JOYNER CONFESSES.

The Negro says he Killed Bob Turnage.

Elijah Joyner says that he, and he alone, killed Robert Turnage and robbed his store at Dongola, Pitt county, some three months ago, and then burned the building to hide his crime.

"I did it solely to get money," he added. "For God knows I had nothing ag'in' Mr. Bob."

This confession was made Wednesday morning in the county jail to Mr. W. J. Turnage, brother of the murdered man, and Mr. Theodore L. Turnage, his uncle and owner of the store that was robbed and burned.

"I went to the store at night," Joyner told them, holding his head down and only glancing up now and then as he related his horrible story. "You know I worked there, feeding horses and waiting on Mr. Bob. Well, I went there late that night and I called him up to get the keys. He got up and let me in. He was just lighting the lamp and standing with his back to me when I knocked him down with a stick and cut his throat.

"I didn't do it to hurt him. I did it to get money. I heard there was $2,000 in the safe, but I didn't get but $7. That I got out of a money drawer near a spool cotton case. I tried to open the other money drawer, but couldn't. I also tried to get into the safe, where it was said there was the $2,000, but I failed. I had made a key that I thought would open the safe.

"No goods were taken by me. I only wanted money. I had planned this robbery for sometime, and to cover it up or prevent suspicion I had borrowed money from Jim Scarboro, a negro who keeps a store at Farnville. I told him about my key and my plan to rob the store. He wanted his money back and I undertook the robbery."

Asked why, in his former confessions he had implicated so many others, Joyner replied that he did it to save himself; that he knew if he told the truth he would be lynched at once. By implicating others he would cause conflicting statements, create doubt as to the guilt of some and thereby prevent the lynching of any.

The negro went into no further details in his confession. He is, however, writing it out in full. It will be addressed to the court.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Scarboro was arrested Thursday and given a hearing before B. M. Lewis, J. P. For want of some witnesses the case was continued until sometime about September court. He was required to give a justified bond in the sum of $200, which he had failed to do.

Just received, prettiest line Belt Buckles of theseason, Collar Clasps to match. Cheap.

NOTICE.

All persons living in the town of Greenville, who have not listed their taxes are hereby notified that they can do so at any time between now and the first of August before the town clerk. All who fail to list by that time will be dealt with according to law. By order of the Board of Aldermen.

D. J. WHICHARD, Town Clerk. July 21, 1899.

STILL THEY COME.

Crowd at the Springs Daily Increasing.

Seven Springs, N. C. July 19.—It looks like a fourth of July crowd at the springs now, so many people are here. Today's arrivals added just thirty one to the number already here, and every mail brings letters from others giving notice that they will be here in a few days. Proprietor Smith is taking care of the large crowd handsomely.

Among those who came today were Mrs T. J. Turner and Miss Olivia Waters, of New Bern; T. L. Lane, Thomas Perrett, Jr., D. S. Hines, J. C. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Smith, of Faison, C. A. Thompson, T. M. Anderson, Mrs. W. P. Anderson, Miss Studie Gay, Charlie Gay, of Wilson; Mrs. J. F. Taylor, Miss Nannie LaRogue, of Kinston; Dr. J. M. Hadley, of LaGrange; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Smith, of Beaufort; S. P. Collier, Jr., and bride, and Mrs. S. P. Collier, Sr., of Wilmington; Mrs. M. B. Aycock, Mr. Louise Borden, of Black Creek.

Those here who have been visiting Seven Springs before, say this is the most charming and delightful season they have ever known here.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

M. S. Brown, a clothing merchant of Savannah, has filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy. His assets are stated by him to be about $15,000 and his liabilities about $17,000.

Mrs. Annie McGuire, white, and Anna Cook, colored, of Savannah, have died as a consequence of two stove explosions. In each case the women started to light the fire in the stove with kerosene oil.

The Philadelphia base ball club has offered a prize of $5,000 to the players if they win the pennant this year, and $2,500 if they finish second.

Halifax, N. S., July 19.—The Gloucester schooner Hattie E. Worcester, has been wrecked at Sable Island. The fate of twelve of her crew is in doubt.

Lockjaw, the result of running a rusty nail in his foot, caused the death of Justice of the Peace Cyrus B. Kelly, at Trout Run, Lycoming County, Pa.

Eleven-year-old Michael Metro, of Cranberry, Luzerne County, Pa., who hurt his fingers under the hammer of a revolver on the Fourth, is dying of lockjaw.

While attempting to jump from a moving freight train at Roanoke, Va., yesterday, Joseph Harris was killed.

The North Atlantic squadron is at Narragansett Pier, R. I., where it will spend two days at target practice.

Four of the large boiler shops in Chicago, Ill., have granted their striking employes 30 cents an hour and an eight-hour day.

Jacob Fuloner, a brakeman on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was knocked off a train on a trestle in Jersey City, N. J., yesterday and killed.

If we could only emulate the patience of the fly that sits all day on the outside of the window screen waiting for an opportunity to get in, our success in life would be assured.

FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1899.

THE DYNAMITE DRUMMER.

Some of the Inconveniences of Traveling With a Line of Samples.

The little man who had scribbled illegibly on the St. James register bore an innocuous name. It was Pink Firkin, New York, that he spelled out somewhat laboriously. He bore also an innocuous appearance. He was not more than five feet in height, with slim frame narrow shoulders and eyes of the mildest and most appealing blue. His spirit was timid—for, in fact, when he was addressed he gave a little start of fright.

Notwithstanding all this, Pink Firkin is a dangerous man. This dangerousness rises not from the inward man, but from his occupation. When he stepped up to the desk to put his name on the register it was with the most painstaking care that he placed upon the marble counter a little black bag which he carried in his left hand. It was a little bag, black, rusty, innocuous-looking, like its owner, bearing the initials P. F., N. Y. But Pink Firkin handled it as if it were the most valuable thing in the world. Carefully, gently, he placed it by his side, and between almost every letter he wrote he looked out of the corner of his eye at the little black bag to see if it were really there. As he wrote "N. Y." he put out his left hand and rested it upon the satchel to make sure that it had not been moved.

"Dynamite," said Mr. Firkin, with a faint smile. "My firm in New York makes the best dynamite in the world—goes off at the slightest touch—especially in hot weather. Great hot weather stuff. Want to see some?" inquired the drummer, his professional training getting the upper hand. He took the satchel in his hand with some roughness, and the professional lounge set himself in position for a quick sprint. Nothing happened, and the lounge hastily disavowed any interest in dynamite.

"Yes, it is a ticklish profession," smiled the traveling gentleman, as he shoved the satchel under the lounge where he had invited the interrogator to sit and chat with him. "A little dangerous and inconvenient—yes, deuced inconvenient at times. We have to be careful," and his eyes wore a hunted look.

"But we get paid for it—we get paid for it. You would not believe that I get the biggest salary of any man on the road, but I do. It is a big risk, and we have to lay up something. The companies will not insure us.

He grasped a thin knee in both hands as he crossed his legs, and continued:

"That is not the worst of it. Inconvenient. Traveling around with this stuff exposes us to all sorts of discourtesies from hotel managements. Sometimes we can't get rooms in a town for love or money, for people won't have the stuff in the house, and the guests come in a body and complain when they find out that one of us is registered. There are only three in my line, you know. Under those circumstances, as we dare not leave our samples, the police station is the only recourse. I'm registered as a 'sleeper' in a good number of towns in this vicinity."

He paused a minute for this statement to take effect. "Then there are the railroads to buck up against. Some of them have rules against carrying explosives. Sometimes I get caught, and then off I go at the next station, or sometimes between stations, and I have to foot it the rest of the way. I am not particularly fond of railroad travel at any rate. With the cargo I carry a wreck is something to be afraid of. Even the jarring of the cars on a rough road makes me so uncomfortable that I have to take up my satchel and pace the aisle to reduce the shock.

"The one thing that I fear is a wreck. If I ever get into one it means good-bye to Pink Firkin. Just imagine that stuff going off underneath you." Both men on the seat shuddered. The prospect disturbed the lounge, who beat a hasty retreat.—Denver Republican.

Lived on Grass for 18 Days.

Vancouver, B. C., July 10.—William Edwards, a miner hailing from New York, is in the Rossland Hospital, a living example of the astounding fact that a man can eat grass as an exclusive diet for eighteen days and live to tell the tale.

Edwards was employed to do some work on Sophie Mountain, a very wild part of British Columbia. He camped on the mountain with two companions. His companions left him alone for the day and Edwards thought he would clamber up the mountain side for a short distance. He could not find his way back to camp. He struck a trapper's empty cabin and slept there for the first night. For the next three nights and days he wandered listlessly in a circle, always coming back to the empty cabin. On the third night he killed a beaver by tumbling down a huge rock on it. He screamed aloud with joy as he fell on the ground to tear it to pieces. As a monster cougar stalked up to his prostrate form and sniffed at him Edwards screamed with fear, and in his crazy rage and fright struck the beast in the face with his fist. The cougar snarled viciously, made a grab at the freshly killed beaver clutched in Edwards' hand and made off with it. Edwards prepared for the end and made his will.

Grass, roots and weeds made up his diet during the rest of these awful eighteen days and nights, half the time of which Edwards crawled on the ground. On the eighteenth day his toes were off his bleeding feet, his clothes in rags, barely covering his almost bare bones. Edwards was again visited by the cougar, who sat on his haunches blinking at the dying man, evidently waiting for him to shuffle off before he devoured him, but toward evening the cougar pricked up his ears, sniffed the ground and dashed off in the darkness. The animal scented another human being this time with a gun. Edwards shouted feebly, and before many minutes William McQuarry, a trapper was bending over Edwards with a whiskey flask.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Steady. Steady there! Men are capable of being stamped; the human is but little superior to the brute in this respect. It is an old dodge that the warehouse trust promoters are trying to work in North Carolina. They are reporting that they have secured the entire businesses of several towns in order to influence the warehousemen at other places to an easy surrender. From all accounts the promoters have been able as yet to get but few scattered options on warehouse properties in this State. It is not true that Winston nor Wilson, for example, have been completely captured. Winston, we know, turned a deaf ear to every proposition, and would have none of it. Keep your heads, warehousemen, and keep your warehouses, too, if you desire to do what will be best for you. Tell the five-per-cent. gentlemen to move on when they approach you.—Winston Tobacco Journal.

THE YARN IS 25 PER CENT. STRONGER.

Test of the Roundlap Cotton Bale in New England Mills.

Mr. Wm. C. Lovering, a leading New England Cotton manufacturer says:

The Roundlap bale of the American Cotton Company continues to win favor with the manufacturers of New England as well as with the spinners of Europe. You can readily understand why this should be so, in view of the saving, and of the fact that after making a very thorough investigation in one of my mills last summer I found that the average breaking strain of yarn spun from this bale is about 25 per cent. greater than the strength of the yarn spun from the old bale."

Penalty of Absent-Mindedness.

A wealthy but absent-minded resident of McPherson, Kan., recently bought a safe in which to put his valuables and being unable to remember the combination scribbled it on the plastering of a nearby wall. Subsequently he ordered a calciminer to put a new coat on the wall. The memorandum was obliterated and it became necessary to have the safe blown open.

BLOOD TELLS. RHEUMACIDE. Thousands have been cured. The summer season is the best time to take a rheumatic remedy. Nature will then aid the medicine in effecting a permanent constitutional cure.

TYPE AND PRESS. WHO WANTS IT? SPEAK QUICK.

THE REFLECTOR recently purchased two printing office outfits and has a quantity of surplus material that will be sold cheap. There is a cylinder press large enough to print a nine column paper, in splendid condition, and a quantity of Small Pica, Long Primer, Brevier and Nonpareil body type. We can furnish a complete outfit large enough for a six or seven column paper.

Specimens of the body type are shown in this advertisement, the type being taken from the case just as it runs, so it shows for itself how well it prints. This is the Small Pica size of which there is 1 pair of cases.

Then here is a paragraph set from the Long Primer size. We have 4 pairs of these cases. In buying this type you do not get something that is worn out and cast aside, but a good serviceable type, capable of much wear.

Here is something a little smaller, Brevier size. There are 2 pairs of these and it is a bargain for somebody interested in printing. It may not come but once in a lifetime that an opportunity is given for buying type as cheap as we will sell these lots.

Again we have 1 pair of cases of this Nonpareil size, a very useful type in any printing office. Cases will be sold with the type of all sizes. Any printer who can use any or all of this type can make us a spot cash offer. While we prefer a customer for a whole outfit, press and type, one case of type will be sold if no more is wanted.

WINE OF CARDUI
FOR ALL WOMEN
 NINE-TENTHS of all the pain and sickness from which women suffer is caused by weakness or derangement in the organs of menstruation. Nearly always when a woman is not well these organs are affected. But when they are strong and healthy a woman is very seldom sick.
 It is nature's provision for the regulation of the menstrual function. It cures all "female troubles." It is equally effective for the girl in her teens, the young wife with domestic and maternal cares, and the woman approaching the period known as the "Change of Life." They all need it. They are all benefited by it.
 For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
THOS. J. COOPER, Tupelo, Miss., says:
 "My sister suffered from very irregular and painful menstruation and doctors could not relieve her. Wine of Cardui entirely cured her and also helped my mother through the Change of Life."

Concerts by the Orphans.

On next Tuesday night, July 25th, a chapter of orphans—eleven girls and three boys—under the management of Mrs. Kate Hayes Fleming and Will X. Coley, of the Oxford Orphan Asylum, will give a concert for the benefit of that institution in Greenville at the opera house. These young people have been carefully trained so that every one who attends will get more than his money's worth, while aiding in a noble charity. Seats will be on sale Saturday morning at H. M. Hardee's store. Admission: 35 cents for reserved seats, 25 cents general admission and 15 cents for children.

They are thinking of forming a trust to control thunder storms.

FAIL TO SECURE OPTIONS.

Met With Success in Henderson, it is Said.

Oxford tobacco warehousemen have refused to give options on their warehouses to representatives of the warehouse combination or trust says an Oxford correspondent of the News and Observer.

Mr. C. D. Noel, of Danville, Va., a director in the Danville Warehouse Trust, was here last Saturday closeted with the warehousemen of this plate, but it is reported he failed to get options. Friday Mr. S. H. Woodard, another combine promoter, was here, but left without being able to secure a single option.

It is reported that options have been secured on all the warehouses in Henderson.

It is not believed that the American Tobacco Company is behind the trust, and many think it will fall through. Rumors come from Danville Warehouse combine has not been sold; that the promoters are in New York now trying to place it, and have promised the warehousemen of whom they bought that they will let them hear for a certainty by July 15th. If the Danville Combine falls through all this warehouse trust option taking in North Carolina, will be a vision of the past, leaving disappointed promoters.

It is a positive fact that the Warehousemen in Oxford have not given their options, and wish to know what they are up against before they ever do so.

If the American Tobacco Company are not behind the warehouse trust, our warehousemen do not dread them and will continue their business as in the past.—Oxford Ledger.

JULY JUMPS IN

And Brings New Notes Along.

Weldon will have a fair this fall.

White Piques, new styles, all qualities. H. M. HARDEE.

Fresh Butter, Cheese and Shredded Coco nut at S. M. Schultz's.

The second summer month is slipping away rapidly.

Now is the time to treat your sweetheart—at ten cents a saucer.

Boy pants, just received, 4 to 16 from 10 cents to $1.00.

H. M. HARDEE.

There was a large picnic today at Forbes' school house about four miles from town.

Don't forget you laundry. Leave your packages at H. M. Hardee's Store.

There is even a trust on peanuts but, thank goodness watermelons are free from combines.

You know the best when you see it. That is our kind.

JUST FOR FUN.

Freckles are epidemic.

A fellow's bound to feel sheepish when he has the wool pulled over his eyes.

Some men who believe in the "missing link" idea raise an awful howl when their cuff buttons can't be found.

"A man makes a mistake," says the Manayunk Philosopher, "when he thinks he can cut a dash by cutting all his friends."

Hoax—"That's a fine tree you have in front of the house." Joax—"Yes; we've named it our family tree." "By George! it is shady, isn't it?"

"I haven't the heart to do it," wailed the tender-hearted poker player when his designs on the pot were frustrated by the absence of a card necessary to fill out a flush.

The Case of Henry Gilmore.

The physicians who are attending Henry Gilmore, the negro who was struck by lightning on the Kirkpatrick plantation, tell us that in all probability he will recover from his dreadful wounds. It is a remarkable case, probably without a parallel. Gilmore says that he was standing under the cherry tree holding a pair of mules with his left hand and had just placed his right hand on Mr. Murdock's shoulder when he lost consciousness.

Now the bolt of lightning first struck Murdock, passed through his body, killing him instantly, then it entered Gilmore, through his right arm, going down his right side to his foot, back again, cross his chest, down his left side to his foot, up again and out of his left arm into the mules, both of which died instantly. Though this mysterious current left fearful scars on Gilmore's body, he was conscious in a few hours and is now on the way to recovery.—Fayetteville Observer.
