JUST FOR FUN.

This is the time for the early fly to catch the flypaper.

No matter how hard the times are the elevator man should have little trouble in bringing up a family.

It would be a good idea for some people who are always complaining of an aching void to try a headache powder.

"Do you keep Lent, Mr. Ipecae?" she asked. The drug clerk's thoughts were far away. "No," he answered absently; "but we have something just as good."

"I tell you, my friend," argued the Prohibitionist, "there's only one side to be taken when it comes to the question of liquor." "That's right," agreed De Tanque; "nobody ever thinks of taking two sides with one drink."

OVER THE COUNTRY.

Judge Henry Hilton, of New York, is critically ill.

A rich zinc mine has been unearthed at Pleasanton, Kan.

No Georgia peaches will be sent to market outside the State this year.

Efforts are being made in Canada to increase the duties against American sugars.

Engineer Wallace Logan was killed by an Erie train jumping the track at Rittman, O.

The transport Dixie will sail from New York to Trinidad to bring home the Fourth Tennessee Volunteers.

At Rest.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. A. W. Outterbridge were held at one o'clock this afternoon in the Baptist church, conducted by Rev. C. W. Blanchard, of Kinston and Rev. A. W. Setzer.

From the church the remains were taken to the home of Mr. A. J. Outterbridge, six miles from town, for interment. The pall bearers were Messrs. Ed. H. Shelburn, C. D. Rountree, F. M. Hodges, J. G. Bowling, W. R. Parker and J. A. Hyman.

Always Prompt.

MR. H. A. WHITE:

Dear Sir:—We wish to acknowledge receipt of checks amounting to $1316.93 from the Greenwich Insurance Co., of New York, and thank you for your promptness and attention to the same.

Yours very truly,

STRAUSE BROS.

The insuring public can always depend on prompt settlements when their property is protected in any of my companies. $300,000,000 represented.

H. A. WHITE.

The Liar and Tattler.

We recommend the following taken from the Spartanburg Herald, concerning liars and tattlers, to all whom it may concern, and it is our opinion that it concerns a great many:

"We can protect ourselves against thieves, we can guard our possessions, but the liar and tattler can penetrate the strongest fortress and blast the most precious of our possessions. They can go into court and rob or murder at will. They can blast a life or ruin a fortune and there is no redress."

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina.

Weldon has passed an ordinance making a fine of $25 for any school teacher to allow a pupil to enter a school over which he or she presides without such pupil exhibits a certificate from the Superintendent of Health that the bearer has been recently successfully vaccinated.

A few days ago, Mr. Wm. Long, of Person county, had a serious loss by fire. He lost his barn, stables, horses, a buggy and wagon, all of his corn and rough feed. How the fire originated is a mystery. He did not have any insurance.

Perplexing Problem.

Sometimes an apparently simple problem will perplex intelligent arithmeticians. If any of our readers doubt this we would venture the assertion that a majority of them cannot give the correct answer to so simple a problem as the following:

"Suppose a man sells his horse for $50, then buys it back for $40, and then sells it again for $45. How much does he make or lose?"

The answer seems so easy that anybody might give it, but suppose kind reader you try it and see if you can give the correct answer. It is said that this apparently simple problem was propounded in a certain small town by a traveling drummer (who left without giving the answer) and that it was the cause of much angry controversy and several fights. Some said that the man would make $10, some said $15 and others contended that of course he would lose.

Now, what say you?—Pittsboro Record.

Caught a Last.

Thursday Deputy Sheriff J. J. Mason returned from Pamlico county bringing with him Ned Walston, colored, who was wanted in this county robbery. In August, 1895, Walston went into the house of Mr. Joel Gardner, in Belvoir township, and stole a large sum of money, believed to be about $500. He ran away and all trace of him had been lost. Recently Sheriff Mooring received an anonymous letter from Pamlico county saying that a negro named Ned Walston, who was wanted in Pitt county for some crime, was in that section. Mason went down to look into the matter and got his man. Walston is now in jail.

Concerning our Birthdays.

"It seems to me," said a man of mature years, "that, though they come around a good deal faster, we are apt to lose track of and even to forget our birthdays. This may seem like a contradiction, but I believe it to be the truth. I know, for instance, that though this is my birthday, I woke up unmindful of that fact, so to remain until I received the first of the family's congratulations."

Way of the World.

Many otherwise good business men allow any stranger that comes along with a scheme to scoop them right in, while they will hardly listen to a home man with a real business proposition.

A Circular to Sheriffs.

The State Treasurer is sending out the following circular to county sheriffs giving information as to important provisions of the new revenue and machinery acts. These will be ready for distribution shortly:

"To Sheriffs and Tax Collectors:

"As we have received many inquiries relative to the changes in the revenue act, I send out this circular in advance of the revenue and machinery acts for distribution. In answer to many queries received at my office, the section relative to slot machines is as follows: "On each slot machine where the return is uncertain, one hundred dollars. The tax in this section shall be paid to the sheriff or tax collector, but shall not be construed as giving license or relieving any such person or establishment from the penalties incurred by violation of the law."

"The new law requires that horse dealers shall pay $25 license tax to the State and no tax to the county, and persons who sell less than twenty head of horses or mules in any one year shall not be liable to said tax. The collection of the tax on piano and organ dealers and the tax on druggists' liquor license shall be paid to the sheriff or tax collector, instead of to the State Treasurer, as heretofore. The revenue and machinery act will be ready for distribution in about ten days and will be sent to all sheriffs and tax collectors.

"Yours very truly,
"W. H. WORTH,
"State Treasurer."

Horses Arrived.

The pair of horses for the fire department arrived today. They are bays, and large, powerful animals. The combined weight of the two is 3,100 pounds.

The food that you eat today gives strength for the day's work, but more food must be eaten tomorrow and the days that succeed it. So with advertising. The business brought by the advertisement for today must be kept up for the new business of tomorrow and the days afterwards. As soon expect one week's supply of food to last indefinitely as to expect one week's advertising to bring continual business without further effort.

A gentleman who has been prominently identified for a number of years with one of the largest and most successful advertisers in the world claims that, with all his vast experience, he knows but little concerning advertising. There are others who, with limited experience, will tell you they know all about it, and expect you to believe them.—Profitable Advertising.

Never Close a Hotel Register.

There is an old superstition that to close a hotel register portends bad luck to the house and that in nine times out of ten something will happen. It is not known where the superstition comes from but no worse luck can befall a house than to have some fool come along and close the register. "Why," said a Washington hotel clerk, "I won't be able to sleep for nine days, which is the length of time that we will be under the spell. If we can get along for nine days without burning the house down or blowing up the steam boiler, or having a case of smallpox, we will be reasonably safe again.

"There isn't a hotel clerk in the country that will allow that book to be shut—not, at least, until it is filled and ready to be filed away with other old registers, merely to serve as a record of our business. But when in active use a hotel man would as soon think of dropping a match in a can of oil as to close the book.

"They say that the night before the Baldwin burned in Frisco some smarty played a trick on the night clerk and closed the book, and I know for a fact that it was only three days before the Gumry, in Denver, blew up that the register was found closed. The clerk who was on when the register was closed escaped, but he quit the hotel business."—Washington Star.

Matrimonial Noose.

Mrs. Lucinda Reese, of Brazil, Ind., asks for a divorce, $10,000 alimony and the custody of the fourteen children.

Miss Emily Vanderbilt Sloane, of New York, who will be married next month, will distribute to the poor a sum equal to the expenses of her wedding.

There is a girl in San Francisco who though neither deaf nor dumb has not spoken a word for thirteen months. Thirteen months ago she had a spat with her sweetheart to whom she was soon to be married, went into a trance and remained in that condition until a few days ago when she showed signs of reviving consciousness. And all that time her fellow was patiently waiting for her to wake up.

Society is discussing the purchase by William K. Vanderbilt of the residence of Mrs. Henry T. Sloane as a wedding gift for his son, William K. Vanderbilt, who is to marry Miss Virginia Fair in April. The house, with all its furnishings, is reported to have brought $550,000. Not an insignificant wedding present, you will say, but an expensive one for the recipient when it is considered that it will cost what the house was purchased for to maintain it every year.—New York telegram to the Pittsburg Dispatch.

Sampson Feeding Taffy.

London, March 21.—The Times publishes this morning a letter from a correspondent in Bermuda, who describes Rear Admiral Sampson's visit there last month and gives an authorized interview with the admiral.

According to the correspondent, Admiral Sampson, remarking upon the "marvelous change in American opinion," said:

"Formerly England was regarded as the only European power with which the United States was likely to have serious differences. Now we regard England as our best, perhaps, our only friend. I cannot say whether this feeling will prove permanent, but I hope it may. Possibly we could not hope for more than England's moral support in the first instance, in any conflict with a continental power; but in times of real difficulty it would ripen, sooner or later, into a derisive alliance.

"I say frankly that in my opinion the United States has more to gain from such an alliance than England has. Therefore, I rejoice unfeignedly at the change of sentiment in the United States. I am not less gratified that no such change is needed in Great Britain, and if any words of mine can cement a friendship calculated to benefit the whole world, it is a pleasure to myself and a duty to my country to utter them."

When the hour came for the Kansas Legislature to close the other day detectives were stationed at every exit of the State House to see that no property was carried away. It has been the custom for a vast number of articles, ranging from typewriters down to inkstands to disappear at the end of every session. The detectives found plenty to do, and dozens of would-be thieves were forced to disgorge.

One fellow who got his license to marry last week is having trouble. It is Charlie Rose, of Trap Hill township. The girl's people have her hidden and swear if Rose tries to steal her they will kill him. On the other hand, Rose swears he will have the girl if he has to wade through blood, because he knows the girl loves him for "she told him so out of her own mouth," and when that is the case there's no use trying to prevent those youngsters from marrying.—Wilksboro Chronicle.

To-day I asked Carl Duncan, the collector of internal revenue if blockading is increasing or decreasing in North Carolina. "Increasing greatly," he replied, "and particularly in the eastern counties. I account for this by the fact that in recent years tobacco-growers from the mountain sections have been going to the eastern counties to teach the farmers there how to raise tobacco and incidentally they have taught them how to blockade. Why, ten years ago there was not a blockade still in either Halifax or Lenoir county and now both counties are reeking with them." "In what county is there most blockading?" "Johnson county, with Wake as a close second." "Is it easy to find these still houses in the east?" "No—much harder than in the hill country. There you get on a mountain, and it is not so hard to detect smoke from a still, but in a long, flat country smoke here and there signifies nothing." "How do you usually get your information about blockaders?" "As a rule from private informants, who are paid $10 for each illicit distillery reported. This is fixed by law, and the name of the informant is kept secret, though the usual run of people in the eastern counties are too suspicious to believe this! There's one fellow who has reported three still houses to this office, and he refuses to give his name. The last time he showed a blockade still to a deputy he rode ten miles under the seat of the buggy and was almost frightened to death the whole time."—Raleigh Cor. Charlotte Observer.

The most important political question for the white men of North Carolina to consider and decide is the proposed suffrage amendment to our state constitution.

Although this question will not be voted on until the first Thursday in August of next year, yet its very great importance demands its earnest consideration from now until then. Already its opponents have begun a most active campaign against it, and its advocates should at once actively work for its ratification.

Its opponents have begun their campaign (as a matter of course) by making false statements as to the effects of the proposed amendment, and, by making these false statements so early in their campaign, they hope to prejudice the minds of certain voters in advance, so that they will not later listen to the truth. It is highly important, therefore, for the advocates of the proposed amendment to forestall these false statements of its opponents—and thus counteract them—by a full and frequent explanation of it and its effects.

The main reliance and chief hope of its opponents is to arouse the fears and prejudices of uneducated white men, by falsely telling them that the proposed amendment will disfranchise them. Some go so far as to assert that it will disfranchise all men who do not own a certain amount of property, but this falsehood is so glaringly untrue that it can deceive nobody, however ignorant. A most careful reading of the proposed amendment will not disclose the slightest allusion to any property qualification whatsoever. Nor does it disfranchise a single, solitary white man who can now vote!—Pittsboro Record.

A HUNDRED REASONS.

Can be given why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best and most effectual cure for every form of indigestion.

They are in the tablet form which retains their good qualities indefinitely, while liquid preparations become stale and useless with age. They are convenient, can be carried in the pocket and taken when needed. They are pleasant to take.

After each meal dissolve one or two of them in the mouth and, mingling with the food, they constitute a perfect digestive, absolutely safe for the most sensitive stomach.

They digest the food before it has time to ferment, thus preventing the formation of gas and keeping the blood pure and free from the poisonous products of fermented, half digested food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the only remedy designed especially for the cure of stomach troubles and nothing else.

One disease, one remedy; the successful physician of to-day is the specialist, the successful medicine is the medicine prepared especially for one disease.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets make the complexion clear by keeping the blood pure.

They increase flesh by digesting flesh forming foods.

A whole package taken at one time would not hurt one, but would simply be a waste of good material. Over six thousand men and women in the State of Michigan alone, have been cured of indigestion and dyspepsia by the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package.

AN ENCHANTED PITCHER.

The Belle of a Fatality. It is Preserved by Superstition.

About five miles from Aiken, S. C. on the Charleston dirt road and in sight of the railway, is a little place that was first christened Polecat, but afterward changed to Montmorenci, the French for that odorous little animal. Many years ago a young woman came with her pitcher to draw a bucket of water from a well at Montmorenci and set the vessel in the hollowed top of a stone post that some of the railroad men had moved there. While drawing the water a flash of lightning came that struck the chain to which the well bucket was attached, and the woman was killed in her tracks. Her remains were removed, but the pitcher was left just where the dead girl had set it. To this day the pitcher remains in the same place, and, so far from being removed, it is said that no living hand has ever touched it save its owner's, although near the side of the public road.

But the most wonderful thing is the superstition attached to the pitcher. There is an indescribable influence surrounding it that prevents its touch. Hundreds of people have gone with the firm determination of lifting the pitcher, but when they approach it a strange repugnance comes over them, and they hurriedly depart without carrying out the object of their visit.

One night a bully in the neighborhood, while under the influence of whisky, made a bet with some friends that he would go and bring back the pitcher. He left to do so, but soon returned as pale as a sheet and empty handed. "Boys," he remarked, "no person alive can lay hands on that pitcher, and I wouldn't attempt it again for the whole of Aiken county."

He refused to tell his experience and said he would not talk about it. Other parties have gone to see it, but met with the same repulsive feelings.—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Clean Coal Mines.

The Chilean coal mines, opened in 1855, seem to be nice places to work in. The seam of coal runs from the shore under the waters of the Pacific ocean, and the tunnels are so clean that you could walk through them in a dress suit without making yourself dirty. They are lighted by electricity, and you can have a ride for a mile under the ocean on an electric car at a speed of 20 miles an hour. The mines form quite a catacomb of well lighted passages under the water. The output of coal is now 1,000 tons a day, and 750 miners are employed in them.

Cycling and Alcohol.

"Remember," says an experienced New York physician, "that alcohol stimulates the heart and circulation in much the same way as exercise does and that if you use it in any form while wheeling the reaction is speedy and far-reaching.

In the same way a long ride should never be undertaken immediately after a plentiful meal, this also tending to interfere with the heart's action and respiration.

A Foreign Writer's Burden.

"I find your political terms very puzzling," remarked the foreigner who was trying to gather material for a book on American institutions. "For example to rotate means to move in a circle. A ring also means a circle. Now I am told that when a ring controls your affairs they don't rotate any more."—Chicago Tribune

TETTER IN THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from Tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING. Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.

The Managed Husband is Worthless.
Helen Watterson Moody believes that the husband who can be managed is not worth managing. "and there is no better principle," she adds, in The Ladies' Home Journal "for both husband and wife to adopt in adjusting themselves to the new relation than that of trying to do each by the other what men are accustomed to call 'the square thing.' Many a woman understands 'managing' a husband better than she does doing the square thing by him, and many a man understands and practices doing the square thing by other men who would be affronted if he were to be told that, judged by his own business standards, he habitually dealt unfairly with his own wife."

Mrs. Watkins' Club Inheritance.
"I don't see," said Mr. Mulberry, "why you women have that Mrs. Watkins in your literary club. The rest of you are bright enough, but she's as dull as dull can be."
"It's this way," answered Mrs. Mulberry. "Mrs. Watkins' great-grandmother's half-sister's second cousin by marriage could trace her descent from Chaucer. So you see, after all, with such literary claims, we couldn't very well leave Mrs. Watkins out."—Harper's Bazar

A Candid Suitor.
"What do you think? Papa asked Jack if he expected to get any money in marrying me."
"Was Jack insulted?"
"Insulted? He told pop that a good home was more of an object to him than wages."—Detroit Free Press

Not Mentioned.
"Everybody seems to have been mentioned for the office except you," observed the sympathizing friend.
"Yes," replied the disappointed politician. "My name is Pants."
"Then, of course," soothingly rejoined the other, "you might expect to be among the unmentionables."

A Verbal Melee.

Going up on a Cedar avenue car the other night the passengers were much entertained by a verbal spat between a small citizen of German parentage and a tall native. The trouble all originated from the fact that the car was very much crowded, so crowded that the two disputants were brought face to face in such close proximity that they couldn't make a gesture.

"Push up a little, can't you?" inquired the tall man in an irritable tone. Several people were pushing him, and his irritability was quite excusable.

"Vell, no, I can't," replied the little man, "and, vat is more, I don't hef to."
"You're not much of a gentleman," said the tall man.

"Oh, I ton't know," said the little man airily. "Ven I vant an opinion on chentlemen, I go to some fellow vat has got a leetle knowledge of der subject."
"You're a very funny boy," said the tall man in a tone of deep sarcasm.

"Vell," said the little man, "I may haf some senses of humor, but I'm not so hart hearted as to laugh at der foolishness of one idiot."
"Do you call me an idiot?" gasped the tall man.

"As long as I ton't know your name," said the little man, "I couldn't make der identification any more complete."
Pretty soon the car stopped to let off half a dozen passengers, and when things finally settled down the tall one and the short one were separated by a dozen seats.—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Immortality Cranks.

Immortality of fame is something desired by many, but attained by few, says Dr. John Fiske in The Atlantic. Physical immortality is something which has hitherto been supposed to be inexorably denied to human beings. The phrase "All men are mortal" figures in textbooks of logic as the truest of truisms. But we have lately been assured that this is a mistake. It is only an induction based upon simple enumeration, and the first man who escapes death will disprove it.

So at least I was told by a very downright person who called on me some years ago with a huge parcel of manuscript, for which he wanted me to find him a publisher. He had been cruelly snubbed and ill used, but truth would surely prevail over bigotry, as in Galilei's case. I took his address and let him leave his manuscript. Its recipe for physical immortality, diluted through 600 pages, was simply to learn how to go without food!

Usually such a regimen will kill you by the fifth day, but if at that critical moment, while at the point of death, you make a heroic effort and stay alive, why, then you will have overcome the king of terrors once for all. I returned the gentleman's manuscript with a polite note, regretting that his line of research was so remote from those to which I was accustomed that I could not give him intelligent aid.

The Irrepressible Small Boy.

This is a true story, and it really happened in a New York family. It looks as if it might be an old story brought up to date or renovated for the occasion, but it is exactly as the small boy arranged it and not to the edification of his family. The small boy was very fond of ice cream. It never cloyed his palate. It was with the same delight that he saw it each time brought on the table, and upon each of these times he showed the exuberance of his feelings by crying in rapturous tones "Oh-o-o! Ice cream! Ice cream! Ice cream!" much to his mamma's annoyance.

"People will think we never have ice cream or anything else to eat," she said to her son one day. "Now, we are going to have company to dinner tonight, and I don't want you to say a word when the ice cream is brought on." The small boy promised. He really was a good little boy, and he intended to mind. But when the cream was brought on the old feeling of rapture was so strong that he forgot entirely and cried out as usual. Then he remembered and stopped short, looking very repentant. He had not intended to call out, and his mother was mortified. He changed his tone entirely.

"We have ice cream almost every night," he remarked carelessly.—New York Times

Painfully Polite.

The people of Dresden are very polite, so overpolite that they not infrequently bring down ridicule upon themselves. It used to be told in that city that a stranger was one day crossing the great bridge that spans the Elbe and asked a native to direct him to a certain church which he wished to find.

"Really, my dear sir," said the Dresdener, bowing low, "I grieve greatly to say it, but I cannot tell you."

The stranger passed on, a little surprised at this voluble answer to a simple question. He had proceeded but a short distance when he heard hurried footsteps behind him, and, turning round, saw the same man running to catch up with him.

In a moment his pursuer was by his side, his breath nearly gone, but enough left to say hurriedly "My dear sir, you asked me how you could find the church, and it pained me to have to say that I did not know. Just now I met my brother, but I grieve to say that he did not know either."

WINE OF CARDUI THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. I. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."
