Happenings in North Carolina.

The Charlotte Observer, in keeping with its usual progressiveness, has recently been enlarged in size. It is now the largest daily paper in the State, and the best.

Over two years ago a son of Sheriff Page, of Wake county, went to the Klondike. For nearly eighteen months not a word had been heard from him, and his father thought him dead, but Monday it was ascertained that he was in the Philippines.

There are over a thousand North Carolinians serving in the American army in the Philippines.

A man is often damaged by other people getting on their fences, but if you use G. W. Parker's wire fence with double barb wire at top the man on the fence is the one damaged. His 5 foot garden fence woven in this way is the very thing for town lots.

Prof. A. A. Forbes, of Greenville, was in the city yesterday and at the request of "Bud Joe" played several pieces on his coraet for the young ladies in the cigar factory, for which he has their sincerest thanks.

We call attention of all dealers in our line, such as planters, distributors, etc., to the fact that they can get an order filled in one half the time by wiring or phoning it to us. They need not fear to do this as we are in position to ship on short notice this season.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

The Democrats carried the municipal election at Leadville, Col., by a large majority.

Nathan Baldwin, a traveling salesman, in poor health, cut his throat yesterday at Rochester, N. Y.

As a protest against high toll 150 masked men blew up two toll bridges and burned the toll house on the Logansport and Burlington pike near Logansport, Ind.

Some men are so well known that they can't even borrow an umbrella.

If a cheap and shoddy garment is offered to you at a price that seems to be very small, don't take it, it isn't worth while. These are the facts: Our clothing is made as well as it can be made; it is properly cut and trimmed and finished; it is of the best material and it is sold direct to the wearer at the lowest price that is possible. SATURDAY APRIL 7, 1900.

Dewey wept when he learned how the people regarded his house present caper some time ago. Possibly he will go out and weep some more when he learns their opinion of the presidential spectacle he has just made of himself.

Gov. Roosevelt is quoted as saying that he "wished to God we were out of the Philippines" and that President McKinley had "about as much backbone as a toy chocolate man." After this, perhaps the Republican leaders will abandon the effort to force the governor to take the tail place on the ticket this fall in the hope of saving the Administration. If they want a hero, why don't they take Dewey? He has softly owned up to his willingness to run at the head if the county insists. After awhile, he will even put up with second place.

Dewey is making another spectacle of himself. It does seem a pity that a man who but a short while ago was so idolized and almost worshiped should so soon cast all his greatness to the winds. But some men can't stand greatness. His magnificent victory at Manila put all people to singing his praises, and when he returned home last year the Nation received and welcomed him as our greatest hero. Then followed that house present episode, which he grabbed at so eagerly and behaved so badly over as to cause many of his friends to turn away, their admiration giving place to disgust. He has just been on a trip to the South where he heard somebody say they would like to see him President, and upon reaching his home in the North the announcement is made that he is an avowed candidate for President. And a candidate, too, without party or platform, declaring that he is ready to accept the nomination from any party that may offer it. He has simply let himself be spoiled by the admiration his Nation showered upon him over his achievement at Manila.

Advertising undoubtedly takes away the business from those who do not advertise and gives it to those who do, and those who have succeeded best, growing day by day, have been those who have been the most persistent advertisers in season and out of season.—Annconada (Mont.) Standard.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6, 1900.

No reduction of war taxes at this session of Congress. That is Mr. McKinley's latest edict, issued in the face of Secretary Gage's statement that the war taxes are piling up a Treasury surplus which may become dangerous by causing a financial stringency. There are three reasons for this edict, neither creditable to the republican administration. The first is, that Mr. McKinley wishes Congress to hurry adjournment, in order that republican Senators and Representatives may go home and try to explain the blunder of his administration, to save him from defeat he fears; the second is, that Boss Hanna may have an opportunity to dicker with the big interests affected by the war taxes for campaign contributions, and the third is, that a heavy surplus may be accumulated in the Treasury to meet the extravagant appropriations which are contemplated at the next session of Congress, after the Presidential election. This may be satisfactory to the republican bosses, but how about the people who are paying in the neighborhood of $1. per capita in war taxes which are not necessary to run the government as it should be run.

The republicans were startled and not at all pleased by the announcement of Admiral Dewey that he is a candidate for President, and if not nominated by one of the existing parties is willing to run as an independent candidate. They know that if he runs as an independent candidate he will draw his strength largely from Mr. McKinley and they also know that Mr. McKinley has no surplus strength to lose. Col. Bryan, having already been practically chosen as the democratic candidate, the democrats in Congress regard Dewey's announcement very complacently and rather hope that he will run as an independent, although they would be afraid of him if he got the republican nomination.

In a speech against the Porto Rico tariff bill Representative Lane, of Iowa, a republican, sounded a warning to his party when he said: "This is a question of sentiment and the people are aroused. It appeals to their judgment, their sense of justice and equity and right, and I now warn you that whenever the standard of justice and right of any political party materially differs from the standard of the people on any great question the people rise up in their might and that party goes down in defeat."

Senator Culbertson, of Texas, made a hit with his maiden speech in the Senate, which was against the Porto Rico bill and in favor of the democratic contention that the Constitution follows the flag. The prediction is heard on all sides that Mr. Culbertson will become one of the democratic leaders of the Senate.

Crowding of Professions.

The colleges and universities and the law, medical and theological schools are turning out too many for professional work for comfort for those who are striving to make a livelihood in the learned professions. The same trouble exists in Germany, where we are told a journeyman brewer makes better wages than the salary of a Greek professor in a German university. Hence a good many of the over-educated who cannot make a living by their learning are enlisting in the socialistic and anarchist ranks. Mechanical pursuits are as overcrowded as the professions. The over-crowding of the professions in Chicago is becoming intensified. It is estimated that out of a total of 4,000 lawyers in Chicago 500 are handling the litigation of the city, and only about 200 are making $6,000 or over each year. While the legitimate business of the courts has not shown any marked increase, the influx of lawyers from the country has been steady and uninterrupted, and the stream of Blackstonians has been yearly augmented by heavy contributions from the colleges and universities.

Of doctors the number in Chicago is estimated at 4,000. If the city has a population of 2,000,000, this would give a physician to every 500 inhabitants, which means that there are four or five times as many physicians as are needed. Commenting on the conditions, the Chicago Times-Herald says: "As a matter of fact, almost any artisan now commands a better annual income than three-fourths of the lawyers and doctors, while the mercantile pursuits are much more profitable in spite of the modern tendency toward big combinations."—Pittsburg Post.

Willie's Menu.

The New England small boy generally shows business capabilities at a tender age, if he is ever going to have them. I have heard of a certain small Boston boy who got into the habit of teasing his mother for pennies until at last she said to him: "Now, Willie, I don't like to give you pennies; if you want money you should go to work and earn it." The boy remained thoughtful for some time. Then, within a few days, the mother perceived that Willie had plenty of pennies. She wondered a bit where he got them, but did not question him. But one summer day she noticed that some sort of a hullabaloo was going on in the backyard. Looking out, she saw Willie surrounded by a mob of boys, who were yelling with delight. She went down into the yard to see what was going on; and as she passed out she saw stuck up on the back wall of the house, this notice, quite neatly "printed" out with a pencil:

WILLIE JONES WILL EAT

1 small green worm, for 1 cent
1 large green worm, for 2 cents
1 small fuzzy worm, for 3 cents
1 large fuzzy worm, for 5 cents
1 small green toad, for 25 cents.

Willie was apparently doing a thriving business. His mother interrupted it—at any rate in her own back yard. I don't suppose that she had any assurance that he wasn't still carrying it on somewhere else.—Boston Transcript.

Constitution In a Bad Way.

We hear a heap of chat these days about whether or not "the constitution follows the flag." It used to. Of course it went slower, but it went. When the flag flew over the Mississippi into Texas and the great western territories, the constitution sat down on the levee on the east bank of the Mississippi, took off her shoes and stockings, and then like Cousin Sally Dillard h'isted her skirts and waded over into the new empire. But the constitution is unwell. She isn't as pretty as she was when she was younger and is not as much thought of. She's sick, too, and even such good doctors as Dr. Baily, of Texas, and Dr. Littlefield, of Maine, can't cure her. "Does the constitution follow the flag?" An impaired constitution can't follow anything.—Charlotte Observer.

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.

Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pains and female troubles two years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.

MISS MARGARET WALSH.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often so notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians. No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.

Damaged By The Cold

The continued cold weather and light frost during the early part of the week have without a doubt resulted disastrously to some extent to the growing truck crops in the Eastern Carolina belt. Growers who were here yesterday from various sections did not hesitate to say besides being injured by the cold, the crop is retarded materially. The wind yesterday morning kept off the frost but the temperature, which was only two degrees above freezing, considerably worsted the young and tender plants of various varieties. Mr. W. J. Boney, of Wallace, who was here yesterday told of material damage to strawberries in low places and reported some ice. Mr. D. W. Wells, of Columbus county, also reported ice and spoke of damage to crops in his vicinity. East Wilmington truckers do not speak so discouragingly of the prospect but admit some damage to strawberries and the like. The moderation in the temperature, which came last night, was welcomed by the planters.—Wilmington Star, 6th.

Advertising Always Seasonable.

"In season and out of season," as applied to advertising, is merely a figure of speech indicating persistency. It is proper to advertise all the time. The merchant who knows no especial season for promoting his business by advertising, but who keeps at it every day, is the one who annually counts up the largest percentage of profit.—Philadelphia Record.

Our Kind.

For a few weeks past THE REFLECTOR job presses have frequently had to run until late at night to keep up with orders. This office always turns out a high class of work and our prices are as low as good work can be done for.

Timely Kindness.

One very cold night last winter, Mr. B. drove home with his daughter and told his family he had seen a drunken man on the road a few miles away.

After the horse had been stabled a son said: "Pa, that man may die tonight. Let me harness the horse and take you back to find him."

They went, and about 10 o'clock found him quite drunk in a fence corner. They saved him.

When that boy modestly told me of that case, I put my arms around him and gave thanks to God. May the world soon be full of people ready to go and make sacrifice for others.

The April number of Werner's Magazine contains a number of features not only valuable to its particular class of readers, but interesting and instructive to the general reading public. While continuing to be indispensable to the artist who works in any part of the field of expression; the elocutionist, the reader, the dramatist, the singer, the entertainer, the physical culturist, the teacher in general,—the publishers aim to make the magazine of such general value and attraction to cultured persons that it will be a welcome guest to every home in the land.

The girl who uses invisible ink can usually write a letter that's out of sight.

When a wife hints at Easter bonnets we may look for a touch of spring.
