TWO GOOD SERMONS.

Our People Get Something to Think About.

The Methodist church was filled Sunday night from front to back, to hear they knew not what, for the text announced, "Thou shalt not kill," had excited some curiosity.

That doubt was soon removed when, after a few introductory remarks, the preacher, Rev. N. M. Watson, boldly affirmed that whiskey is a poison, that it kills, that it is always injurious to the healthy system, therefore he who uses it in any quantity as a beverage may be and in most cases is guilty of violating the sixth commandment.

There was not a word of abuse for anybody, but a quiet, deliberate argument that carried conviction at every step.

We haven't room for an outline of the sermon, but the conclusion of the preacher was that the man who drinks whiskey as a beverage is guilty, the man who sells it is guilty and the community that does not do all that it can to prevent the sale, is also guilty. The logic was strong and the conclusion seemed to be inevitable.

In view of the events of the last week many are asking can not something be done to restrain this evil in our midst.

There was a large congregation at the Baptist church Sunday night to hear a special sermon by the pastor, Rev. A. W. Setzer, to the Junior Order of United American Mechanics. After briefly rehearsing the history of the order and stating that its primary object was to raise the standard of citizenship, Mr. Setzer announced his subject to be "The Mission of America in the Evangelization of the World," taking as a text Isaiah 43:21 "This people have I formed for myself; they shall show forth my praise."

The following is an analysis of the sermon:

1. The relation between good government and Christianity.
2. The civil and Christian responsibilities of the American people.
3. America can only fulfill her mission among the nations of the earth when she has attained to the highest standard of Christian citizenship.
4. How the Jr. O. U. A. M. seeks to raise the standard of citizenship. (a.) By educating the masses. (b.) By restricting immigration.

It was a practical sermon, and calculated to bring the true American citizen to a knowledge of the responsibilities resting upon him and show him what his duty is. His remarks on educating the masses and restricting immigration were especially timely.

Let's Begin Stirring.

Court and its attendant excitement is a thing of the past and the town will settle down to every day business. Now let the Chamber of Commerce get to doing something. First take a look at that Snow Hill-Pantego railroad matter THE REFLECTOR mentioned last week. Then see what can be done towards securing some factories and other needed enterprises. It is time a move was being made in this direction.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

Ancient Order of Amoreans Trace Their History Back to Egypt.

The Ancient Order of Amoreans, whose supreme office is located in this city, have, after much time and expense, resurrected the ancient ritual of this order as the following letter from the private secretary of the Kahedive of Egypt will certify. It appears from the following communication that the ritual was received in the Grecian language, the supreme officers of the order had it translated to English, and the work in its ancient form is now in the hands of "The Democrat" printers, and when completed it will be sent to the different councils of the order both in this country and in Canada.

Cairo, Egypt, November 8, 1898. To the Supreme Officers of the Ancient Order of Amoreans. Little Rock, Ark., U. S. A.:

Honored Sirs—I have the honor to inform you that his majesty the Kahedive of Egypt has complied with your request, and caused diligent search to be made among the rubbish and ruins of the Pyramids to discover, if possible, the ancient ritual of the wise and learned men of the East known as Amoreans.

His majesty employed the great French Egyptologist Gaston Camille Charles Maspero, who is at present excavating among the ruins of the ancient cities of Egypt. The ritual when found was much dilapidated and almost undecipherable, but his majesty, with the aid of his official interpreter, Hermado Nunezdeguzman, translated the ritual from the ancient hieroglyphics to the present Egyptian language, and I send the work to you in that form.

The Kahedive wishes me to express to you his high appreciation of your noble efforts in resurrecting the grandest and most ancient of all orders, which at one time was known to be a powerful factor in promulgating the lessons of wisdom, truth and morality in Egypt and Palestine, and sincerely hope that the ancient virtues of this ancient and noble order may still become its watchword in its modern form. I have the honor to be your obedient servant.

AUGUSTE EDOWARD MARIETTE, Private Secretary to His Excellency, The Kahedive.

Fine Solos.

Mr. G. Escher, of Washington City, sang the offertory at both morning and evening services in the Baptist church Sunday. He has a rich bass voice and his solos were much enjoyed by the large congregations.

Improve The Avenue.

The railroad people are having some nice grading done on Dickinson avenue, near the depot, and also where the new street between the college grounds and the railroad comes to the crossing. Pity but what the town would take some action while this is going on and get the railroad people to co-operate with them in making some improvements down Dickinson avenue. That street, which is more used than any other in town except Evans street, is in a miserable condition, and its improvement would be beneficial both to the town and to the railroad. It is so bad that hacks and other vehicles have often to use the side streets going to and from the depot.

Fields And Hanson's Minstrels.

The Opera House management has secured Fields & Hanson's Minstrels for one night only. Friday, evening Jan. 27th next is the date for their appearance here. Messrs. Fields and Hanson are the original leaders in Musical Comedy, and are masters of all musical instruments. The roster of the company comprises Bright Comedians, Splendid Vocal Corps, and Trained Musicians, forming one of the strongest organizations now before the public. The acts are new and original with this company. Among the many features, An Evening with the Elks, The Dance of Dawson City's 400, The Golden Showers, The Dazzling Drill Display, The Grand Old Guard, Etc., Grand Midday Parade, also Band Concert at 7 P. M. Reserved Seat Tickets on sale Wednesday morning by Lee, at H. M. Hardee's Dry Goods store. Admission Reserved seats 75 cents, General Admission 50 cents, children under 12 years 35 cents.

Two Escaped.

The recent court sentenced nine prisoners, all colored, to the penitentiary, but two of them decided for themselves that they would not go along with the others. The two who were confined together in an upper cell took advantage of the quiet of Sunday, and by means of a pick and piece of iron with which they had come in possession broke the lock to their cell. They then cut a hole through the brick wall between the cells and the stairway and gained their liberty by breaking open the front door. Before leaving they tried to break the lock on another cell and liberate the prisoners in that also, but failed. The escape was discovered when the jailor went to take supper to the prisoners.

The State Sunday school convention will be held in Salisbury March 14, 15 and 16.

MONDAY, JANUARY 13, 1899.

Don't fail to read the article from the Fayetteville Observer in today's REFLECTOR, relative to the working of the Dispensary Law in that town. It is written by an honorable gentleman, an ex-Congressman, a citizen of the town, who has no purpose in writing but simply to defend the truth.

The Woman's Pledge.

DEAR EDITOR:—I wonder how many of your kind readers remember the suggestion made by me some time ago in regards to a Young Woman's Temperance Society. Are you letting this question go by as an idle tale? Dear young ladies, how many of you will join with me in this grand and noble work. So let us come together and pledge ourselves that we will not keep company with men who drink intoxicating beverages. I wish each and every one could see the grandeur of such a society as this. Just imagine a host of young soldiers joined in one band battling against the great evil, intemperance, wearing a pure white ribbon badge and robed in purity with the captain of our salvation in front for there never was a good work carried on without the help of God. Come let us join in this band and civilize our drinking young men, for when they see we look upon them with contempt that soon a number of them will look with shame faces on the life they are leading, and thus we will be able to carry them on with us to glory and to God. Then in the place of drunken husbands, heart broken wives, ragged and hungry children our homes will be blessed with peace and plenty, loving husbands and happy wives. Come one and come all. Let some good friend fix us up a constitution so we can organize.

In God's own book we read of a young woman who did two very simple things. One was to watch a little cradle among the rushes another was to go and find a nurse for little Moses. Did she dream that she was saving the future leader of God's chosen people?

Can you think of anything sweeter, more beautiful, more angelic than the banding together of girls to study up the ways and means of saving our boys and young men from drunkenness, leading them by the still waters of usefulness and sobriety. Young ladies we beg you to take no neutral ground in this matter. Indifference on your part would be the worst enemy to the cause we plead. For we need the girls.

"God wants the happy hearted girls the loving girls.

The best of girls, the worst of girls, God wants to make them all his pearls,

And to reflect his holy face, And bring to mind his wondrous grace

That beautiful the world may be, And filled with love and purity God wants the girls."

Yours for temperance,
LINA EASTRIGE.

The Dispensary Commended.

MR. EDITOR:—Allow me space to say just a few words in defense of the Cumberland County Dispensary. The main argument used against it is that it has killed or is killing the town. In reply to this assertion we say that the town is in better condition now than it was when the Dispensary went into effect both from a moral and business standpoint. We will mention a few instances. More cotton was sold on our market this season than has been for a long time, the volume of business compared with the price of cotton has been greater than in many years. Fewer business failures have occurred and more business houses have been established than has been known in the last decade. There are a greater number of stores occupied doing a legitimate business than has been known for more than ten years—true we have vacant stores, but not so many vacant as were used for the sale of whiskey. There are fewer vacant dwelling houses in the town than is usual at this season of the year. There are fewer young men idle than we have ever observed. More young men are away at colleges from the county than there have been for ten years or more. There has not been a homicide in the county for more than twelve months—in fact there has been no charge of a capital felony having been committed in the county since the Dispensary went into effect. The record of all serious crimes and misdemeanors have been very greatly reduced. Instances of drunkenness upon the streets are very rare, and the moral tone of the community has been greatly bettered. More money has been paid into the school fund of the county by the Dispensary than was usually paid by the tax from bars in two years, besides having money on hand and a stock of goods nearly all paid for worth over three thousand dollars. The foregoing are a few instances of the improvements in the moral and financial condition of our county and numbers of others might be given. If people want liquor, provided they are not drunkards or minors, they can get it, but not on Sunday, neither have they an opportunity to lie round bar-rooms at night to drink and gamble. So much in favor of the Dispensary, and putting these alone in the balance they will outweigh all the advantages which ever have or ever can be derived from open bar rooms.—X in Fayetteville Observer.

Unconstitutional Legislature.

The Kansas Populists are in more trouble. After their defeat by the Republicans last November, they prevailed upon Governor Leedy to call an extra session of the Legislature. He did so, and the Populists passed a number of laws "regulating" railroad, telegraph and express companies—laws the like of which had never before been passed in this country. Happily, however, these corporations, by a lucky chance, are to escape the persecution the Populists would heap upon them, for Attorney General Goddard, of Kansas, has just rendered a decision in which he holds that the extra session of the Legislature was unconstitutionally called. He declares that "the acts of a Governor are reviewable by the Supreme Court, the same as the acts of a Legislature; that no emergency existed for a special session, and for that reason the Governor's action in issuing the call was unconstitutional, and therefore void." He advises the State Auditor not to audit the vouchers for the expenses of that session. Here the Populists have a double cause for gnashing their teeth in rage—the standing between them and the corporations of the Attorney General, and the loss of their per diem. The latter is a death-blow.—Charlotte Observer.

Practical Economy in Ashe.

Ashe is one county where the officials practice actual economy. A few years ago the register of deeds was elected on the platform that he would register a deed, no matter what size, for 40 cents. In the last election the successful candidate ran on the platform that he would register any size deeds for 25 cents, for all county people. And that is what it costs now for an Ashe man to register a deed in his own county.

Uses Both.

It is not a difficult matter to judge the character or class of readers of any given newspaper. The paper itself bears the earmarks of its constituency. Careful advertisers, who wish to reach the middle and upper classes, and have but a limited amount of money to invest, use the high-class papers; those who desire to reach the middle classes, the cheap papers. The shrewd general advertiser selects the best of each class.—Profitable Advertising.

To Fit The Season.

Regulate your advertising expenditure to fit the season, but do not stop it any more than you would stop doing business for a month or two and then expect to reopen the store and go right ahead from where you left off—one is as sensible as the other; the argument applies to both.—Chicago Apparel Gazette.

Mr. Gattis Brings Suit.

Oxford, N. C., Jan. 18.—Summons was issued today from the Superior Court of Granville county in a suit brought by Rev. T. J. Gattis against Rev. Dr. J. C. Kilgo, president of Trinity College, B. N. Duke, W. H. Branson and W. R. Odell. The action is brought to recover damages for slander, and is the outgrowth of the recent unpleasant controversy between Dr. Kilgo and Judge Clark.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA.

TO GAIN FLESH, TO SLEEP WELL, TO KNOW WHAT APPETITE AND GOOD DIGESTION MEAN.

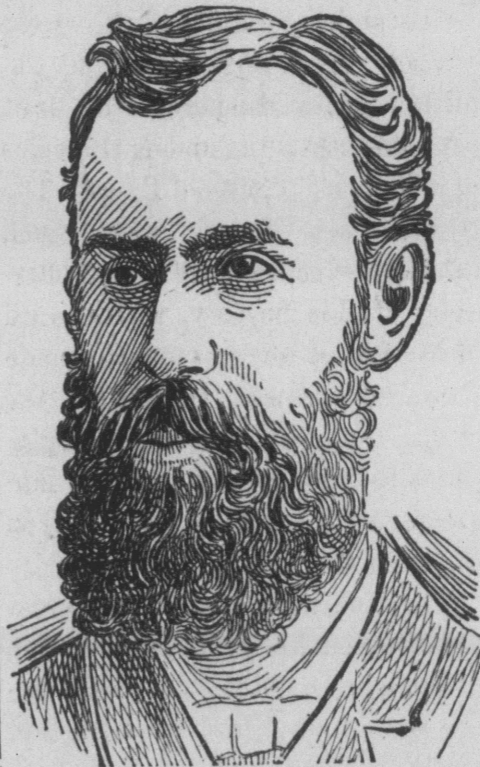

Make a Test of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite with accumulations of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

Send for valuable little book on stomach diseases by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. All druggists sell full-sized packages at 50 cents. Prof. Henry W. Becker, A. M. the wellknown religious worker and writer of St. Louis.

Public Secretary for the St. Louis School Patrons' Association, and the District Conference of Stewards of the M. E. Church; also takes an active part in the work of the Epworth League, and to write on religious and educational topics for several magazines. How he found relief is best told in his own words:

"Some weeks ago my brother heard me say something about indigestion, and taking a box from his pocket said 'Try Stuart's Tablets.' I did, and was promptly relieved. Then I investigated the nature of the tablets and became satisfied that they were made of just the right things and in just the right proportions to aid in the assimilation of food. I heartily endorse them in all respects, and I keep them constantly on hand."

A gentleman remarked recently that had a stranger or an outsider come to North Carolina, and made the cures among our people that Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy had made, the people would be stirred as never before. Read this and suppose a case:

Eleven years ago I had a child that was delicate from birth, and for six months she was under constant care of the best physician we had in our town. But his medicine seemed powerless to control the bowel trouble, which had become chronic dysentery. She also suffered from some aggravated blood trouble, which caused large sores and risings to break out on her body. Oft time there would be as many as 20 or 25. We had several doctors to treat her at different times, but nothing reached her case. They would lance these risings, but as soon as one was cured another broke out, and the doctors gave me no hope of her cure. After she had led a life of agony and suffering for six months, I was inspired to try Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. There was a change for the better in twenty-four hours, it seemed to check the bowels at once, and after using a few bottles my child was entirely cured, and has never since had any sign of trouble and is now in perfect health. A few years after this I had two sores to break out on my ankle, and strange to say I did not think of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I was under the treatment of doctors for three years, but the sores continued to get worse until they had eaten to the bone. I then thought of trying Mrs. Joe Person's Wash and did so, and it is almost useless to say it soon made a cure.

I wish I could speak so that every man, woman and child, in North Carolina could hear, that I might tell them what Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and Wash did for me and mine. I advised one of my friends who had been a terrible sufferer for a long time, with nurses sore mouth. She used the Remedy and Wash, and it soon made a cure.

I have recommended it to ever so many of my friends, for indigestion and other ailments, and I have never known it to fail to cure yet. There is no medicine equal to it.

Our War in Two Hemispheres,

By ALBERT SHAW,

Editor of the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" and author of "Municipal Government in Great Britain," etc., and a number of prominent contributors.

EVERY American teacher possessing a library, and many that do not possess one, will be interested in the announcement of the history of the late war with Spain, now published by the REVIEW OF REVIEWS COMPANY. Much of the narrative was written by Dr. Albert Shaw during the actual fighting of the summer. This has been revised and amplified by him in the light of the official reports and documents, which have only become available after hostilities ceased. A free quotation from the critical Congressional debates and other public utterances at crucial periods aids in making this work what it is, the standard reference history of this decisive and successful struggle. But it is much more than a lively and comprehensive narrative. It goes back to the years of struggle in Cuba which prepared the way for the war; it discusses energetically all problems which confronted the United States after the war as to the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico; and as a whole it forms a broadly conceived picture of the year which has seen America brought face to face with new world duties.

The important special and technical matters of the war period, generally dismissed by the historian with only slight and often insufficient discussion, are fully and authentically dealt with in contributed chapters, written by men who had unusual opportunities for studying their subjects. Thus, the lessons which the war has for us as to the relative efficiency of rifles and machine guns are in a carefully written chapter by Lieut. John H. Parker, of the United States Army; the military movements of the Santiago and Porto Rican campaigns are analyzed by the editor of the Army and Navy Journal; the battle with Cervera is described by the novelist, Winston Churchill, who is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy; the actual condition of Cuba before the war and the facts which caused the war are described by eye-witnesses, Murat Halstead and Stephen Bonsal.

The illustration of the book is especially valuable in the hundreds of portraits, pictures of the navies, photographed scenes of the war, and the entertaining cartoons reproduced from the Spanish, French, German, and English papers, as well as from the American.

How to obtain the handsome edition by a payment of only ONE DOLLAR DOWN.

The three beautifully bound large octavo volumes and a year's subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS can be obtained by any of the readers of this paper by joining the Review of Reviews Club and paying one dollar. The volumes will be sent as soon as ready to those who remit the sum, and the purchase will be completed by the payment of one dollar per month for twelve months. The first volume will be ready early in December. The subscription to the magazine which goes with the offer can be dated from any month.

Elizabeth Cromwell.

Cromwell legends are so ubiquitous in England that it is a real relief to lay one's hand upon a bit of solid fact relating either to the protector or his family. Elizabeth, the second and favorite daughter of Cromwell, married John Claypole of Northborough, and appears to have spent a considerable portion of her 12 years of wedded life in his substantial fourteenth century house. Carlyle asserts Elizabeth Claypole to have been "a graceful, brave and amiable woman," and of her home that it is "now ruined—patched into a farmhouse."

The second statement is not characterized by his usual accuracy, and the first probably needs some modification, for Elizabeth Claypole is credited with some turning of her head over her father's elevation, and at a wedding feast is reported to have exclaimed, when asked why the wives of the major generals were absent, "I'll warrant you, washing their dishes at home, as they used to do." Not a particularly "amiable" sentence that.

Cromwell seems to have had some insight of her little weakness. "Tell her," he wrote once, "to take heed of a departing heart and of being cozened with worldly vanities and worldly company, which, I doubt, she is too subject to." It is agreed by most authorities that John Claypole himself was little enough of a Puritan, but let it stand to his credit that, after Oliver died, he provided a haven for his widow for the rest of her life in this manor house.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Barbers on the Ocean.

One of the most important persons on board a well equipped ocean liner is the barber. If he is gifted with a good business instinct, he is in a position to make a good deal of money.

To the average man shaving while at sea is a difficult and hazardous operation. He therefore calls into requisition the services of the ship's barber, a man who by long training is qualified to wield the razor with skill and safety, no matter how much the vessel rolls or pitches.

He is always one of the most heavily "tipped" officials on the ship. If the ship travels on a route with interesting ports of call, the ship's barber makes it his business to lay in a stock of native knickknacks and curios of all kinds.

The inexperienced traveler is naturally a little suspicious of the native peddlers who swarm on board with their wares directly the ship is at anchor. He prefers to purchase his mementos of foreign travel of the barber, who, having bought his stock at wholesale rates, is able to retail the various articles to passengers at prices little if at all higher than those charged by the native tradesman.—Exchange.

Steel Balls.

The largest center in the world for the manufacture of steel balls for ball bearings is situated at Schweinfurt, in Bavaria. A couple of factories there, owned by one firm, produce close upon 800,000,000 balls annually with the labor of 600 men working ten hours daily. The total production of Germany is stated to be about 650,000,000, while England and France combined turn out only about 70,000,000 additional.

English farthings are no longer likely to be mistaken for half crowns, for now they are minted not only of a different size and design, but even of a different color, being a dull bronze.

WINE OF CARDUI

FOR ALL WOMEN

NINE-TENTHS of all the pain and sickness from which women suffer is caused by weakness or derangement in the organs of menstruation. Nearly always when a woman is not well these organs are affected. But when they are strong and healthy a woman is very seldom sick.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Is nature's provision for the regulation of the menstrual function. It cures all "female troubles." It is equally effective for the girl in her teens, the young wife with domestic and maternal cares, and the woman approaching the period known as the "Change of Life." They all need it. They are all benefited by it.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

THOS. J. COOPER, Tupelo, Miss., says: "My sister suffered from very irregular and painful menstruation and doctors could not relieve her. Wine of Cardui entirely cured her and also helped my mother through the Change of Life."
