WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, Oct. 14, '99
Several of our people are attending the meeting at Greenville some this week.

Our school is increasing all the time, and we hope it will be the largest and best we have ever had.

Moye and Kittrell have bought out the entire saw mill and ginning business of A. G. Cox. The work will go right on as usual.

J. R. Johnson must be afraid that he will forget his trade of plastering. Has left J. B. Cooper in his store while he plasters W. L. House's house.

You can get goods as cheap and some goods cheaper at B. F. Manning & Co.'s than elsewhere. They also pay the farmer the highest market price for his produce.

The Hunsucker Carriage Company at this place wants to begin operations about December 1st. There will be an opening for a good trimmer, a painter, and a blacksmith.

An effort is being made to work up a stock company for the purpose of running a furniture factory at this place. If you want stock in a business of this kind, correspond with G. W. Parker.

A. G. Cox has his entire force of hands cutting up his crop of corn by steam. If this experiment works well it will completely revolutionize the saving of the corn crop and other forage in this section.

The season of the year is coming on when farmers have the most of their hauling to do. We have two-horse and one-horse wagons, also dirt-body and box-body carts which we guarantee and sell to you at rock bottom prices.

Pythians Feasted.

After the meeting of the Knights of Pythias Friday night the officers took the members to the City Restaurant to partake of an oyster supper. It was served under the direction of Manager J. M. Reuss and everything was in excellent order.

Not a Man.

When the passenger train came in Friday evening there was not a traveling man to get off here. Capt. Hawks says his mind does not recall the time when it so happened before. Usually there are a number along.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1899.

Nobody has yet proposed the erection of a triumphal arch for Otis, though the people would doubtless be glad to erect a dozen, if the President would only order him home.

It would seem that by this time Mr. McKinley must understand the popular feeling regarding the scandalous Navy Department treatment of the man who smashed the Dons at Santiago.

The trip of the President and his Cabinet through the west has already proved to be a political stumping tour. The speeches of all the Cabinet ministers have been direct appeals for political support.

President McKinley points with pride to our increase of territory as if it was due to him, but fails to mention the increase in the National debt, the increase in the internal revenue taxes, and the increase in the number of trusts.

Last fall Republican organizations sent circulars to postmasters in many States, but the Postmaster General ordered all postmasters to put up in their offices a notice to employes that they need not contribute and would not be molested if they failed to do so. Now that the Ohio Republicans are asking assessments this fall, will the Postmaster General repeat his order?

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 13, '99. Senator Jones, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee returned to Washington this week, entirely restored to health. Since his arrival he has familiarized himself with the political outlook and says that the situation in Kentucky, while somewhat involved, is not serious and that he is confident Goebel will win. Ex-Senator Blackburn, who was in Washington several days this week, says he was never more certain of anything in his life than that Goebel will be the next governor of Ky. Senator Jones says that all the information he has had from Ohio has been decidedly favorable to democratic success in the State, and gave this plain talk for the benefit of the kickers in the party: "I consider it the duty of democrats everywhere to stand by the nominees of the party and not to indulge in factional fights. The principal which the candidates represent are far more important than any squabbles among the local politicians, and the defeat of the standard-bearers in this campaign will have a harmful influence in stopping the furtherance of national issues."

Speaking of the proposed removal of headquarters of the National Committee from Chicago to Washington, Senator Jones said it was a matter that would be left largely to the judgment of Vice Chairman Johnson, who has had charge of the committee affairs for some months. Of the general outlook Senator Jones said: "Nationally the democratic party is in the best of shape. We have the best of it on all the issues. We are opposed to trusts, and we shall put ourselves on record as being against them. The anti-expansion sentiment is growing every day, and the people know that the democratic party is consistent in its opposition to imperialism. I can only reaffirm the position which was taken before I went away. I cannot see how a man can believe in the Declaration of Independence, and at the same time clamor for the subjugation of a people who are fighting for freedom. The war in the Philippines is wrong in principle and will prove costly in its prosecution. Silver will not be overshadowed by the other issues before the public. It is as vital as ever, and the arguments in its favor have lost none of their force simply because there are other questions also to be considered." Senator Jones will go to Arkansas in a few days, to remain until Congress meets.

Wall street operators always know that when a republican administration is in power they can count upon assistance whenever their manipulations create a stringency in the money market. Consequently they never hesitate to create a stringency if thereby they can secure a profit. It is the old old story and nobody was surprised at the official announcement, made this week, that the U. S. Treasury had once more lent its aid to the money sharpers of Wall street by deciding to anticipate the payment of the interest upon the entire public debt for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900.

The plans of the administration in the Philippines have not been entirely successful, because the condition of the roads, which have been fully set forth since the abolishment of the press censorship, have made the intended military movements during the present week comparative failures, although the men have been through hardships they are not likely to forget. Although Otis tried to gurry out the orders, which were expected to bring results to justify Boss Hanna's claim that the war will soon be over; insinuations are being thrown out in administration circles about his having been too precipitate in trying to move troops with artillery and supply trains before the roads were in better condition. Otis has't any admirers to spare outside of the War Department, but there is a general disposition to object to his being made a scapegoat because of his inability, from natural causes, to carry out orders which never would have been issued except for Hanna's report that something must be done to arouse some administration enthusiasm in Ohio.

Things a Mother Should Not Do.

She should not forget that if she treats her boy as a gentleman she will do much toward making him a gentleman.

She should not treat her boy to perpetual frowns, scoldings and faultfindings. "Sugar attracts more flies than vinegar." Love wins her boy to a noble manhood.

She should never be so busy or harrassed for time that she cannot listen to him. If he lives to be a man he will all too soon leave her. She should make the best of him while she has him.

She should encourage outdoor exercise or sport, and she should not forget to train him with proper regard for his personal appearance.

She should never allow him to form such habits as coming to the table in his shirt sleeves, neglecting his nails or teeth, or carrying soiled handkerchiefs about with him.

She should never nag him, or forget that he is a creature of reason, not an animal that requires to be driven.

She should not try to break her boy's will, but be thankful that he is manly enough to have a mind of his own and devote himself to training it to the noblest uses.

She should not fail to instill in him a distaste for all that is vulgar. —Household.

The Cotton Crop and Price.

The Government's report printed yesterday showed that the cotton crop had deteriorated in every State that produces a large yield of cotton, and that the October average is below the mean of average for ten years. There was a decline for September in all States except Florida. Along with this government report comes the news that the cotton crop in India is one million bales short.

In the face of these facts, which ordinarily would have insured eight cents for the cotton crop from the opening of the market, the bears have fought actively to keep down the price, and in their efforts have had the help of Neill, and the English and American cotton spinners. So far, while cotton has gone up, the price has been kept all along below the price which it ought to bring. We said in these columns when the August reports were printed that every pound of cotton in the South was worth eight cents a pound. The September reports show that it is worth even more.

The question with the farmers is how they can realize its true value. Next week the cotton farmers will hold a convention or conference in Raleigh to consider those matters that are of interest to cotton growers. It is to be hoped that the attendance will be large and that the wisdom of the planters will evolve a plan that will put money in the pockets of the men who for years have been swapping dollars in the production of cotton. The convention will be held in the hall of the House of Representatives on Wednesday night of Fair week. It is an important gathering and it is to be hoped that every cotton county in the State will be represented by its best men.—Raleigh News and Observer.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS.

Made by the Orange Va. Observer.

Though a man has a dogma he need not be dogmatic.

The man who gets in a pickle isn't always sharp.

People who visit Niagara Falls always get a cataract in the eye.

The man with crooked legs is always going on the warp-path.

Some people pray on their knees at night and on their neighbors all day.

The darkey's hour is just before dawn--when he's looking for a chicken.

Some people find their greatest enjoyment when engaged in a quarrel.

It is not every one who trusts in God who is to be trusted safely or whom God would trust.

Now the brown shelled chestnut looks so nice and firm, but when you gently bite it, then you catch the worm.

Clothe a small-minded man with a little brief authority and he can out-strut a peacock and out-snarl a hyena.

Some men blow hard enough in a day to make even a yacht race a success and then haven't said anything by bedtime.

Left Town.

Winston, Oct. 12.—Mr. W. H. Gilbert, who has conducted a large hardware store here for two years, sold out to Wall & Huske, another hardware firm here, and left Winston yesterday. It is charged that he disposed of his stock for less than half the cost and that he is badly involved. It is not known where he has gone. He boarded the north-bound train at Greensboro. He told one man here that he was going to Alaska. He was a clever man and came here from Wilmington.

Men exposed to the rigors of the Alaskan winter never wear mustaches. They wear full beards to protect their throats and faces, but keep their upper lips clean shaven. The moisture from the breath congeals so quickly that a mustache becomes embedded in a solid cake of ice, and the face is frozen in a short time.

Stole a Mule and Buggy.

Yesterday morning a tall white man, who gave his name as Jim May and said he was from Henderson, and had been grading tobacco for Mr. Elijah Loftin for three weeks, about four miles from Kinston, borrowed a dark bay mule from Mr. B. M. Sparrow to come to Kinston, and yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock he hitched the mule to the buggy of Mr. Philip Stroud, back of Mr. S. H. Loftin's store, and left, putting the saddle in the buggy, so a colored boy, who saw him, says. A man of the same description was seen passing by Mr. Doc Wallace's late yesterday. He may be gone to Hookerton, Greenville, Rocky Mount or Wilson or elsewhere.—Kinston Free Press.
