That Winning Ticket

Aug. 31st 1898.

EDITOR REFLECTOR.

A few days ago, there appeared in your columns, signed "An Old Man" an article suggesting Hon. F. G. James for the Senate, Hon. Thos. J. Jarvis and R. L. Davis for the House, G. M. Mooring for Sheriff, J. B. Cherry for Treasurer R. Williams for Register of Deeds and D. C. Moore for Clerk. There has been much said about this ticket since and general consensus of opinion is that it is the very strongest ticket that could be run. Everybody knows the great need of running men now who will carry an inspired confidence and this ticket will be a winning one. Now is the time to put the best and strongest material in the field with this ticket there would be great enthusiasm.

ONE NOT SO OLD.

Cotton Damaged by Rain

Yesterday a cotton buyer said the farmers should be very careful now in picking cotton that has been open during the rain of the last few days. That cotton is damaged and stained. A hundred pounds of it will lower the grade of a whole bale. That is why the farmers are cautioned by the buyers to keep the damaged cotton away from the good sample. All the cotton now in the field should be picked and kept separate from that which opens later, said the gentleman.—Charlotte Observer.

A Pretty Place

The recent improvements in the way of painting and papering have made the interior of the store of J. B. Cherry & Co. the most attractive of any in town. This enterprising firm is also putting in the finest stock this fall that they have brought out during any former season. Whether you should wish to purchase anything or not, it is well worth the time just to go and take a look through their establishment. Their beautiful goods, reasonable prices and courteous attention will be sure to impress you.

Needs Cleaning

It would be well for the owners of property in Greenville that border sidewalks to look to their interest by cutting down weeds and grass and otherwise making the side walks passable. There never was so much grass and weeds on sidewalks in Greenville before. If something is not done the cattle and hogs had better be turned out to cleanse the town. Let everybody begin at once to get the town in a pleasant, healthy appearance.

Had Better Stayed Home

Today a drummer for a tobacco warehouse in another town was at the sales on the Greenville market. He tried to make business for his house by saying now and then, where the farmers could hear him, "Tobacco don't sell here like it does at the warehouse in ——. It brings higher prices there." Some of those hearing his remarks concluded to put him to a test. Picking out a pile of tobacco one of them asked the drummer what price it would bring on his warehouse. "Why, that would bring $15 on our market," he said with an air that seemed to indicate that it would not bring half that much here. They then waited for the auctioneer and buyers to come along and when the drummer saw the pile of tobacco go off at $43 he looked like—well, there is no use saying. That kind of a drummer injures rather than draws trade to a warehouse.

The Cotton Crop

Somebody has recently said that if cotton had gone up to 10 cents a pound this year it would have been a positive injury to the farmers, for the reason that next year every farmer throughout the South would have planted every acre of the ground that he could plow in cotton to the neglect of all other crops.

As the case now stands, cotton has been so low that while there was a small margin of profit to the farmer in its production, there was not enough of profit in it to justify him in producing a crop of cotton alone, and so he has learned to diversify his crops, to raise his supplies at home, thus materially reducing the actual cost of living and giving him the profit on his cotton as so much surplus cash. As a consequence it is conceded that the farmers of the South are in a better condition than they were when cotton was selling at a higher price.

In short, the farmers of the South have learned how to farm, have learned how to conduct their farming operations on business principles. And if they would only learn one thing more, to reduce their cotton acreage and make a crop of 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 bales instead of a crop from 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 bales, while raising all their supplies at home, they would find farming even more profitable than it now is.

Where the Negro Rules

Greenville is not the only town in Pitt county that has negro office holders. Grifton is afflicted about as we are in that particular, having several negroes holding important positions and figuring largely in controlling the affairs of the town. One of the Commissioners and the treasurer of that town is a negro, the tax collector of the town is a negro, and one of the tax assessors is a negro—four responsible places filled by them. White men can see the drift of fusion in the example of Greenville and Grifton, and if they do not wish to see the condition become even worse they had better work for the success of the Democratic party—the white men's party—in the coming election.

Some Rain Every Day

We heard a man from the southern part of the county say today that for seventy-five consecutive days there has been rain or signs of rain in his immediate neighborhood. It has been a very wet summer, probably evening up for the unusually dry weather of last winter and spring.

The Town that Advertises

There is much profit in putting a town before the great public, and the only way is to advertise. The town that is advertised is the town that secures all the investments, and the town that undergoes the healthy charges of a rapid development.—Ad Sense.

Good Prices Here

You don't hear of any falling back in prices of tobacco on the Greenville market. The warehousemen and buyers are all interested in making it bring the best prices to be had. The buyers are prepared to handle all the tobacco that can come here, and to make it come they pay top prices. And nothing pleases the warehousemen better than to have large breaks and see it go at high prices.

MAJ GUTHRIE EXPLAINS

He is Not a Candidate for Any Office at This Time

The Alamance Gleaner this week contains the following paragraph:

When Adams is nominated for Congress he will accept the nomination, and then the executive committee will cast about for a candidate for judge. In looking around Settle will not be seen, but it is confidently believed the man will be found in Hon. W. A. Guthrie, of Durham, who has had the fortune or misfortune, one or the other, to belong to all parties within the past few years.

This was shown to Maj. Guthrie and he was asked regarding the truth of the statement. In reply to this, Mr Guthrie said:

"I am not a candidate for the nomination of any political party for any office at the present time, nor do I expect or desire to be nominated for any political office this year of grace A. D., 1898. The most esteemed favor my personal friends of all parties, can do me at present is to let me alone and stop circulating false rumors, based on nothing said or done by me to encourage them.

"I want it distinctly understood that while I feel, as every citizen ought, a lively interest in political affairs, nothing could tempt me at the present time to become a candidate before the people for any political office. I am not a political trader and until the time shall come, if ever, in North Carolina, that political honors shall be based upon political principles I shall be content to remain simply a private citizen, and vote as I see fit with the best lights I can get as to what is best under the circumstances to promote good government. I am heartily sick and disgusted at seeing our public offices made a matter of merchandise to be hawked around by political traders for pure personal gain. Our theory of government is that the public offices are the agencies of government and those who hold them are servants of the people, but most of the officeholders and office seekers of the present day in North Carolina, in practice have reversed this theory (which is the true theory) of government.

"The traders now have their day, but it requires no prophet to foresee that a day is coming, and I hope it is near at hand when the traders will be forced to go out of business and give the people a chance to administer our own State government upon correct principles."--Durham Daily Record.

Nearly a Murder

Sunday night about half past ten o'clock as Thomas Wilburn and Frank Parsons, two young white men, were coming down South Front street, they were brutally assaulted by half a dozen negroes. In the scrimmage one of the negroes stabbed Parsons through the nose with a knife, the weapon entering at one side, and coming out at the other. After this the negroes fled. They were of course unknown. It is evident that the blow was intended for Parsons's throat, and would have certainly proven fatal had it struck where it was intended.

No reason is known for the assault, as neither of the young men have had any altercation with any negro, nor any words either. It was purely a cold blooded attempt at assassination, and had not the young men made such a vigorous resistance they would doubtless have been killed. And this right here in a city of 10,000 inhabitants. It seems more like a tale of some border mining town than an occurrence in the center of civilization. These things must and will be stopped. When a citizen cannot walk the public streets without being set upon by a pack of blood thirsty barbarians, the situation is really alarming.

The white men must put an end to a condition which makes these things possible.--Newbern Journal.

Col. Harry Skinner is the most gusty spell-binder and capacious straddler in the whole zoo. He has long been noted as the politician without any politics. Col. Harry will need all his spell-binding and straddling and ready willingness to believe everything every voter in his district believes before he gets through with the campaign. He got his nomination gaggled through the Populist convention but this is a year when Populist conventions do not mean Populist votes every time. The honest Populist of the first will not support Skinner. The Populist who has pie will perhaps; the Populist who wants and expects pie may. But these compose a very small part of the voting strength. Col. Skinner has hitherto found it highly convenient not to be hampered with any principles but when he comes up for the suffrage of men who have principles, and who have gotten a line on the spell-binder, the situation will be awkward for Colonel Harry.--Raleigh News and Observer.

The Athens, Ga., Banner hopes there will be no more resolutions to reduce the cotton acreage. "More societies," it says, "passed resolutions this spring to reduce the acreage than ever before in the history of the country, and the result is the biggest cotton crop ever known." Whether a big cotton crop is a blessing or a curse, it is very certain that resolutions agreeing on curtailment never have and perhaps never will reduce the size of a crop. Cotton conventions are not worth a stiver unless they discuss methods of cultivation, and some and money spent in attending them are wasted.--Charlotte Observer.

$100,000 Damage in Stanly

A very disastrous freshet visited Stanly county last week and the loss of property is generally estimated at $100,000. The Albe marle Enterprise says Mr. I. P. Efrid, of Efrid's Mills, had a cotton gin and saw mill, with engine and boiler, together with a number of bales of cotton to wash down the creek; most of the cotton has been recovered. The grain and saw mill of Solomon Pless, and the Barbee mill and dam, in Big Lick township, were entirely washed away.

Mr. McBride Holt Says:
 Graham, N. C. July 16, '97.

Oneida Cotton Mills:

About two and a half years ago my little boy about four years, and my little girl about two years, each had an enlargement of the glands about the ears. The trouble appearing on each about the same time, I was inclined to think it mumps, but soon observing to the contrary, I called in the doctor, who said the trouble came from colds, prescribing accordingly, yet swelling continued to grow, until each had to hold or the lance, the little boy having been lanced in three places, and at three times, his face at times, looking alarming. The nature of the trouble was termed one thing by one and another thing by another. This however, did not concern me, as I was looking for a cure, and Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy having been called to my attention so favorably, I dropped the treatment from the doctor and commenced using Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. To say that the results obtained have been satisfactory is putting it in mild terms, the children, and especially the little boy being entirely well, yet wearing the scars that will ever keep fresh in my memory the merits of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. School Recital

Prof. L. L. Hargrave gave the opening recital of his school for young ladies in the college chapel on Wednesday evening. There was a large audience and a number had to be turned away for the want of room.

The programme consisted of a short address by Prof. Hargrave, several musical selections and recitations. The latter were by Miss Clara Bel Williams, of Tennessee, the teacher of elocution. There was an ease and naturalness about her that at once attracted and charmed the audience.

There were several quartettes rendered by Prof. Hargrave, Mr. Alsop, Mrs. T. E. Hooker and Miss Lizzie Hargrave, and all but the last named also gave a solo. Mrs. E. H. Taft was accompanist. The selections were and all splendidly rendered.
