THE TOY MAN.

MURDER AND ARSON.

Mr. George Taylor Murdered and Burned in His Home.

Early Saturday night Mr. George Taylor, of Carolina township, was murdered and burned in his home. He lived by himself in a house on the plantation of his father, Mr. Sam Taylor, near Oakley. He and his brother went to Oakley that evening and getting through his trading he returned home ahead of them. Later his brothers also started home, and when they reached his house saw that it was on fire. They first went to work to try to put out the fire, but the flames had gained too much headway to be checked. Not seeing their brother George about the place they began looking for him. They went around and looked in his bedroom, and not seeing him they concluded he must not have gone home.

Soon the house fell in, when they made the horrible discovery that George had been burned in the building. The charred remains of his body were lying just inside of where the front door to the house was located.

It is supposed that robbers had entered the house during his absence and were there when he returned, and coming upon them unawares they had murdered him as he entered the door and burned the house to cover up the crime. This theory is strengthened from the fact that the house of Mr. Sam Taylor, about a quarter of a mile distant, had also been entered by robbers since the family left home that evening.

The Coroner, Dr. Charles Laughinghouse, went over Sunday and held an inquest, the jury being I. H. Little, D. C. Mooring, J. S. Overton, W. G. Barnhill, W. A. James and J. E. Congleton. After taking such testimony as could be found the jury made the following verdict: "That George O. Taylor came to his death by unknown hands. We further recommend that Mac Andrews, Henry Andrews and Silas Little be held in custody for the present."

Upon this finding of the jury the three parties named, all colored, were arrested Sunday night and brought to Greenville to be placed in jail.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive." THE REFLECTOR has a lot of receipts on hand. Come around and let us give you one.

Advance Expected.

THE REFLECTOR is in receipt of the following telegram from Price, McCormick & Co., New York, who have been very active in the interest of the Southern planters in rebutting Mill's report of a large cotton crop this season, and in keeping the public informed as to the true condition of the crops:

New York, Dec. 16th, 1899. ED. REFLECTOR, Greenville, N. C. Considering news of British reverses in Transvaal and the financial situation, New York the cotton market has acted extremely well and with the slightest improvement in conditions named will advance sharply. Receipts below smallest estimates and crop looks shorter than ever.

PRICE, McCORMICK & Co. Notwithstanding such advices as above there has been about the heaviest decline in the market today that has occurred any day this season.

Don't Put it Off.

The wise thing to do is not wait until Saturday to make your holiday purchases. The stores are crowded with attractive goods and the early buyers are getting their pick first. Don't put it off another day. Look over the columns of THE REFLECTOR and you will see where to go to find the right kind of goods.

Fast Time.

We hear that one of our enterprising tobacco warehousemen, who was on a trip in the country the other day, drove four miles in 15 minutes, the horse actually trotting so fast that a rabbit was run over in the road. The horse that made this time would be a good investment for the race track. J. D. Gwinn says he will vouch for the correctness of this.

Delivered in town by carriers without extra cost.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1899.

For weeks the press of the McKinleyites has been filled with speculation relative to the whereabouts of Aguinaldo and descriptions of the glorious work of the Army in the northern part of Luzon. Now comes the statement that Aguinaldo is making for Cavite, in the south of the island, and that the insurgent forces there are larger and stronger than ever. What a deceitful rascal somebody is.

Freight Rate on Paper.

Some two weeks ago the trust kited the prices of white paper of all kinds and grades, to the great sorrow of all printing concerns, notably newspapers.

Now the railroads have followed suit by raising freight on the finer grades of paper, to the consternation of book and job printers.

The increase is about 130 per cent., or the rate from Baltimore to Raleigh, for instance, has jumped from 28 to 67 cents. In other words, book paper, which is always framed or crated for shipment, has been taken from the second class and put in the sixth.

This rate, therefore, does not apply to paper in rolls or bundles, but only to such paper as is crated or framed for shipment to prevent damage, the rate depending upon the construction of the package.

Of course this only affects book and job printers, and they are protesting vigorously against it. Already complaint in regard to it has been filed with the corporation commission, and yesterday a circular letter in regard to the rate was sent out from the office of Edwards & Broughton asking all printers and newspapers in the State to assist in the fight against the rate.—News and Observer, 12th.

Miscellaneous.

A pail of water standing in a room that has been newly painted will quickly absorb the disagreeable odor of the paint.

To clean knives that have fruit and vinegar stains on them, use raw potatoes. Rub the blades, then polish on the knife board.

Wash the inside of the tea kettle frequently with hot suds. This dislodges a sediment which forms a coating over the inside of the kettle if allowed to remain.

Handles of knives and forks should never be put in hot water. If the handles come off, mix equal parts of quick-lime and rose and partly fill the hole; then heat the spike and push it in.

One of the most convenient things for washing the inside of lamp chimneys is a piece of sheepskin with the wool on, tacked around the end of a stick of convenient length. This is easy to keep clean and will dry quickly.

Shy About High Up Rooms.

The Windsor Hotel fire has had one result which hotel keepers in the city constantly appreciate. In new and presumably fireproof hotels this surviving feeling shows less conspicuously, although there are evidences of it. "It is very much harder than it ever was before," said a clerk in a Fifth avenue hotel, "to persuade persons to go to rooms on the upper floors, for the fear of fire has become so much greater since the Windsor Hotel catastrophe that we find ourselves now compelled to rent rooms at a very much cheaper price or have them vacant when they are above the fourth floor. Before last winter we had no trouble of that kind. So long as the elevator carried guests up and down they never seemed to care on what floor they were, but now that question is almost the only one that guests pay attention to. The small demand for the upstairs rooms is less of a hardship than it might be, because the matter has straightened itself in the usual way. As long as the rooms up-stairs have had to be reduced in price, we are charging more for those on the lower floors than was ever paid before. In the case of guests who happen to overlook this question when they order rooms, there is always a prompt revolt if they find themselves above the third floor. It is not with intention to deceive that we had all the numbering of the rooms changed, so that the higher numbers are on the lower floors, but with the object of avoiding discussion.—New York Sun.

Old newspapers are excellent for polishing windows, and they are also useful for rubbing greasy grates and stoves. This last should be done while the stove is hot, and, if a little turpentine is rubbed over afterwards, all grease will be removed.

TOBACCO GROWERS

The Official Call For the Convention in Raleigh on Jan. 17th.

To the Tobacco Growers of North Carolina:

By a resolution of the North Carolina Tobacco Growers' Association, which met in Raleigh, December 6th, 1899, all tobacco farmers in North Carolina are asked to assemble at their various county seats on the first Monday in January and organize county associations and send one or more delegates, not exceeding five from each county, to a convention to be held in Raleigh, January 17th, 1900, at 7 o'clock p. m.

Planters in Virginia, South Carolina and Tennessee are invited to join us, form county associations and send delegates to this convention.

At these county meetings it is earnestly desired that the tobacco business in all phases be fully and freely discussed especially in relation to production, consumption, local co-operative factories, markets, etc., also ascertaining as accurately as possible the acreage for the county, yield per acre, proportion of crop marketed, class of tobacco raised, prices, etc.

If for any reason counties fail to organize, individual growers from those counties may attend as delegates.

Thorough organization is necessary to improve present conditions.
