct of the war, but that support will not be extended to the treaty of peace, if that treaty includes anything to which Spain ought not to be entitled.

Interest in the war served the Republicans numerous good turns this year, not the least of which was preventing the attention of the public being centered upon the big deficit the government closed the fiscal year with. Although the government received from the sale of the Pacific Railroads $64,751,223, the expenditures for the year were $35,047,247 in excess of receipts, and leaving the railroad money out of the calculation the deficit was $96,249,103.

When the war is over there is likely to be some plain talk from men who kept their mouths shut while the fighting was going on because they did not wish to even seem to encourage the enemy to believe that the government was not loyally supported by all our people in the conduct of the war. Among the acts of the administration that are likely to be fully ventilated at the next session of Congress, whether it be an extra session or not, are the following, already plainly touched upon by Representative James Hamilton Lewis: Why did the government pay $362,000 for the collier Merimac, in bad condition, that only cost $102,000? Why was Senator Hanna's brother paid $102,000 for a yacht that only cost $48,000? Why did the Navy Department offer Mr. Vanderbilt $250,000 for a yacht that only cost him $60,000? How did a wealthy New Yorker get $100,000 for an old bulk that was raised out of the mud to be sold to the government? Why were certain contracts made for transportation of troops at a rate of $12 a man when responsible bidders had offered to do the work for $7.29 a man? These are specimens of hundreds of questions that will be asked, and answers demanded, when it can be done without injury to the country. Unless an unusual amount of lying has been indulged in, the administration is responsible for putting a lot of unearned money into the pockets of favored individuals. Democrats will probe these stories to the bottom and let the people know the truth from the floor of Congress.

As the official statement of the terms of peace offered to Spain, issued this week from the White House, has no mention whatever of the $500,000,000 in Spanish bonds which are charged against Cuba, it seems that the newspaper statements saying that as a part of the terms of peace Spain was notified that neither Cuba nor the United States should be responsible for any portion of these bonds, was erroneous. This is to be regretted, because it will leave this bond question where the holders of the bonds will seek an opportunity to force it upon the consideration of the peace commission, something that should not be allowed. These bond holders have been entirely too great a factor in determining the attitude of this government towards the Cuban question. Spain received the money paid for these bonds, and to Spain alone should their holders look for their redemption.

Come Back

Do you—I mean you—consider yourself of a higher order of humanity than the negro you see lounging about the streets, whose eyes shine like half-moons above the watermelon rind he holds across his mouth? If you do not and if you believe he is competent and will administer the laws of the land to your entire satisfaction, then there is an excuse for your voting the Republican-Populist ticket. But if you feel that God Almighty has given you different instincts and a nature with greater and nobler aspirations and capable of nobler deeds, and as an evidence of this superiority has stamped you with a white skin then you have no right to so lose sight of this blessing as to degrade yourself and those whom God has given you by continuing this effort to get your own race down on this lower level where the Lord never intended you to be. Think of this when you are alone, and make up your mind to be a man, and come with us. We would not say anything to wound your feeling, we only ask you to think of these things. Come back.—Morehead City Pilot.

A HORRIBLE FAD.

Bejeweled Crawling Creatures For the Adornment of Woman.

If you see a live creature, a black and slimy thing, crawling up the white arm of the Summer girl don't make the mistake of plucking the reptile from its fair ensconement and crushing it under foot. Such rashness may cost you many dollars and a deep humility.

The Summer girl—when her papa's pocketbook permits—will adorn her creamy person with tiny snails and midget tortoises. Fashion says so, and that settles it. The fad is not a new one; fads don't have to be new to arouse the feverish interest of the dawdling society creature. Wealth makes queer playfellows, just as poverty makes queer bedfellows. The employment of reptiles as articles of personal adornment is going back to first principles with a vengeance. The cost of this living jewelry is its interesting point.

Take the tortoise on the hand, that precious little piece of life is jewelled with diamonds and rubies. A pattern of intricately chased gold inlaid with all kinds of expensive pebbles is flattened into the shell back, and even its tiny tail is decorated with a diamond band. The whole miniature circus cost $900, and it goes to a wealthy society debutante, but the earthworm underneath all this magnificence remains the same, slimy, slow moving and obnoxious.

She is Society Militant.

Mrs. Leiter is not the only example of society militant in Washington. There was an interchange of courtesies at a recent reception, in which the wife of a former congressman and the wife of a bureau official were the principals. It was a crowded afternoon affair, and the ex-congressman's wife was assisting the hostess in receiving the guests. When the wife of the bureau official was presented, the hostess said to the woman of the receiving party: "You know Mrs. Blank, don't you?" "Certainly," said the ex-congressman's wife, "I would know her anywhere by that pink dress." The cheeks of the bureau official's wife were suffused with a rosy glow, but she turned on her tormentor and said: "Probably if my husband had been mixed up in as many questionable transactions as yours, madam, it would not be necessary for me to wear my pink reception dress so often as to cause comment." Every word rang out clear and sharp upon the ears of the astonished guests. Inasmuch as there had been frequent criticism of the ex-congressman for his connection with questionable transactions, the force of the bureau official's wife's retort can readily be imagined.

Cleaning Gloves.

Chamois skin gloves should be washed on the hand with white castile soap and lukewarm water. When they are clean rinse them repeatedly in lukewarm water, and then wring them in a dry towel, so as to extract as much water as possible.

Pin them on a towel and hang them in the air to dry. They shrink somewhat under almost any process. The water they are washed in should be warm, but not hot to the touch. Hot water hardens the leather.

The best way to dry these gloves is on wooden "hands," and then it is not necessary to wring them in a towel. Merely press the water out of the leather and stitch the gloves on the wooden hands to dry. Such a pair of wooden hands is a great convenience in cleaning kid gloves, and soon "pay for themselves."

Professor of Oratory and Elocution.

Miss Florence Higgins has been made professor of oratory and elocution in the Northern Indiana College, of Valparaiso, Ind. She is the first woman who has been given a position of this kind. Miss Higgins has been a student and teacher of these branches for twelve years or more, and has occupied the chair of rhetoric at the Normal College of Valparaiso. There were a number of male applicants for the post. A part of her duty will be to instruct the law students in the art of oratory and pleading.

The Japanese Minister's Gift.

The Japanese Minister has presented to Miss Helen Long, the sponsor of the vessel launched recently, two superb Cloisonne vases, as mementos of the occasion. These vases are of exquisite design and workmanship, the dark background bringing out in relief the clusters of pure white plum blossoms, as they grow in the land of sunshine. There are also nightingales on the vases, and the proximity of the songsters to their favorite flowers is of beautiful significance.

A Leather Fob.

A young woman with a love for outdoor sports does not wear her watch on a gold chain or fob any longer. She will have no frivolous jewelry, but hitches her timepiece to a leather fob. This is finished with plain gold buckles and ornamented with a horse's head, a running hound, a fish, a bird, or else a golf stick, gun, tennis racquet, crossed oars, or something to call to mind some particular sport. Larger fobs of the same design are affected by athletic men.

Rom Higgs Dead.

James Laromie Lamar Higgs died a little before 4 o'clock this morning at the home of his brother, Mr. J. W. Higgs, on Dickinson avenue. He had been sick only a few days, being taken Monday morning last with peritonitis. Though he suffered most excruciatingly during these few days the little fellow made a brave fight for life and bore his suffering patiently. Greenville, Washington and Norfolk physicians were summoned to him and everything possible was done for his relief, but the grim hand of death could not be stayed.

Rom was thirteen years old in April and was a boy of unusual brightness and activity. He was one of these whole-souled, bright, accommodating little fellows who always had a pleasant greeting for everyone and made everybody like him. He was the pet of his brothers and sisters, and to them his death is indeed a sore affliction. They have the sympathy of all our people in their grief.

The interment took place this afternoon in Cherry Hill Cemetery. The services were conducted at the grave by Revs. N. M. Watson and A. W. Setzer. The pall bearers were Messrs J. E. Starkey, R. L. Carr, W. F. Harding and A. A. Taft.
