TROUBLE IN SAMOA.

Another War to Attract Attention

Apia, Samoan Islands, March 23, via Auckland, N. Z., March 29.—The troubles growing out of the election of a king of Samoa have taken a more serious turn and resulted in a bombardment of native villages along the shore by the United States cruiser Philadelphia, Admiral Kautz commanding, and the British cruisers Porpoise and Royalist. The bombardment has continued intermittently for 8 days. Several villages have been burned, and there have been a number of casualties among the American and British sailors and marines. As yet it is impossible to estimate the number of natives killed or injured.

As Mataafa and his chiefs, constituting the provisional government, continued to defy the treaty after the arrival of the Philadelphia, Admiral Kautz summoned the various consuls and senior naval officers to a conference on board the Philadelphia, when the whole situation was carefully canvassed. The upshot was a resolution to dismiss the provisional government and Admiral Kautz issued a proclamation calling upon Mataafa and his chiefs to return to their homes.

Mataafa evacuated Mulinu, the town he had made his headquarters and went into the interior.

Herr Rose, the German Consul at Apia, issued a proclamation supplementing the one he had issued several weeks before, upholding the provisional government. As a result of this the Mataafans assembled in large force and hemmed in the town.

The British cruiser Royalist brought the Malietoa prisoners from the islands to which they had been transferred by the provisional government.

The Americans then fortified Mulinu, where 22,000 Milietoans took refuge. The rebels—the adherents of Mataafa—barricaded the roads within the municipality and seized the British houses.

An ultimatum was then sent to them, ordering them to evacuate, and threatening them in the event of refusal, with a bombardment to commence at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of March 15th. This was ignored, and the rebels commenced an attack in the direction of the United States and British consulates about half an hour before the time fixed for the bombardment. The Philadelphia, Porpoise and Royalist opened fire upon the distant vilages. There was great difficulty in locating the enemy, owing to the dense forest; but several shore villages were soon in flames.

A defective shell from the Philadelphia exploded near the American consulate, and the marines outside narrowly escaped. A fragment struck the leg of Private Rudge, shattering it so badly as to necessitate amputation. Another fragment traversed the German consulate, smashing the crockery. The Germans then went on board the German cruiser Falke.

During the night the rebels made a hot attack on the town, killing three British sailors. A British marine was shot in the leg by a sentry of his own party, another was shot in the foot, and an American sentry was killed at his post.

The bombardment continuing, the inhabitants of the town took refuge on board the Royalist, greatly crowding the vessel.

Many people are leaving Samoa, the captain of the Royalist urging them to go, so as not to interfere with the military operations.

The Porpoise has shelled the villages east and west of Apia and captured many boats.

The Americans and British are fighting splendidly together, but there is a bitter feeling against the Germans.

A Discouraged Editor

He was a sad eyed, meek faced man, and we suppose he merely wished to give us a news item; but when he commenced telling us about building a barn on his ranch 190 by 280 feet, seven stories high and ornamented with bay windows, we thought it time to check him and so we commenced:

"Well, we must admit that that is a pretty large barn for this country, but back in the States our father built a barn 325 by 500 feet, nine stories high and furnished with steam elevators; the—"

"Back in the States!" interrupted our listener, "why that was not much of a barn for the States. I remember now that when I was quite young, my father built a chicken coop 550 by 832 feet. I don't recollect how many stories high it was, but I know there was a cupola on it for the roosters."

"About how high was that cupola?" I asked.

"I don't know the exact height, now, mister, but I know it was so high that the fourteen upper tiers of roosters died from the effects of the light atmosphere the first night."

• Then we went out and sat down on the woodpile and wondered why some body was always outstripping us in the race of life.—Ex.

What Is Needed

With the crop prospects for this year the mercantile men will need some other source of trade. Greenville ought to have manufacturing enterprises so that the money in circulation will not depend solely upon crops. Every merchant especially ought to be interested in factories, as the more wage earners there are the better will be their trade.

Taken in Broad Daylight

Thursday Mr. Fernando Davenport went to Bethel and hitched his horse in a lot while he did some trading. When he went back to the lot to go home the horse and buggy were both gone and he has heard nothing of them since. It took a bold thief to steal a horse in open daylight.

Only Eleven Cases.

No new cases of smallpox have developed in Kinston since the authorities went to work to stamp out the disease. The Free Press says there have only been eleven cases there in all, and these are properly isolated and quarantined.

FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1899.

Col. John Robinson died Wednesday evening at his country home near Raleigh. For several years he was Commissioner of Agriculture, in which capacity he rendered his State valuable service. He was 68 years old.

And there is another war on hand. This time it is over in the Samoan islands. The people there being incapable of self-government, the American, Great Britain and German Consuls took somewhat of a combined charge of affairs. The German did not keep faith, but took side with the rebels and incited them to an outbreak of violence, whereupon the American and British warships did some shooting among the disturbers. Germany will have to give a satisfactory explanation of the matter or the trouble has not seen its end. America and Great Britain combined are to be dreaded.

Things are yet in a pretty mud dle over in Snow Hill, as the following press dispatch from Washington city will show:

Postoffice Inspector Little will leave here this week for Snow Hill, North Carolina, and endeavor to straighten out the trouble there, as to which register of deeds the postmaster shall recognize. The case is very amusing to the postoffice officials, but has given them no end of annoyance. There are two registers of deeds in Snow Hill, and when the mail directed to the register is received, it becomes the duty of the postmaster to deliver it and who is the register is what the postmaster has to decide. He has, it is said, endeavored to be impartial, first delivering the register's mail to one claimant and then to the other, and a protest always emanated from the man who did not receive the mail of the register, and each mail here was burdened with complaints, and so numerous was the mail from Snow Hill's registers that pigeon holes occupying one side of a big room were filled and the stamps on the complaint letters footed up into many dollars and they became a nuisance, and so did the writers, and has continued since last January. Finally the postoffice department despairing of the rival claimants settling their differences in the courts, will endeavor to do a little judicial work itself, and whoever Inspector Little decides is the "real thing" the postmaster will recognize as register and deliver to him all official mail.

An Unholy War.

There is an opinion widely prevalent that the Filipinos are a barbarous, half-clad people who wear rings in their noses. It may be so. But even if it is, they are entitled to certain rights at the hands of the civilized world, among these being life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—these including peaceable possession of the lands in which their fathers sleep and which they bequeathed to them. But there is another side to the story. Admiral Dewey, who knows both peoples, has said that the Filipinos are far superior to the Cubans; and yet we are going to give the Cubans self-government and are shooting the Filipinos to death because they want it. We see that in his estimate of the inhabitants of the Philippines Admiral Dewey is supported by Mr. Frank R. Robertson, for many years an American lecturer, who, before the present conflict began, spent several months in the islands, gathering material for a lecture. "What are commonly regarded as an uncivilized people," he says, "are, in fact, a people with all the advantages of education, culture and refinement. Of the real Filipinos, the ruling class in the island, two-thirds are described as being able to read and write." If that's so the Filipinos haven't much to learn from the people of some of the States of the American Union.

The Norfolk Landmark has compiled this information upon which we are drawing, and it makes a quotation from a letter in The New York Tribune from an officer on Dewey's fleet, which sustains both Dewey and Robertson. This he says, among other things, about the Philippines and their people: "Instead of being a country of savages, it is peopled by men who wear the garb of civilization, who read and write, who own and work farms and lands, and who worship God, the Father, and Jesus Christ, His Son."

Suppose we accept this view of these people and then ask ourselves by what right, civil or religious, we are slaughtering these people because they object to having their country taken possession of and government given them by a people 6,000 miles away, to whom they have never done any harm and who have no grievance against them? But we can either accept this view of them or the other—that they are naked barbarians—and all just reasoning will lead to the same conclusion viz: that this war upon these people is a crime against God and humanity, which cannot be successfully defended at the tribunal of conscience nor in the forum of public opinion.—Charlotte Observer.

Of late years it seems that all politics and public policies must necessarily get their start at big New York dinners or rather "suppers" as we plain people would say at $10 to $20 a plate. We notice that Cleveland and others are going to proclaim doctrines and policies as soon as the big New York dinner comes off which will save the country, and such like. If these men have anything to say that will help the people why not say it? Why wait to feed with a $20 plate before they can get off their mouths? This $20 a-plate-politics is mighty high to the tooth-headed devils who have to live on $20 a year and sell the old work ox to pay taxes. This big dinner politics is a little too rich for our digestive apparatus.—Wilkesboro Chronicle.

Easter Monday Egg-Rolling.

Clifford Howard, in writing of the annual Easter Monday egg-rolling in the White House grounds at Washington, gives a fine glimpse of the sport in the April Ladies' Home Journal. "The chief points of attraction," he says, "are the mounds or hillocks that rise in gentle slope from the lawn in various parts of the grounds. Their sides are richly carpeted with soft, thick grass, and here it is that the little children roll their eggs. They clamber up the hillside with their baskets, the little tots crawling up on hands and knees, and then turn and roll their eggs one by one down the green slope. But the children do not confine themselves to rolling eggs. Many of them take more pleasure in sitting about it groups and picking eggs with one another. This is done by striking two eggs together on their points. The one whose egg is broken in this encounter is the loser and gives up his egg to the other. This game is particularly enjoyed by the colored children, for it gives them a good opportunity and a good excuse to eat eggs, and there is nothing they like better. Preparatory to an encounter, each little fellow tests the hardness of his egg by knocking it against his teeth. If it can stand this test it is considered a good one for picking, and the owner sallies forth with a broad grin, confident of success. The boy who owns a goose egg or a turkey egg is a prince among his fellows. Occasionally such a boy appears. In all probability his shoes are torn, his clothes are patched, and his woolly head is adorned with an antiquated and moth-eaten fur cap. But he could be no prouder nor command greater respect if he were adorned with regal robes. He is immediately surrounded and followed wherever he goes by a band of admirers, who adopt him as their champion and defy anybody to pick an egg with him."

A Long Journey.

Mr. J. F. Snuggs, of Troy, recently moved to Sunny South, Ala. He had a large 20-barrel turpentine still and fixtures, which would have cost him some $150 to ship, together with three heads of mules and a wagon. Instead of paying this amount to the railroad he had the still loaded on his wagon, and two colored men passed through here Saturday morning on a journey through the country of 750 miles, which they estimate to take them thirty days or more. Their first point from here was Monroe.—Stanley Enterprise.

Margin in Five Cent Cotton.

The Journal has come across another farmer who says farming pays. It is Mr. T. S. W. Broom. He lives in the Carmel community. At the request of the Journal Mr. Broom consented to make a statement regarding his last year's crop. He said: "On ten acres I made ten bales of cotton averaging 449.3 pounds, and sold it at an average price of 51 cents. On ten other acres I made 250 bushels of corn. I paid out $14.26 for hired help in making, and $26.15 in gathering the crop. The cotton fertilizer cost $20.70, the corn $48. My tenant made ten bales of cotton on fourteen acres, and forty bushels of corn on two acres. I have corn and meat to sell. My wife sold $40 worth of butter, chickens and eggs. There is a little money in cotton even at five cents if a bale is raised on every acre, and plenty of bread and meat is made at home.—Monroe Journal.

Evading The Law.

The Tennessee anti-cigarette law passed by the recent Legislature has been knocked into a cocked hat by the courts. It is defective in that no penalty is provided for giving them away. The tobacco dealer may charge that much more for other goods and throw the cigarettes in. It is said the law is being evaded all over the State.

THEY RIDICULE IT.

MANY PEOPLE RIDICULE THE IDEA OF AN ABSOLUTE CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA AND STOMACH TROUBLES.

Ridicule, However, is not Argument, and Facts are stubborn Things.

Stomach troubles are so common and in most cases, so obstinate to cure that people are apt to look with suspicion on any remedy claiming to be a radical, permanent cure for dyspepsia and indigestion. Many such pride themselves on their acuteness in never being humbugged, especially in medicines.

This fear of being humbugged can be carried too far, so far, in fact, that many people suffer for years with weak digestion rather than risk a little time and money in faithfully testing the claims made of a preparation so reliable and universally used as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Now Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are vastly different in one important respect from ordinary proprietary medicines for the reason that they are not a secret patent medicine, no secret is made of their ingredients, but analysis shows them to contain the natural digestive ferments, pure aseptic pepsin, the digestive acids, Golden Seal, bismuth, hydrastis and nux. They are not cathartic, neither do they act powerfully on any organ, but they cure indigestion on the common sense plan of digesting the food eaten thoroughly before it has time to ferment, sour and cause the mischief. This is the only secret of their success.

Cathartic pills never have and never can cure indigestion and stomach troubles because they act entirely on the bowels, whereas the whole trouble is really in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken after meals digest the food. That is all there is to it. Food not digested is poison as it creates gas, acidity, headaches, palpitation of the heart, loss of flesh and appetite and many other troubles which are often called by some other name.

They are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall Mich., for little book on stomach diseases, sent free.

The Inexpressible Small Boy.

This is a true story, and it really happened in a New York family. It looks as if it might be an old story brought up to date or retold for the occasion, but it is exactly as the small boy arranged it and not to the edification of his family. The small boy was very fond of ice cream. It never cloyed his palate. It was with the same delight that he saw it each time brought on the table, and upon each of these times he showed the exuberance of his feelings by crying in rapturous tones "Oh-o-o! Ice cream! Ice cream! Ice cream!" much to his mamma's annoyance.

"People will think we never have ice cream or anything else to eat," she said to her son one day. "Now, we are going to have company to dinner tonight, and I don't want you to say a word when the ice cream is brought on." The small boy promised. He really was a good little boy, and he intended to mind. But when the cream was brought on the old feeling of rapture was so strong that he forgot entirely and cried out as usual. Then he remembered and stopped short, looking very repentant. He had not intended to call out, and his mother was mortified. He changed his tone entirely.

"We have ice cream almost every night," he remarked carelessly.—New York Times.

LETTER ON THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from letter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING. Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.

RHEUMATISM.

No disease that attacks the body is so universal as rheumatism.

Almost every one is liable to suffer from it, in some form or other.

Exhaustion of nerve force is the underlying cause.

The immediate cause is the presence of certain morbid waste material in the blood and tissues.

Rheumatism occurs in several forms; there is acute rheumatism, or rheumatic fever; there is what is termed sub-acute rheumatism. There is chronic, muscular, inflammatory, deformant rheumatism, and there is rheumatic gout.

Over-work, or whatever induces an undue exhaustion of nerve force, will aggravate the disease, or hasten its appearance.

The aches that accompany the disease in its incipient stages are often, for a time, attributed to other less serious causes.

The cure for so deep-seated a trouble never can be an ignorant preparation that will only dull the pain or give temporary relief. There are a thousand and one so-called medicines for rheumatism that not only never effect a cure, but unfortunately are often the means of discouraging people who use them.

Paine's celery compound is as little related to these worthless preparations as an honest gold coin is to a clumsy counterfeit.

Paine's celery compound is a specific for the cure of rheumatism in any of its forms.

The first "friendly plan"—friendly, because it gives early notice before serious mischief has occurred, should send you at once to the druggist's for a bottle of this remedy. It will cure your rheumatism. It will so cleanse, invigorate and rejuvenate the blood that every organ of the body will share immediately in the healthier condition. It will build up and make you strong. Its peculiar ability to increase the amount of blood and stimulate the action of the liver and kidneys has made it the regular prescriptions of the best physicians.

Thousands of people have been cured of rheumatism by Paine's celery compound.

Mrs. H. C. Danolds, of Rochester, N. Y., writes:

"Last season I had a severe attack of muscular rheumatism. At first I used a good deal of linament, but in spite of it the rheumatism increased. I then began using Paine's celery compound, and the second bottle cured me completely. I recommend Paine's celery compound most heartily as an invaluable remedy to all who are afflicted."

Other people—scores of them in every town of any size in the country, have written similar letters, appreciative and grateful, to the proprietors of this wonderful remedy—the best of all blood purifiers and nerve restorers, the discovery of Dartmouth's greatest professor.

Whoever has used it has recommended it to others.

And that is the reason that the demand for Paine's celery compound is greater today than for any other remedy in the world.

SALE OF VALUABLE TOWN LOT.

WINE OF CARDUI

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. L. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."
