Physician Drops Dead.

We are sorry to chronicle the death of Dr. E. H. Hornaday, a very prominent physician of Willow Green, Greene county, which occurred this morning. Dr. Hornaday had just started to get in his buggy to visit some patients, when he dropped dead of heart disease. He leaves a son and daughter to mourn his death.

The remains will be taken to Goldsboro Wednesday for interment.

A Boy's Answer.

One of our Sunday school teachers asked his class "What did John the Baptist do in the wilderness?" Up went a juvenile hand, and the answer came quick and clear, "Caught locuses."

JOHNSON'S MILLS ITEMS.

JOHNSON'S MILLS, N. C., Mar. 19.

Request to Secretaries.

The Democratic Convention of this county will be held on Saturday, 31st. The precinct primaries will be held next Saturday, 24th, to select delegates to the County Convention. THE REFLECTOR requests the secretaries of these precinct meetings to send us a report of same as early as possible so that the full list of delegates can be published before the County Convention.

The Making of Opportunity.

Success is assured to him who can make opportunity for it, and he can make opportunity who has the will and the wit. In the proper conduct of any business will and wit are paramount and related necessities. One of the best mediums for their exploitation is the advertisement. The man who places dependence in judicious advertising speeds to commercial success, while the non-advertiser bewails his want of opportunity to rise above obscurity.

No Monopoly of Success.

There is not today a prominent mercantile enterprise which has not been built up and maintained by judicious advertising. This aid to commercial activity will increase business as surely as the loaded gun will "go off" if the trigger be pulled. What one man can do by means of effective advertising another man can repeat.—Philadelphia Record.

A Smile in Each.

TUESDAY, MARCH 20, 1900.

The withdrawal of Col. John S. Cunningham from the race for the nomination for Governor, leaves the field practically clear for Hon. C. B. Aycock, and the latter will receive the nomination by acclamation. It was a manly, patriotic act on the part of Col. Cunningham who withdrew that entire unanimity might prevail and no divisions or discords exist. He has always been loyal to his party, and his reward will come.

A prominent editor in the western part of the State, in a personal letter to the editor of THE REFLECTOR, adds this footnote: "Our folks are favorably inclined here to your man Grimes for Secretary of State. All the ticket should not be lawyers." That is a broad truth briefly expressed. All the ticket should not be lawyers, and if the State convention cares for the wishes of the voters who are tired of an all lawyer ticket, they will put in a farmer this time in the person of J. Bryan Grimes.

Up to the last few days there were several candidates in the field for the nomination for Governor. All of these who were regarded with any degree of prominence, save one, have withdrawn so that the party could become a unit and centre upon the one man. Now there should be some withdrawal among those aspiring for other offices. Not that any man has not the right to be a candidate for office if he so desires, but that when the Convention assembles there may be no divisions. There are several candidates for State Treasurer, and THE REFLECTOR does not hesitate to say that all the others of them ought to gracefully withdraw and let Maj. H. A. London, of Pittsboro, be nominated by acclamation. He is the candidate of the North Carolina Press. It is the first time the Press has asked for recognition on the State ticket, and there ought not to be a voice raised in the convention against their man. So far as we now recall every other candidate for State Treasurer has had some office, and the Press was a great factor in helping him get that office, and in recognition of past services they should withdraw in favor of the one man brought forward by the Press of the State. Let H. A. London be nominated for State Treasurer.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

Cunningham's Withdrawal and other Interesting Topics.

Special Correspondent of Reflector.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 19, 1900.

Now let's nominate Aycock with a whoop, and by acclamation! Col John S Cunningham, Mr Aycock's chief competitor, has withdrawn from the contest for Governor, and on Sunday last his letter of withdrawal was made public. This action was a surprise to many who were aware of the fact that Col. Cunningham still stood at least a "fighting chance" of securing the nomination, while not a few claimed, even as late as today, that they believed that if he had remained in the field it was by no means improbable that he might have proved to be the strongest man in the convention. But those who know the man intimately, and are aware of his love of his party and his people, those acquainted with his unselfish patriotism and the zeal with which he is working for the adoption of the Amendment whereby white supremacy can be secured for all time in North Carolina, are not surprised at the patriotic stand he has taken.

It was this very possibility of his still having a "fighting chance" in the convention that figured largely in his decision—he wanted no fight in the convention. He came to the conclusions that the best interests of the party would be subserved and the chances of the Amendment materially strengthened, if the action of the convention was unanimous and wholly enthusiastic in the selection of the head of the ticket. Therefore Col. Cunningham, decided to sacrifice self and personal ambition for the party's good. I know this, because the conclusion is forced upon me by a conversation I had with him last week, and I know the people of north Carolina well enough to say that they will thoroughly appreciate his unselfish action and will not fail to remember it with admiration in the future.

"God bless John Cunningham I say!" was a comment which all Democrats can endorse.

Gen Wm. R. Cox, who was a Judge of the Superior Court for years, who represented the fourth district in Congress for two terms and who has held the exalted position of Secretary of the U. S. Senate for the last eight years, spent several days in Raleigh during the past week. Gen. Cox was en route to his large plantation in Edgecomb county, where he will spend most of his time hereafter, having retired from the position he held in Washington.

THE ZEB. VANCE MONUMENT.

The larger model (larger than life size) of the Senator Zebulon Baird Vance statue, from which the bronze statue itself is to be molded, and which latter it is to be placed in the Capital Park here, on the east side of the capital building, has been completed, and last week the committee went to Washington, where the sculptor performing the work reside, to inspect it.

ANOTHER "BANISHED" NEGRO.

An obnoxious negro "preacher" named Scott, whose home was formerly at Henderson, doesn't reside there any more. Some time ago he went North on a visit, and while there took a "prominent part" at a "Manley meeting," which the banished, expatriated, kicked out (whichever term you prefer) ex-editor of Wilmington and his friends have gotten up as a sort of protest against the impolite white people of that city. Learning of this some of the Henderson people sent him word that he could continue his visit indefinitely. He remained away until recently it is now learned, showing up in Henderson a few days ago. His sojourn was brief, however, as he was introduced to the exit back-gate of the town and told to "git." He got.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 19, 1900.

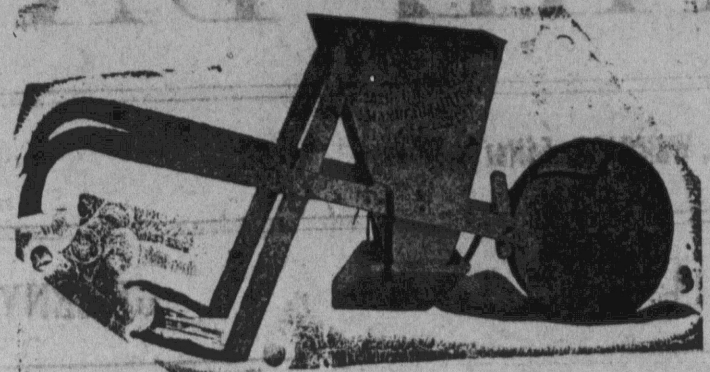

The nightmare labeled "Porto Rico tariff" still hovers over the pillows of prominent republicans and destroys their rest. Conferences are held every day with Mr. McKinley by Senators who favor the tariff and by Senators who favor free trade, and the odd thing is that both classes of Senators talk as though they believe Mr. McKinley to be on their side. All sorts of propositions are being advanced by republican Senators to avoid anything like an open rupture in their party on this question one of them being to continue the debate until the close of the session without allowing the bill to come to a vote, and another to load it up with all sorts of amendments and then defeat it by an overwhelming vote. The dodge in either of these expedients would be so palpable, that it is hardly conceivable that the republican leaders will be foolish enough to allow either to be adopted. The republican party is in control of all branches of the government and for it to fail to place itself on record by positive legislation on this question would be absolutely certain to drive the party from power. That is why they will have to patch up some sort of legislation.

That alleged offer of the good offices of this government to facilitate negotiations for peace between Great Britain and the Dutch Republics in South Africa, was confirmatory rather than otherwise of the belief that an understanding exists between the McKinley administration and the present British government. It enabled Mr. McKinley to make an attempt to soothe the numerous republican sympathizers with the two struggling republics, by pretending to do something, and at the same time gave Lord Salisbury just what he wanted—an excuse to serve notice on the powers of Europe, through his answer to the alleged offer of our good offices that no mediation would be tolerated by Great Britain, and that the conquest of the two republics would be pushed to a conclusion as originally planned.

Foreign policies are not the only things this administration is copying from European nations. Secretary Long has created a Board to be known as the Naval Policy Board, corresponding to general staff of European navies, which will control our Navy both in peace and war. Admiral Dewey is head of the new Board. Inasmuch as our Navy has got along for more than a century, during which it has won some of the greatest victories ever fought on water, the reason for such a radical departure is not apparent. Less red tape, not more, would seem to be what is needed. As long as Dewey is at the head of the new Board, no fear need be felt about what it may do, but with a political favorite at its head, it might do much mischief. Deeming the present session an inopportune time to secure rarification of the several reciprocity treaties with colonies of Great Britain, the administration has had the time within which they may be ratified extended one year.

The touchy man is not the best sort to approach for a loan.

Mr. W. F. Draughan, of Whitakers, died Monday. He was the father of Mrs. Zeno Moore, of this town.

Why the Bookkeeper Stole.

He had a wife. His salary was $2,500 per annum.

But she complained. She wanted a better house.

Nothing to go out in. No country cottage. Nor carriage.

Nor society. She coveted a place on the ragged edge of the four hundred.

She kept it up Night and day And moaned and Wept.

He lacked style, also. As well as new clothes every six weeks.

And various other things. He knew how his employer made several hundred daily on the street.

A thousand or so would not be missed for a few hours.

So he took it, and went up the street, and won.

She got her sealskin. He took more and lost. More yet.

Defalcation discovered. He wears the penitentiary check. Others are going, too.

Beware. Better is a modest room up two pair of back stairs than a cell in jail.—National Weekly.

It was very natural that the white people around the village of Nashville, in Nash county, should be much stirred over the murder of Mr. Robert Hester, a prominent farmer near Rocky Mount. The two negroes were hanged, and it is said 10,000 people saw the work completed. Lynching was talked of in last December, and the hanging on the 15th instant was made public. Is it not about time that the press had spoken out about public hangings? Would not private executions be better? The Messenger for a decade has urged a change. The legislature next winter should act if it should conclude that it was more conducive to public order and decency to hang criminals in private. We remember that more than a half century ago we saw a fight almost occurring, one man with a drawn knife, at the jail door when the prisoner to be hanged was emerging under guard and about to advance between the lines of the military company to take his seat upon the coffin to ride to his execution. We are persuaded it will be wiser and better to have private hangings.—Wilmington Messenger.

We are told that an Indiana politician named Reuben Dailey, a candidate for office, has spoken his speech into a phonograph, and in going around from one appointment to another merely sets the machine going and it talks for him while he rests. It has proven an attraction and large crowds collect to hear it. In this innovation The Richmond Dispatch sees great possibilities. It may, our contemporary says, enable the candidate to stay at home and yet address a score of public meetings on the same day. And yet, while this sounds very pretty, the phonograph as a campaigner has its drawbacks. It cannot shake hands with the farmers and ask about the crops; it cannot make itself agreeable to the women nor kiss the babies, and it cannot take drinks with the boys. The phonograph is a very interesting institution and it has its uses, but as a substitute for the genial candidate it lacks a good deal of being the real thing.—Charlotte Observer.

If that was not the result of an understanding between the British Government and the McKinley administration, it was one of the oddest coincidences that ever occurred. Senator Macon today called up his Boer resolution in the Senate, and something may be said on this phase of the question. The republicans have compelled the resolution to be debated in secret session, but the talk in secret session has a habit of getting out.

A panic-stricken crowd at the high school building in Kenosha, Wis., was saved Friday night by Louis Ferry, a student, who coolly extinguished the fire that had stampeded the audience in the hall.

Bold Theft.

Monday night as Bob Tunstall was closing the store of J. S. Tunstall, a negro who had been loafing around in the backpart of the store seized a shoulder of meat and sack of meal and was making off with them when Bob made a grab at him. The negro dropped the meat and meal and "burnt the wind." He has not been captured.

Sunday Fishing.

We hear that for the last few Sundays fishermen at Goff landing, a mile from town and within sound of our many church bells, have been skinning as industriously for shad as they do any day in the week. It looks like any reasonable man would have too much self-respect to engage in such Sabbath desecration, even if has no fear of God.

W. C. T. U. Organized.

The Womans Christian Temperance Union perfected its organization Monday evening at 3 o'clock in the Methodist church with a membership of 25.

The following officers were elected:

Mrs. Wiley Brown, Pres.
 Mrs. H. C. Ormond, Vice Pres.
 Mrs. G. E. Harris, Cor. and Rec. Sec'y.

Miss Della Erwin, Treas.

They will hold their next meeting Thursday evening at 3 o'clock.

The man who excuses his own faults is seldom lenient with others. Flattery is the yeast that causes a man to rise in his own estimation. The difference between a Judge and a lawyer is that the Judge charges the jury and the lawyer charges his client.
