NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Feb. 28, 1900

Simon Moye is agent for Wilmington Laundry.

Johnie Cox, a boarding student here, is sick. He is threatened with pneumonia.

J. J. Bryant went to Parmele on the freight Monday. Expects to return in a day or two.

The guano continues to go in spite of high prices. Manning & Co. have sold several car loads already.

Fred Smith, representing the National Hardware Co. of Cincinnati spent Monday night and half the day here yesterday.

Miss Mary Hardy is back again after an absence of a week. All show plainly that they are glad to see her.

The Bible Band now studying the life of Christ reports great benefit therefrom. They meet every Tuesday night.

Winterville Cigar Co. now has quite a number of regular customers in eastern North Carolina, and some orders are coming in from South Carolina.

Bud Joe says that there is a time in the lives of all men when they act fool more or less, and that the difference between him and them is that he acts fool all the time.

Harrington & Barber have taken in a new partner. From what we can find out his name is CO. They are handling fertilizer this season.

Our people continue to talk a chair or furniture factory. The general opinion is that it will be best to start a chair business first. This is no mere talk, but with a little encouragement in the way of some good man putting down a few hundred dollars, the work will begin. It's no mean business either. SHORT BUT WEIGHTY.

The name "Cox" is a short one but it means much to the Cox Cotton Planter. We received a letter from Georgia Monday night which read this way: "Please send me a Cox Planter as a sample, there is nothing used here but Eclipse. Although I have tried most all kinds, the "Cox" excels them all. Don't be afraid of any article manufactured by us that you can find the word "Cox on. If it isn't all right, we will make it right. A. General Cronje Seems to Have Escaped.

All reports from the scene of war seems to indicate that General Cronje has made his escape. Whether this report is true or not, or whether or not there can be a hope of escape. One thing we can not but admire and look upon with more or less wonder. The bold stand he has made and the gallant fight he has waged. In this war Englishmen are fighting for gold. The Boers are fighting like the boys who wore the grey, for their homes and for their honor.

Every man has a blind side to him, if the reformer can just slip up on it.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY, 28 1900.

The citizens of Hogansville, Ga. objecting to a negro postmaster instituted a boycott against the office with the result that the postmaster has resigned and a person acceptable to the people has been appointed in his place. Of course the government did not feel the effects of the boycott, but the postmaster did, as it reduced his salary nine-tenths.—The Morning Herald.

Correspondent Joe Ohl, of the Atlanta Constitution, throws some light on the attitude of Senator Butler toward Mr. Bryan. He says:

"Democratic leaders do not conceal the possibilities of annoyance and embarrassment which would come if the Populists, at the convention they are now scheduled to hold at Sioux Falls on the 9th of May, put out a full ticket and insist upon the Democrats endorsing their candidate for the Vice President. That it is the intention of some of those high up in the councils of the Populist party to do everything possible to embarrass the Democrats is certain, but there are some of that party's leaders, who, actuated by their honest desire to compass the defeat of the Republicans, see the necessity of cooperation on Democratic lines which means the acceptance of the Democratic platform and Democratic candidates without any equivocation. The brand of Populism which Senator Butler, of North Carolina, represents can be expected to give all sorts of trouble, and the Democratic leaders, in Congress and out of it, have come to the conclusion that the one way to meet all possible complications is by a fight on straight Democratic lines. This will be made. Butler, who is going to fuse with the Republicans in North Carolina, and, according to present plans, is to be the candidate for Governor of that fusior, will have very little influence in shaping the Democratic campaign. There are thousands of Populists in the West who, when the time comes, can be relied upon to support the Democratic ticket rather than throw their votes away on a forlorn hope whose purpose would be to further the interests of the Republican party; and those Populist leaders who are seeking to give the Democrats trouble will find themselves with no followers in those States where Populist votes may be of value to the Democratic candidates. It is regarded as possible that the Populist and silver Republican conventions may yet be changed so as to conform with the date and place of the Democratic convention, if that is done it will be these elements coming to the Democratic idea as to time and place and not the Democrats accepting the Populist ideas, as a few men in the Democratic committee desired."

NO LONGER IN EUROPE

American Catholic Headquarters on the Potomac.

New York, Feb. 26.—At the Methodist ministers' meeting today Bishop Hurst said that he admired the Roman Catholics for their foresight and liberality in founding at Washington the institution at Georgetown and the Catholic University with its five affiliated colleges. He declared that rich Roman Catholics had already put into their wills bequests in aid of education at Washington amounting to $50,000,000. This showed, he said, that so far as America is concerned the Roman Catholic headquarters are no longer on the other continent, but on the bank of the Potomac river.

"Methodist and Roman Catholics have no rivalry at Washington," he said. "We came to the capital after them, and as a good brother once said to a Roman prelate, 'You will always be pretty certain to find Methodists after you.'"

Bishop Hurst said that the one hundred acres of land purchased a few years ago for $100,000 is now bringing offers of $1,500,000. But we will not sell. We did not buy to sell. Other denominations than Methodists have contributed about sixty per cent. of the $1,250,000 so far in hand apart from the site.

One building, the hall of history is up. Pennsylvania and Ohio each contemplate another and have given $100,000 toward them. Bishop Hurst said that building costs to erect it $150,000 to $400,000, and the professorship endowments $400,000, making for the Methodists of each State naming a hall gifts aggregating about $800,000.

Bishop Hurst related a conversation with President McKinley as to the latter's plans after he leaves the White House. The President said he would work actively on the task of creating the American University, but that he would not be figurehead. President McKinley is already a director. This fall it is believed he will open one building and lay the corner stone of two more.

A mean man considers that every suggestion which he throws out is a poundcake cast upon the waters.

SUN WORSHIP IN CHICAGO

Persian Priest in That City Trying to Secure Converts to His Cult

Ottoman Zaradusht-Hanish, a Persian priest, is in Chicago intent upon establishing a temple to be dedicated to sun worship and upon securing converts to the Sun-worshipping faith. He will talk next Sunday in the church of Yoga, 184 Dearborn street, room 5. However he is not connected with the Yoga cult. The missionary of the Sun Worshipers is tall and spare, with a smooth shaven and intelligent face. He is of Russian and German parentage, but was born and for the most part lived in Teheran, Persia. As for his philosophy, he says it is almost as old as the hills, dating back according to the claims of the apostles, 142,000 years B. C. In the old Zend language "Masda" meant sun and was also a synonym of thought. Thus, Sun Worshipers are thought worshippers.

Outside of the sun being a symbol for thought and being worshipped symbolically rather than literally, there is nothing very novel in Mr. Hanish's philosophy. It would appear that the Sun Worshipers believe, with the idealists, that this world is only a shadow world and that nothing is except the "I," "I am." All else is shadow and illusion. The centre of everything is God, and God is thought, and when thought begins to involve it illuminates and day begins. If we look for God elsewhere than in ourselves, we are jarred off our centre, and the light goes out; death ensues.

Mr. Hanish avers the idea is not hard to grasp. There is no mysticism, no occultism the Sun Worshipers' philosophy. So it is not necessary to spend several years learning the difference between a Yogi and a Wingwang.

An attempt was made in 1880 to establish Thought worship in New York but failed. Mr. Hanish expects to do better in Chicago.—Chicago Dispatch, 22nd.

Wondering how Cy. Thompson will get around saying "I do not think that the people who have given the Democratic party power will be satisfied with anything else than the elimination of the negro from politics in North Carolina," is a waste of ammunition. Gentlemen of this particular brand of Populism can get around anything. The evolutions of Butler, for instance, outrank any circus rider ever in the ring. Running with the Democrats at one election and with the Republicans next is a feat incapable of performance except by Butler and his intimates.—The Greensboro Recd.

Colored Leaders.

"The intelligent colored leaders in the South, like Bishop Turner, admonish their people to make friends with the white people. The Southern white man is a better friend than the Northern white man. The Civil War was fought not for humanity's sake, but for commercial supremacy. President Lincoln disclaimed any intention of disturbing slavery even in 1861. "All slaves are all free" was the cry. Free labor could not compete with slave labor, and the struggle was to the death between the two. It was not a sentimental war. Free labor triumphed, and the North soon showed that it preferred white free labor to black free labor. Now at Verdun and Pana, Illinois, a short time ago, men armed by the State with Winchester, backed by a Republican Governor, shot men down whose only offenses was black skins and the desire to exchange the muscle of black free men for the money of white free men. Thirty-five years ago these same men were bathing our Southland with our blood and their own to free these victims of their wanton butchery. Are these the boasted friends of the negro? How many negroes from the Northern States have sat in Congress? Any in the cabinet? Any in foreign diplomatic service save Hayti and Liberia, where only a negro will go? It is time that the colored man was waking up to the fact that the Southern people are his friends."—A. D. Cowles, (Rep.)

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.
 Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pain and female troubles ten years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.
 MISS MARGARET WALSH.

McLREE'S Wine of Cardui

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often so notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians. No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.

Madam Elrado A Very Interesting Talker.

A reporter called on Madame Elrado at her rooms at the Hunter House and found her interesting and entertaining. She is not only a professional palmist and an expert in her profession, but a lady in her appearance and demeanor. She gave some very interesting accounts of her work and explained the science of palmistry. She does not claim to have any foresight as to future events, but says that palmistry is a science, as much a science as mathematics, or any other science. She can not make history nor can she shape the future of any one, but she can accurately tell what the lines in one's hands indicate and these indications are in most cases correct. She told a gentleman yesterday that he handled cards of some kind, and a great deal of money which belonged to other, but she did not think him a gambler. He was the ticket agent at the A. C. L. here. She told one lady that there were two pairs of twins in her family, the lady herself was one of twins and there had been one other in the family. No names are divulged and every lady or gentleman may feel that he is safe, from publicity who calls upon her.
 She will be in Greenville till Monday. Saturday is the last day she can be seen. She will not read on Sunday. From what our reporter saw of her he thinks her very interesting and entertaining.

Accidental Shooting

This morning at the Liberty Warehouse Mr. G. J. Woodward was handling a loaded pistol and the pistol accidentally went off. The ball passed through Mr. Woodward's hand and striking the floor some distance away glanced and struck Mr. B. E. Parham just over the left eye.
 Fortunately no serious damage was done to either party.
 Mrs. Myrtle Hollis went to Scotland Neck this morning.

The One Day Cold Cure.

Cold in head and sore throat cured by Ker-mott's Chocolate Laxative Quinine. As easy to take as candy. "Children cry for them."

The trustees of the University of North Carolina met at Raleigh on the 21st instant. It was in some respects an important meeting as it made a radical departure. The university will hold open sessions all the year round. There will be no closed doors henceforth, but teaching will be continued through all the months. It will suggest journalistic life, newspaper life—closing the 31st of December to begin the next day for another unbroken year. The idea is catching if the teachers can stand the strain. It will offer extraordinary opportunities to a special class of youth. It will be very hard on the students who shall study all the year through. How it will work when practically tested we cannot anticipate, but it looks well on paper. President Alderman says in his report to the trustees:

The plan of the continuous sessions is a part of a large whole. It is one manifestation of the university extension spirit—that spirit which, during the last eight or nine years has been leading many of the more prominent universities of our country to widen their fields of activity with a purpose of bringing the advantages of the university to those classes of the population that have heretofore been deprived of university culture. It is, in effect, a movement to add a year to the scholarly man.—Wilmington Messenger.

With Mrs. Jordan.

The "End of the Century" Club held its fortnightly meeting with Mrs. Julian Jordan on yesterday afternoon. The beautiful hostess, assisted by her charming friend, Mrs. Arthur, received the guests at the hospitable home of the latter. Business features of the evening with some slight alterations in the by laws being concluded, the literary program, under the direction of chairman Skinner, was taken up.

Mrs. F. C. Harding read a carefully prepared paper on two of the earliest romance writers in America: Charles Brockden Brown and James Kirk Paulding. Brown even in this early stage of American life, having now favorable comments from Walter Scott, and many of the licensed critics of Europe, notably among them Shelley, the great English poet.

Mrs. J. L. Little gave a charming account of James Fennimore Cooper. His writings and experiences, both in this country and abroad, which were both instructive and entertaining to every member of the club.

Mrs. Jordan then furnished an interesting test of literal accuracy in quotations requiring not only the "ipsissima litera" but also the names of the authors. Mrs. Harry Skinner won the pretty prize.

Before departing the guest were served with enjoyable refreshments as usual. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Bowen.

MR. EDITOR:

I am somewhat surprised that from the abundance of current matter from which to select that you should choose to give so much of your valuable space to a vile, malign, and vituperative attack on the character of Dr. Kilgo, President of Trinity College. I have never been counted among the enthusiastic admirers of Dr. Kilgo, he is not above criticism, and not without faults—and plenty of them; but I can not for a moment believe that either the editor of the Charlotte Observer, or the editor of the Greenville REFLECTOR thinks that Dr. Kilgo, by low and base methods, deliberately sought to use his high calling as a minister of the Gospel and President of Trinity College to destroy the business of Mr. Gattis or any one else. Nor do either of these newspapers believe the base imputation that Dr. Kilgo is personally responsible for the $6,500 difference between the assets and liabilities of Mr. Gattis. Did Dr. Kilgo steal this money, or did he and his friends conspire to purchase $6,500 worth of books from Mr. Gattis on a credit, and never pay for them? If so, these unpaid accounts ought to swell the amount far beyond the $1,500 named as total assets. Newspapers should at least have some plausible foundation upon which to base their charges when they undertake to break down the character of a College President and minister of the Gospel, and intimate—though they do not affirm it—that he is a robber, a thief and a liar

Doubtless the business of Mr. Gattis was injured by the unfortunate and deplorable affair in which he became involved, it simply follows as results always follows antecedent. Dr. Kilgo was simply a link—an occasion—the causes became many.

Finally let me say that the Trustees of Trinity College to whom advice is so graciously given are perhaps nearly as competent to determine who shall or shall not be President of that institution as any newspaper editor, and the Methodist church has not hitherto found it necessary to ask any editor of a political newspaper to determine who shall, or shall not be ministers or members within her pale; and perhaps the community in which a man lives is equally competent to determine whether or not a man is a menace to society and a blight to the spirit of manhood."
