THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1899.

Every now and then we read something about the ending of the Spanish war. It strikes us that for a long time to come we will not be seeing the end of the rumpuss this country has got into on account of Spain, and there are those who will yet wish they had never heard of Spain.

The decision of the Supreme Court in favor of Capt. W. H. Day, Superintendent of the penitentiary, holding that the Legislature could not remove an officer until his term expires, was rendered by Judge Montgomery with a concurring opinion by Judge Furches. Judge Clark also gave an opinion in which he strongly dissented from the majority opinion of the Court. Thus the Court differs, but the majority being in favor of Day gives him the decision. The result of this case gives hope to other officials ousted by the Legislature that they also will be able to hold their positions.

Berkshire Hogs by Special Train.

Transportation by special train is a luxury that is even more rare among dumb animals than with man, therefore the arrival at Biltmore yesterday of a special train carrying the notable additions to the Biltmore herd of swine is to be marked down as a particular event. The pigs have been in quarantine at Garfield, N. J., since their arrival from England, under the watchful care of Reuben Gentry, manager of the Berkshire department of Biltmore Farms. As soon as the period of detention was completed they were whisked away and brought in yesterday by a special train over the Southern, and the employment of this mode of transportation is a fitting courtesy to these blue-blooded aristocrats of swinedom.—Asheville Citizen.

Beauty Is Blood Deep.

Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic, clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Relics of Appomattox.

Our townsman, Mr. S. P. Collier reminds us that last Sunday was the 34th anniversary of the formal surrender of General Lee's army to General Grant's at Appomattox. The terms of the surrender were agreed upon April 9, 1865, but the final surrender took place on the 10th and the Confederate soldiers, paroles bear that date.

Mr. Collier never forgets April 10th, and once a year when it rolls around he gets out his parole and other relics to look upon. His parole is well preserved, as well as the oath of allegiance which he took and subscribed to at Goldsboro under date of July 8, 1865. He also has among his relics a lot of Confederate bonds and money, and a 50-cent shin-plaster issued by the state of North Carolina January 1, 1865. All these souvenirs are exceedingly interesting to look upon, and they inspire peculiar memories of the historic days of the Confederacy.

When General Lee surrendered at Appomattox, Mr. Collier was sergeant-major and acting adjutant of the Second North Carolina Infantry, Cox's Brigade, Grimes' Division, Gordon's Corps. On the 10th of April, 1865, it was his melancholy duty to read to his comrades General Lee's farewell address, a copy of which he keeps among his relics. He says on the 9th of April the brigade band went to headquarters and serenaded General Lee and a great crowd of soldiers went along, himself among them, and he shook hands with General Lee, in bidding him farewell.—Wilmington Messenger.

Another Destructive Fire.

New York, April 11.—W. K. Vanderbilt's country house, "Idlehour," at Orkdale, L. I., was totally destroyed by fire about 3 o'clock today. No lives were lost and no one was injured. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and his bride, formerly Miss Virginia Fair, were occupying the house at the time.

The fire is believed to have originated in the cellar, accidentally. It broke out at 3:45 o'clock a. m., and in an hour the magnificent structure with all its valuable fittings was totally destroyed.

Besides young Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt there were twelve or fifteen servants in the house. All got safely out. Mr. Vanderbilt and his bride came to New York on an early train.

All the costly furniture, bric-a-brac and paintings in the house were burned. The total loss is estimated at from $250,000 to $300,000.

Just Seventeen Years Ago,

The heavy fall of snow last week has brought out many comments about "spring snows." Mr. Peter E. Smith says on the 13th of April seventeen years ago there was a considerable fall of snow. He remembers that the late Mr. Norfleet Smith was planting cotton seed during the snow, cotton seed and snow were all turned into the ground together, and the stand of cotton was fine.—Scotland Neck Commonweath.

Out of The Mouths of Babes.

"Papa," asked a 4-year-old youngster, "are all little boys made of dust?" "Yes, my son," was the reply. "Well, then," continued the little fellow. "I wish you would make nurse stop using the whisk-broom on me, I'm afraid she'll brush me all away."

"Why, Willie," said his mother one day when they were out walking, "what do you mean by offering a penny to that mule?" "Because," replied the young investigator, "I heard papa say that money makes the mare go, and I want to see if it has the same effect on a mule."

Teacher—"You should be very careful what you say, Johnny. Do you know what will become of you if you keep on telling stories?" Johnny (who reads the papers)—"Yes'm, I'll get invitations to all the big dinners when I grow up and become a United States Senator from New York."

In Havana cigar factories men make from $2 a day up in spanish gold. They work by the piece, and an average day's labor varies from eight to ten hours. A good workman rarely fails to earn $3 a day, and the best can earn $5. The men are allowed to smoke all the cigars they want, they lose their own time in making them, but the leaf is furnished by the factory. Of the score of large factories in Havana each has its special brand of dollar cigars. Some are sold at $1.50 each instead of at $1 apiece, but they are called dollar cigars. All the shops have their reader. A kind of platform or pulpit is made for him, and he occupies this perch reading in a high key for an hour or two hours at a time. The reader is a distinctive feature of all the Cuban cigar factories. It is the general testimony that much better work is done during the reading hours than at other times. All the hands in the shop contribute toward his pay, and the factory itself frequently adds a contribution.

A curious case was tried last week in Vienna. A young lady asked heavy compensation from a young man with whom she recently danced at a masked ball, and who allowed her to fall so heavily that she sustained severe internal injury. The defendant declared that his partner was a poor dancer, and it was difficult to guide her through the crowded room. She rejoined that the defendant had attempted some new steps which he had seen in the opera ballet and desired to imitate. "He flung his legs about," she said, "and went through some kind of a Russian bent-knee dance, in the execution whereof he tripped me and we both fell heavily." The Judge decided that a man couldn't be held responsible for the safety of his partner, and the case was dismissed.

Sour Stomach

"After I was induced to try CASCARETS, I will never be without them in the house. My liver was in a very bad shape, and my head ached and I had stomach trouble. Now, since taking Cascarets, I feel fine. My wife has also used them with beneficial results for sour stomach." JOS. KREHLING, 1321 Congress St., St. Louis, Mo.

The Pebble in the Brook.

Throw a stone into a stream, and the disturbance of the water will not cease until the circles which roll on from the point of the stone's immersion be stopped by the farthest shore. Advertising stirs the tide of business as resistlessly as the stone moves the surface of the water. Even if it miss the particular object of its aim, like a poorly directed missile thrown into a stream, the advertiser's thought will run out through the great current of publicity with results as certain as the motion caused by a pebble tossed into a brook.—Philadelphia Record.

TETTER ON THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from Tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING. Burlington, N. C., May 27, 1896.

THE GAME OF QUOITS

CAN BE PLAYED ANY PLACE AND IS SPLENDID EXERCISE.

It is a Very Ancient English Pastime, and Its Beginnings Are Lost In the Mist of Ages—Fine Training For the Eye and Arm.

There are some games which have never had their boom, and quoits is one of them. Still, as nothing happens but the unexpected, it may be that the time is nearly ripe for quoits to be taken out of its undeserved obscurity, to be exalted to the status of a national game, to have weekly papers named after it and to have columns in the sporting press devoted to the doings of its champions. Stranger things have happened. Who, for instance, would have said when at the end of the sixties a few energetic sportsmen went wobbling about on bone-shaking bicycles which it would have been far easier to push than to ride that at the end of the century considerably more than 100,000 bicycles would be manufactured annually in Great Britain alone and that a great part of the population would adopt this means of locomotion? One cannot imagine that quoits will ever attain such popularity as the bicycle, but the unprejudiced person can see no reason why it should not become as favorite a pastime as golf, which a very few years ago was almost unheard of south of the Tweed.

Quoits is a very fine game, especially in the winter time. It is splendid exercise and trains the eye and the hand to act together in a way that few other sports can do, for the very essence of it is accuracy of aim at a mark placed below the level of the hand. It has been objected that throwing quoits makes the player lopsided, but, after all, that is easily remedied, for there is nothing to prevent the player throwing the quoit with his left hand if he so pleases, and such a change would make a variation in the game and also afford an excellent method of handicapping the men of unequal skill. Quoits strengthens the arms and shoulders, but it is not a pastime which primarily demands strength.

A great advantage of the game is that it can be played in any small space and that the ground need not be particularly level. Any rough field or waste bit of ground is good enough for a quoits pitch, and no rolling or cutting is required to satisfy the demands of the most exigent. For cricket you need a carefully prepared wicket, for lawn tennis and croquet a piece of turf like a billiard table and for golf the best part of a country all to yourself, but for quoits you only need a few yards of rough ground, and you have as good a place for throwing as any one can possibly require.

People certainly might play quoits more than they do, but the taking up of a game is usually a matter of fancy, and perhaps two things stand in the way of quoits. First, there is an idea that it is a "rustic" sport and can only be played by the rough country lads, and, second, there is the legend that the game is derived from the classical discus throwing, a suspicion which it must be confessed is enough to throw a slur on any well regulated game.

No treatise on quoits can begin without the time honored pedigree of the quoit from the discus. Strutt, who lived at the end of the last century, of course dealt with it, and equally of course he dragged in the discus even if he did not invent the descent of quoits from the sports of ancient Greece. The thing, of course, is absurd. To make a discus, the artisan did not, in the words of the immortal Irishman, take a hob and put some iron around it. The discus was more like a flattened Dutch cheese and was a solid missile. Moreover, it was not held in the same manner as a quoit, but was bowled underneath, in which indeed it alone differs from putting the weight. That quoits is now played chiefly in the country is the fault of those who do not play it and bring it into fashion.

The Streets of New York.

It was lunchtime and the "frankfurter and roll" men of Frankfort street were doing their best to appease the appetites of the 200 or 300 newsboys who throng Park row. One of the dealers in giving change to a buyer accidentally dropped a dime, and before he had time to pick it up his brother dealer quickly stooped down and grabbed it. Then ensued an argument in a way which only "frankfurter men" can argue, each claiming that he had dropped the dime. It is very likely they would be arguing yet had not a young fellow of the Bowery type who had chanced to witness the trouble interferred. Walking up to the one who had really dropped the money he said:

"Dat's yer dime dat bloke has, ain't it?"

"Yes."

"Well, say, how much will yer gimme if I gets it back fer yer?"

"A nickel," was the answer.

Then, addressing the other contestant, the Bowery boy said:

"Say, yer got dat feller's dime, 'cause I saw yer take it. But, say, if I don't take it away from yer how much will yer gimme?"

"Six cents," was the quick reply.

"All right; hand over." The bargain was concluded just as a policeman came rushing up and grabbed the one who had dropped the dime and took him to the station house for disorderly conduct.

A SCENE OF BUTCHERY.

The Slaughter That Came With the End of the Janizaries.

On the 15th day of June, 1826, the whole corps of the janizaries in the capital assembled, overturned their camp kettles (the signal of revolt) and advanced upon the seraglio. With his own hand the sultan unfurled the sacred "sanjak sberif" and called upon the true believers to rally round their dischah and caliph, and the zealous Mussulmae citizens rushed from all quarters and rallied under the sacred symbol. The ranks of the janizaries were raked with grape and solid shot by "Black Hell" (a nickname for Ibrahim, general of artillery) and his gunners as they pressed through the streets, compelling them to fall back to the Etmeidan, where they defended themselves with extraordinary fierceness, slaying great numbers of their assailants. The artillery, supported by the marines and the bostangi, pressed forward and compelled them to retreat to their barracks, where they offered desperate resistance to the assault.

From every street cannon thundered on the walls without intermission, the building was soon in flames, the walls torn and battered down by grapeshot, and the janizaries, overwhelmed by ruins, shot and flames, perished in their burning and blood stained barracks. For two days the gates of the city remained closed, and with relentless vigor every corner was searched for such janizaries as had escaped the general massacre, and when found they were hastily executed. Nearly 20,000 janizaries were destroyed on this memorable day, and many thousands were afterward put to death in the various cities of the empire, and thus not one of the number under arms was left to tell the tale. —Self Culture proved that the animal was capable of smelling by the use of certain pungent odors placed near the nasal organs—and all this because the brain cells were yet living.

Raising Ducks Without Water.

Ducks don't need water to thrive. There are many duck raising plants in this country where thousands of the fowls are bred each year for market and where there is not even a puddle for them to flounder in. One of these farms is credited with an output of 20,000 ducks a year.

Thou-ing.

To persons of lesser rank one saith "You," without thou-ing anybody, be it not some little child, and that thou wert much more aged and that the custom itself amongst the meek courteous and better bred were to speak in such manner. What concerneth familiar friends, amongst them the custome doth comport in certain places that they "Thou" one another more freely, in other places one's more reserved. —"Youths' Behavior," 1632.

SPAIN-JOHNSTON.

A Beautiful Home Wedding.

On Wednesday night, April 12th at the residence of the groom's brother, Mr. D. S. Spain, on Pitt street, Mr. J. S. Spain was united in holy wedlock to Miss Olivia Johnston, sister of Mrs. D. S. Spain.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the beautiful strains of Mendlesohn's Wedding March rendered by Miss Anna Spain, pealed forth and the bridal party entered the parlor in the following order forming on the right and left:

J. J. Mason with Miss Agnes Proctor.

Robert Tunstall with Miss Vinie Ward.

W. S. Briley with Miss Ella Smith.

John Mayo with Miss Lucy Briley.

Whitman Hardee with Miss Olive Daniel.

John Briley with Miss Mattie Hodges.

John V. Johnson with Miss Lizzie Spain.

A. S. Spain, brother of the groom, best man, with Miss Fanny Hardee, maid of honor.

Then came the bride and groom going up the centre and stopping under a beautiful floral arch with the marriage bell suspended overhead. The marriage ceremony of the Christian church was pronounced by Rev. J. F. Coss, editor of the Watch Tower, of Washington, N. C.

After congratulations were extended the bridal party repaired to the dining room where an elegant supper awaited them.

A large number of beautiful presents were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Spain will make their future home in the country a few miles north of Greenville.

THE REFLECTOR joins their many friends in wishing them a long and prosperous life.

The mayor of a far western city once received the following letter of inquiry:

"Kind and respected Sir—I see in a paper that a man named John Sipes was attacked and set up by a bare whosekubs he was tryin to git when the she bare came up and stopt him by eatin him in the mountaines near you town.

"What I want to know is, did it kill him, or was he only partly et up and is he from this place and all about the bare. I don't know but what he is a distant husband of mine.

"My first husband was of that name and I supposed he was killed in the war, but the name of the man the bare et being the same I thought it might be him after all and I ought to know it if he wasn't killed either in the war or by the bare, for I have been married twice and there ought to be divorce papers got out by him or me if the bare did not eat him all up. If it is him, you will know it by his having six toes on the left foot.

"He also had a spread eagle tattooed in his front chest and a ankor on his right arm wich you will know him by if the bare did not eat up these sines of its being him.

"Find out all you kin about him without his knowing what it is for. That is, if the bare did not eat him all up. If it did, I don't see as you can do anything and you needn't take no trouble. Please ancer back.

"P. S.—Was the bare killed? Also was he married again and did he leave any propty with me laying claims to?"
