A Negro Swindler.

Weldon, May 31.—Rev. J. C. Thomas, colored, is missing, and with him has disappeared about $60 of the hard earnings of Weldon colored people. Thomas came here a few days ago from Washington and represented himself as an agent for wealthy Northern families in need of servants in various capacities. He promised all who agree to accompany him to Washington $25 to $40 per month and comfortable houses to live in. All he required was a deposit of $5 from each person as a guarantee of good faith. When they got to Norfolk he said this amount would be refunded and all expenses paid to Washington. Many Weldon negroes were taken in by this slick duck and paid in the required amount. Some sold all their furniture, and one woman even sold her hens in the nest in order to realize the amount necessary to insure her a $25 job. Some gave up good places and now they cannot get them back. I believe that if the Weldon negroes could get their hands on "Rev." Fraut Thomas they would lynch him.

All Look Alike.

A deputy sheriff made a right laughable mistake in the court house Monday afternoon. He had taken a prisoner up in the court house and placed him in the prisoner's box and sat down by the door to guard him. The deputy soon dozed off to sleep, and while he was enjoying his "snooze" the prisoner was taken around in the bar for trial. The deputy woke up, found his prisoner missing, and after looking around the court room in bewilderment he saw a darkey in the back part of the room whom he took to be his escaped prisoner, and "he went for him" and quietly but firmly installed him in the prisoner's box, thereby giving another forcible illustration of the popular idea that "all coons look alike."—Rockingham Anglo-Saxon.

Greenville Male Academy

Closed the present session Thursday afternoon. Prof. Ragsdale informs us that the enrollment reached sixty-five. This school needs no commendation at our hands. It has established its own reputation, and it is one that might be envied by any in the State. The boys mentioned Thursday as having won distinction at other schools have, with two exceptions, been students of this school. Prof. Ragsdale never has to change places, therefore the announcement may be made that the school will open again in September.

Last Notice.

Those who want to vote in the town election Monday must register. The registration books in the different wards are open only between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M., and tomorrow is the last day on which voters can register.

Two Bound Over.

At the preliminary trial at Kingston over the murder of J. H. Tweedy, a man named M. A. Mills and a woman named Charity Sanderson were bound over to court. Another man named Windal Taylor is to be tried next Tuesday.

Sunday School Picnic.

The thunder storm and rain about 9 o'clock this morning was just in time to prevent the Baptist Sunday school from going out to the Ringgold place to have their picnic. As everything was in readiness for the picnic it was decided not to be outdone by the weather, so they all went to the Star Warehouse and had a good day of it anyway. The dinner was a most abundant one, a man from there remarking "it was enough to feed an old time Baptist Association."

Remarkable Couple.

One of the most remarkable couples in North Carolina is now living in Duplin county. Mr. Fred Outlaw aged 91 years and his wife who is now in her 96th year. They are both in very good health and are both, to all appearances, good for many more years of life. They live by themselves and the husband still does all his plowing and other work incidental to a farm, while his good wife does all the household work.—Mt. Olive Advertiser.

Press and Type for Sale.

THE REFLECTOR has recently purchased two other printing office outfits and has some surplus material on which some printer can get a bargain. We have a good cylinder press large enough for a nine-column paper, in first class condition, also a lot of Long Primer, Brevier and Nonpariel type that will be sold cheap.

Municipal Franchises.

The following from an exchange shows that towns and cities should be careful how they grant franchises:

The question of municipal franchises is today perhaps the foremost question in the minds of the American people. Like all kindred matters, a few men, some shrewd and far-seeing, others getting something the value of which they very inadequately appreciated, have gotten from municipalities throughout the country franchises that have proven veritable mines of wealth. The cities and towns granting these privileges are now beginning to realize what they have given away, and in the future the struggle will be to regain the possession of what has been thoughtlessly parted with. The initial fight along this line of franchise recovery and municipal ownership, has been made in Michigan. The legislature of that State authorized the city of Detroit to purchase and operate its street railways. The railways refused to sell at anything like a reasonable figure, and the price they named for their property shows that they consider the franchise, given them by the city, as fully two-thirds the value of their holdings. The Review of Reviews for June discussing this phase of this question says "The rest of the country would look on with immense interest if Detroit should set about operating the passenger transit system as a municipal department. It does not necessarily follow that it would be for the interest of the people of that city to afford the country the benefit of that particular kind of object lesson. There is evidently no dearth in Detroit of advocates able to deal adequately with their respective sides of the discussion. If the municipality should not, after all, buy up the street railroad system, the citizen, of that town will at least henceforth have a perfectly clear idea of the commercial value of street railroad franchises. They would except at the end of the existing franchise period to sell extensions of renewal privileges for something like what they are worth. Thus the statement has come to be a commonplace in Detroit, and in all the Michigan press, that of the $17,500,000 demanded by the owners of the Detroit street railroads, $10,000,000 represents the worth of the franchise freely given by the people through their municipal representatives. By some plan of taxation, rental or payment of percentages, the people would expect under future grants to be reimbursed for the value of such franchises.

Cotton Mills in Small Towns.

Mr. D. A. Tompkins, of Charlotte, N. C., is one of the most successful cotton manufacturers in the South, and is doing much to encourage and improve this industry. His book on cotton mill construction and operation, which The Journal recently reviewed, is a very practical work and will prove valuable to the young men of the South who devote themselves to this line of business.

In a recent interview Mr. Tompkins advocates the building of cotton mills in small towns. He believes that this is the surest way to restore prosperity to the cotton districts, and that such mills properly built and managed, will prove excellent investments for their owners or stockholders.

Mr. Tompkins believes that the erection of a cotton mill in a country community will promptly enhance the value of the cotton product of the immediate district by affording a home market for a large portion, if not all of the output of the farms. A home market means the saving of transportation charges, the cost of labor and the profits of the middleman. Moreover, the cotton turned into cloth is worth three times as much in the case of coarse cloth, as the raw material; hence the working into cloth of the raw cotton at home adds the profit and the wages of the mill to the price realized for the raw material.

Another advantage of the local mill is the employment it affords the sons and daughters of the neighboring farmers. This employment adds to the farmers' income and the industrial community which always springs up about a successful mill will furnish a ready market for the minor products of the farms, such as meat, poultry, butter, fruits and vegetables, thus still further adding to the profits of the farmers.

There is much idleness in the country towns of the South, due largely to the lack of paying development. Cotton mills in the small towns would absorb much of this idle labor. Mr. Tompkins contends with good reason that the benefit of a cotton mill to a town is both direct and far-reaching. It gives an air to business and thrift to the locality and the district. Money becomes more plentiful, the roads are improved and a contagious business briskness extends throughout the community. Many towns in both Carolinas have taken on new life since cotton mills were built within their limits. Charlotte, the city of Mr. Tompkins' residence, is said to have doubled in population in about ten years and its remarkable growth is due to the fact that it has become such a large manufacturing center.

Some of the best paying cotton mills in the South are located in Georgia towns, and there is room for many more.—Atlanta Journal.

Very True.

The Roanoke News says, "it certainly appears" to it "that this country is in danger of overdoing the gush business when Dewey returns." Same way here. Hysterical gentlemen whose trousers are out at the seat, and who haven't any meal at home, are ready now to go down in their clothes for their few remaining nickels for a "Dewey home" for a man who is getting a salary of $6,000 a year, or for jeweled swords, which he doesn't need, or banquets which he doesn't want. The redeeming feature of it is that the man in whose honor the gush is to be expended, would run away from it if he could, and he and the well-balanced people of the country will have to stand it as well as they can.—Charlotte Observer.

We Stand by Friends.

Much is being said in some of the papers, especially some of those north and west, in regard to how newspapers should treat people, and hint at the idea of leaving out personals and local gossip as the only way to make money out of a newspaper.

The Durham Sun is not built upon any such foundation. We propose to stand by our friends and don't you forget it. When we have bouquets to toss they will be tossed at friends; when we have favors to bestow they will go to friends; when we can say something nice about a friend we propose to say it—that's us. Of course we want to treat everybody fairly and do no one an injustice; but when we get an opportunity to say a good word for a friend, living or dead, poor or rich, high or low, we are going to say it out loud so all may hear. There may be money in running a paper with colorless personals, funeral and marriage notices of the stereotyped variety, but money is not all there is in life for us. When a good man dies we propose to commend his life; when a hog ceases eating and breathing we will get rid of his carcass by the shortest courteous route. In short our motto is fairness, courtesy and justice to all—appreciation and gratitude to friends. To our enemies—God bless them! The silence of the grave in our columns as to their "envy, hatred and malice" towards us. We are built that way—couldn't help it if we would, wouldn't help it if we could.—Durham Sun.

The Pendulum Must Swing Back.

Sooner or later society must go back to severer methods of punishment if the flood of crime which is daily gaining volume is stayed. All society movements are a series of reactions. In its revulsion from the brutal and unjust treatment that till modern times had been bestowed upon men accused of crime, and the severity of punishment inflicted upon those decreed guilty, society has gone to the other extreme and become too easy. Our humanitarian sentiment has run away with us. Such instances as Jean Val Jean's 18 years at the galleys and his subsequent persecution, for the theft of a loaf of bread for starving children, showed society at one extreme. Society became horrified. The pendulum swung backward. Today it has reached the other extreme, and criminals receive practically no punishment. The pendulum must swing partly back at least, or crime will hold perpetual high carnival. A each swing of the pendulum is weaker than the former one, till the mean is reached, so, perhaps in the future society may become as Shelley describes nature, who

"only knows
 How justly to proportion to the fault
 The punishment it merits."

—Monroe Journal.

The New Jury Law.

Under the new act to regulate the time of drawing jurors a man who has not paid all taxes for the preceding year cannot serve on the jury, says the Salisbury Sun. No matter what qualifications he may otherwise possess his name will not go in the box unless his taxes are paid. The law on the subject is as follows:

"The board of county commissioners for the several counties at their regular meeting on the first Monday in June, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-nine and every two years thereafter shall cause their clerk to lay before them the tax returns of the preceding year for their county, from which they shall proceed to select the names of such persons only as have paid all the taxes assessed against them for the preceding year and are of good moral character and of sufficient intelligence."

Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets.—"beauty" for ten cents. All druggists. satisfaction guaranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c.

A wealthy but absent minded resident of McPherson, Kan., recently bought a safe in which to keep his valuables, and, being unable to remember the combination, scribbled it on the plastering of a nearby wall. Subsequently he ordered a kalsominer to put a new coat on the wall; the memorandum was obliterated, and it became necessary to have the safe blown open.

Largest Meteorite Known.
A meteorite, described as half the size of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, is said to have fallen at Port Alfred, South Africa. It made a hole in the ground 50 feet deep, 120 feet long and 60 feet wide, which would make it the largest known meteorite on record. Being a single piece, apparently, it was probably solid iron, like other meteorites known, some of which have weighed a number of tons, but none of this size is recorded. And yet there is no reason to believe that multitudes very much larger may not be traveling in the celestial spaces; and it is only good luck that prevents our falling in with them. There is no inherent impossibility that a meteorite or little asteroid as large as some of the multitude that revolve between Mars and Jupiter might come within the sphere of the earth's attraction large enough to cover an entire state. They may be even moving in the tracks of comets, although we know perfectly well that the bulk of the material of comets is very inconsiderable and the earth has more than once passed through the tail of a comet without any more effect than a shower of falling stars. What the effect would be of striking the head of a comet we do not yet know.

About Russian Soldiers.
The soldiers of the United States are the best paid and best fed in the world. The wages of a common soldier in Russia are 3 rubles per annum—about $2.25. The rations are, daily, two pounds of suchary, which is a very coarse kind of bread made of cracked rye, baked hard at first, then cut in small pieces and further dried in a heated oven; a small quantity of salt and some soup. The soup is boiled in a huge caldron capable of holding 400 gallons. Into the water is cast some cracked barley, together with the shell dirt, and to this a little salt is added, but nothing of the meat kind enters into the composition. The soup is dealt out by a number of men with dippers, every soldier in his turn receiving his allotted quantity. Sometimes an adventurous fellow presents a larger vessel than the regulations require, and when detected in the effort to get more than his share is punished with 100 lashes on his naked back.

A Cooking School for Men.
A new craze that is spreading in elite circles, both in London and New York, is the cooking school for men. Last summer quite a number were established at the resorts and proved very popular, says the Brooklyn Eagle. It is claimed that "the new departure will seriously interfere with club life and restore a widespread interest in the home on the part of the heads of families." Naturally comparisons are made by the cooking teachers concerning the interest shown by women and men audiences. One careful observer says "the men want to know about the food values, whether peeling a potato is wasting it, and whether oysters or beef-steak excel codfish and beans in amount of nourishment for the money expended, while the women are bent on learning how to make what comes into the house into the most appetizing dishes and the method of measuring and mixing claim their sole attention."

A Submarine Track.
Trains are to cross the English channel without a bridge or tunnel, if a recently proposed scheme can be made to work. It is to build a submarine track 100 feet wide along the bottom from Dover to Calais, and to run a kind of a tower upon it by electricity. The top of the tower would be a platform 500 feet long by 50 feet wide. A little railroad on this principle running between Brighton and Rottingdean has been wrecked more than once by storms. The estimate cost is $70,000,000.

WIN A STOVE!

There is on exhibition at our store a full nickel plated

BUCK'S JUNIOR RANGE

Every little girl wants it, and one little girl shall have it. On the 15th of July we will present it to the little girl under fourteen years of age, who cuts out the greatest number of Buck's Trade Marks in the advertisement below and brings them to our store. They must be done up in neat packages and the number and name written plainly on each package. Now girls get your friends to help you, save every Trade Mark and see who can win the prize.

CUT THIS OUT.

Buck's Trade Mark.

The purpose of this contest is to make this Trade Mark known in every household so that it may never be forgotten. It will be printed in all our advertisements. It is prominently displayed upon every one of Buck's Stoves and Ranges and carries with it the broadest guarantee of excellence. No stove can possibly be made which is better than any one of The Great White Enamel Line. We sell them in preference to all others, and carry a full line of all kinds and sizes. Ask to see Buck's Stoves and Ranges.

Respectfully,
HIGGS & TAFT.
