MONDAY, AUGUST 28, 1899.

The Mississippi Democratic state convention endorsed the Chicago platform and Wm. J. Bryan as the "greatest exponent of those principles." Three states have spoken for Bryan during this month.

Gen. Otis may find that by keeping the Administration in the dark regarding his proceedings, he has stirred up trouble for himself. As long as it was only the people who were flouted and hoodwinked the Administration did not care.

When it was finally announced that Thos. B. Reed had filed his resignation to take effect Sep. 4, a great big sigh of relief went up from the administration. But Amos Allen, his probable successor will continue the fight against expansion.

The Associated Press correspondent at Manila says "The censor writes stereotyped official phrases and adjectives into the dispatches, tending to magnify the American operations and to minimize the opposition." This explains why the reports appear so one-sided, and yet the war does not end.

O. H. P. Belmont of New York, now that Croker has punctured Van Wyck's boom is being actively pushed for the second place with Bryan. He is very wealthy, believes the silver question is one for Congressional rather than Executive action, strongly favors an income tax, and is against expansion.

Nebraska Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans met in separate conventions at Omaha and nominated ex-Gov. Holcomb for Supreme Judge. Mr. Bryan was a delegate in the Democratic convention. Ex-Senator Allen could have had the nomination, but withdrew in the interest of harmony. The Democratic platform declares uncompromisingly for free silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

The committee appointed by the Legislature to investigate the management of the penitentiary and State farms, is vigorously carrying on its work and is exposing the rottenness and inefficiency of the late fusion crowd. In addition to this the examination of the Roanoke farms discloses the most cruel and barbarous treatment of prisoners by the supervisors. The developments are shocking.

Where The Editor Rises Superior.

It is the exceptional editor who will lay claim to 'superiority over all mankind, who will claim to be proof against all temptations of the world, the flesh and the devil.

No profession in the world should be more given to cynicism, be more proof against the calls of charity, than the editorial profession.

"Accept all men as liars" might not be an inappropriate motto for an editor's sanctum, for truly against him are practised every keen male or female wile that is known or can be invented.

But however much the burden of the community may be, no matter how deep and important may be the secrets which are intrusted to his individual self, the editor is usually found to be the safe man of the community; no matter how poor he may be, funds are safe in his hands, for while he may be hungry and illy clothed, yet he is honest.

And in spite of oft deceptions, who is more liberal than the editor?

It may not be money, for this may not be his, but in giving free space in his paper, in giving his time to advance private interests or community interests, who is so prodigal as the editor?

But in rising above the little, men, petty actions of the world, is seen the special phase of the editor's superiority.

How many hundreds of opportunities are presented to the average editor where he might give way to human weakness and be personally benefitted at the expense of some one, and yet he does not.

An illustration in point, and the Journal asks pardon of the gentleman mentioned for the personal illustration, is that of Benjamin Bell, one of the editors and proprietors of the Wilmington Messenger.

Mr. Bell a day or so ago while attempting to board an electric car in his city, slipped and fell upon the pavement, dislocating his elbow and sustaining a severe fracture of the same arm, lower down.

In cases similar to this, the ordinary citizen would at once lay the full blame of the accident to the electric car company, and claim damages for injuries received.

It is always easy to sue corporations, and not usually difficult to secure a verdict when persons are injured, however contributory to the accident the injured person may be.

But Mr. Bell, as would most editors under like conditions, frankly acknowledged the accident was his own fault, and held the conductor of the car as blameless.

Take into consideration all accidents which have happened to editors, and how many of them have been brought to court for trial, and how many damage suits for personal injuries can be named as pending where editors are plaintiffs against corporations?

Here is where the editor shows his superiority over mankind, generally, in being perfectly honest, and not seeking to get personal benefits because the situation may favor him, and this regardless of the merits in the case.

This superiority of the editor does not appeal to the ordinary every day citizen, nor is this spirit of sincerity always made public, and if published it is seldom recognized and appreciated, nor does the editor receive due credit for those every day actions which bespeak the man and the good citizen. —New Berne Journal.

No Success Without love of Work

"To win success in any vocation, the present day, requires hard, persistent, conscientious work, the best equipment that is possible, and the employment of every resource that can be commanded," writes Barton Cheyney, in a valuable article on "The Young Man and the Professions," in the September Ladies' Home Journal. "Even the young man's manner, his personality, is a factor that makes itself felt in his work, while executive ability and good, hard common sense are elements of genius that should never be lacking. The young man should clearly understand in advance that if he does not have the capacity or love for work there is no profession in which he can win success. But having this, he will find great opportunities to make a name for himself and to earn larger pecuniary rewards than men have ever before been able to coin out of their brains."

The following from the Laurinburg Exchange merits the careful attention of our farmers:

"The 12,000,000 bale prediction is rather discouraging, but we believe the farmers could realize a better price for their cotton than they usually do, if they would pay more attention to the picking. Usually the farmers are very particular in looking after the planting and cultivation of the crop, but when harvesting time comes, they turn loose in their fields a gang of reckless pickers, a great many of whom are children, and pay no attention to them. In their desire to have all they possibly can when weighing time arrives, they rush over it, mixing with the cotton, burs, leaves, sand and all manner of trash and when the cotton is brought to market the result is a lower price than it should be.

"The price is going to be low enough at the best and let every man stay in his field with his hands and see to it that his cotton is picked free from trash."

The man whose house is the best in the land, whose town is the best in the country, whose state is the best in the union, whose nation is the strongest in the world is a good citizen—whether he is a resident owner, a mechanic, a school teacher or a day laborer. He will do his trading at home, even if he does have to pay a little more. He will take his home paper, even if it is a size or two smaller than the big city papers. He will always say a good word for his home town and stand by every enterprise it may champion; he will be loyal to every education cause adopted in it and work for the success of the same in preference to that outside. Then as a reward for all this he will have prosperity and the highest regard of his neighbors.—Durham Sun.

WINE OF CARDUI

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

has demonstrated ten thousand times that it is almost infallible

FOR WOMAN'S PECULIAR WEAKNESSES,

irregularities and derangements. It has become the leading remedy for this class of troubles. It exerts a wonderfully healing, strengthening and soothing influence upon the menstrual organs. It cures "whites" and falling of the womb. It stops flooding and relieves suppressed and painful menstruation. For Change of Life it is the best medicine made. It is beneficial during pregnancy, and helps to bring children into homes barren for years. It invigorates, stimulates, strengthens the whole system. This great remedy is offered to all afflicted women. Why will any woman suffer another minute with certain relief within reach? Wine of Cardui only costs $1.00 per bottle at your drug store.

For advice, in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Rev. J. W. SMITH, Camden, S. C., says: "My wife used Wine of Cardui at home for falling of the womb and it entirely cured her."

Look at the Figures.

Friday THE REFLECTOR said it believed the week just closed had brought the heaviest sales of any previous week in the history of the Greenville market. After the close of the week's business Saturday afternoon we heard Mr. J. L. Little, Cashier of the Bank of Greenville, say that the bank paid out, in round numbers, $33,000 during the week for tobacco. Those figures ought to convince anyone what the Greenville market is doing.

Bryan Will Not Put Silver in the Background.

THE FURNITURE MEN

Don't Worry About Salaries.

"What salaries are paid in different business callings is a question often asked by young men, and one which seems to enter into their deliberations as a qualifying factor as to whether they shall enter certain trades or professions," writes Edward Bok, in the September Ladies' Home Journal. "I never could quite see the point of this, nor the reason for it. What are the salaries which are paid to others, to you or to me? They signify nothing. If the highest salary paid to the foremost man in a certain profession is $10,000 a year, what does it prove or signify? There is no obstacle to some one's else going into that same profession and earning $25,000. The first step in going into business is to find out not which special line is most profitable, but which line you are most interested in and are best fitted for. Then drive ahead, and the salary will take care of itself. When a young man thinks too much of his salary it is pretty good proof that he is not of very superior make. Ability commands income. But you must start with ability; not with salary."

Passengers on the Freight.

At the recent meeting of the Chamber of Commerce it was decided to request the Atlantic Coast Line authorities to put the passenger coach back on the freight trains of the Weldon and Kinston branch and allow passengers to go on those trains. Mr. H. A. White, Vice President of the Chamber, is in receipt of a letter from Mr. J. R. Kenly, of the Coast Line, saying the request will be complied with and the passenger service put back on the freight trains. It will begin on September 1st.

KINSTON STEAM LAUNDRY.—Hot weather, keep clean shipment, made Wednesday evening. V. J. LEE, Agent.

The Elizabeth City News remarks that now is the prettiest season at the seashore. But the storm has already run all the people back inland and they have had enough for one season.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Satan finds work for idle hands and thoughts for idle minds.

The best help you can give a man is to teach him to help himself.

The devil will always be your enemy, no matter how friendly he seems to be.

"What we do belongs to what we are; and what we are is what becomes of us."

Only what we have wrought into character during life can we take away with us.—Humboldt.

It's faith in something and enthusiasm for something that makes a life worth looking at.—Olive Wendell Holmes.

No life can be pure in its purpose and strong in its strife, and all life not be purer and stronger thereby.—Owen Meredith.

The cost of salvation smites all indifference to religion. If Christ was willing to die that we might be saved, what ought we not to do?

A Productive Capital.

The diversity in style and method of newspaper advertising would seem at first glance to justify the idea that advertising is a mere temporary scheme and expedient by which to drum up trade. That is altogether an erroneous conception. The fact is that the merchant's advertising is a part of his capital, and it is capital which produces profit. His money investments in the space occupied by his business announcements in a first class and long established newspaper constitute a sure source of revenue—a fountain productive of a regular increase in his income.—Philadelphia Record.
