FLANAGAN--HOOKER.

Magnificent Reception and Beautiful Marriage.

THE RECEPTION.

The reception at the residence of H. L. Coward tendered to the friends of Mr. Flanagan and Miss Hooker last evening was a brilliant affair. From nine till eleven the beautifully decorated, well lighted and spacious home was alive with happy youth and kind hearted men and women, relatives and friends of the popular young couple on the eve of a united life. If the life of these young people shall prove to be one half as happy as their friends wish, it will be one long glad song.

While all the over the house there was wit and humor, smiles and laughter, in the dining room were busy hands serving refreshments with womanly grace to the delight of all the many guests. As the evening wore away amid "good nights" and best wishes the callers returned to their homes to rest, preparatory to an early gathering at the Memorial Baptist church this morning to witness the consummation of the glad event which had called so many friends together.

THE MARRIAGE.

This morning at 8 o'clock in the Memorial Baptist church which had been beautifully decorated in green, as a quartette composed of H. W. Holcomb, tenor, Mrs. T. E. Hooker, soprano; Mrs. Ollen E. Warren, alto; and R. Hyman, basso; skillfully and impressively rendered. The Wedding Hymn, the ushers, Messrs Dr. Laughinghouse, Dr. Moye and Will Hooker came up the aisles to the rostrum. They were followed by the attendants in the following order: Mr. James Wiggins with Miss Lizzie Jones up the left aisle, Mr. J. E. Starkey with Miss Ada Wooten up the right, in front of the rostrum they met and, crossing over, took their positions on opposite sides; then Mr. A. H. Gary with Miss Sophia Jarvis came up the left aisle, and Mr. James F. Davenport with Miss Blanche Flanagan up the right taking their positions in the same way; following these came Mr. R. M. Moye with Miss Josie Herring up the left, and Mr. C. S. Forbes with Miss Pattie Skinner up the right crossing over as the others; after these had taken their positions, up the opposite aisles came Mr. T. M. Hooker up the right and Miss Nannie Moye, of Kinston, up the left, ascending the rostrum and stopping in the rear; as these took their places the beautiful little Miss Mary Shelburn, neice of the groom, came upon the rostrum bearing a silver waiter on which lay the wedding ring; then entered the groom Mr. Edward G. Flanagan attended by Mr. Frank Wilson his best man while up the opposite aisle came the bride Miss Rosa Hooker on the arm of her sister, Mrs. H. L. Coward, dame of honor.

As they took their places the wedding hymn closed. Its soft notes accompanied by the skillful touch of Mrs. J. L. Fleming had prepared the wedding party and the large audience for the solemn ceremony performed by the pastor Rev. J. N. Booth as the contracting parties stood beneath two large hearts indicative that their hearts are ever after this to be one. At the close, the party retired from the church as Mrs. Fleming rendered the wedding march and immediately took the train for an extended bridal tour. They go with the best wishes of all as the numerous display of costly presents and large gathering of friends at both reception and marriage attest.

Its an ill wind that doesn't blow when there's to be a yacht race.

Do Not Fully Appreciate This Country.

The result of the war between Spain and the United States, which has given this country an acquired right to territory in the West and East Indies, has provoked worse than foolish forecasts over what the United States would do in the future.

From a Mexican newspaper the following is given:

"A South American journal to hand has an article dealing with North American pretensions to dominance in this hemisphere, and taking a clairvoyant glance into the future, it gives the dates of the following annexations by our excellent Uncle Sam:

- 1900—St. Thomas, Jamaica, Haiti and San Domingo.
- 1910—Martinique, Santa Lucia, Isthmus of Panama and Central America.
- 1912—Mexico.
- 1915—Columbia, Venezuela, Ecuador.
- 1929—Chile, Peru, Bolivia.

1940—Argentine Republic, Uruguay, Paraguay and Brazil."

And it might naturally be wished by this same forecaster that the United States be destroyed by some internal or foreign power as the result of these territorial acquisitions.

Such a prediction as the above must read as ridiculous to every sensible person, for history shows how firm and strong a supporter this country has been to the struggling Latin Republics of South America.

And it is because of this support and backing of the United States that these Republics have been able to maintain their independence instead of being parceled out into a number of dependencies controlled and paying tribute to European nations.

When the United States ceases to give this protection to the South American Republics, the time of their independence will be only a question of short durations.—New Berne Journal.

"What is home without a news paper?" asks one exchange to which another replies: "It is a place where old hats are stuffed into broken windows; where the wife looks like a bag of wool with a string around her centre; where the husband has a tobacco panorama painted on his shirt front and the neglected children wipe their noses on their jacket sleeve."

W. G. Pilkington, who killed State Senator Flanagan in an affray at Powhatan court house, Va., some months ago, and has recently been on trial for homicide, under the charge of murder, was acquitted.

Movements of Warships.

Washington, October 15.—The Navy Department has been informed that the New Orleans will be able to sail from New York navy yard for Manila next Friday. The boilers were found to be in a much better condition than was at first reported. The navy people are watching with interest what promises to be one of the finest ocean races on record between naval vessels from the United States to the Philippines. The Nashville got away today, starting from San Juan and bound first to Suez. The Marietta sails Monday from Lambert's Point in Hampton Roads. The fast Brooklyn is also expected to sail Monday from Norfolk, while, as before stated, the New Orleans sails Friday. These ships all go by way of Suez. From the other side of the continent there will start during the coming week the Ranger first, probably, this boat having been substituted for the Badger and then the Newark. Although handicapped by nearly a week, these vessels have the shortest course, and the naval officers here believe that McCalla will land the Newark at Manila ahead of the faster eastern bound ships.

The Business Instinct.

Too many people are accustomed to think of politeness in address as appropriate in company, but quite out of place in business. An engaging manner is useful everywhere.

This axiom is amusingly illustrated by a story which Justin McCarthy tells. Soon after the civil war, he says, I happened to be standing on a bridge in New York amusing myself by studying the crowd, when a shrill, youthful voice accented me with, "Cap'n, shine yer boots?"

The chance distribution of military titles was ready and liberal at the time when so many soldiers were returning to civilian life, and I paid no attention to the invitation.

Just then a rival bootblack passed, and, imagining where the cause of my indifference lay, he advanced, and, pushing past the unsuccessful claimant, he gave me a military salute and appealed to me with the captivating words:

"Brigadier general, shine yer boots?" I had my boots shined on the spot.

Truly Appreciative.

"Do you appreciate poetry?" asked the serious young woman.

"Yes, indeed," answered Mr. Cumrox. "There's one piece of poetry that has done me a world of good. Old as I am, there are times when I couldn't tell how to figure without saying 'Thirty days hath September, April, June and November.'"—Washington Star.

THE WORD BLIZZARD.

Said to Have Been Used in South Dakota in the Sixties.

A well known book of reference states that the Chicago Advance was the originator of the word "blizzard" on the 8th of January, 1880. Old timers in South Dakota take exception to the statement. A story is told by the editor of the Hutchinson County Herald, who commenced his newspaper work in Vermillion by stage, and William Peake, manager of the bell ringers, said to a party of friends, "I would like to see one of your blizzards I have heard so much about." Mr. True answered: "All right. We will order one for your special benefit and have it here when you come back through here from Yankton."

After showing three nights in Yankton the troupe started homeward to Sioux City, Mr. Peake being on the outside of the stage with the driver. The morning was warm and balmy. Mr. Peake was astonished at the actions of the driver, who suddenly whipped up, and asked what the matter was. T. C. Williams, who was driving, answered that he was afraid Mr. True's order was going to be a little ahead of time. "Look to the northwest," said he. There was the blizzard approaching in all its fury. In almost a minute the blinding snow was being whirled through the air, and Mr. Peake withdrew to the inner part of the stage. It was one of the most terrific storms known to the territory, which is saying considerable. The Peake troupe was compelled to wait several days at Vermillion until Mr. True's blizzard had blown itself out.

Fiddle Butt Stealers.

There is a reason why the Adirondack forest fires should become more destructive each succeeding year. Most of the timber there is spruce. While spruce is used for various purposes it is valued chiefly as material for the manufacture of sounding boards for all kinds of musical instruments.

That part of the spruce tree which is free from branches, extending to from 20 to 30 feet above the ground, is known as a fiddle butt. As there are no branches in that part of the trunk there are no knots, and when the lumber is sawed it presents a smooth surface, an essential in the making of sounding boards.

The stealing of fiddle butts is carried on as a regular industry by hundreds of men who own small farms on the outer edges of the forests. These men go into the woods in winter and cut down thousands of great spruce trees. They take from each tree only the base log, which they sell at the nearest sawmill, allowing the remainder of the tree to lie where it falls. The branches become dry as tinder in time, and when a fire is started by a careless hunter or woodsman they furnish an abundance of fuel for the spread of the conflagration.

Many efforts have been made to punish the fiddle butt stealers, but it is a fact that no jury has ever been got together that would bring in a verdict of guilty. It is claimed, with much evidence of truth, that a jury has never been selected in that section that did not have a fiddle butt stealer among its members.—Philadelphia Record.

No Wonder He Fled.

A tall, solemn looking young man entered the restaurant with a mild, apologetic air and seated himself at a vacant table near the middle of the room. It was evident that he dreaded to intrude. He wanted to get as far away from other people as possible. He even blushed painfully when he gave his order, and the most casual observer could have told that he was bashful.

Just as his dinner was brought to him a buxom looking woman with seven small children entered the place. The head waiter swept the field with his eye, pounced down upon the table where the young man had sought solitude, motioned to the mother, who clucked to the chickens, and a moment later they were all around that one table.

That young man's face was a serial story.

Other people entered the restaurant, glanced at the group, smiled significantly, and seated themselves.

"He doesn't look it, does he?" queried a pleasant faced old lady in an audible whisper.

"She looks at least ten years older than he," murmured a girl at the next table.

He flew to the hatrack, tossed a half crown to the waiter and tried to go through the door without opening it.—London Telegraph.

THE FURNITURE MEN

Their Thirteenth Quarrel

They had been married fully three months, and were having their thirteenth quarrel—thirteen being an unlucky number.
 "You only married me for my money," he said.
 "I didn't do anything of the kind," she retorted.
 "Well, you didn't marry me because you loved me."
 "I know I didn't."
 "In heaven's name, then, what did you marry me for?"
 "Just to make that hateful Kate Scott you were engaged to cry her eyes out because she had to give you up to another."
 "Great Caesar! Woman!" he sputtered, "what have you done? Why, I married you just because Kate Scott threw me over!"

Postponed.

WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, Oct. 18, '99

L. N. Edwards has a very sick child.

J. A. Manning moved his family in the Busler house Monday.

The brick kiln, which is on fire this week, seems to be burning very nicely.

People down here are getting in a great notion for using heaters instead of open fireplaces.

If you are an experienced workman in any part of the carriage business, there is a chance for you with the Hunsucker Carriage Co. which will begin work here about Dec. 1st.

Mr. Nash Edwards was very glad to have an old friend, Mr. Johnson, a merchant in Gold Point, call in awhile yesterday evening. He was just passing through on business.

Land in and around Winterville instead of being owned by a land company trying to get the highest possible price for it, can be procured on very reasonable terms at any time.

STRIKE FOR STRIKE.

If anything strikes you, you generally strike that. There is a chance for you to strike something that strikes you at B. F. Manning & Co's in the way of Furniture, Clothing, or General Merchandise. And the price will strike you too.

G. W. Parker is getting so that he don't care whether he talks fence or not. He says that he is selling more fence than he can fill anyway. Thinks he will have to increase his capacity.

ANYTHING YOU WANT:—In the way of general shop work you can get from us. While as you know we make a specialty of Carts, Wagons, Coffins, Saddles &c., yet perhaps we can compete with others on more kinds of work than you thought. Try us.
