

NOT GUILTY.

JOE RAWLS GIVEN HIS LIBERTY.

Great Demonstration Over Result of The Trial.

Never has a demonstration been witnessed in the Court House in Pitt county equal to that on Friday night when in response to question from the Clerk "Is the prisoner at the bar guilty or not guilty of the felony with which he is charged?" and the words "not guilty" fell from the lips of the spokesman of the jury. Instantly a shout went up that echoed and re-echoed through the building which the Judge at a glance saw an attempt to restrain would be futile.

The closing speech of Mr. Aycock for the State, Friday afternoon, was not as long as had been anticipated, and by prolonging the session of the Court to a later hour than usual Judge Moore completed his charge and gave the case to the jury at 6:15 o'clock.

There was able counsel on both sides and the case was a hard fought one from beginning to end.

All the speeches to the jury were remarkable for their ability, each attorney taking advantage of every point possible for his respective side. Public interest in the case was at the highest pitch as was evidenced by the crowds that almost constantly thronged the Court room at all times, and on the streets and in the business houses and the homes the discussion of the trial was given precedence over all other subjects. The daily reports of the evidence given by THE REFLECTOR were eagerly read and all kept in touch with the progress of the trial.

It was 8:15 o'clock Friday evening when the ringing of the Court House bell indicated that the jury had reached a verdict, and if a fire alarm had sounded people would not have rushed to the scene more eagerly than they did to the Court House. From all directions they came running through the streets in their haste to witness the closing scene of the four days' trial. The building was soon a packed mass of humanity, the late arrivals thronging and pushing to find standing room.

It was 8:30 when Judge Fred Moore ascended the bench and rapped for order. Five minutes later Sheriff Mooring cleared the way and the defendant entered, Col. Skinner of his counsel on one side and Deputy J. J. Mason on the other. For the first during the trial the defendant showed some emotion. All through the four days he had borne the severe strain calmly and courageously, but this closing scene was the most trying of all to him.

The jury was already seated in the box and a moment later the Judge ordered their names called, each man answering distinctly. When responding affirmatively to the question if they had agreed they were asked who should be their spokesman and Mr. B. F. Patrick was selected. Joseph Rawls was asked to stand up and Col. Skinner arose with him, and every juror arose at the same time. At this time the defendant was almost overcome with emotion and he clung tremblingly to his counsel's arm for support. What would the next sentence bring? Would it be life or death? Would it be freedom or imprisonment? All waited in breathless silence for the final words. That brief time with the issues at stake must have seemed like hours to him to whom the next words meant so much.

A moment more and the suspense was over. The verdict "not guilty" rang clearly through the room, Joe Rawls fell weeping upon the neck of Col. Skinner, and the crowd almost as one man shouted its approval. It was a most affecting scene which words cannot describe. As soon as he recovered the now happy man advanced to the box and shook hands with the jurors and then turned around to greet his scores of friends who were pressing forward to congratulate him. He then hastened away to carry the news to his anxious mother who was overjoyed that her son had been given back to her.

Goes to Kinston.

Mr. Kenneth Tunstall, one of Greenville's very best and most energetic young business men, left this morning to make Kinston his future home. He will be married tomorrow (Sunday) at 3:30 o'clock to Mrs. Ada Phillips, the only daughter of R. C. Hill, Esq., six miles north of Kinston. In Mr. Tunstall's character there are the elements of noble young manhood and we bespeak for him a bright and splendid future, and most heartily commend him to the good people of his new home. Kenneth, as he is familiarly known, has for several years been the head clerk and bookkeeper in his brother's, Mr. J. S. Tunstall's, store.

Greenville loses what Kinston gains, a splendid man and a Christian. The Odd Fellows will greatly miss their financial secretary.

WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

A good many people around him are killing hogs this fine weather.

Regular preaching here today and Sunday by Rev. W. L. Bilbro.

Don't forget that B. F. Manning & Co. are headquarters for Fertilizers, Salt, Flour and Oats.

We learn that the exercises of the Wiley Literary Society last night were exceptionally fine.

Mr. Jesse Speight was out here yesterday and brought a lot of 45 bales of cotton.

A. G. Cox is still paying 12½ cts for cotton seed. Better bring them on before the price goes down.

A lot of the Winterville boys went to Ayden Thursday night on the train and as they had to walk back it was past 12 o'clock before some of them came in.

Recollect that the Winterville cigars and cheroots are made right here at home of good honest material by honest men.

Are you a farmer? Then get acquainted with the A. G. Cox Mfg Co. at once. They pay especial attention to making rolling stock for farm use and therefore are anxious to be on familiar terms with you so as to find out what you need, and can give you every advantage in price, also are prepared to grind your wheat and corn.

To all Land Owners: Even if you have only a small lot in town you have to use a fence of some kind and therefore must be somewhat interested in wire fence. If you have hundreds or thousands of acres how can you do without some wire fence? Address all inquiries and orders to the Winterville Fence Co.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 21, 1899.

The exciting and dreadful events of the past week are well calculated to make the thoughtful citizens pause and inquire to what extent the public is responsible for the open bar-room.

One of the living questions in many parts of our great Union is how to handle direct, and control the whiskey traffic.

High License, Low License, No License, The Dispensary, and Prohibition have all been tried with greater or less success, and more or less failure.

That the Dispensary Law is gaining ground, and becoming popular wherever tried, cannot be successfully questioned. We have recently come into possession of several interesting and instructive communications, which we will publish, one by one, for the next several days that our citizens may be thoroughly informed on the vital question. Today we call especial attention to a clipping from the Outlook, a prominent and reliable paper.

At the beginning of the term of Court just closed THE REFLECTOR mentioned its being the first Court held by Judge Fred Moore and Solicitor L. I. Moore. Both these gentlemen were elected to their respective positions last November. This is Solicitor Moore's home, and the people are proud of the manner in which he has represented the State at his first Court. His work has in every way demonstrated the wise choice of the people in making him Solicitor. There is a bright career before him. Judge Moore has won the esteem of every Pitt countian who has been about the Court any. His rulings were at all times fair and impartial, and there was that gentleness and courtliness at once attracting every one to him. He is a young man of pleasing address and handsome appearance, and possesses a splendid knowledge of the law. No Court has been held in this county in which the business was dispatched so smoothly. There was no friction and even through the long and exciting murder trial there was the utmost harmony and good feeling between Counsel and Court. THE REFLECTOR hopes Judge Moore will hold many Courts in this county.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20, 99. No man deserves any credit for doing the proper thing under compulsion, and there never was a clearer case of official action under compulsion than Mr. McKinley's order for the court-martial of Commissary General Egan, for his filthy abuse of Gen. Miles. Mr. McKinley was disposed to allow Secretary Alger to try to hush it up in his own way, which would not have hushed it up at all, until he began to hear from influential men of his party, in Congress and all over the country. Therefore he deserves no credit for doing when he found it absolutely necessary that should have been done the day that Egan's filth was dumped upon the public. Although he has been turned down Alger has not resigned, and those who know him best do not believe that he will unless forced by Mr. McKinley to do so. The court-martial is bound to find Egan guilty, and the punishment is dismissal from the army. Whether Mr. McKinley will dare to modify that sentence, is yet to be seen.

Senator Gorman has taken charge of the democratic opposition to the ratification of the treaty, unless it is so amended as to make it impossible for this country to permanently govern the Philippines. At a meeting presided over by Mr. Gorman all the democratic Senators, except six, were present, and decided to work together.

Senator Bacon made a strong speech in favor of his resolution declaring the policy of this government to be against controlling the Filipinos by force. The keynote of his speech was the following: "Of all the great powers of the earth the government of the United States is the only one that contends for the right in all people of self-government. When they abandon in practice this principle, when they impose their dominion on an unwilling people, in the majestic march of free institutions, the hand upon the great dial of the clock of the world will have been set back an hundred years."

Senator Butler, of North Carolina, got the Schley-Sampson controversy before the Senate for a few minutes by offering a resolution when the nomination of those two officers to be Rear Admirals were reached, in executive session, calling upon the President for his reasons for making the promotions.

It was a very diplomatic discussion, especial care being taken by the friends of each of the officers to avoid offending those of the other. Action on the resolution was deferred on account of the absence of Senator Hale, who is chairman of the Naval committee. The object of the resolution is to show that Sampson and Schley were both promoted, because Sampson could not be promoted for what was done by Schley, if Schley was not also moved up. According to all the official reports, Schley did nothing to be promoted for.

Senator Sullivan's amendment to the Nicaragua Canal, limiting to $5,000,000 the amount to be paid to the Maritime Canal Company, as compensation for its concession or reimbursement for its work, struck the Senate as being so sensible and timely that it was adopted without a division, before the bill was passed.

It is not difficult to point out defects in the naval bill passed by the House this week. Some of them, notably the pay of officers, were pointed out by Representative Bailey, but the order to jam the bill through was obeyed, as usual, by the majority. The best feature about the bill is that which will put an end to the clashing between the two classes of naval officers—the line, and the engineer officers—by putting them all in one class. The bill increases the pay of naval officers, on the plea of equalizing them with army officers; it increases the Marine Corps by 1,300 men, adding $1,500.00 to the annual cost of its maintenance; it creates a Judge Advocate's Corps; it prohibits the payment of prize money, and it provides for the retirement of enlisted men and petty officers after thirty years service in the navy. Mr. Bailey charged the majority with the intention to follow the premium scheme for retirement of naval officers with a similar one for army officers, and he might also have said that the retirement of privates and non-commissioned officers of the army would be likely to follow, as a part of the grand scheme of imperialism that is being nursed by the republicans.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 75c. If C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

The Dispensary System Gaining Ground.

The official count in South Dakota shows that the constitutional amendment providing for a dispensary system was adopted by a majority of 1,613 votes. This victory in South Dakota, furthermore, according to the New York "Sun," is not the only gain which the dispensary system has recently made. In Georgia, where the plan was first tried in the college town of Athens, it has been adopted in a score of towns and counties. In Alabama also it is gaining a foothold, two counties having a dispensary bill pending in the Legislature.

The greatest gain it has made, however, is in South Carolina. As our readers will recall, the dispensary law first encountered violent resistance from the liquor-dealer and their sympathizers in some of the cities; and when Governor Tillman put down the disorders and reduced the illicit traffic to a minimum unknown in any other State, a Federal judge (Judge Simonton) restored the "blind tigers" by enjoining State officials, from preventing the sale of liquor in "original packages" imported from other States. This decision was based upon the astonishing doctrine that the dispensary law was not passed under the police powers of the State. Judge Simonton for months almost nullified the State law by permitting liquor-dealers to import car-loads of loose packages of liquor some of them containing only a half-pint. His decision did not however, keep the State officers from watching where these original packages were sold, and arresting dealers who allowed the contents of the packages to be drunk on the premises. In this way the law was kept half alive until last March, when Judge Simonton's decision finally reached the Supreme Court, and his usurped protectorate over the liquor traffic was brought to an end. "At the present time," says the article in the "Sun," "there is not an original-package shop in the State, there are comparatively few blind tigers, the dispensary system has more friends than it ever had before, and all declare that it has come to stay. All efforts against it now look, not to more whiskey, but to prohibition." All the liquor furnished to the million and more people of the State is bought at one of the ninety-five dispensaries, and even there cannot be drunk on the premises. Citizens can still drink what they want in their own homes, but tipping, treating and loafing-places are practically things of the past.—The Outlook.

CONSTIPATION

"I have gone 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injections. Chronic constipation for seven years placed me in this terrible condition; during that time I did everything I heard of but never found any relief; such was my case until I began using CASCARETS. I now have from one to three passages a day, and if I was rich I would give $100.00 for each movement; it is such a relief."

H M EMBERSON, Gen'l Pass. Agen. J K KENLY, Gen'l Manager M EMBERSON, Traffic M ngr

A gentleman remarked recently that had a stranger or an outsider come to North Carolina, and made the cures among our people that Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy had made, the people would have stirred as never before. Read this and suppose a case:

Eleven years ago I had a child that was delicate from birth, and for six months she was under constant care of the best physician we had in our town. But his medicine seemed powerless to control the bowel trouble, which had become chronic dysentery. She also suffered from some aggravated blood trouble, which caused large sores and risings to break out on her body. Oft time there would be as many as 20 or 25. We had several doctors to treat her at different times, but nothing reached her case. They would lance these risings, but as soon as one was cured another broke out, and the doctors gave me no hope of her cure. After she had led a life of agony and suffering for six months, I was inspired to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. There was a change for the better in twenty-four hours, it seemed to check the bowels at once, and after using a few bottles my child was entirely cured, and has never since had any sign of trouble and is now in perfect health. A few years after this I had two sores to break out on my ankle, and strange to say I did not think of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I was under the treatment of doctors for three years, but the sores continued to get worse until they had eaten to the bone. I then thought of trying Mrs. Joe Person's Wash and did so, and it is almost useless to say it soon made a cure.

I wish I could speak so that every man, woman and child, in North Carolina could hear, that I might tell them what Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and Wash did for me and mine. I advised one of my friends who had been a terrible sufferer for a long time, with nurses sore mouth. She used the Remedy and Wash, and it soon made a cure.

I have recommended it to ever so many of my friends, for indigestion and other ailments, and I have never known it to fail to cure yet. There is no medicine equal to it.

Our War in Two Hemispheres,

By ALBERT SHAW,

Editor of the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" and author of "Municipal Government in Great Britain," etc., and a number of prominent contributors.

EVERY American teacher possessing a library, and many that do not possess one, will be interested in the announcement of the history of the late war with Spain, now published by the REVIEW OF REVIEWS COMPANY. Much of the narrative was written by Dr. Albert Shaw during the actual fighting of the summer. This has been revised and amplified by him in the light of the official reports and documents, which have only become available after hostilities ceased. A free quotation from the critical Congressional debates and other public utterances at crucial periods aids in making this work what it is, the standard reference history of this decisive and successful struggle. But it is much more than a lively and comprehensive narrative. It goes back to the years of struggle in Cuba which prepared the way for the war; it discusses energetically all problems which confronted the United States after the war as to the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico; and as a whole it forms a broadly conceived picture of the year which has seen America brought face to face with new world duties.

The important special and technical matters of the war period, generally dismissed by the historian with only slight and often insufficient discussion, are fully and authentically dealt with in contributed chapters, written by men who had unusual opportunities for studying their subjects. Thus, the lessons which the war has for us as to the relative efficiency of rifles and machine guns are in a carefully written chapter by Lieut. John H. Parker, of the United States army; the military movements of the Santiago and Porto Rican campaigns are analyzed by the editor of the Army and Navy Journal; the battle with Cervera is described by the novelist, Winston Churchill, who is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy; the actual condition of Cuba before the war and the facts which caused the war are described by eye-witnesses, Murat Halstead and Stephen Bonsai.

The illustration of the book is especially valuable in the hundreds of portraits, pictures of the navies, photographed scenes of the war, and the entertaining cartoons reproduced from the Spanish, French, German, and English papers, as well as from the American.

His Fare.
A certain school teacher is responsible for the following little story, which is not without its pathetic side. He was endeavoring to explain the term "booking" as applied to our railway system.

"Now," he was saying, "can any of you tell me the name of the office at which railway tickets are sold?"

"The looking office," replied one of the lads.

"Right," responded the teacher.

At this moment his eye fell on a small boy at the end of the class, who was evidently paying very little attention to what was said.

"Did you hear that, Dowsler?" he demanded.

"Wot, sir?" asked that youth innocently.

"As I thought, you were not listening. We will suppose that your father decided to have a day's holiday and visit the seaside. What would he have to do before he could take his seat in the train?"

Without a moment's thought the youngster electrified his teacher by replying, "Pawn his tools."—London Standard.

An Odd Collection.

One of the most remarkable collections of souvenirs ever made is a collection of male opera hats by one of the actresses of a London company. She owns no fewer than 216 of these articles, for it was her whim to make every young man who was introduced to her give her his opera hat as a souvenir. She not only keeps them in their pristine condition, but converts them into all sorts of other things, such as photograph frames, workbaskets, and some are even used for the purpose of holding flowerpots.

Golden Silence.

A man who once met Ralph Waldo Emerson at the house of a friend tells of the characteristic way in which the Concord philosopher blunted the edge of a compliment.

"Oh, Mr. Emerson," said a young woman of the party, "it must be so delightful to know that people all over the country are grateful for the things you have said!"

"Thank you," said Emerson slowly, "but it is for some of the things I have not said that I feel most grateful."

A Story of George IV.

In Lady Gregory's newly published reminiscences she says of George IV's trip to Ireland in 1821: "The king arrived after a good passage, during which much goose pie and whisky had been consumed. Word had just come of the death of Napoleon at St. Helena. The story goes that 'Sire, your enemy is dead,' were the words he was greeted with. 'When did she die?' was his response. But the queen was indeed also dead."

The Gambling Bacillus.

Successful sports know that in the highways and byways are countless idiots who skim their families, borrow, beg and even steal in order to bet on horse races at odds of 4 to 1 against them in the long run, on stocks at 20 to 1, on slugging matches at everything to nothing. The gambling bacillus infects every legitimate sport and soon rots it.—Criterion.

English farthings are no longer likely to be mistaken for half crowns, for now they are minted not only of a different size and design, but even of a different color, being a dull bronze.
