SUPERIOR COURT

September Term Now in Session

The September term of Pitt Superior Court convened this morning, Judge W. A. Hoke presiding and Solicitor L. I. Moore representing the State. The following were drawn as the grand jury for the term.

L. B. Mewborn, Foreman, G. R. Buck, J. T. Corbett, B. M. Lewis, Silas Harris, J. W. Gardner, J. M. C. Nelson, J. J. Smith, W. W. Andrews, F. G. Dupree, R. D. Whitehurst, J. S. Hester, F. R. Brewington, Joshua Nobles, Samuel Erwin, McD. Horton, Joe Pittman, W. P. Buck.

The charge of Judge Hoke to the grand jury was an exceptionally able one. He dispatches the work of the court in a business way.

The petit jury for this week is composed of J. L. Flanagan, J. T. Dunn, W. F. Joyner, J. L. Fountain, B. E. Abram, E. A. Cherry, F. M. Kilpatrick, S. M. Smith, W. G. Barnhill, L. H. Pender, S. A. Gainer, B. F. Tugwell.

Announcement.

Mr. C. B. Whichard and Miss Emily Cathrine Renfrew will be married in the Methodist church at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening. A reception at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. V. H. Whichard, will follow the ceremony. No cards have been issued, but all friends are invited.

Negro, Whiskey, Pistol.

That is a combination calculated to cause trouble, and is a mixture that is seldom made without trouble growing out of it. Put a pistol in a negro's hip pocket, fill him with bad whiskey and follow him to "festibal" and you will see something happen.

Saturday night the colored folks had a festival at the Odd Fellows hall. Jim Burbanks was there loaded with both whiskey and a pistol. Jim started out the door where a crowd was standing, and crying out "Lookout, I'm coming," fired his pistol into the crowd. The ball found Charlie Johnson, passing through the arm below the shoulder and entering the body. Charlie is seriously wounded and Jim is in jail.

MAYOR'S COURT

Long String of Defendants.

This Monday morning Mayor Moye had a large docket to dispose of, several defendants being before him:

William Stocks, drunk and disorderly, plead guilty, fined $2.50 and costs, amounting to $5.25.

Peter Harris, firing pistol and disorderly conduct, not guilty.

Estelle Rollins, keeping disorderly house fined one penny and costs, total $3.66.

Austin Bullock, Tony Baptist, Walter Snead, Rhoda Williams, Minnie Randolph, Codie English, Charles Artis, disorderly conduct and profanity. Tony Baptist and Minnie Randolph not guilty. Others all guilty, fined $1 each, costs to be divided between them, making $1.81 each.

Other cases disposed of since last report were:

Henry Rhoden and Major Carlington Carter, disorderly conduct and affray, Carter not guilty. Rhoden bound over to Superior Court.

William Moye, drunk and disorderly, fined $2.50 and costs, total $5.65.

W. S. Briley, keeping billiard room open after 11 o'clock P. M., fined $10 and costs, total $13. Defendant took appeal to Superior Court.

Charles Evans, disorderly conduct and profane language, fined $2.50 and costs, total $6.65.

W. J. Lee and J. H. Murphy, drunk and disorderly, fined $1 each and costs, total $5.15 each.

James Burbanks, drunk and disorderly and firing pistol, bound over to Superior Court.

Presbyterian Service.

Rev. J. B. Morton preached two splendid sermons in the Presbyterian church Sunday to large congregations. The morning discourse was on the blessings that are to him that overcometh, and the evening subject was unity of the churches. The latter sermon was one he had preached here before and it was repeated by request. There was good music at the services. Miss Robeson sang a solo with chorus in the morning and Mr. Hill C. Linthicum sang a solo at night.

Gen. Joe Wheeler

Is now taking in the situation around Manila. Now let Uncle Sam relieve Otis and give the Old Buttermilk Ranger a half chance and you'll very soon hear the insurgents calling for the calf rope. The name Buttermilk Ranger was given to our cavalry during the '60s. An army to be victorious must have confidence in their leader. Take the record of General Jackson. Why the soldiers under him knew no such thing as defeat, and to just say that Jackson's in the rear was enough to throw consternation in the camp of the enemy. Confidence is just as important in the commercial world, and the mere mention of the name creates a panic in the mercantile arena. We cannot understand how we can always get in the rear of their prices, but this is easily explained. For we have a leader that knows every hog path that leads to the different manufacturing plants of this country, and keeps posted. In this way you see we only buy from first hands, thereby saving the middle man's profit. Our buyer will soon arrive in Greenville and then—

FRANK WILSON

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1899.

The question of tax valuations has recently had more discussion than it usually gets, and it may result in some reformation in listing when another assessment time comes. The railroads of the State thought they were assessed too high this year, and that their valuation for taxation was not in proportion to the valuation of other property over the State, so they took the matter before Judge Simon on an injunction. The case came on for a hearing last week in Asheville and many of the State's best lawyers were there representing each side. Hundreds of affidavits were introduced, some setting forth that other property was not assessed at full cash value but only at about two-thirds or three-fourths value, and others affirming that property was assessed at its full value. At this writing a decision has not been given out, so it is not known yet how the matter will end. THE REFLECTOR does not take sides with the railroads in wanting the values assessed against them reduced, for we do not yet believe they are valued at near what they would bring in cash. On the other hand we believe, that to take the State over, other property in nine cases out of ten is not assessed at near its actual cash value. According to our way of thinking all property should be assessed at its true value and then the tax rate should be made correspondingly lower. And such valuation should be made to bear on all alike in proportion to what they possessed.

"Mother."

One of the first words that a baby says is mamma, or mother, and it is not strange, therefore, to find it one of the first and simplest words in every language. There is no word easier for a child to say than "ma," unless it be "pa." In Hebrew and Arabic mother is "em" and "am;" it is "mam" in Welsh and "moder" in Anglo-Saxon. In other languages it is slightly different, but near enough like our own word "mother" to make it an almost universal word, so that a child crying in any language could be understood in almost any other language. Here are a few of the names: Madr in Persian; Matr in Sanscrit; Meter in Greek; Mater in Latin; Madre in Spanish; Mere in French; Moder in Swedish; Moder in Danish; Moder in Dutch; Mutter in German; Mate in Russian; Mathair in Celtic.—Lewiston Journal.

She Upheld Her Dignity.

Some of the colored folks are bound to maintain their dignity. One of these ladies was employed by a wealthy Louisvillian who swore by the wholesale. Economy was no object to him when it came to cuss words, and he scattered these pearls of speech over all subjects. The cook was a past grand mistress of her art. She knew what she knew and could turn out dreams from the skillet and oven, but she had ideas of her own dignity.

"One mawnin," said she, "I done cook a elegant brekfuss. Dere wuz chickin an 'taters an beat biskit an coffee an muffins, an dat man he come down stairs, an he do talk scand'lous. I lissen an I lissen. He cuss dis an he cuss dat, an he munt' to hisself, an I jes' couldn' stan' hit. I marches out, an I says, 'Sah, ef you don't lik' dis hyar cookin, say so, an I goes, but I ain't gwine hear you cuss me an my wuk.'"

"Hyar, gal," says he. "I likes dis cookin. Wot you mean bossin me when I cusses to my own wife?"

"Dat's all rit," I says mity brash, "but you don't cuss me er I goes."

"An sence den," declared the colored upholder of her rights and dignity, "ole marse jes' stuck on my cookin, an I se de only pussen on de lot he neber cusses."

The old man is right. When you get a good cook, grapple her to you with hooks of steel, even if you have to leave off swearing.—Louisville Times.

Smelling the Glass.

Bartenders who pride themselves on their mixed drinks have a habit of smelling of the empty glass as soon as the customer has drained it. In this way they can tell to a dot whether they "hit it right" or not. I have not seen the bartender who can make two drinks alike, and none is ever certain that he has guessed rightly the proportions of liquor and its disguises until after the olfactory test. "Fred, this isn't quite up to the mark," says Tossopot, who drinks every drop. "That so?" smelling of the glass. "You're right. Not enough curacao. Let me make you another."

The worst telltale is the beer glass. Not one-tenth of the beer sold over the bar or in cases is fit for a dog to drink. If you are fond of a glass and it does not lie easily on the stomach, if there is an unpleasant after effect, a disagreeable taste in the mouth or a sudden disinclination to drink further, smell of the emptied glass, and the chances are that you will conclude you have been putting part of a cow lot inside of you. You will resolve never to touch that beer again, where-in you will be wise.

The same test may be applied to whiskies, wines and liqueurs—gins, rums, brandies and cordials. Many a man would save his breath and his stomach by employing his function of smell after the first drink. It is the surest prohibition I know.—New York Press.

Cross in Front of Engines.

"One of the oddest traits in animal nature," said an old time Illinois Central engineer, "is the desire of every living thing to cross in front of the locomotive. At first it filled me with wonder, and I used to lie awake nights trying to explain it. Now it's grown to be an old story with me."

"What goes in front of the engine? Why, everything. Let me see! I've seen snakes—and I'm a sober man, mind you—stick up their heads to see what was making all the rumble along the right of way and then deliberately start to crawl across the rails. I've seen many a quail spring up along the right of way, fly along just ahead of the engine and then shoot across in front. Several times when I've been running a mile a minute the engine has struck these birds and killed them. In the old days I used to jump a deer now and then, and the chances were he'd cross the track every time. Cattle invariably do it until they have learned better; so do pigs and all domestic animals. Even chickens will run fluttering across."

"It seems to me I've killed enough animals to stock a farm and a menagerie."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Coleridge's Cloudiness.

There is in Mr. Ellis Yarnoll's interesting volume of reminiscences, "Wordsworth and the Coleridges," a very amusing story of Samuel Taylor Coleridge, whose thoughts were sometimes too profound even for poets to follow.

Wordsworth and Samuel Rogers had spent the evening with Coleridge, and as the two poets walked away together Rogers remarked cautiously: "I did not altogether understand the latter part of what Coleridge said." "I didn't understand any of it," Wordsworth hastily replied. "No more did I!" exclaimed Rogers, with a sigh of relief.

Hope is a flatterer, but the most upright of all parasites, for she frequents the poor man's hut as well as the palace of his superiors.—Shenstone.

An Exhibition of Haitian Patience That Was A mazing

As far as I was able to judge, the Haitian is entirely devoid of nerves or feeling of any kind. Upon one occasion I saw one undertake to split a stick. He stood it on end, placed his machete on top, reached out for another stick, which he used as a mallet, and while doing so the piece of wood fell over. Twenty-three times he repeated the operation before he accomplished his object. He never uttered a swear word, looked annoyed or hurried his action, and he was not working by the day, either—it was piecework, on contract, for my host.—Anonymous.

THE PEOPLE.

We are Some of Them.

Adrian Savage went to Richmond today.

J. W. Wiggins returned to Tarboro this morning.

Mrs. J. A. Dupree returned this morning from Kinston.

Capt. Swift Galloway, of Snow Hill, is attending court.

H. B. Hardy, of the Raleigh News and Observer, is in town.

Rev. B. H. Hearne is conducting a meeting near Ayden this week.

Miss Nellie Whaley left this morning to re-enter school at Suffolk.

Miss Gladys Mitchell, of Kinston, who has been visiting Miss Hennie Ragsdale, returned home Saturday evening.

Built on Peanut Trade

Boykin, Va., is a flourishing town of five hundred people, a Raleigh Post correspondent writes. And Mr. W. H. Beadles says it would be impossible to find, throughout the Old Dominion, five hundred more honest, enterprising and law-abiding citizens than those over whom he officiates as mayor. The town was incorporated in 1884. By association this is properly a North Carolina town, being only two miles from the State line. And a large part of its citizens are Tar-Heels, giving rise to a large North Carolina trade.

The largest trade here is in the peanut market. More than twenty-five thousand bags were sold here last season. It is the money making crop. Norfolk, which is the largest peanut market in the world, offers larger prices for peanuts raised in this section than for those of any other section. Peanuts are shipped from here to Norfolk, where they are cleaned, rebagged and branded "Boykin Hand Picked," which brand is now famous the world over.

Under careful cultivation an acre of land here can be made to produce from twelve to eighteen thousand pounds of peanuts, which sell on the market at an average of three cents per pound.

There is a movement on foot to secure the erection of an establishment for the cleaning of peanuts. The people are in earnest concerning this movement, and doubtless by another season the large quantity of peanuts handled here yearly will also be cleaned here.

The cultivation of cotton has almost been abandoned for that of peanuts.

Not five hundred bales of cotton were handled here last season. Only a few years ago every farm, of any size in this section had its own gin, whereas now there is but one gin within a radius of ten miles of Boykins.

Afterthoughts.

It is the things we do not do that make us weary of life.

Hardly anybody is as sure of himself as he would have people believe.

A sanguine disposition is one that can continue to hope for something which it knows won't happen.

Sometimes when we are most puffed up over the size of our shadow we are standing in our own light.

Whether a man is a crank or eccentric depends much on his importance as a part of the social machine.

A Universal Motor.

Capital in the mercantile world has been called "the universal motor," because it is the power which keeps the tradesman's business moving. But there are various sorts of capital, and the kind to the above definition may be directly applied is advertising. Each advertisement published in a newspaper which is read extensively is so much capital well invested, and as a motor—pushing along the merchant's business—it is universal and potential. It keeps his trade going and growing, and enlarges the other capital which he may have in banks or in property.—Philadelphia Record.

Pulled a Crowd.

After midnight Saturday night Policemen James and Symonds and Deputy Sheriff Mason made a raid on a house down in the railroad ravine and scooped in a crowd playing cards and having a rowdy time. The crowd was locked up. Mayor Moye gave the crowd a hearing this morning.

After Wilmington, no city suffered more from Marion Butler's negro domination in the east than Newbern, and after New Hanover no county suffered more than Craven. The county commissioners of this county have just accepted the resignation of Sheriff Hahn, the fusionist officer who had a number of negro deputies under him. Sheriff Hahn agreed to resign upon condition of being allowed to continue as county tax collector—a subordinate office where he will have no power to offend by appointing ignorant negroes to office. Being thrown this sop, he is satisfied, and the county avoids the annoyance of a suit. Joseph Kinsey was then elected sheriff. And thus, through the great victory won for white supremacy last year, and the overthrow of the horrors of fusion and Butlerism, the eastern counties are gradually coming out from under the plague of darkness. Whereat the western counties of the State do rejoice.—Charlotte Observer.
