Only Vigorous Enterprise Effective.

With the establishment of local industries or enterprises, the element of success, and thereby profit, is a most important consideration.

The establishment of an enterprise is not merely a business venture for those engaged in its building, but it is of consequence to every other business enterprise in the community.

The success from a pecuniary point of view of any local enterprise, is not alone important to its promoters, but it is also important to the interests of the community in which it is established that it prove a success in every way, for the failure of any enterprise affects in a community its every industry and business interest.

The non-success or failure of any business venture, or the stopping of any manufacturing enterprise is a cloud upon the trade or the industrial resources of a town or city.

The real and permanent upbuilding of a city, industrially, is only effective where its enterprises, trade or manufacturing, are vigorous ones, which are both founded upon merit, and prosecuted with skill and energy, and a determination to win success for them.

No town wants experimental enterprises, no more than it wants sporadic growth, for both are dangerous to the community's welfare and permanency.

And so it is with every local movement in a community, it wants an intelligent start and a concentrated and a vigorous promotion when once started.

There can be nothing positive or effective of results in a community, individual or enterprise, which has not vigor in its composition.—New Bern Journal.

The real estate assessors are causing a sensation at Wilmington by the large increase in valuation, ranging in many instances from 25 to 100 per cent.

The business men of Goldsboro have inaugurated a Friday half holiday to give themselves and employees a little recreation. From now until the tobacco season opens they will close their places of business at 2 o'clock on Fridays.

The A. C. L. yardmaster, at Rocky Mount, killed a negro Wednesday night. During the day the yardmaster had some words with the negro, and that night the negro waylaid and shot him in the leg. The wounded man returned the fire and killed the negro.

While Mrs. Wash Tart was sitting in the door of her home in the Newton Grove section Friday morning about 7 o'clock, with a child in her arms during a thunder storm, a sudden flash of lightning frightened her so badly that she fell over with the baby and was soon a corpse.—Smithfield Herald.

Mental Pabulum.

It's the business of business to talk business when there isn't any business.

The parable of the sower illustrates modern advertising. "Some seed fell by the wayside." This is good money spent for ads on barns and fences. "Some seed fell on stony ground." This is circulars and handbills. "But some fell on good ground and brought forth, some a hundred fold, some sixty fold, some thirty fold." This is newspaper advertising.

A duck which faithfully stuck to business during the summer and laid several dozens of large fawn colored eggs, complained that she wasn't appreciated. "See that hen over there," said the duck, "she hasn't laid as many eggs as I have, nor as big, but she has books written about her and verses composed in her honor, while nobody is saying a word about me." "The trouble with you is," said a wise rooster that was standing near, "that you don't tell the public what you have done. You lay an egg and waddle off without saying a word, but that sister of mine never lays one without letting everybody in the neighborhood know it. If you want to cut any ice in this community you must learn to advertise."

The refusal of the Indiana State officials to allow the Epworth League convention to be held on the capital lawn has led to a movement to transfer the convention from Indianapolis to Chicago.

PRESIDENT RAGSDALE'S ADDRESS.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, President of the Teachers' Assembly, delivered his address before that body on Wednesday night. We clip from the Raleigh Post the following synopsis of his address:

The annual address to the Assembly was delivered by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, the president, who is the principal of the excellent male academy at Greenville. It is to be regretted that the admirable address of the president cannot be published in its entirety. Prof. Ragsdale said in part:

"I congratulate you that you have met in this the sixteenth annual session, under such favorable auspices. Great meetings have been held at Waynesville, Black Mountain and Asheville, but it is here that we have most often met. Here some of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings have been held and it is here, above all other places in the State that nature has done more to make it an ideal place for the tired and careworn teacher to combine pleasure, recreation and recuperation with the work of this Assembly.

"From here we ought to gather new inspiration for our future labors. I believe I state a self-evident truth tonight when I affirm that a condition confronts us at this meeting of the Assembly which has never before presented itself, and which demands a forward movement that we have not taken before in the educational interest of the State. The agitation along educational lines for the past few years have brought about such a condition that no institution, no educational organization can live without progress. To stand still means to be left in the race, and finally to cease to exist. I repeat that it is a matter of congratulation that in these changed conditions we meet under such favorable auspices. There is nothing of which I am aware to cause even the slightest discordant note in this meeting of the Assembly. There is a growing tendency towards harmony in all educational work, and among all the educational force in the State.

"The discussion of educational problems in North Carolina is producing a silent revolution; a universal change is coming over the spirit of the people, and those who are familiar only with the more obvious phenomena, exhibited alone on the surface, have no idea of the leaven that is working beneath. Comparing ourselves with ourselves, we have done much. We have made long strides forward. We seem, too, to have just reached the beginning of a wonderful progress. It is true, however, that we still stand far below the proud heights to which it was intended that we should attain, and which have nearly been reached by other States and countries, with the deep interest which now pervades every nook and corner in North Carolina along educational lines, and with the new life which seems about to permeate all our efforts in this direction, I have thought it not inappropriate that I should address you tonight upon the subject of expansion or non-expansion, educationally. Which?

"Politically this question is the question of all questions. It may be that this new policy for America, which means unlimited expansion of territory and possessions was born and inaugurated when on that eventful day, May 1st, the fleet of the now world-wide distinguished Admiral Dewey sailed into Manila Bay and almost in the twinkling of an eye utterly destroyed the Spanish fleet of the Pacific squadron. It may not be that this policy was further strengthened and determined upon when our gallant Bagley gave his young life at Cardenas for the glory of the cause.

"What influence recent events may have upon our national policy we may not know, but there can be no doubt as to what late developments in education in North Carolina indicate. There can be no mistaking as the State's policy in respect to every department of education. Expansion, wide, deep lasting, expansion educationally, is now demanded, is borne upon every breeze, and is echoed from every village, hamlet and county home.

"I am glad this is true. I am tired, sorely sick at hearing every year in our educational meetings North Carolina's black page of ignorance compared with her sister States."

The speaker then turned to the brighter side, the hopeful view of broader and increased education in the State, indicating, as he said, "a desire upon the part of all for a healthy expansion." Higher, secondary and primary education was discussed with much force.

Concluding, the speaker said: "I assert with emphasis that there are more students in the colleges in the State today than there have ever been before in its history. There has also been an increase of 33 1/2 per cent. in the past six years. It is true also that this increase has been made in the face of low prices for all products and political dissensions and distractions.

"The requirements now for degrees are such that their graduates stand in the forefront with the alumni of the best colleges in the land, and are equally equipped for the battles of life. There has been a gradual elevation of students all the way from matriculation to graduation, and there is no North Carolinian today familiar with the requirements and work of these higher institutions of learning who does not feel a pride in them and who is not ready to give his best efforts for their continued prosperity.

"A signal indication of the spirit of progress of our work is that it is favored by both the secular and religious press. The lever which moves the mind of thought is the printing press. Be it said to our encouragement in the present instance and to the hopefulness of the cause, that the press of North Carolina is a unit for popular education.

"All parties of the day, numerous as they are, formed as some are of such heterogeneous elements all favor this one thing—more schools and better schools. Never was there stronger proof of the sentiment of the people in respect to popular education.

"I would not fail to mention another and the first indication of its kind that we have had that we are to go forward, that expansion is now our policy. It is the appropriation of $100,000 by the last General Assembly for the public schools of the State."

The past week is one in which great destruction has been wrought by cyclones that swept with fury over sections of the country. Our own State in the vicinity of Statesville, Salisbury, Thomasville and other places suffered greatly, but this is small in comparison with the terrible work of the storm out West. Nebraska and Wisconsin seem to have suffered more than any other States. Out there several towns were almost wiped off the face of the earth and in addition to the great destruction of property hundreds of lives were lost. Near Thomasville, in our own State, the devastation was so great that many families are destitute and an appeal for help has been made.

Not a Walk-over.

After driving the insurgents into the mountains in the north of the island of Luzon, we find our troops fighting them again near the starting point, the vicinity of Manila. The insurgents appear to have slipped back, recaptured or taken possession of all the captured towns, and to be at present putting up a stiff fight around the chief city of the islands—so stiff a fight, indeed, that more troops are ordered to the Philippines and a call for volunteers is being considered. We began by shooting down the poorly-equipped heathen "like jack rabbits," as a Kansas soldier expressed it, and by mowing down with our artillery great masses of the naked Igorotes, who opposed the batteries with primeval bows and arrows. Now, however, we find that the Filipinos have adopted and adapted our methods of warfare with wonderful rapidity, and in the battle yesterday, in which we appear to have really met with a reverse, judging even from the severely censored report which comes to us, the enemy used artillery, some of their home-made canister playing havoc with our troops. Gen. Otis vaguely cables our loss at "some thirty." But we were in a bad fix for a while, Gen. Lawton and other officers having to rally the men, who appear to have been on the point of making a break. At another time they had to "cut their way out" of a desperate situation. It is pleasing, however, to see Gen. Otis so hopeful. He cables that he does not think the enemy will ever be bold enough to make a further stand. Of course not. In despair over their recent successes, they will doubtless surrender at once.

But worse far than the Filipino, is the tropical sun. Admiral Dewey is sailing home a physical wreck. Capt. Nichols, of the Monadnock, has just died of sun-stroke. Colonel Smith, of the Thirteenth Infantry, has applied to be retired, having been overcome with the heat, and if the officers suffer so, what about the boys in the trenches? The War Department is trying to solve the problem of sending colored troops to the Philippines, two negro regiments having been ordered there yesterday.

It seems a pity to throw away the lives of our young men—the flower of American youth—in the subjugation and conquest of alien territory, and then not be certain that we are succeeding.—Charlotte Observer.

The above figures tell a remarkable story; they represent almost exactly the per centage of cures made by the wonderful new constitutional cure for RHEUMATISM. The other two per cent. were not curable, or failed to take medicine according to directions. Thousands have been cured. In view of the fact that many physicians think that rheumatism is incurable, and that most remedies fail, it must be true that RHEUMACIDE is the greatest medical discovery of the age. WINE OF CARDUI

MONTHLY SUFFERING.

Thousands of women are troubled at monthly intervals with pains in the head, back, breasts, shoulders, sides, hips and limbs. But they need not suffer.

These pains are symptoms of dangerous derangements that can be corrected. The menstrual function should operate painlessly.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

makes menstruation painless, and regular. It puts the delicate menstrual organs in condition to do their work properly. And that stops all this pain. Why will any woman suffer month after month when Wine of Cardui will relieve her? It costs $1.00 at the drug store. Why don't you get a bottle to-day?

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, "The Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Mrs. ROSENA LEWIS, of Greenville, Texas, says:
"I was troubled at monthly intervals with terrible pains in my head and back, but have been entirely relieved by Wine of Cardui."

Getting to the Front.

The business competition of these booming days has become so tremendous in power and scope that it requires the most aggressive tactics to enable the ambitious merchant to keep pace with his rivals. He must not recede; he may not even stand still. "Let well enough alone" is not the proper motto for him. Energy, courage and perseverance in the management of his establishment, and especially in the matter of good newspaper advertising, are the qualities which enable him to reach and maintain a position in the forefront of the procession of successful men.—Philadelphia Record.

TYPE AND PRESS.
WHO WANTS IT?
SPEAK QUICK.

THE REFLECTOR recently purchased two printing office outfits and has a quantity of surplus material that will be sold cheap. There is a cylinder press large enough to print a nine column paper, in splendid condition, and a quantity of Small Pica, Long Primer, Brevier and Nonpariel body type. We can furnish a complete outfit large enough for a six or seven column paper.

Specimens of the body type are shown in this advertisement, the type being taken from the case just as it runs, so it shows for itself how well it prints. This is the Small Pica size of which there is 1 pair of cases.

Then here is a paragraph set from the Long Primer size. We have 4 pairs of these cases. In buying this type you do not get something that is worn out and cast aside, but a good serviceable type, capable of much wear.

Here is something a little smaller, Brevier size. There are 2 pairs of these and it is a bargain for somebody interested in printing. It may not come but once in a lifetime that an opportunity is given for buying type as cheap as we will sell these lots.

Again we have 1 pair of cases of this Nonpariel size, a very useful type in any printing office. Cases will be sold with the type of all sizes. Any printer who can use any or all of this type can make us a spot cash offer. While we prefer a customer for a whole outfit, press and type, one case of type will be sold if no more is wanted.

BUCK'S JUNIOR RANGE

Every little girl wants it, and one little girl shall have it. On the 15th of July we will present it to the little girl under fourteen years of age, who cuts out the greatest number of Buck's Trade Marks in the advertisement below and brings them to our store. They must be done up in neat packages and the number and name written plainly on each package. Now girls get your friends to help you, save every Trade Mark and see who can win the prize.

They Get Along Somehow.

The Lord loves a cheerful giver. He'll take care of the editor. He has a charter from the State to act as a door mat for the community. He will get the paper out somehow, and stand up for the town, and whoop it up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon-toed daughter's tackey wedding, and blow about your big-footed son when he gets a four-dollar-a-week job, and weep over your shriveled soul when it is released from its gasping body, and smile at your wife's second marriage. Don't worry about the editor; he'll get along. The Lord only knows how—but somehow.—From the Hartwell Sun.
