MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE.

Elijah Joyner Convicted and Sentenced to be Hanged Nov. 10th.

At the opening of Court this morning Elijah Joyner was brought from jail and the trial on the charge of having committed the murder and arson at Dongola, on the 26th of April last, was begun. In selecting the jury three of the regular panel for the week were accepted, the other nine being taken from the venire.

The jury was completed at 11 o'clock and was composed of the following: E. A. Cherry, J. T. Dunn, W. G. Barnhill, J. A. Taylor, J. C. Dawson, N. W. Worsley, Shade A. Stocks, H. C. Braxton, T. E. Carson, Ashley Whichard, S. S. Jackson and L. H. Smith.

Solicitor Moore was aided in the prosecution by Mr. F. G. James and the defense was represented by Messrs. A. L. Blow and J. L. Fleming. The Court House was crowded with spectators manifesting the wide interest in the trial.

As THE REFLECTOR at the time printed the evidence as given at the trial before the Magistrates' court we do not go through the same testimony again.

T. L. Turnage was the first witness introduced for the State and made the same statements about discovering his store on fire, finding the body of Robert Turnage, and the incidents leading to the arrest of Elijah Joyner, as he made at the former trial. The State was about to examine him relative to several confessions made by Joyner, to which the defence made objection that such testimony was not competent. Then a written confession that Joyner had made was introduced and admitted.

The witness was then stood aside while the confessions was read which had been taken down at a trial last Friday when Joyner was examined as a witness when Jim Scarborough was being tried.

T. L. Turnage was then recalled and told of confession Joyner made to him while in jail at Raleigh. Joyner in these confessions stated that he committed the murder and that his object was to get money. Joyner had lived with him as waiting boy several years and did his duties well.

J. M. Windham next took the stand. Said he had a knife with which Joyner said he cut Turnage. Joyner told witness where knife could be found in a ditch and went with him and found it at the place stated. Witness also testified as to the several confessions Joyner had made. Witness also made statements relative to bloody vest, club and razors found in Joyner's house.

Here the State rested its case. The defence had no testimony to offer and it was agreed that the case should go to the jury upon the charge of Judge Hoke, the counsel making no argument.

The Judge made only a brief charge and the case was given to the jury exactly at noon.

The jury was out only about fifteen minutes when they returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree.

The Solicitor prayed judgment and Judge Hoke in solemn words sentenced Elijah Joyner to be hanged on Friday, the 10th day of November, 1899, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 2 P. M.

One of the Victims.

By Telegraph to Reflector.

Tarboro, N. C., Sept. 22—One of the persons who perished in the St. Vincent hospital fire at Norfolk, yesterday morning, was a Miss Pippin from Edgecombe county. She had been in the hospital but a few days. Her remains reached here on the noon train today and will be interred at Hamilton.

Another Murder Case.

Thursday afternoon the grand jury returned another true bill for murder. It was against Lizzie Harris, who some weeks ago killed her husband, in Falkland township, the case being decided by the Coroner's jury as justifiable homicide. In their examination into the matter the grand jury found sufficient evidence for a true bill. The woman was arraigned in court this afternoon and the trial set for Friday of next week.

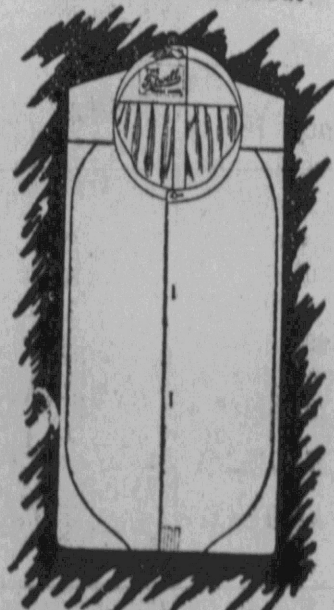

The happiest days in our lives are the uneventful ones that make no special impression, while we are living them.

AROUND THE WORLD.

Across the bay in Spain, about seven or eight miles away, is a town called Algeciras. Hearing that a fair was in progress there, I decided to go over. I took the boat and soon found myself in the Kingdom of Spain. What a difference! The place was dirty, beggars swarmed on the streets, the cafes were full of both men and women drinking, and never before did I see so many dogs. They literally owned the town.

There were bull-dogs, and pug dogs, and dogs of every kind of breed, Poodle dogs and puppy dogs, and dogs that only Spaniards need; "Yaller" dogs and spotted dogs, and dogs of black, and tan, and blue. Some were many feet in height, and others but a few inches or two; Fat dogs and lean dogs, to answer every sign or call. With long tails and short tails, and some without any tails at all. Good dogs and bad dogs and dogs that had their muzzles on. Shaggy dogs and bony dogs, and dog-carts, and dog-gone if I ever saw such a dog show before.

Excuse this dog-gerel, but it expresses what I saw. It must be true that "you can judge of the wealth a man has not, by the number of dogs he has." Learning that the fair was in its glory at night, I spent the afternoon in seeing the town. There was nothing of interest except to see how many new kinds of dogs could be found, and inspect the bull-fight ring. The last bull fight had taken place just the day before my visit, but I saw the ring which is built of stone, like a circus tent without a top. Eighteen bulls had been killed in there during the three preceding days.

In the evening I attended the fair which was held in the extremely pretty public gardens. Trees, booths and tents were covered with the red and yellow flag of Spain. Toy vendors, dancing pavilions, side-shows, fakirs, gamblers and the ubiquitous merry-go-round made a merry scene. Crowds of soldiers with bright red trousers and two-story caps, girls, in crowds, in pairs and singly with bare heads and white slippers, rustics with heavy shoes and broad-brimmed hats, all singing, dancing, shouting and drinking. Poor, ignorant doomed people. As simple as children and happy in their ignorance. I am glad I saw the fair of Algeciras.

Crossing the bay I had a very good view of the Queen's chair of which Mark Twain tells so humorously in "Innocents Abroad."

We stayed at Gibraltar four days. We are now cruising in the blue Mediterranean along the northern coast of Africa. I am perfectly well and am enjoying my trip very much. We will probably reach Port Said, the entrance of the Suez Canal, in about one week. It is said to be the worst place in the world. Our stay there will be short, but I will mail this letter there. It will be about two months before I can hear from home, but I hope to find lots of letters from you all when I get to Manila. I will write again after we pass the canal.

* * * * *
GULF OF ADEN,
June 23rd, 1899.

Do not be surprised or disappointed if this letter proves both short and uninteresting, for I am now in the "hottest part of the world," but I will try not to "jump into the heat of it" right away, but go back to where I left off in my last letter. As you know we had to traverse the whole length of the Mediterranean Sea, and the cruise there was most delightful. The weather in the Mediterranean is already famous, but I must say a word about it, although words cannot tell of its delights. Mild, sunny days, with gentle breezes and water of clearest blue. Each afternoon the sun would sink like a ball of fire into the sea without a cloud to hide behind while retiring for the night. And, oh! such nights they were! Millions of stars that shone positively like diamonds, while the milky way was like a path of snow. No wonder the old Egyptians were great astronomers, with such a heaven to study.

ROUNDLAP BALES IN ENGLAND.

Hon. William C. Lovering's Demonstration of Three Cotton Bales Unrolling Automatically.

Hon. William C. Lovering has returned from Europe where he has been looking after the interests of the American Cotton Company. He found the spinners of England and the Continent using the Roundlap Bale with the greatest satisfaction. They are keenly alive to all the money saving advantages of the new system. The ease with which the bale is handled in transit and at the mill delights them. The low cost of freight and insurance, the immunity from fire in the mill and the fact that there are no hoops, wires or metal of any kind used in baling are features that especially appeal to the thrifty European spinners.

Mr. Lovering had the opportunity to address a meeting of prominent cotton manufacturers of Lancashire on the merits of the Roundlap Bale, and by the courtesy of Messrs. Howard and Bullough, of Acerrington, they were invited to witness a demonstration of the running of three bales of cotton directly on the apron of a scutcher. Nothing could have been more perfect or absolutely satisfactory than the working of the cotton in this way. The scutcher was started with three bales upon the apron and ran off at once without a hitch or interruption. The noise made by the beaters was a steady deep and healthful hum, showing that the machine was doing its work without laboring in the least. The lap that was made was clean and even running, weighing sixteen ounces to the yard.

The spinners took the greatest interest in the demonstration and with one accord expressed their complete satisfaction with the operation. They said that they saw in the new system a great revolution in cotton manufacturing. They are all anxious to buy the new bale, and are ready to give orders at once.

They were surprised and gratified to see that the scutcher was an ordinary scutcher, such as they were using in all their mills. They had been led to think that it required special machinery for the purpose whereas it only required a little heavier apron to carry the bales or laps, weighing two hundred and sixty pounds each.—Boston Transcript.

It is said that President McKinley will recommend the payment of $5,000 to each of the families of the Italians killed by the mob at Tellulah, La., some time ago. When it comes to reward for being killed by a mob the foreign subject possesses some advantages over the naturalized citizen or the native born.—Wilmington Star.

Mr. John W. Page, of Stokes, Pitt county, who was in town yesterday to consult Congressman John H. Small, has had quite a romantic and pathetic experience with his son Alphonso C. Page. Alphonso ran away from home some six years ago, and enlisted in the navy, under the assumed name of George W. Pollard, and gave John W. Pollard as his father's name. He served in the Spanish war, and later was ordered to the Philippines, where he was promoted to chief master at arms in the marine service. And although the father has not heard from his son for over a year, since May there has been an unclaimed letter lying in the Greenville postoffice addressed to John W. Pollard, and stamped upon it the name of U. S. Steamship Monadnock, and the government frank. By some means it was supposed to be intended for Mr. Page, and he was notified to call and open it. This he did and it proved a letter from Commander Nichols, of the Monadnock, dated April 1st, 1899, informing him of the death of his son in the hospital. The letter was very complimentary to the young man and stated there was $150, to his credit on the ship's books. Mr. Page who came to town yesterday to see Hon. J. H. Small to whom he made the above statement and Mr. Small at once took steps to procure the money and if possible to have his remains returned to his old home.—Washington Messenger.

The Shaker sisters, of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y., in order to show indignation at the persecution of Dreyfus have resolved to "follow no French fashions, buy no French fabrics and refrain from attendance at the Paris Exposition." The Dunkards may quit wearing French bonnets, but the leaders of fashion—never!

Six hundred miners in the Kanawha field, W. Va., a similar number on New River, joined the strikers yesterday. Over 3,000 men are now out.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina.

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction rules that the six hours named by law as a teacher's work for a day does not include recesses, but means the time actually spent in teaching.

Some negro laborers from Norfolk went to Wilmington to work in loading vessels, and a crowd of Wilmington negroes set upon them and tried to drive them off. The mayor had to send a large force of policemen to protect the Norfolk negroes.

The hogs up in Bill Smith's "Hog Elk" section of the universe are so fond of and used to swallowing snakes, that the other day up there, one large hog attempted to swallow a large log chain, believing it to be a snake. It was getting along well and had half the chain swallowed when it was discovered, and by heroic efforts on the part of several citizens the chain was at last rescued.—Wilkesboro Chronicle.

Tells Its Own Story.

In a pretty Wisconsin town not far from Milwaukee there is a "spite fence" which tells its own story to all the world. It is a high and tight board affair and cuts off a view across a number of beautiful lawns. The man who lives on one side of it evidently feared that the fence would bring down on his head the condemnation of his neighbors. Not wishing to be unjustly blamed, he has therefore painted on the side of the fence in letters that can be read a block away these words: "I built this fence. I didn't do it." The man on the other side also had no idea of getting a false impression got out. Accordingly he has painted on the other side of the high barrier: "I had to do it."

Our Good Old State Forever.

A person has only to keep his ears and eyes open these days to be constantly reminded of what a great State North Carolina is, how diversified her industries, how glorious her opportunities. All who run may read it is a wonderful section of country. But a few years ago and nobody thought of growing tobacco in the east. Now the east is as good a tobacco section as has been found. Another venture of a new crop on strange soil is the growing of upland rice in Martin and surrounding countries. Reports come that this fall's crop is excellent and past the expectations of the planters. So we are constantly finding out new and valuable resources, giving rise to large industries and strengthening the foundation of the material prosperity of the old State that we love so well.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Secretary of the Treasury Gage having paid the October interest on bonds three weeks before it became due, at the bidding of Wall street, will next be asked to allow the National Banks to issue currency to the full amount of their bonds.

Now that Republican Senators and Congressmen are beginning to urge upon the President that party success may be endangered if Gen. Otis is kept in Manila, he is likely to be recalled. The exigencies of party politics may thus accomplish this desirable result, which was unobtainable as long as the useless waste of soldier's lives and health.

"I have often heard of a jug being a good thing to use in hiving bumblebees," said a man yesterday, "but I thought it was all a hoax until a day or two ago when I saw it tried and it worked to perfection. On my plantation these varmints have been somewhat of a pest, especially when cleaning up and getting ready for planting time. Last week the mason the place ran across so many of them that he made up his mind that he would get rid of them. Going to the house he brought back a big jug. This he filled half full of water and quietly placed it near the nest, he returned, got a long pole and began stirring them up, when they circled around the jug a moment and then commenced diving down into it. After a while most of them were out of the way and the man picked up the jug and brought it out, when by actual count 32 bumblebees were found in it. This is a fact—I saw it with my own eyes." —Greensboro Record.

Many a poor man would be glad of the opportunity to make an after-dinner speech.

The dust is being brushed from the sign "hot chocolate" and the one reading "blizzard soda" is preparing to go into retirement.

A very odd advertisement in the help wanted column reads: "Wanted—A man who speaks French and German and understands horses and cows."
