STATE NEWS.

Judge Purnell has designated four banks in the Eastern District as depositories of moneys in bankrupt estates. The following are the banks designated: Citizens National Bank of Raleigh, Atlantic National Bank of Wilmington, First National Bank of Newbern, and First National Bank of Elizabeth City. Each bank will be required to execute a bond of $2,000.

Mr. C. L. Stanford, of Sharon, had a mule injured in rather a peculiar manner Tuesday. While running across the yard it ran into a smooth wire fence and turned a complete somersault, receiving injuries from which it will likely die.—Charlotte Observer.

The Observer says Mr. H. N. Johnson, of Mooresville, shipped 2,800 quail and 3,000 rabbits to Charlotte during December.

Suit has been brought against the ex-Sheriff of Currituck county for embezzling $2,600 of the public school fund.

The Third North Carolina (negro) Regiment is to be mustered out. It ought never to have been mustered in.

At Concord a mule sold to satisfy a mortgage brought only 5 cents. And even then the bidder backed down from his trade.

Capt. John M. Moore, who was traveling with the North Carolina car "City of Charlotte" was bitten by a parrot about a week ago. Blood poison followed and he died at Chester, S. C. Tuesday night.

Smallpox in Norfolk.

Norfolk, Jan. 4.—The smallpox situation here is considered serious, although most of the local newspapers fail to print anything about the disease. In its incipency, the disease was confined to the negro population. Now it has broken out among the whites. How to stamp it out has become a problem.

Up to the present there has not been any danger of an epidemic, but the situation will bear watching. The local board of health says it is doing all in its power to prevent the spread of the disease, but judging by new cases developing daily its efforts so far have been of little avail. There are now nearly one hundred cases at the smallpox hospital, all negroes except two.

Craven's Officers Democrats.

The commissioners of Craven county met Monday for the purpose of passing on the bonds of the various Republican officers-elect who had not previously qualified. E. W. Carpenter, C. C. Roach, and J. B. Willis were on hand with their bonds, but the point was raised and sustained by the board that inasmuch as the officers have failed to present their bonds on the day required by law that the respective offices were vacant. These offices are clerk of the Superior Court, register of deeds and county treasurer.

As soon as it was known that a vacancy existed, Judge Henry R. Bryan, the presiding judge of the district, appointed W. M. Watson, clerk of the court, and Mr. Watson filled the other vacancies in appointing Ernest M. Green register of deeds and Thomas Daniels county treasurer.

IT WAS FINE.

Band Concert a Great Success.

It was a delighted audience that assembled in the opera house, Thursday night, to attend the concert given by the Osceola Cornet Band. The program was carried out excellently and every number was charming. The concert opened with a grand overture by the full band of twenty pieces and they presented a handsome appearance arranged in a semi-circle on the stage, their beautiful instruments shining like silver. The overture, as well as every other selection rendered by the band, was a gem, and showed that they had made most wonderful progress in the month they have been organized.

The band is composed of the following members, and a glance at the names will show that it has fine talent:

Leader with Cornet—Ola Forbes.
Cornets—A. A. Forbes, Gus Forbes, Ernest Forbes, J. F. Evans.
Clarionets—G. J. Woodward, C. S. Forbes.

Solo alto—A. A. Forbes, Jr.
Altos—A. F. Kenedy, J. C. Lanier, J. M. Moore.
Tenors—J. Q. Smith, J. H. Farrow.

Baritone—S. T. Hooker.
Bass—T. F. Christman.
Drums—Walter Pollard, L. Hooker.

Cymbals—Bennie Higgs.
Between the musical numbers were given a series of tableaux under the direction of Miss Sallie Lipscomb. These tableaux were the most beautiful ever witnessed in Greenville and showed much skill both in planning and execution.

Mrs. J. B. Cherry sang two charming solos and Miss Clara Bel Williams gave a recitation that was superb.

The band is to be congratulated upon the excellence of its music and deserves the thanks of all present for the splendid entertainment. The receipts of the concert were about $60.

The Public Printing.

The first measure looking to the public welfare to come up before the Legislature was a resolution relative to the State printing, as follows:

Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, that a joint committee of three on part of the House and two on the part of the Senate, be appointed with power to contract with some one who is prepared to do the State printing and binding, at a price not exceeding that paid under Chap. 52 of the Code for the years 1893 and 1894, until the same can be regulated by law.

Be it further resolved, that none of the printing or binding shall be done outside of this State.

Governor's Message Read.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 5.—The Governor's message was read in the Senate this morning. The message is mainly composed of platitudes and is not characteristic. Its important recommendations are increased appropriation for the University, State colleges, charitable institutions, State guard, board of health, soldiers' home and pensions. He advises the sale of the Halifax farms and the purchase of the Calcedonia farm. He advocates legislation for better roads and wants measures taken to effect a diminution of forest fires. He suggests advisability of provisions for an increased efficiency in the public school system.

Smith, of Stanley, was today elected President of the Senate pro tem.

A bill passed to investigate the State penitentiary and punish for contempt all persons refusing to testify before the joint committee.

Protect Your Eyes.

Dr. J. Henry Odom, the noted eye specialist, of Atlanta, is in Greenville for a few weeks and has opened an office in rooms 4 and 5 at Hotel Macon, where he will be glad to see any one needing his services. THE REFLECTOR reporter has called on Dr. Odom and been shown through his office. He is fully equipped with the best scientific instruments for examining the eye and is prepared to treat the most complicated cases. We were also shown many testimonials from persons treated by him and all speak of the excellence of his work and the satisfaction given. The press wherever he goes also speak in highest terms of him.

There are many people who suffer intensely from neglect of their eyes, and those in Greenville and vicinity should avail themselves of the opportunity offered by the presence of Dr. Odom.

Examinations and consultations free to all. Satisfaction guaranteed in every case. Prices for glasses are reasonable. Glasses of best quality furnished.

Methodist People.

The pastor of the Methodist church makes a special request, through THE REFLECTOR that every member of Greenville Methodist church attend the service next Sunday morning. Something of importance to you; be sure to come and tell your neighbor, who may not see this notice, to come also.

N. M. W.

Negro representatives from all over the South will hold a conference on February 22 at Tuskegee, Fla., in connection with education matters.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1899.

The Charlotte Observer pays its respects in the following manner to one of the greatest humbugs known in newspaper circles:

Printer's Ink is the name of a publication issued by Geo. P. Rowell & Co., newspaper advertising agents, New York, which is devoted to the subjects of advertising and newspapers. In a recent issue it states that "in North Carolina two daily papers only get credit for issues of 1,000 copies or more," and as this two it names a morning and an evening paper. After these it says, "there are twenty-five other dailies in the State, not one of which probably issues as many as 800 copies." There is perhaps but one morning paper in the State which issues so few as 2,000 copies, and we are perfectly certain that there are three or more evening papers which issue as many as 2,000. The Charlotte Observer is not in the habit of boasting of its circulation, its advertising patronage or its qualities as a newspaper, but Geo. P. Rowell & Co., knew perfectly well that they were lying when they included it in a list of papers issuing less than 1,000 daily. It has long been understood by newspaper people that when Rowell & Co., cannot coerce a paper into advertising in their directory or in Printer's Ink, or into accepting advertising at their figures, they seek to punish it by depreciating its circulation. This is a case in point. They have not succeeded in blackmailing this paper, nor will they.

This Rowell concern has made a fortune out of the newspapers of the United States by just such blackmail methods and why the papers will continue to be so gullible is hard to understand. For years we have been keeping a watch on the Rowell publications and it is easy to see that those papers which put advertisements in his directory and in Printer's Ink can get anything they want said, it matters not how underserved it might be. Rowell and his methods are a humbug, and no reliability can be placed in what he publishes. Another thing that shows the cheek of the Rowell concern is that he is trying to get these same papers which he attempts to blackmail to petition Congress to refund several thousand dollars which the government collected out of him for postage.

The city clerk of Lewiston, Me., who always demands the written consent of parents before marrying minors, recently received the following unique letter: "Mr. Clek, that girl of mine she want to be marry and I done care a darn. She got a feller and they earn ten dollars a week 'tween 'em. He good feller. She all right. You will marry them for me, and be much obliged."

Americans Rush Too Hard.

In the January Ladies Home Journal Edward Bok deplors the sense of rush that has taken possession of the American women, and emphasizes the dangers arising from this condition of unrest. "Take our family life to-day," he says. "Look around one's own family circle; look into its life, look into the families we know, and tell me if I am so far wrong when I say that what our American families need more than anything else is more time with each other; more drawing together; more moments of being alone with each other; a greater extraction of the peace and comfort from those material surroundings which each so earnestly strives for, and all are too much satisfied to strive for simply to possess, and nothing more. We are all too much in a hurry in America to allow of our knowing and enjoying each other; our lives are too full with the things which ought to be secondary and which we have allowed to dominate us. We are all too busy; men and women, girls and boys—all of us. Rush and haste are too much upon us. The sweet balm of peace and quiet is an unknown delight to thousands of our people. And much of the cause, disagreeable as it is to say it, lies with our women who have of late allowed their lives to become too full. I will not say that they have neglected, to any alarming extent, the fundamental duties of wifehood and motherhood. But I do say that the danger of doing so in the very near future exists, in many an instance, if things are allowed to go on as they have gone."

Business Partnership of Matrimony.

The time to begin to learn from each other is when people are first married, when life is still a playground to them, and when romantic love condones what in later years might seem nagging or carping criticism. We are all creatures of habit. If we get used to the business partnership of matrimony in our youth it becomes second nature, and not a hardship nor a disillusionment. If people would take time to understand each other, and to cultivate mutual confidence, how much easier married life would become—in fact, all life! To be sure, we only hear of the unhappy marriages, while great numbers of people are plodding on together silently and happily. But there is enough friction to warrant this kind of consideration, because even those who are to all appearances contented might make more of life if they looked upon marriage as an equal partnership.—FRANCES EVANS in the January Ladies' Home Journal.

When a woman wills she will and when she won't she won't. Miss Nelson, of Woodbury, N. J., had a sweetheart, to whom she was engaged, who was arrested and tried for the murder of his mother and grandmother. She is an heiress and rich. She stuck to her fellow, hired counsel and finally succeeded in having him acquitted and turned out of jail. And then she changed her mind and surprised everybody by refusing to marry him. She probably acted wisely, for there must be a bad streak in a man who could even be suspected of murdering his mother and grandmother.

Last year several persons in Genoa were infected with pneumonia by parrots. A few weeks ago two persons in Rivolto died of the same disease, an investigation developed the fact that it came from two parrots in the house.

The Disappointed.

There have been in Raleigh in the past few days many applicants for positions in the General Assembly who have been disappointed in securing the position they desired. They are good men who have worked for the party and they are loyal men who in spite of defeat are as good Democrats as if they succeeded in their ambition.

Their efforts were largely instrumental in securing the victory which brought joy to the people of North Carolina and they are entitled to the thanks of the State.

As a gentleman remarked yesterday the difficulty was that the good Democrats were unlimited and the positions were limited and the parity between them could not be maintained.

Those who succeeded are to be congratulated, but those who failed are no less worthy. Both will be found in the future, as in the past, working for good government. Their fealty and devotion does not depend upon reward, but upon the great principles which govern their lives.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Harking Back.

Mrs. Acklins—I don't want to be impertinent, but how old are you anyway? Some of the ladies were discussing your age at the club the other day, and several of them claimed that you were at least 35, but I insisted that you were not more than 33.

Mrs. Biswick—I'm glad you were so kind. Of course you didn't mention the fact that you were ready to leave the grammar grade when I was in the primary class at school, did you?—New York World.

Why, of Course.

"I've called to tell you, sir, that the photographs you took of us the other day are not at all satisfactory. Why, my husband looks like an ape!" "Well, madam, you should have thought of that before you had him taken."—Household Words.

The Egyptian women wore bangle hoops of gold in their ears, which were regarded as the wearer's choicest possessions, and were parted from only under direst stress. The golden calf was supposed to have been made entirely from the earrings of the people.

The death penalty is rarely enforced in Germany, Austria, Denmark or Sweden. In New York 11 out of 12 murderers escape without any punishment, and in the United States only one murderer in 50 suffers capital punishment.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

By virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Pitt county made at December Term, 1897, in the action of R. L. Davis, Executor of S. V. Whitehead, against L. C. King, Peyton T. Atkinson, Alice S. Atkinson, and others, I will on Monday, the 6th day of February, 1899, sell at public sale before the Court House door in the town of Greenville, to the highest bidder, a certain tract or parcel of land, lying and being in the county of Pitt and bounded and described as follows, to wit: adjoining the lands of R. E. Mayo, B. O. Bell, the Rives heirs and others, containing (1437) fourteen hundred and thirty-seven acres more or less and known as the Bensboro farm. Terms of sale: Cash.

This 5th day of January, 1899.

B. F. TYSON,
Commissioner.

A gentleman remarked recently that had a stranger or an outsider come to North Carolina, and made the cures among our people that Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy had made, the people would have stirred as never before. Read this and suppose a case:

Eleven years ago I had a child that was delicate from birth, and for six months she was under constant care of the best physician we had in our town. But his medicine seemed powerless to control the bowel trouble, which had become chronic dysentery. She also suffered from some aggravated blood trouble, which caused large sores and risings to break out on her body. Oft time there would be as many as 20 or 25. We had several doctors to treat her at different times, but nothing reached her case. They would lance these risings, but as soon as one was cured another broke out, and the doctors gave me no hope of her cure. After she had led a life of agony and suffering for six months, I was inspired to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. There was a change for the better in twenty-four hours, it seemed to check the bowels at once, and after using a few bottles my child was entirely cured, and has never since had any sign of trouble and is now in perfect health. A few years after this I had two sores to break out on my ankle, and strange to say I did not think of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I was under the treatment of doctors for three years, but the sores continued to get worse until they had eaten to the bone. I then thought of trying Mrs. Joe Person's Wash and did so, and it is almost useless to say it soon made a cure.

I wish I could speak so that every man, woman and child, in North Carolina could hear, that I might tell them what Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and Wash did for me and mine. I advised one of my friends who had been a terrible sufferer for a long time, with nurses sore mouth. She used the Remedy and Wash, and it soon made a cure.

I have recommended it to ever so many of my friends, for indigestion and other ailments, and I have never known it to fail to cure yet. There is no medicine equal to it.

History of the Spanish War

By Dr. ALBERT SHAW, Editor of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS.

AND A LONG LIST OF NOTABLE CONTRIBUTORS.

Over 1,200 Pages and 500 Valuable Illustrations.

Three Beautiful Volumes in Half Morocco.

See special offer at bottom of this advertisement.

This Magnificent Edition for only ONE DOLLAR DOWN.

To the readers of this paper we make the following proposition to become members of the Review of Reviews History Club, and obtain the three volumes of

Our War in Two Hemispheres, By ALBERT SHAW,

Editor of the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" and author of "Municipal Government in Great Britain," etc., and a number of prominent contributors.

EVERY American teacher possessing a library, and many that do not possess one, will be interested in the announcement of the history of the late war with Spain, now published by the REVIEW OF REVIEWS COMPANY. Much of the narrative was written by Dr. Albert Shaw during the actual fighting of the summer. This has been revised and amplified by him in the light of the official reports and documents, which have only become available after hostilities ceased. A free quotation from the critical Congressional debates and other public utterances at crucial periods aids in making this work what it is, the standard reference history of this decisive and successful struggle. But it is much more than a lively and comprehensive narrative. It goes back to the years of struggle in Cuba which prepared the way for the war; it discusses energetically all problems which confronted the United States after the war as to the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico; and as a whole it forms a broadly conceived picture of the year which has seen America brought face to face with new world duties.

The important special and technical matters of the war period, generally dismissed by the historian with only slight and often insufficient discussion, are fully and authentically dealt with in contributed chapters, written by men who had unusual opportunities for studying their subjects. Thus, the lessons which the war has for us as to the relative efficiency of rifles and machine guns are in a carefully written chapter by Lieut. John H. Parker, of the United States army; the military movements of the Santiago and Porto Rican campaigns are analyzed by the editor of the Army and Navy Journal; the battle with Cervera is described by the novelist, Winston Churchill, who is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy; the actual condition of Cuba before the war and the facts which caused the war are described by eye-witnesses, Marat Halstead and Stephen Bonsal.

The illustration of the book is especially valuable in the hundreds of portraits, pictures of the navies, photographed scenes of the war, and the entertaining cartoons reproduced from the Spanish, French, German, and English papers, as well as from the American.

How to obtain the handsome edition by a payment of only ONE DOLLAR DOWN.

The three beautifully bound large octavo volumes and a year's subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS can be obtained by any of the readers of this paper by joining the Review of Reviews Club and paying one dollar. The volumes will be sent as soon as ready to those who remit the sum, and the purchase will be completed by the payment of one dollar per month for twelve months. The first volume will be ready early in December. The subscription to the magazine which goes with the offer can be dated from any month.

A DANGEROUS DUTY.

INSPECTING DOUBLE BOTTOMS IN OUR NAVAL VESSELS.

It is Extremely Hazardous and Trying Work, and Many Precautions Are Necessary to Prevent Loss of Life During the Operation.

There is one phase of the ship life of the American naval officer that is scarcely known to the layman and that can hardly be understood by him as he looks upon the modern ship in all her attractive cleanliness and meets her neatly uniformed officers upon the spotless upper deck. Not only are the parts of the ship in sight kept clean and free from rust and decay, but also those far down, contracted spaces that never see the light of day. These include the cellular compartments between the inner and outer skins of the ship, known technically as the "double bottom," and other places that separate the magazines and various built up structures within the ship from the outer skin.

These narrow compartments are especially susceptible to dampness and rust, and in order that those who have the care of them may do their duty well and so prevent the decay of the ship a system of inspection has been devised, and the inspectors must be, under the naval regulations, commissioned officers. A permanent board of inspection is formed upon each ship, which must consist of one engineer and two line officers. The duty of this board is periodically to make personal inspections of all the parts of the ship, examine everything critically, suggest remedies for any evils that may be found to exist and to report to the commanding officer, for transmission to the navy department, the condition of the vessel in detail.

Uniforms are discarded while making these inspections, and clad in seamen's ordinary working suits these officers crawl upon all fours throughout the length of the bottom of the ship, wriggle snakelike through narrow openings and examine with their own eyes every inch of the surface of the thin steel plates. The paint of these compartments, softened by dampness in some places and by heat and the steam laden air of the boiler rooms in others, rubs off upon the working suits, and an hour's crawling transforms the neat officer into a very sorry spectacle. In some modern navies this duty is performed by the enlisted men, the officers being excused from it, but in our navy the feeling exists that an enlisted man should not be asked to go where an officer is not willing to lead. The result is that "things always work" with the Americans and the efficiency of the fleet is assured.

Numerous precautions must be taken to avoid the risk of losing life while performing this duty, for it is attended with no little danger. The atmosphere of confined spaces entirely or partly closed for a considerable length of time becomes robbed of its oxygen in the formation of rust and is soon made unfit to sustain life. If possible, such compartments are blown out with pure air led through a hose from a blower duct and all manhole plates removed before being entered. A lighted candle is always carried by the inspecting officer upon his crawling tour. If the candle burns dimly or seems upon the point of being extinguished, there is a deficiency of oxygen, and he will immediately seek the nearest opening leading from the compartment and leave it at once. Men are stationed at places as near as possible to him, so that they may hear his voice and render immediate assistance in case of need. No one is allowed to enter any confined space on board ship without an uncovered light, although in addition a portable electric light is carried frequently to render the inspection more thorough.

It not infrequently happens that officers and men become so wedged between bulkheads and beams while performing this duty as to make it, extremely difficult to remove them, and more than one officer of the navy is upon the retired list today because of permanent injury to his health contracted while performing this arduous labor. Because of the care exercised it is rare that a life is lost in this service, but in one case at least the rashness of a man proved fatal to him. One of the main boilers of the cruiser Newark, while flagship of the south Atlantic station, having been tightly closed for a month, while empty, in order to preserve it from deterioration, the coppermith of that vessel, an energetic, faithful man, thought its interior should be examined and, although warned repeatedly never to enter such a boiler without an open light, removed an upper manhole plate and crawled in upon the braces with an electric light. He told no one that he was going into the boiler, and no one was stationed to assist him in case of need. His dead body was found half out and half in the boiler manhole with the electric light still burning brightly within the boiler. He had evidently crawled in upon the braces, felt a faintness creeping over him and had endeavored to regain the open air, but lost consciousness just as life lay within his reach, and so died of asphyxiation.

The air in the boiler had been entirely robbed of its oxygen by the iron of the shell in the formation of rust, and the residuum was unfit to breathe. A lighted candle was snuffed out immediately upon being thrust into the boiler, and this condition prevailed until a lower manhole plate was removed, when the heavy gas ran out as water might, and the air within soon came to be quite pure. No more vivid illustration of the dangers to be encountered in the care of ships afloat and the precautions necessary to be taken in this duty could be given than this incident, which shows that shot and shell and bursting steam pipes are not the only dangers that confront the officers and men of Uncle Sam's navy.—New York Sun.

WINE OF CARDUI

MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. ROZENA LEWIS, of Onaville, Texas, says: "I was troubled at monthly intervals with terrible pains in my head and back, but have been entirely relieved by Wine of Cardui."
