THE RECORD WILL SHOW.

MR. EDITOR:

If you will spare me a little space I would appreciate it very much. My object is to air a gentleman (a little) without calling his name, which is entirely unnecessary, as everybody knows him from the great and tremendous efforts he has made to gain notoriety.

When I came out of the last war, just before the election of 1898, I learned that an honest convention of the Democratic citizens had assembled and nominated good and true men (Democrats) for the several offices of our county. Not long had I been home before I heard of some dissatisfaction in the Democratic ranks. I began to inquire as to the cause. Lo, and behold: It came from a man who claimed to belong to the party, but upon investigation, I found that he was one of the tellows who are always on the alert for the loaves, etc. He came to this county after having failed in an adjoining county to gather any loaves, and cast his first ballot for what turned out to be a Radical vote. He forthwith began to suck from the public teat, and did suck for sometime. After the public milk ceased to flow he was a patriot in every sense of the word until he placed himself before the Democratic party for nomination to one of the most important offices within the gift of the people, claiming (oh, my!) that his fealty and wonderful achievements entitled him to the place. In the language of one of my friends, "Let us pray."

Since the election in November last he has put himself up as censor of the doings of the Democratic party, making false statements and concealing the good done by the party. I don't care to say more, but I do call on the few good men of the county and party, who have been encouraging him, to visit the Court House and examine the records. If they do so, knowing them as I do, they will repudiate what they have heretofore endorsed for him.

A DEMOCRAT.

Bishop's Visitation.

Bishop A. A. Watson will hold services in St. Paul's Episcopal church tonight at 7 o'clock. He will administer Holy Communion on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

Commissioners Sued.

Last August while the bridge across the river here was being repaired the draw broke in two, throwing several workmen in the river, and John Worsley, a colored man of Rocky Mount, was drowned. The County Commissioners sent his body home and defrayed the burial expenses. It now turns out that some of the colored man's family or relatives have taken out letters of administration on his estate and have brought suit in Nash county against the Commissioners of Pitt county. The suit is for $5,000 and is against the Commissioners by name and not against the county. Ex-Gov. Jarvis has gone to Nash court to represent the Commissioners in the case.

Six Bales Burned

Mr. W. H. Moore lives on the Foreman place, in Falkland township. On the place was a tenant house which he used for storing cotton and other crops. Monday night this house was destroyed by fire. At the time there were eight bales of seed cotton and a hundred bushels of pease in the building, all of which, except about two bales of the cotton, was totally destroyed. Mr. Moore had no insurance at all and the loss is a severe one to him. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER, 21, 1899.

THE REFLECTOR was correct in its statement Monday relating to the Normal & Industrial College at Greensboro. The school has temporarily closed, and the pupils have gone to their homes. With so much fever prevailing in the school this was deemed best. It is a misfortune to the institution that it has to thus close in the midst of a session and it is hoped the cause of the fever can be quickly discovered and removed.

Honey from the Hive.

Danger in Kerosene Oil.

This thing of using oil to start fires is a bad example to set before the children. It was the cause of the death of a little girl in Wilkes county recently. While she and a little brother were playing, oil was spilt on her dress. Having seen the parents burn it off the floor they tried to burn it off her clothes. As a consequence the little one was burned so badly that she died in a few hours.—Winston Sentinel.

From what we can learn, there occurred this week on Chocowinity a scrap quite out of the ordinary, and was caused by one moonshiner attempting to capture another one's still. Our informant states, about one year ago, a certain party who had been engaged in the illicit distilling of whiskey had his still stolen, and was unable to locate it until the past week when he attempted to recapture it. Shots were exchanged, and things were lively for a time. Rumor says one of the party was wounded.—Washington Messenger.

The Increase of Sobriety and Good Morals.

The often expressed fear from the pulpit and religious press that the world is growing each year more demoralized, in the morals and habits of the majority of mankind, is no doubt an honest expression, yet it is unquestionably caused more by the wish for a greater and more increased and visible christianity on the part of the people, than by actual facts of an increasing moral degeneracy.

The columns of the press, while it seems to teem with accounts of crime and various depravities of the human race, cannot be accepted as the only arbiter in the matter, for if the good deeds of man and womankind were placed on daily record they would far offset the bad deeds.

No stronger sign of the increase of sobriety and good morals, and the appreciation for the man of good habits, can be found that is to-day demanded in the business world.

Look at the advertisements of those who want help and those who want work.

What is the most prominent feature of these "Want Ads"? Is it not the demand for sobriety and good habits on the part of the employer, and the certification by the seeker of a job that he is sober and of good habits?

Take the great railways and business houses of the country and how impossible it is for the drinking man to get work, when a few years ago, sobriety while on duty was only required.

A recent order of the Southern Railway Company to its train employs, is a significant sign of the advancement of good habits.

This order is that employs while on duty shall not use tobacco in any form.

Another important move in the direction of better habits and manners is the ordinance passed in many cities against spitting on the public sidewalks.

These two illustrations, apparently trifling, are nevertheless movements towards good morals, for nothing tends more towards increased morality in life than cleanliness of speech and habit of living.

It is this public demand for men whose characters are good, whose lives are sober, whose habits are industrious, that tends to elevate mankind.

There may be legislative enactments of prohibition, against drinking, against disorderly conduct, against unclean living, yet these laws will never be effective unless the public shall thoroughly endorse them.

Far better and more efficacious in the cause of sobriety and good morals, is the demand for men of such characters, than all the prohibitory laws that can be placed upon the statute books!

And if this premium is placed on sobriety and good morals, who can think otherwise but that it means the advancement of the world towards a better and higher plane?—New Bern Journal.

There are few people who can claim to have heard their own funeral sermon. Rev. E. R. Johnson, of Mulberry, Indiana, once passed through this unique experience. While suffering from an attack of catalepsy Mr. Johnson was declared dead, and as he was lying in his coffin he heard his funeral sermon preached by a brother minister. He was conscious of what was taking place about him, heard the physician pronounce him dead, and witnessed the preparations made for his burial. The spell was broken just after the eulogy had been pronounced, and his restoration to health followed.

Choked a Panther to Death to Save His Little Sister.

Paul Kruger, who has been President of the South African republic almost from its formation, evidently became a hero to his Dutch-Africans early in life. Like the Hebrew David, with his fadeless renown of victories over a bear, a lion and a giant when he was only a shepherd lad, the Transvaal chief enjoys among the Boers a popularity always enhanced by the memory of his fearless boyhood.

When seventeen years old, Paul—a barefooted boy, whose father was too poor to buy him shoes—was driving home a borrowed yoke of oxen and cart, when the animals took fright at a large panther, and ran away.

Paul's little sister, who had been allowed to go with him in the cart "for a ride," was thrown out upon the ground, and the panther, leaving its pursuit of the oxen was about to seize her, when the boy "rushed forward and caught the beast by the throat. In the struggle that followed, he was terribly torn by the panther's claws, but he kept his hold with fierce determination until he choked the monster to death. In spite of great loss of blood, he carried the frightened child home; but it was long before he recovered the remarkable strength which had been so cruelly taxed. More like Samson than David in his encounter with the wild brute, he won with "nothing in his hand."

President Kruger to-day bears not only the marks of the great cat's nails, but the character he first impressed upon his fellow countrymen in that unarmed fight for another's life. An English writer recently said of him: "Like Nelson, Paul Kruger never knew what fear meant."—Youth's Companion.

Sam Jones Injured.

Rev. Sam P. Jones was painfully injured at his home in Cartersville Ga., a day or two ago. While in his wagon yard he was struck by a wagon tongue, knocked down and a wheel of the wagon passed over his arm near the shoulder. No bones were broken. It is thought the horse attached to the wagon had been left standing in the yard and started to run and Mr. Jones in trying to stop it, was injured. It will probably be several weeks before he fully recovers.

HIGGS & TAFT. THE FURNITURE MEN

One-Legged Dancer.

There was a one-legged negro at the depot, Monday evening, who could beat most of the two-legged folks dancing. On his one leg and crutch he could shuffle as lively a jig as the best of them can put up.

An exchange intimates that the very best curfew ordinance is that one adopted in the family, where the old man acts as mayor, city council, night watch and calaboose keeper, and where fine and punishment go together, and the hickory gad is occasionally used, and where fines are not suspended but promptly executed, where they don't bother as much about passing a lot of ordinances as they do in enforcing these already on the records.

Why He Didn't Get In.

He stood before St. Peter and meekly applied for admission to the Better Land.

"Cannot admit you sir."

"Cannot admit me?" exclaimed the dismayed aspirant. "Have I not lived a Christian life?"

"Yes, in the main."

"Haven't I obeyed the laws of the land?"

"Oh, yes."

"What then has been my offense?"

"You wanted to stop your newspaper and instead of dropping a line to the publisher and paying arrears, you had the postmaster send him a message to the effect that his paper was refused. A man so contemptible would find no company in heaven; so please move on to the land where they don't shovel snow.—Ex.
