ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS.

Made by The Orange Va. Observer.

The seat of egotism is conceit. The noblest work of the creator is an honest politician.

By far the most deceiving drink is soda taken with a wink.

The easiest thing in the world to find fault with is a newspaper.

'Tis better to eat bread alone than it is to run in debt for the butter.

When one man calls another a liar all the indications point to a strike.

No law has ever been passed which prevents a sensible man from playing the fool.

The Lord gets the worst of the bargain when some people join the church.

Some people find it easier to take things as they go than to take them as they come.

A pretty girl hanging on our arm is a form of capital punishment to which we offer no objection.

Many an Orange boy yearns to reach "man's estate," especially when it belongs to his best girl's father.

A man's bank account covers up a multitude of sins in this world, but it will be a gauzy affair in the next.

Two lovers folded in each other's arms are the sweet meets of life—and a good protection against the kissing bug.

Man wants but little here below to carry him through life, unless he stops to take aboard some other fellow's wife.

When a woman gets stirred up about having a new dress made she always has an attack of "delirium trimmings."

Industry, not idleness; harmony, not hatred; energy, not enervation; co-operation, not coldness, are the elements needed to build up a town.

An Orange man when courting used to boast that he had a "boss" girl; now that he is married, he finds that he has a "boss" wife, but he never mentions it.

Set The Pace.

It should be the desire and ambition of every property owner to make his premises the neatest, most attractive and inviting in the neighborhood. As an exchange says, it will not cost you much to have shrubbery and flowers in your yard. It costs less to keep your lawns cut and the weeds killed about your place, and especially if you want your home to look handsome. Keep the weeds and grass cut on the outside of your place. The sidewalk and street are to your home what the hall is to your residence—the first to be seen. Did you ever know a good housewife to sweep the dirt from her rooms and leave it in the hall? No more should you throw all your rubbish into the street and gutters. Do not wait for council and street committees to cut the weeds or clean your walks, but do a little yourself. Try this plan and others will imitate you and you will be astonished at the result.

Silver plated child's set—Knife, Fork and Spoon, bought at sacrifice sale. We run at the very low price of 25 cents per set.

SATURDAY, JULY 29, 1899.

Since Alger has got out where he can talk he is telling how he did in planning to send the Spanish prisoners back home from Santiago.

A Louisiana mob who were hunting for a rape fiend came upon an innocent lunatic negro in the woods and shot him to death. Another evidence that mob law is dangerous and lynching should be avoided.

From all the tobacco towns in the State where the trust was trying to get hold of the warehouse comes the news that the undertaking has resulted in failure. That is good news. Down with trusts, anyway!

Water is sometimes more effective than bullets. Up in Binghampton, N. Y., a mob wanted to lynch some negro murderers. They had gathered about the jail and were attempting to get in to the prisoner's cell when the sheriff turned loose a stream of water on them from a large hose. It did not take long to soak out the crowd.

Georgia mobs are not only making it warm for bad negroes in that State, but are looking after Mormon elders as well. In Jasper county where Mormons had been proselyting people a mob of fifty masked men took them from the elders and rode off with them. The elders have not been heard from since. This lynching business is being lamentably overworked in Georgia.

"The Last of Col. Ingersol" is the heading to the press account of the cremation of his body. Pity but what this were true. Yet, alas, it is not the last of the noted infidel. Years must elapse before the poison hespread in the world can be eradicated, indeed if it can be while his memory lasts. It were good for many if his memory and teachings could have been cremated with his body.

LOST.—Many golden opportunities have been lost by those who suffer from rheumatism. By taking Rheumacide now they will be permanently and positively cured.

Beauty is Blood Deep. Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets,—beauty for ten cents. All druggists, satisfaction guaranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c.

We hope the steps taken at the recent session of the North Carolina Press Association to organize a Democratic Press Association will be followed to a culmination of the purpose in view. Such an organization will prove of value to the party and should also result in benefit to the editors of the Democratic press. As a rule, the politicians go off duty as soon as a campaign has ended and remain at rest until the call is sounded for another contest. No so with the partisan editor. He watches while the army rests and gives the alarm of approaching dangers—his duties are perpetual, and hence it is important that these sentinels upon the watch towers should be equipped with the advantages that accrue from organization. Let the North Carolina Democratic Press Association be organized as early as practicable, so that the Democratic Press Association be organized to champion the people's interests in the stupendous conflict that must be fought next year.—Winston-Sentinel.

To Cure Constipation Forever. Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic, 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

A Hawaiian Temple of Refuge. Kawaihae's one remaining point of interest is the ruins, back on the hill, of a temple of refuge built by Kamehameha the Great. It is the very last of the heiaus, where in the old days, during strife, the peaceful sought and obtained immunity from harm—for into these temples a man might not pursue an enemy. This ruin indicates a very substantial structure, in parallelogram form, about 220 feet long by 100 wide. Entrance is gained through a narrow passage between two high walls, and the interior is laid off in terraces and paved with smooth, flat stones. The wall up hill is 8 feet high, and on the down hill side 20 feet high, and both are 12 feet thick at base.—Caspar Whitney in Harper's Weekly.

See How Long You Will Live. There is a very simple rule for finding the average number of years which persons of any age may expect to live. If the present age be deducted from 80, two-thirds of the remainder is the answer required. This result is not absolutely accurate, but it is near enough. For instance, a man aged 20 might by this rule expect to live 40 years longer, which is just what the latest actuarial tables give. At 40 the expectation of life works out at nearly 27 years, while the tables give it as more than 25 years. At 60 the above rule allows just over 13 years, and the table shows a little less.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents. Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

Was His Own Doctor. "For towering nerve," said a chief of division in one of the departments, "a young sun down doctor, attached to my force here, is the limit. He took three days' leave last week, and when he returned to the office he brought with him a doctor's certificate. It was signed by himself: 'This is to certify that Umptara Jones (here he inserted his name) has been under my professional care for the past three days,' etc. He submitted it to me without batting an eye, and he looked real hurt and down at the mouth when I told him he couldn't make that kind of a game stick."—Washington Post.

She Insisted. "Did that man to whom you were just talking say your affairs were mismanaged?" asked Mr. Meekton's wife severely. "Now, Henrietta, that was simply a little aside. It wasn't intended for your ears at all!"—"I insist!"—"Oh, well, if you insist; he didn't say my affairs were mismanaged! He said they were Mrs. managed!"—Washington Star.

An Amusing Freak. The Fat Woman—That living skeleton is a great humorist, isn't he? The Dog Faced Boy—Yes, he's got a lot of funny bones.—Kansas City Independent.

He Lives in California and is a Jack of All Trades. In one of Frank R. Stockton's amusing stories there is a character of a jack-of-all-trades and general utility man, who is good at everything. He can do anything, from building a house to a hencoop, and is just as handy in most other lines as in that of carpenter.

Mr. Stockton might have got the material for this character from a man who lives in National City, Cal., says the Philadelphia Times. He is willing to do anything from nursing a sick person to building a church. There is no sort of work in which he will not engage if paid for it, and he is versatile enough to make himself useful in pretty nearly anything he undertakes. That he is clever, not only with his hands, but with his pen, is proved by the following advertisement, which he inserted in a newspaper in his town: THE ORIGINAL HANDY MAN! Still lives and loves to labor. Makes Door and Window Screens, Files Saws, Sharpens Cutlery and Fits Keys. Repairs and Polishes Furniture, Makes Store Fixtures and Does General Jobbing. He is at home in the sick room to offer consolation to those who mourn, and patiently nurses by day or night the sick in body. God bless the Handy man and keep him safe. He may be found at his old knoll on Street 8, near Avenue 2. N. B.—Makes a specialty of Church and Schoolhouse work.

Engineer of a Fast Train Receives a Fright Which He Can't Forget. "The nervous strain on the engineer of a fast train is something enormous," said one of them the other day, reports the Detroit Free Press. "Not only the lives of the passengers are at stake, but there is the constant fear of running over someone on the track. An accident, no matter how innocent the engineer, is always a kind of hoodoo. What was my first accident? I shall never forget it. It had been traced on my mind with a streak of lightning it couldn't have made a more lasting impression. "It happened one bright moonlight night in November. We were spinning over the rails at full speed across the country where there were few people passing at that time of night, when I looked out and saw the figure of a man lying across the track not ten feet in front of the engine. I stopped quick as possible, but too late, of course. We had run over him, and the lifeless body was under the wheels. We got out to look for him, and found his hat, a piece of his coat sleeve and one of his shoes, but the rest seemed to be further back under the train. I backed up the engine and got out to look again. There lay the body. I nearly fainted when I saw its distorted form. I felt like a murderer. Did I know the man? No, not personally. He was a scarecrow from a neighboring corn field."

THE ORIGINAL HANDY MAN. He Lives in California and is a Jack of All Trades. In one of Frank R. Stockton's amusing stories there is a character of a jack-of-all-trades and general utility man, who is good at everything. He can do anything, from building a house to a hencoop, and is just as handy in most other lines as in that of carpenter. MARK TWAIN'S STUTTER. Joseph Hatton Discusses His Pleasant Impediment. Joseph Hatton, in his "Cigarette Papers," thus breezily writes of America's humorist: "Do you recall what a pleasant, tantalizing stutter Mark Twain has? It is really not a stutter, nor a stammer, but just a drawl and a hesitation. Charles Lamb's was a real stutter. Lord Dunsyre's was a good imitation. "The most captivating impediment was that of Mr. Travers, of New York. 'Why, Mr. Travers,' said a lady, 'you stammer more in New York than you did in Baltimore.' 'B—b—bigger place,' stammered Travers. 'A chestnut!' you say? Well, what of it? There are chestnuts and chestnuts. If you have heard Mark Twain lecture, you know with what effect he uses his little peculiarity of speech. The point that broke the general titter into a hearty laugh when first he appeared in town was concerning that very cold mountain in Fiji, where, he said, 'it is so cold up there that people can't speak the truth.' When the audience had done smiling, he added: 'I know because I have been there.' The wit of a story should be in the tail; American humor has often the peculiar artfulness of a double-hinged tail; and you get two laughs instead of one."

The Heart of the Matter. When our Lord said, through Nicodemus, to all sinful men: "Ye must be born again," He sounded the keynote for all successful effort for the elevation of humanity. Men cannot be made pure in heart by hedging them about with restrictions; they cannot be made unselfish and loving and God-fearing by law or by a mere change of environment. Reform movements that do not have their root in spiritual regeneration can only deal with the outer crust of things, leaving the great problem of life still untouched.—N. Y. Examiner.

The Will. It is God's desire not to break our wills, but to direct them. If we yield gracefully He leads us gently through green pastures and by still waters. But if we are stubborn and will not bend, if needs be He will send a tumultuous storm over the soul until, finally, the blind pilot, Self-will, is thrown, crushed and bleeding, from his self-assumed post, and the rightful Master drives the tempest-tossed bark from the shoals where it was so nearly stranded.

How the Clever Girl Won a Bet From the Dude. "Cholly," remarked Mr. Fitznoodle Flashington, with something that might have been taken for a gleam of intelligence tinting his vacuous face, "if you want to meet clevah girls go down and spend a month at one of those southern resorts."

"Ah they great, old chap?" inquired Cholly as he flicked the ash from his cigarette. "Rawthah. I met a girl down at one of 'em that beat any girl I evah met befoah. What that girl didn't know wasn't worth knowing, old man; deuced clevah, really."

"How did she show it, me boy?" "Well, theahs a pier down there with a bathing float attached to the end of it. The float, ye know, lay about six feet below the end of the pier, quite a drop, ye know. One night I was talking to the girl on the veranda, and I suggested that the pier offered an opportunity for a good bicycle ride if it weren't for the danger of dropping off the end and taking a tumble of six feet to the float below. The girl looked at me and said that even if one did strike the float it wouldn't mattah. 'Why, I'll ride down heah and out on the raft,' she said. 'You aren't!' I replied. She turned up her nose and asked me what I'd bet. I bet her twenty-five dollahs and a box of flowerers. She told me to be out theah in the morning and I'd see her do it. I was theah bright and eahly. And blow my eyes, old man, she did do it!" "Why, wasn't she hurt, me boy?" "Not a bit. The tide had raised the float to a level with the pier, and at the end she just rolled out upon it on her wheel. Deuced clevah, wasn't it?" —Detroit Free Press.

Strange Feats of Eye and Hand. An expert who prided himself upon the smallness of his writing sent the president of the French academy a grain of wheat on which he had written 221 words. A Polish poet wrote all of Homer's "Iliad" on a piece of paper which could be rolled up small enough to go into a nutshell. In the sixteenth century a man named Mark offered to Queen Elizabeth a gold chain of 50 links. The chain was so fine it could not be seen unless it was put on a sheet of white paper. To prove its lightness Mark tied it to a fly, which flew away with it. The most curious fact in this matter, which required so extraordinary a facility of touch for making this ornament, was that Mark was a blacksmith, accustomed to all kinds of heavy tools all day long. A Spaniard, Joseph Faba, made a carriage as large as a grain of wheat. Under a magnifying glass it was possible to see the interior fitted up with seats, every detail being carried out to perfection.—Kansas City Journal.

IN MEMORY OF LELIA BELLE CLARK.
It has been said that death loves a smiling mark, and this saying was demonstrated on June 26th, when the angel of death visited the home of A. F. and Emma Clark, and took from them their only daughter, Lelia Belle, in the tenth year of her age. She was a joy to her mother, always with her to help and comfort her.
It is painful indeed to lose such a jewel from the home circle, but it is comforting to remember that the Lord takes these beautiful flowers from the chilly winds of earth and plants them in a more congenial soil. They are not dead; death to the pure and good is the entrance to a larger and fuller life.
Her life was short, but it ended like the glorious sunset that rounds out and completes the perfect day. Life, no matter how short, accomplishes something. Even an infant dying in its cradle will live again in the hearts of those who loved it, and it may be, play a part in shaping the lives of those who still linger on the shores of time. The blessed Lord can sanctify the afflictions of life to our good, may it be so in this case, and may the bereaved look to Him who alone can comfort in the darkest hours of this life. B.

Newspapers.

Newspapers, when considered from an advertising standpoint, have everything in their favor. They reach both the masses and classes and they reach them with a frequency that commends itself as a shining virtue to the man who has something to sell. Moreover, a favorite newspaper can not be supplanted in the hearts of its constituents by any other sort of publication, which insures it a permanency of circulation that can not be duplicated.—Profitable Advertising.

Band Excursion.

The Osceola Band had a large crowd to go with them on the excursion to Ocracoke. When the steamer Myers left this afternoon there were more than a hundred excursionists on board besides the members of the band, and others joined them at landings down the river. They all anticipate a big time.
