No Troops for Honolulu

San Francisco, Cal., Aug 24—The military authorities here have received instructions from Adjutant General Corbin countermanding previous orders to send a large body of soldiers of Honolulu. No more troops will leave here until further notice, and the three steamers which were to have left early next week will not go, at least not as transport steamers. The Scandia has been ordered to depart as soon as possible and will be used as a hospital ship.

Miles' Porto Rico Troops Ordered Home.

Washington, August 25.—Orders have been sent General Miles ordering him to send home all troops not actually needed in Porto Rico. No point has yet been designated for their embarkation in the United States, but a number of sites are under discussion.

Threaten Fresh Rebellion.

Manila, Philippine Island, Aug. 24.—At a conference today between the insurgents and the Americans the former declared emphatically that they were willing to co-operate with the Americans if assured that the islands would remain either an American or a British colony or under the protectorate of the United States of Great Britain. Otherwise, the insurgent leaders asserted, they would not dare disarm. They threaten a fresh rebellion within a month if the Americans withdraw.

INVALIDED HOME

Mauser bullet through my arm

Down at Santiago,

So the surgeon packed me home—

Thanks to Mr. Dago.

Folks were mighty glad to see

It was but a trifle.

Nell was, too—and bless the Lord

For that Spanish rifle!

Strange a crippled arm should be

Such a demonstration

That a heart stands much in need

Of a certain ration.

I've been trying, and in vain,

Several years, to ketch her.

Once I fell and broke my leg—

Yet it didn't fetch her.

But the Don who did me up

Is my friend forever,

Reckon that he didn't think

He could shoot so clever;

For he struck a beat that long

Had defied his betters—

And I'm here to find it out,

Having failed in letters.

So long as I can't fight,

I'm a fool to grumble.

And I guess the folks around

Have begun to tumble.

With Nell's help—I tell you that

Girl is just a dandy—

I can use a left arm, now,

Lover-like and handv.

STATE NEWS.

Mooresville Record: Mr. Pinkey Kyles, of Rowan postoffice brought to this office this week a cucumber 2 feet and 10 inches long. As he didn't want to make the people think that the editor of the Record had lied he put it on exhibition at Goodman's drug store.

A project is on foot to organize a "fruit growing company." The plans to purchase 1,000 acres of land at the foot of the Blue Ridge mountain and plant an apple orchard. One hundred thousand trees will be required and one man has already proposed to take enough stock in the company to pay for the trees. At that rate it will not take many weeks to complete the organization.—Mount Airy News.

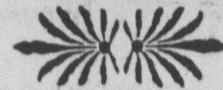

J. F. Harris, of Argo, was in the city Tuesday, and informed us that he planted five acres of the much-talked-of Jackson Limbless cotton, and that the stalks of the entire five acres will average five feet in height. The stalks with the exception of a couple of limbs near the bottom, are limbless, the bolls clustering from the top to bottom on the stalk and Mr Harris say it is the finest crop he has ever seen.—Nashville Graphic.

George Shepherd, a colored boy, in the employ of Dasch & Son, bakers, was brought up from Garland this morning with his head horribly mangled, and placed in the hands of Dr Melchoir. He was going to Wilmington on the negro excursion from Greensboro, and when near Garland, he fell or was pushed from the train, which was going very fast. His head struck a cross tie, splitting his head open in several places, one fracture being three inches long. The end of his nose was also cut off. The accident was not noticed from the train, and he lay unconscious near the track until picked up. He will hardly live.—Fayetteville Observer.

Will open September 5th, 1898, at Mrs. Forbes' School house. Patronage solicited.

The Maine "Remembered"

The action of the President in advancing Capt. Charles D. Sigsbee, commander of the ill-fated Maine, will be heartily approved by the entire country. Captain Sigsbee has been promoted for "extraordinary heroism"—a quality which he has shown on more than one occasion.

In a certain sense the blowing up of the Maine may be regarded as the beginning of the war, an opening chapter in which Captain Sigsbee was the leading character. How nobly he bore himself on that awful night in Havana harbor need not be recounted here. After the loss of the Maine it was the desire to give him a first-class cruiser or battleship, but there was no available vessel, and he was placed in command of the auxiliary cruiser St. Paul. This ship he commanded during the war, and always with signal ability.

Off San Juan he fought and disabled the Spanish torpedo boat Terror. His most valuable service was the discovery of Cervera's fleet in Santiago harbor, which he watched until the arrival of Commodore Schley's squadron several days later. Recently he has been assigned to the command of the Texas, which is all the more appropriate, as the Texas is a sister ship of the Maine.

Though Captain Sigsbee's services during the war pertained largely to scouting and patrol duty, this circumstance was a mere accident due to the Maine catastrophe. Under all circumstances he has shown himself to be a courageous and capable commander.

Captain Sigsbee will always hold a fond place in the memory of the American people. They will rejoice to know that the Maine has not been forgotten.—Baltimore Herald.

All About a Cat

The career of a champion cat, Rob by name, intruded itself into a grave discussion in an English court of Chancery the other day. The Westminster Gazette reports the matter as follows: Mr. Godefroi said it was a partnership action, the parties being Elizabeth Harris, spinster, plaintiff, and Annie Slater, defendant, and he moved an injunction to restrain the defendant from excluding the plaintiff from the business founded on the cat, which was a blue Persian, and from selling or exhibiting the cat without the consent of the plaintiff, and from representing that the cat was the defendant's sole property. The evidence showed that the value of the cat was £100. Mr. Owen Thompson, for the defendant, suggested that £20 was nearer the mark. Mr. Godefroi said that in May of last year a certain Miss Simpson made a suggestion to Miss Slater, the purchaser of the cat, which was then a kitten, and not in very good health. (Laughter.) As a result Miss Slater called on the plaintiff and asked her to go into partnership with her in this cat, and plaintiff agreed to do so. The terms of the partnership were that the defendant was to pay for the cat, which was then to be had as cheap as thirty shillings, and the plaintiff was to keep it. The plaintiff spent some money to provide a residence for the cat, and kept it about eighteen weeks. The cat was then shown at the Crystal Palace show, and carried everything before it, viz., two first prizes, four special prizes, the championship, and a silver medal. According to the rules of the National Cat Club, under the Crystal Palace show was held it was provided that the cat should be registered and entered in the names of the owners. That was done and the plaintiff paid the entry fee. A few days afterwards the ladies "had some words." The plaintiff demanded half her share, and what followed was this action. Mr. Owen Thompson submitted that there was no partnership from beginning to end, and that it was a case which ought never to have been brought into the High Court. His Lordship agreed. Finally the judge made the order asked for by the plaintiff, holding that the partnership extended to her not only in respect of profits on the cat, but in all other respects.

Nominate Good Men

The success of the Democratic ticket this year is essential to good government. There is something more than free offices at stake. At no time in recent years has the future welfare of North Carolina depended so much on the ballot box as it does today.

This makes it important that the Democrats should nominate the best and strongest men possible. Every name that goes on the ticket should add strength to that ticket. Every man should be absolutely above reproach, should be able to get every Democratic vote, as well as a few from other parties.

Any man, who for any reason, either personal or political, cannot poll the full vote of the Democratic party, should not be considered as a candidate for one moment. When about to vote for a candidate at the primary, ask yourself if his name will make the ticket stronger and if it will not, select some other candidate. No matter if the man is your friend and no matter if you regard him as suited in every way for the office, don't assist in his nomination if you know there is a single Democratic vote that will not be cast for him in November.

The success of Democracy this fall depends upon the names on the ticket.—Durham Sun.

"Out for the Stuff"

This is a political year and the woods are full of candidates, and unfortunately they all can't be put in office. Somebody has got to stay at home and take care of the babies, until this is settled.

From time to time we have been importuned by the zealous friends of candidates to boom this or that one for office; that it would be appreciated and remembered, etc.

We didn't do it.
 We ain't going to do it.
 We ain't said a word.
 Unless the cash is in sight.
 And we can see the smiling face of the Goddess of Liberty on one side of the dollar and can count the tail feathers of the great American eagle on the other side.

We are no running a political paper. But we have advertising space for sale.

Everything has changed since the war except our pockets. There is no change there.

Our enthusiasm is gone. It has leaked out through the hole in our elbows and escaped through the apertures in the gable end of our pants.

Glory is a good thing to have, but cold cash is better. Promises will not do.

Our advertising rates are reasonable to candidates—10 cents a line each insertion, cash to accompany the manuscript.

This ruling will hold good to all candidates of all parties. The candidate is out for the office.

We are out for the stuff.—Murphy Scout.

Mr. McBride Holt Says:

Graham, N. C. July 16, '97.

Oneida Cotton Mills:

About two and a half years ago my little boy about four years, and my little girl about two years, each had an enlargement of the glands about the ears. The trouble appearing on each about the same time, I was inclined to think it mumps, but soon observing to the contrary, I called in the doctor, who said the trouble came from colds, prescribing accordingly, yet swelling continued to grow, until each had to hold or the lance, the little boy having been lanced in three places, and at three times, his face at times, looking alarming. The nature of the trouble was termed one thing by one and another thing by another. This however, did not concern me, as I was looking for a cure, and Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy having been called to my attention so favorably, I dropped the treatment from the doctor and commenced to use Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. To say that the results obtained have been satisfactory is putting it in mild terms, the children, and especially the little boy being entirely well, yet wearing the scars that will ever keep fresh in my memory the merits of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy.

BRIEF REFLECTIONS

Just the Kind of News You Are Looking For

The point in question—?

Don't forget to sow your turnips this month.

September, the first fall month, is almost here.

Clean up your back lots and by so doing prevent disease.

Fresh Ocracoke Mollers just arrived at J. S. Tunstall's.

Who will be the first to bring in a bale of new cotton this year?

It's a treat the Fresh N. Y. Butter and Cheese at S. M. Schultz.

Remember the Orphans at the Court House Monday night, the 29th.

Bread is the staff of life, so plant some wheat instead of all cotton.

Don't forget that an ounce of silence is better than a pound of explanation.

Always look on the bright side—but walk on the shady side in this weather.

Strange to say a woman's declining years come after she has quit having proposals.

Another supply of those cheap Bagster's Teachers' Bibles, at Reflector Book Store.

"This is the best out," chuckled the accepted sister, as he extinguished the parlor lamp.

What a happy world this would be if we could only see others as we see ourselves.

Three Killed at a Crossing

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 24.—A horrible accident occurred today on the Atlantic Coast Line Railway at a crossing known as Grossman's, a short distance from this city. Mr. J. P. Condrey, a prosperous farmer, of Chesterfield county, was returning home with his wife and little son in a buggy and when he reached the crossing the young horse he was driving became unmanageable and carried the party upon the track in front of the local train from Richmond to Petersburg. All the occupants of the buggy were instantly killed.

The Mines in Havana Harbor

Washington, D. C., August 24.—Negotiations have been opened through diplomatic channels by which it is expected that the Spanish Government will co-operate with the authorities here in the removal of the mines and torpedoes in Havana harbor before the military commission assembles there, the naval authorities believing this to be a proper precaution before any of our naval ships enter the harbor with the commissioners. The suggestion was made through the State Department, and has been forwarded to the Spanish Government through the French Embassy. There is little doubt the matter will be arranged.
