MURDER AND ARSON

HORRIBLE CRIME AT DONGOLA.

Clerk Brutally Murdered and Store Robbed and Burned.

Early this morning at Dongola, in the western portion of the county, was committed the most horrible crime that has ever occurred in Pitt county.

Mr. T. L. Turnage, a wealthy farmer and merchant, has for several years been doing a large business at Dongola, his store being a short distance from his dwelling house. His nephew, Mr. Robert Turnage, who was his salesman, slept in the store. About 4 o'clock this morning Mrs. Turnage awoke her husband telling him she saw a light outside. Mr. Turnage arose and looking out discovered that his store was on fire. He hurried out and went to the front of the store calling to his nephew. Getting no response he went around to the rear of the store and called him again. Still getting no answer he broke open the rear door of the store and went inside.

Upon getting in the store Mr. Turnage first went to the bed where his nephew slept intending to wake him up, but found the bed unoccupied. Then passing around the bed to go on into the store he was horrified at stumbling over the dead body of the young man lying upon the floor a short distance from the bed. Mr. Turnage dragged the body of his nephew out of the building and found that he had been most brutally murdered. His head was almost severed from the body, there being a terrible cut on the throat and another on the back of his neck. There were also several cuts about the temple, shoulder and on the hands, the young man's night clothes were nearly torn off and his face were bruised as if tread upon, all indicating that he had made a desperate struggle with his assailant. The body being so horribly mutilated was an awful spectacle.

The store and all contents were entirely consumed by the fire, not a penny's worth being saved from the building. The books had been left out of the safe when the store was closed last night, and they were also destroyed. Mr. Turnage's loss is estimated at $10,000 to $12,000 and he had no insurance on either building or stock.

Greenville was considerably excited over the awful crime when the news was telephoned here early this morning. At this writing no clue of the perpetrator has been discovered. Blood hounds were telegraphed for to help hunt down the murderer. It is the hope of all that the author of this double crime may be speedily captured and receive the punishment deserved.

Bright Idea.

A facetious citizen was heard to remark that with so many "refreshment bazaars" licensed to do business in Greenville the town authorities should be careful how they make any sidewalks narrower, or they might not be wide enough for some patrons of the "bazaar" to walk on.

If some work was done in Cherry Hill Cemetery the appearance would be greatly improved.

GOOD BUSINESS RULES.

A Greensboro correspondent of the Charlotte Observer writes that paper the following:

In conversation with Mr. Ireland, of the Odell Hardware Company, of Greensboro, N. C., he told me of their rules with regard to employes, which I wish to give to other business men. When they employ a man or boy it is stipulated that he is not to swear or smoke in or about their place of business, and he is not to drink intoxicating liquor at all. If caught associating with those of questionable character he gets a discharge at once. Their position is that if he cannot find suitable associates among their forty-five employes and all the other moral men in town, then there is something wrong with him and they do not want such a man. When they employ a man they ascertain what church he belongs to, and notify the pastor of that church and expect him to look after the new comer. They have no cash system, nor cashier, but put a man on his honor in handling the cash. To show you how it works.

They found one of their young men drinking just a little, and fired him, and wrote his parents the cause: In a short time they (the parents) wrote to thank the company for being so positive with their boy, saying that the company had by their strict rules taught the young man a lesson that they had never been able to do, i. e., that he could not drink whiskey and hold his job with good people. Another thing, when their men want credit, they get it when it is known that they work for Odell & Co., because a man that fails to pay his bills cannot stay with them; for they pay their men good salaries, and there is no excuse except extravagance for their not paying their bills.

I am writing from memory and may have left out some important item, but it seems to me that these are good rules, and if adopted by business men generally would be of incalculable benefit to young men in restraining them from evil habits and helping them to build characters that are worth something to the world. While the young man is benefitted, the merchant is also, as it secures for him the very best class of help, help that he can rely on when absent from his business.

Large Spaces Pay Best.

The price of space is just the same whether the advertisement that is put into it is a good advertisement or a bad one. An advertisement that costs twenty dollars and pays is good deal better than an advertisement that costs two dollars and does not pay. As a general thing I believe that the twenty dollar advertisement is more likely to bring really profitable results than the two-dollar advertisement is. That is to say, if the two-dollar advertisement will result in a ten-dollar sale, the twenty-dollar advertisement will bring more than ten times as much.—Bates.

There has been a remarkable increase of insanity in this country within the past generation, but in view of the craze to get rich, the speculative manias, the freak of folly, fashion, fast living &c., this is not surprising.—Durham Sun.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26, 1899

Two weeks ago near Palmetto, Ga., a negro named Sam Hose murdered Alfred Cranford, a well-to-do farmer, almost killed two of his children, and then outraged Mrs. Cranford within a few feet of the body of her husband. On Sunday last Hose was captured, and in the presence of 2,500 people was chained to a stake, his body dismembered, oil poured over him, the torch applied and the fiend slowly tortured to death. This was terrible punishment, but it pales in comparison with the awful crime the negro had committed. While in the hands of his captors Hose confessed his crime and said a negro preacher named Lije Strickland, had hired him to murder Mr. Cranford. The crowd went after the preacher and hung him to a persimmon tree. It is bad that people have to thus take justice in their own hands, but the delays of the law and frequent miscarriages of justice are responsible for it.

Petty Criticisms of the Preacher.

No atmosphere is so injurious to the hearer, and none so trying to the preacher, as petty criticisms and malicious interpretation. People ought to hear in a large and generous spirit remembering that the preacher is a man of like frailties with themselves, and remembering that no man ought to be judged except on the length and breadth of his teaching. It is possible that one day he may be dull—it is a matter of the weather; it is possible another day that he may not be sweet-tempered—it is a matter of digestion; the hearers ought to make great allowances for one who has to work with the double instrument of a fickle mind and an imperfect body. Hearers should remember that no man ever can be equal except he travel on the plane of dreary common-places.—Ian Maclaren in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

Havana is rapidly becoming Americanized. Instead of a bull fight on Sunday last there was a baseball game, and interest in the match waxed so warm that a close decision by the umpire in the eighth inning almost precipitated a riot. The Times of Cuba says that the police took a hand in the affair; revolvers were drawn, and murder would have been done had not a detachment of the Seventh Cavalry appeared on the scene with loaded guns to quell the disturbance.

Revenue Ruling on Leaf Tobacco.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has sent the following to collectors which is of interest to all dealers in leaf tobacco: To Collectors of Internal Revenue: Internal Revenue Circular, No. 523, dated February 20, 1899, relating to the sale of leaf tobacco in quantities less than a hoghead, case or bale, shall not be construed as applying to tobacco composing the breaks on warehouse floors in the loose leaf markets where it is sold at public auction to qualified dealers in leaf tobacco, or to qualified manufacturers of tobacco, snuff or cigars, or to persons who buy leaf tobacco for export only.

Every person who buys loose leaf tobacco, composing the breaks upon the warehouse floors, for the purpose of reselling the same at public auction, or at a private sale, without removal from the warehouse, is regarded as a dealer in leaf tobacco, and will be required to pay special tax and qualify as a dealer at each place where he carries on business, and must keep a record of his purchases and sales on Book 59, for each place, the same as other qualified leaf dealers.

Every qualified dealer in leaf tobacco who purchases loose leaf tobacco from the farmer or grower of tobacco after it has been placed on the warehouse floors, may resell the tobacco at that place without being required to repack or reprice the same in hogheads, cases or bales.

Loose leaf tobacco purchased outside of a public tobacco warehouse by a qualified dealer in leaf tobacco directly from the farmer or grower, before the same is offered for sale and delivered by such farmer, is required to be put up in hogheads, cases or bales; except the cigar leaf may be sold and delivered by him from his place of business to a licensed manufacturer of cigars in quantities less than a case or bale for use in his own manufactory exclusively.

In case the farmer or grower of tobacco delivers at a public warehouse, two or more different grades of tobacco in a single package, the tobacco may be removed from the packages to the warehouse floors, assorted and divided into as many different and distinct lots as there may be kinds or grades of tobacco contained in such package. The leaf, trash, lugs and spots or cigar wrapper, filler and binder, forming distinct lots, and each lot may be sold separately from the others, without the owner or warehouseman being required to repack or reprice the same in a hoghead, case or bale, and the purchaser in each instance may remove the tobacco from the warehouse in cases, tierces, bales, tobacco baskets, boxes, chests or other receptacles which will enclose and protect the tobacco in transportation.

If the purchaser is a licensed leaf dealer he will, upon removal of the tobacco from the warehouse, be required to repack it in hogheads, cases or bales before it is again offered for sale. Respectfully,
 (signed) G. W. WILSON,
 Commissioner.

Listening to The Preacher.

"It is difficult for some people to listen, it is ten times harder for other people to follow, for it is evident a person may listen and not follow," writes Ian Maclaren, of "The Art of Listening to a Sermon," in the May Ladies' Home Journal. "Very few are accustomed to think about the same thing, or indeed to think about anything, for thirty minutes; after a brief space their interest flags and they fall behind; they have long ago lost the thread of the preacher's argument and have almost forgotten his subject. The sermon which suits such a desultory mind is one of twenty paragraphs, each paragraph an anecdote or an illustration of a startling idea, so that wherever the hearer joins in he can be instantly at home. Sensible people ought, however, to remember that a series of amusing lantern-slides and a work of severe art are not the same, and if any one is to expound the Gospel of Christ worthily he must reason as he goes and ask his hearers to think. The chain may be of gold, but there ought to be links securely fastened together, and a hearer should try them as they pass through his hands. If one does not brace himself for the effort of hearing a sermon he will almost certainly finish up by complaining either that the preacher was dull or that the discourse was disconnected. No sermon is worth hearing into which the preacher has not put his whole strength, and no sermon can be heard aright unless the hearer gives his whole strength also."

The Ideal Father.

Writing of the ideal father and ideal home training, in the May Ladies Home Journal Frances Evans refers to the home life of a well-known writer "who considers no affair of greater importance than the direction of his four boys' minds. His boys run in age from ten to seventeen, but even the little lad often is admitted to the family talks, which are teaching these boys to think for themselves. Instead of telling the children to "keep quiet" at the dining-table, both parents, with wise kindness, promote and direct the natural talkativeness of youth into fruitful channels. The father brings home the news of the day, and each boy is encouraged to express himself on these current topics when they dine at night, provided he is willing to think about what he is saying, not deliver some careless, ignorant opinion, then obstinately stick to it. Argument is encouraged, and frequently started by the father. Each boy may give free rein to his opinion as long as he keeps his temper and argues his best. No slovenly habits of thought or expression are permitted in this family. The topic in hand may be anything from football to the latest scientific discovery."

He Lost His Breeches.

A Lincolnton young man lost his breeches last Sunday under exciting and distressing circumstances. He has a sweetheart down about Hickory Grove and his sweetheart has a father and the father has a dog. The young man and the girl are fond of each other, but the dog is unfriendly to him. The young man went to see his girl Sunday and as he entered the yard, the dog went to see him. The young man went for the front yard fence and the dog went for the backyard of his pants. The dog got there first and when the young man went over the fence he didn't take his breeches with him—the dog had 'em. The only thing that saved the young man's meat was the dissolution of copartnership between his breeches and his suspenders.

How the girl fainted and the dog ripped around with the Sunday pants in his mouth, while the young man dodged behind a tree and waited till dark to get home, would require more space to describe than we can spare for this issue. We leave these to the imagination of our readers.—Lincoln Journal.

TETTER ON THE HANDS.

For several years I was a sufferer from tetter on my hands. It would come in little watery pimples and the itching was almost more than I could stand. The skin was tender and the itching would swell so I could hardly bend my fingers. Sometimes my hands would become perfectly raw from scratching or breaking of the pimples. When I was in this condition I tried one half dozen bottles of Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and some Wash in 1884, and by the time I took it my hands were cured, and I am now well of the trouble. It has since broken out a little at times, but not enough to inconvenience me or make me try more medicine. I am now well. MRS. M. E. KING.

John W. Mackay the other evening sent to the opera in San Francisco 50 girl employees of the Postal Telegraph company, in which he is a heavy stockholder. Each girl was furnished with two tickets, a bouquet and a carriage.

Noah Raby celebrated in the poorhouse at Piscataway, N. J., the other day what he claims is his one hundred and twenty-seventh birthday. The old man says he was born in the Gates house, North Carolina, in 1772. He is an Indian.

Robert Clansen, one of Hobson's Merrimac crew, failed to pass the required examination for advancement to the grade of boatswain, which was conferred on him for gallant conduct, subject to mental, professional and physical qualifications.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

Brown is one of the fashionable colors for tailor gowns.

The new artificial flowers are made of velvet and gauze.

Black taffeta blouse waists are worn with white cloth skirts in Paris.

A pretty novelty in belts is made of black or white velvet, embroidered with steel jet or imitation jewels.

Bobros of renaissance lace are a feature in dress and are very effective over the soft nuns' veilings and crepes de chine.

Floral boas are one of the novelties for summer neckwear. They are made of rose leaves and leaves of gathered gauze.

Something altogether novel in combination is a white pique chemisette vest in a foulard gown, which is trimmed on the bodice with a fine batiste embroidery.

Mismatched stockings are now announced as a fad of the season. A blue stocking with bronze clocks is worn with a bronze one with blue clocks; a black stocking with red dots accompanies a red one with black dots, and so on.

Pompadour pique combined with cloth is one of the eccentricities of fashion. The pique forms a circular flounce around the lower skirt, and is ripped off and laundered when necessary. The rounded basque and revers are also of the pique.

Fashion seems to be making an effort to relieve the neck of the ruinous stiff high collars, which have a very bad effect in causing the muscles to shrink in such a way as to produce wrinkles as well as a throat weakness. Tucks are to be cultivated this summer and lace ties substituted for the ugly linen collars.—New York Sun.

How It Seemed.

"Remember," said the impressive oratorist, "that a man in office owes something to the public."

"That seems to be the impression in my community," answered the politician gloomily. "Since my election every man, woman and child seems to think I am indebted to him."—Washington Star.

SUGAR OF MILK.

A Material Little Known Generally Much Used With Drugs.

Of the great variety of drugs and chemicals which play an important part in the commerce of the world little is known by the general public. The importation into the United States of balsams, barks, beans, flowers, gums, herbs and leaves gathered from every part of the globe foots up in value annually to nearly $50,000,000, while the exports of similar products from this country have now reached a total of about $10,000,000. Part of the hundreds of different names on the list with which the importer and wholesale drug dealer are familiar there are scores which are almost perfect strangers to the lay mind. Among them, alcohol, borax, opium, quinine and other well known drugs will be found cantharides, cocculus indicus, crystallose, lycopodium, meligan, catch, buchu, chicle and others of equally enigmatical character.

In this latter class might almost be mentioned sugar of milk, which occupies one of the most important positions in the drug transactions of the present day. The title of the drug would imply common knowledge, though, as a matter of fact, few understand its important uses. Time was when every ounce of this drug was imported from Europe. Today, thanks to American enterprise, it is manufactured in the United States on such an extensive scale that not only is the enormous domestic demand supplied by the homemade product, but large quantities are annually exported. When it was imported, the wholesale price was 30 cents a pound. Now it has declined to 8 cents.

History says that sugar of milk was first prepared in 1619, although not introduced into medicine until 1698. It is used almost entirely by pill manufacturers on account of its neutral, filling properties. It is absolutely neutral, inodorous and with a slightly sweet taste. As a vehicle for all manner of pulverized medicines it is perfect. Acids and drugs of all kinds with which it may be mixed do not have any effect upon it nor it upon them, and in the human stomach it is most easily disposed of.

It is manufactured from the whey of cow's milk, and is really a byproduct of milk. The process is one of evaporation and recrystallization. Switzerland once had a monopoly of its manufacture. Now Illinois leads the world, while a large factory has been started in New York state, which gives promise of producing as much as its western predecessor. Such has been the success of the American industry that the product is shipped even to Switzerland, where it is able to compete satisfactorily with the European makers.

In crystal form it resembles rock candy, being white in color. The growing demand for it has been caused by the development of patent medicines in pill and tablet form, where bulk is desired. It is said to be exported in the form of powdered sugar for the reason that low freight rates are thus secured. Otherwise as a drug the cost of ocean transportation would be largely increased.—New York Tribune.

A Whale on a Mountain.

A geologist made a most interesting discovery in southern California the other day. He was digging on the top of a mountain of no mean height when he unearthed a portion of the petrified head of a whale. The piece, which was about 30 inches long, was evidently from that part which joins the vertebral column. It was 12 inches wide, 18 inches thick and weighed some 350 pounds. There is only one solution to the mystery—that whale came up on to the mountain in the days when Noah was cruising about in his mighty battleship. Just how his lordship came to be imbedded in the sandstone in which he was found is not so clear. No other portions were found.

An Unsolved Question.

The energy of the discharge of a 13 inch gun loaded with smokeless powder is equal to the energy of nine 40 ton locomotives running at the rate of a mile a minute and one 20 ton locomotive running at the same speed thrown in.

No battleship has yet received the shock of such a blow. What bolts will draw, what plates will warp, what leaks will develop when it occurs can but be conjectured.

Shot Himself With Water.

Hermann Muller, leading actor of the Berlin Deutsches theater, killed himself recently in an unusual manner. After putting a blank cartridge in a pistol he filled the barrel with water and then fired into his mouth. His head was blown to pieces. Overwork and melancholia caused the suicide. He was best known through his work in the new school of plays by Henschel, Sudermann, Hauptmann and Hirschfeld.

A certain class of Londoners does not appear to take very kindly to the publication in that city of Sunday newspapers, which innovation has just been introduced by The Daily Mail and The Leader. On a recent Sabbath a prominent clergyman preached a sermon against Sunday newspapers, and at the conclusion of his remarks he burned a copy of The Daily Mail in the pulpit—presumably by way of an object lesson.

WINE OF CARDUI

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. L. ADDISON, M. D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."
