GREENVILLE IMPROVING

Mayor Has But Few Cases

The improvements going on in Greenville are not alone in the way of new buildings and increased business, but a difference in the deportment of certain elements of the citizens is also noticeable. When Mayor J. G. Moye began his administration the first of last July he started out by impressing the fact that he was going to have the town ordinances observed or he was going to punish the offenders. And he has worked right along the line of his declaration. For awhile he had pretty full dockets, especially on Monday mornings, but now it is noticed that there has been a large falling off in cases. This Monday morning he never had a case to try, and for the past week he had but three cases, and they were of such a trivial nature that he did not even impose a fine but lectured the defendants and dismissed them. Let this kind of improvement continue and Greenville will be a model town.

New Office

The Mayor's office has been moved from the old building near the Market house to the hall over Mr. Frank Wilson's store. The entrance is on Fourth street. The new office is a great improvement over the old quarters.

Daughters of Confederacy.

The Singletary Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles Laughinghouse. All members are requested to be present as some matters are to be considered in which all should be deeply interested.

Any of our wood paying subscribers are reminded that we would not object to having some wood about this time of year.

A Murderous Scheme.

But for the timely warning of a Federal prisoner, there would have been a bloody scene in the county jail yesterday, and probably a wholesale jail delivery. Early yesterday morning this prisoner secretly imparted the information to Deputy Sheriff Monaghan that there was a plot among the prisoners to escape, and that it involved the taking of one or more lives.

To verify the truthfulness of this statement, Deputy Sheriff Monaghan took up a position in the jail, from which he could hear what was going on without himself being discovered, and remained there from 2 until 5 o'clock, during which time he became aware that the plot was being carried out. When at last he made himself known, David Surles was hard at work filing through the last strand of the last impediment to reaching the outside corridor, which surrounds the cage. The big bolts had already been forced from their sockets by the clever work no doubt of the professional crook, Johnson, using the wire, while one of the heavy padlocks had been filed free and the other one nearly so.

Johnson is one of the crooks who followed the Wallace circus and was arrested here for stealing a pocket-book.—Fayetteville Observer.

Ends His Own Life.

Thomas Dillon, a white laborer, was found dead in bed Saturday morning at his home in Kidder's alley, leading from Seventh street, between Church and Castle. By his side was a four-ounce bottle of laudanum, and this, coupled with the fact that he had previously threatened to take his own life, leads his friends to believe that it is a case of suicide. Domestic troubles were assigned by him previously as the reason of his intention to commit the rash act.—Wilmington Star.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER, 23, 1899

Let's Def-r the Discussion.

We suppose it is unavoidable yet it is regrettable, that there should be as much discussion as there is, at this early date, of the United States senatorship to be filled by the Legislature of 1901. The names of four gentlemen—Chairman Simmons, Col. J. S. Carr, ex Governor Jarvis and Hon. Alfred M. Waddell—are conspicuously mentioned in connection with it, and while any of them would perhaps resent a statement that he is a candidate for it, each has his friends who are bringing him forward, and any of them would of course feel gratified and honored in being elected; but it is pleasing to note that two of them—Mr. Simmons and Col. Waddell—publicly deprecate any agitation of the matter until after next August's election. The discussion of who shall be Senator should be deferred until after the election of the Legislature which is to choose him. The Democratic party of North Carolina has had a bitter experience resulting from the thrusting of a senatorial fight into a State campaign. We do not believe that the heated controversy between the friends of Senator Ransom and ex-Governor Jarvis in 1894 was the cause of the fusion victory of that year, for it was already written in the stars that the Democratic party was to be defeated in that election, but it undoubtedly contributed to it and was harmful in every imaginable way. It is to be hoped that this generation will not see a repetition of such a controversy at a similar period in politics, and we hope to be pardoned for the suggestion that the Democratic press and its correspondents have the matter very largely in their hands. If the newspapers will refrain from lining up prematurely for their respective favorites and discussing their claims—which will be sure to be regarded by some as depreciating the merits of other gentlemen and thus provoke counter discussion—and if the correspondents will withhold their hands, we can fight the next campaign and win the election practically without the hindrance of this handicap, and then there will be plenty of time to look after the matter of who shall be Senator. Otherwise there may be no Democratic Legislature at all, and thus the State and the National party will have lost a vote in the Senate, and the State, through the loss of a Democratic Legislature, will find itself again in the slough from which it pulled itself with so great effort and at such great cost in 1898.—Charlotte Observer.

At Wilson Thursday Jefferson was found guilty of murder in the first degree, for waylaying and killing Mr. Calvin Barnes on August 20th. Judge Battle sentenced Jefferson Friday to be hanged on Friday, Nov. 16th. Counsel for Jefferson have appealed the case.

We Say "Amen" to this.

The Democratic press of the State seems to be almost a unit for a primary for United States Senator. We are in favor of this under certain circumstances or conditions, let the aspirants for the position announce themselves as candidates early next year stating how they stand on the great policies that will be before the people in the campaign. Let the Democratic State convention order a primary to be held after the next State election in August and let the claims of the different candidates be settled by the people, but under no circumstances let the question interfere with the election of the Legislature of the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment. There is danger along this line and we are opposed to the Senatorial question being brought up at all until after the State election.—Aberdeen Telegram.

Diversified Crops.

The Smithfield Herald says that the farmers of Johnson county, North Carolina, are more prosperous than in several years. Diversification of crops has brought this about in Johnson county," adds the Herald. It is becoming clearer every year that the only hope of better times on the farm lies in diversifying the crops. The day of all cotton or all tobacco has ended with wide awake farmers. They are planting for big crops of hog and hominy, and mean to live at home and board at the same place. That's the road that leads to better conditions. Plant hog and hominy, sow peas and grow cabbages, raise chickens and turkeys and sell eggs—add these and other like things to cotton and tobacco and the farmers will live better. Diversify—that's the hope of the Southern farmer.—News and Observer.

HE KNEW HUMAN NATURE.

And Had No Trouble in Disposing of the Old Stock.

In Dearborn street is a haberdasher—time was when they answered to a less formidable name—who counts a genius among his employees. This "favored of fortune" is a youth who once clerked in a general store in the country, and his present proprietor wonders if there are any more like him running at large in the provinces.

There had been a stock of cheap collars and cuffs on the shelves for years. Once in a while, usually just before invoicing, these articles had been brought down, carefully dusted, tied with new baby ribbon, arranged in orderly fashion in the window and marked "9 cents" for the cuffs, "5 cents" for the collars. But patrons would none of them. Occasionally a man would come along and toss them over, attracted by the price, but that was all. They would not sell.

The country youth waited till the first hard rain. Then he took an armful of the goods and dipped them carefully in a pail of water so that about half of each article was moistened. Then he dried them in the sun at the back door and next morning heaped them in the window with this marking:

Ruined by the Rain. Collars, 10 Cents. Cuffs, 20 Cents.

And they went before noon. It was all the genius from the country could do to get subsequent armfuls soaked and dried fast enough to supply the demand.—Chicago Post.

The Permanent Advertiser.

Advertising is an art that everybody knows; and never so much an art as in these days, when as much careful work is done in writing advertising as in writing editorials. But advertising is also a science. A high authority says: "Advertising should be planned on the presumption that it is going to be permanent." That is a scientific statement. It means that advertising should be systematic, and not sporadic; that it is a distinct feature and department, and should be so administered. Announcements now and then cannot bring a train of steady benefits. They may do spurt sales, but when the sales run their course they are forgotten.

On the other hand, like the continuous dropping that wears away the stone, systematic advertising in an artistic way, day after day, year in and year out, becomes part of the reading matter of the great newspaper. "You never miss the water until the well runs dry." Newspaper readers do not know, perhaps, how much entertainment and benefit they get from the advertising columns until they think about it. Then they realize that all these merchants who, day after day, talk to them through the newspaper columns are their friends and pleasant acquaintances and they act accordingly.

The Roanoke Union Meeting will be held in the Baptist church at Bethel next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The new church building will be dedicated on Sunday morning.

It is not the number of flowers you pile on a man's coffin or grave that proves your humanity toward him, but the number of kind words you speak concerning him and the number of kind acts you perform for him while he is alive and fighting life's battles are the things that count.—Exchange.

Rutherford county has one of the youngest engineers, perhaps, in the United States. His name is King McIntire, living in Green Hill township, and is only seven years old. He runs and fires an engine at a saw mill. His father manages the sawing and another brother, only nine years old, bales the shingles as they come from the machine.
