TUESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1899.

General Lawton, who added to his reputation for fighting in the Cuban campaign, would make an ideal commander of the Philippine forces of the United States, but owing to the jealousy of Otis, he has heretofore been kept in a subordinate position.

Vice-President Hobart is now known as the "official bouncer" since the resignation of Alger, for it will be remembered that it was after his visit to Hobart that Alger concluded to resign. The office of Vice-President is developing into a highly important and useful one.

Republicans are pouring in on McKinley their advice for speedy ending of the war in the Philippines, and it is apparent that this is having its effect on the President for it is now said that 50,000 soldiers will support Otis in the fall for the next campaign against the Filipinos.

The birth of a new party is announced from New York City, made up of one hundred labor organizations. Labor will need no other party than the Democrats, pledged, as it will be, to breaking up the great trusts which are the fruit of the present Republican Administration.

If the war is not ended in a year from now—and it is impossible to see how it can ever come to an end under the management of Otis—the Republicans need not go to the trouble of naming a candidate, for leading members of their own party agree that the Democrats will have a walk-over in such an event.

To curb the power of monopolistic combinations—another name for trusts—most people will agree that we must depend on state rather than national action. Democrats do not take kindly to any suggestion enlarging the area of national authority. The meeting of the Governors of the several states at St. Louis, called by Governor Sayers of Texas, is likely to be productive of much good.

Statistics which have been collected in Wisconsin show the average cost of raising wheat to be 54 cents a bushel, and the cost of corn 27 cents. In both cases the calculation includes interest on the value of the land, with the cost of horses and implements added in.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.
 Washington, D. C., Aug. 21, '99

If the administration follows its present method of showing its confidence in General Otis to its logical conclusion, there will be a new commander in the Philippines before the fighting campaign opens. It began to show its confidence in General Otis, who had continually declared that 30,000 men were all he needed, by issuing the necessary orders to make the full strength of the army in the Philippines 40,000 men; then it was decided to make it 50,000; and the orders under which the ten new regiments are being recruited will raise the number to 63,000. To be logical the next order should name a new commander for this large army. The proceedings in connection with the order to recruit these last ten regiments which, by the way, will almost bring the volunteer army up to the limit set by Congress, were an object lesson in the wily policy which this administration has so often adopted. At first it was positively denied that the order would be issued at all; then it was said that the regiments would be raised, but would merely be held as a reserve, and at last, when it could no longer be hidden, it was acknowledged that arrangements had been made to land the last of them at Manila about the first of December, which means that they will leave San Francisco early in October.

The sending of a big army to the Philippines is a political play on the part of the administration. This is recognized by all close political observers. The opinion of Colonel W. E. McLean of Indiana, who was Deputy Commissioner of pensions under the Cleveland administration, and who is now in Washington, on his way to the G. A. R. encampment, to which he is a delegate-at-large, is that of thousands, regardless of politics. He said: "One thing is certain; if the Philippine war is not ended before the presidential campaign comes on it is good bye to President McKinley. The war over there is fast growing in unpopularity. The policy of expansion is opposed by a great many western republicans, and the democrats are nearly a unit against it." Speaking of politics in his own state, Colonel McLean says: "The Indiana democrat who is not for Bryan and the Chicago platform is a man without a party, and his position is so lonesome that he almost feels as though he had no country." The Colonel knows, as he was that sort of a democrat himself in 1896.

There is a paragraph in an official report just received by Surgeon General Sternberg from Major John R. Hoff, Chief Surgeon of the Military district of Porto Rico, which is not calculated to make new shouters for imperialism among the thoughtful. In considering this very serious matter, it should not be forgotten that Porto Rico is the healthiest of our new Island possessions. The paragraph is almost too plain spoken to be quoted in a family paper. Suffice is to say that in it Major Hoff speaks of the alarming prevalence of private diseases among our soldiers over there and says the indications are that it will not be long before a large percentage of them will be as thoroughly infected as the native population. He also points out the danger of returning soldiers spreading the contamination at their homes, a danger which Great Britain has found to be of the gravest proportions in her experience with her tropical possessions. Something like this has been said before, but it was hooted down as the talk of an alarmist. It begins to look as though the man who said, "the more you know about the tropics the less desire you have to live there," was about right.

According to high republican authority, Alger never was a real candidate for the Senate and his announcement to that effect was made after a full understanding with Mr. McKinley, solely for the purpose of preparing a reason for his resignation from the cabinet. This may or may not be true, but the announcement several days ago by Mr. Alger that he was entirely out of politics, seems to bear out the story. There has been so much republican trickiness in Washington that one is never surprised to discover something new in that line. The Hanna-McKinley crowd seem to prefer doing even the most simple things in a mysterious way. According to the above mentioned republican authority, "The real truth is, probably, that the change finally in the War Department was compelled, not so much by the bitter opposition to General Alger personally as to the necessity confronting the administration of infusing new vigor into the war in the Philippines, which was languishing beyond the period set for its successful conclusion."

Did Not Apply for License.

First week in August petitions were circulated in this vicinity for and against liquor license. When the party who wanted license found that the sentiment was overwhelmingly against a licensed bar-room here he withdrew his petition, thereby showing that he was willing for the majority to rule. We have not heard of half a dozen people who declined to sign the petition against license, and of no hard feelings engendered on account of the petition. This is a good showing for the people of Rich Square and vicinity.—Rich Square Patron and Gleaner.

There has always been great difference of opinion as to the right or wrong of dancing. We do not propose to discuss this question at all. As a matter of fact the dance has long been and still is, justified and patronized by men of the highest moral character and women of unimpeachable purity and modesty. But if the rapid tune to which the waltz is being danced to-day is not slowed down, and if the indecent positions of the supposed up-to-date dancers are not modified, the Terpsichorean art will lose its respectability and will be shunned by all good and true people.—Charlotte Observer.

Six Years For President.

United States Senator Harris will introduce three amendments to the Federal Constitution at the next session of Congress, and ask that they be submitted to a vote of the people.

The first will provide that the President shall be elected for a term of six years, instead of four, and that he shall be ineligible for re-election.

The second is designed to make the term of Congressmen four years. The third will provide for the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people.

Eleven O'clock Signal.

Greenville has an ordinance requiring bar-rooms, billiard-rooms, etc., to close each night in the week at 11 o'clock. As a signal for closing time the Mayor has instructed the night policeman to give the fire alarm eleven slow taps at 11 o'clock on each week night. Attention is called to this that those to whom the ordinance applies may know what signal is to be given, and that the citizens of the town may know why the alarm is tapped at this hour.
