MADE MONEY ON ROUND BALES.

Patrons of Roundlap Gin Plants Tell of Their Big Profits.

The past ginning season again demonstrated the incomparable superiority of The American Cotton Company's Roundlap bale. Not only were farmers benefited who had their cotton put up in Roundlap bales, but even the patrons of old-style gins profited by the presence of Roundlap competition.

Farmers all over the cotton states have written letters to the owners of Roundlap plants telling of the profit that has come to them from having their cotton put up in Roundlap bales. Mr. W. F. Hartley, Sr., who patronized the Greenville, Ala., plant, wrote Feb. 3, 1900: "The most important point in the Roundlap bale's favor to the farmer is the advance in price above that of the square bale. It has averaged the entire past season $2.00 per bale more than the square bale. More than $5,000 has been placed in circulation by the advanced price caused by this one press."

Mr. F. M. Rogers also wrote from Greenville, Ala.: "I have received from $\frac{3}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ cent per pound more than the market price here for square bales. The Roundlap bale is a Godsend to the farmers, and has saved them thousands of dollars in a few months."

Mr. J. D. Reily, Centreville, Miss., wrote Dec. 4, 1899: "Another advantage to the farmers is that Roundlap cotton brings such a good price that the buyers of square cotton have been forced to put their prices up. Thus all the farmers are benefited in a town where there is a Roundlap press."

Mr. F. B. Simonton, Temple, Tex., Nov. 12, 1899: "I have received from $1.50 to $3.50 per bale more for my cotton than if I had ginned and sold in the square bale. Besides I know that the prices The American Cotton Company has paid for seed cotton have been the cause of those buying the square bale paying from 10 to 50 points more for it."

Mr. J. L. Wood, of Venus, Tex., Dec. 2, 1899: "I sold to The American Cotton Company at its East Waco plant the first bale of cotton that was ever ginned by the Roundlap bale system in Waco, and have been selling my cotton in the seed to you since that time.

For the last three years, including 1899, I have sold my cotton to your Venus plant. I can safely say that I have made $2.00 per bale more by selling to you in the seed than I would have made if I had ginned it into square bales, besides saving a great deal of annoyance with the street buyers. In view of the fact that the custom ginners and those opposed to the Roundlap system say that you do not let the farmer have cotton seed I will say that I have always gotten seed when I asked for it."

Mr. P. B. Hall, a merchant and planter of Waynesboro, Ga., wrote Nov. 10, 1899, to Messrs. Wilkins & Jones, owners of the Roundlap plant at that place: "I had one lot of 20 bales turned out by you, and without saying anything to anybody I put the samples on the market. All of the buyers in town bid upon same, thinking it square bale cotton. One of the buyers bid $5\frac{1}{4}$ cent, another $5.87\frac{1}{2}$ cents, and another 5.95 cents, the latter remarking at the time that he was really bidding a full sixteenth more than the lot of cotton was worth. Without knowing what bids I had received—in fact I did not tell you that anybody had bid upon it—you offered and paid me 6.50 for the lot of cotton, which was a clear difference of 55 points in favor of the Roundlap bale. I believe that the Roundlap bale is the bale of the future, as it effects a large saving of waste, and enables the planter to get a higher price for his cotton."

Mr. Abram Williams, Nov. 10, 1899, wrote Messrs. Wilkins & Jones: "To-day I had two Roundlap bales of cotton packed on your Roundlap bale press, for which you paid me $7\frac{1}{4}$ cents per pound, when the same grade of cotton in the square bale here to-day is only bringing 7 to $7\frac{1}{4}$ cents per pound."

Mr. J. S. Collins, Pike Road, Ala., Nov. 11, 1899, wrote: "I have gotten for my cotton $2.50 per bale more than I could have gotten for it in square bales. I believe that the Roundlap press is the salvation of the farmers of our county. I believe that it has saved in our neighborhood of eight or ten miles square $5,000 in the price of cotton and 20,000 pounds of lint cotton that would have been lost in samples, theft and weight, and $1,500 in warehouse charges, besides drayage and railroad expenses."

The English Gin Company, which operates a Roundlap plant at England, Ark., Dec. 13, 1899, wrote:

"We are very much pleased with the Roundlap bale press. It is a recognized fact in this community that we have made the price of cotton from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ cents higher than it would have been. Only this last week when we were out of the market about four days seed cotton dropped from $2\frac{1}{4}$ to 2 cents per pound."

HON. A. M. MOORE

Succeeds Dorsey Battle as Judge of the Criminal Court.

A telegram to Mrs. A. M. Moore brings the information that Hon. Aug. M. Moore has been appointed by the Governor, Judge of the Eastern Criminal district court of North Carolina. Mr. Moore will hold his first court in Charlotte this week.

We are informed that Judge Moore will continue to make his home in Greenville. THE REFLECTOR is glad to know that Mr. Moore has been appointed and feels sure that he will wear the mantle with dignified ability and deal judiciously with all.

Jas L Harris Dead.

The community was saddened this morning at the announcement by telegraph to Miss Lena Harris that her brother, Jas. L. Harris was dead.

Mr. Harris died at Rocky Mount Monday night, he had been in bad health for some time but his death was a shock to his family and many friends.

Mr. Harris leaves a wife and two children, a mother and five sisters and a host of friends to mourn his death.

Jim was a fine boy and a faithful son, brother and husband, and a consistent member of the Baptist church.

He was editor of the Spring Hope Messenger, and after running it there for several months, moved to Rocky Mount and changed it to a daily, but owing to ill health had to discontinue it.

We join the community in their sympathy to the bereaved family and friends.

His remains will arrive on the train tonight and be interred in Cherry Hill Cemetery tomorrow.

Fire Company Officers

At the monthly meeting of Hope Fire Company, Monday night, officers were elected for the ensuing term, as follows:

- Foreman—W. F. Harding.
- 1st. Assistant Foreman—W. F. Burch.
- 2nd. Assistant Foreman—J. Z. Gardner.
- Secretary and Treasurer—D. D. Overton.
- Engineer—L. H. Pender.

A Good Suggestion.

One of our citizens who is a large tax payer was talking with THE REFLECTOR about the work of the present town government, and gave it as his opinion that the Board of Aldermen ought to be re-elected and they ought to make the same tax levy for another year, so that the good work begun may be carried on. Besides paying a lot of old debts and having some costly emergencies to meet, the present Board has done more for the town than any preceding it.

TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1900.

There will be 971 votes in the State Convention, requiring 486 for a choice. The successful candidate must have a long pull.

The Winston Sentinel and Greensboro Record have both become expansionists—grown larger. It is accounted for by increased patronage.

Correspondents of some of the State papers have suggested that the selection of a candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction be left to the Teachers' Assembly. That will hardly be done this year; but the suggestion might do for future consideration.

A Pitiful Spectacle.

What a pitiful spectacle poor old Admiral Dewey is making of himself! His announcement that he is willing to be elected president would be funny were it not so sad. He has lost his mind completely. It would be charitable to pass over the house-taking incident, the expectation at the yellow cur at Concord, the Greensboro deliverance and the other numerous incidents in the career of the Admiral since he landed from Manila, and to think of him only as he was when he cut the Manila cable—Charlotte Observer.

Rules for Success in Business.

Tell the people what you have to sell. Tell them all about the quality of your goods, and give the selling price thereof. Tell them in language devoid of ambiguity what you want them to know. Give them this information in typographically attractive advertisements, and then sell to them just exactly what you have advertised. One of the principal secrets of success in business is bound up in these simple rules.

C. W. Mussey, former cashier of the Merchants' National Bank, at Rutland, Vt., has been held in $50,000 bail for Court, on a charge of embezzlement, having waived a preliminary hearing.

The lower branch of the Iowa Legislature has passed a bill prohibiting the use of tobacco by persons under 16 years of age and by all minor pupils in the public schools. Sales of tobacco to minors had previously been prohibited in the State, but the law had not been rigidly enforced.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

The Approaching convention and Other Notes

Special Correspondent of Reflector.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 9, 1900. About the time these lines appear in print the Democratic State convention will be ready to assemble in this city. At this writing all indications point to one of the largest, most harmonious and most enthusiastic conventions ever held in North Carolina, and the ticket which it will offer the voters of the State one of the best and strongest, from every point of view, that our people have ever chosen to man the old Ship of State.

And this latter result is more easily reached this year than usual for there is not an aspirant for any office to be filled who is not worthy of nomination and who would not admirably discharge its duties, to the credit of himself, his party and his State.

A GREAT DEMOCRATIC REUNION.

Quite a number of the leading Democrats of the state have been here for several days, some of them with head quarters established at the hotels where they "keep open house" to their friends. And these are not confined to the candidates for positions on the state ticket either. There is now going on a great Democratic reunion, and a commingling of the best and bravest and most patriotic men in the Old North State. All of them are deeply interested in the success of the suffrage Amendment, and on all sides one can hear the enquiry: "What are the prospects for the Amendment in your county? And as often heard the almost unfeeling reply: "Splendid! Nearly or quite all the white people are for it, and will vote for its adoption almost to a man." Sometimes not very frequently, will be heard the response that there are a few still holding out against it. But it is always added that this is because erroneous impressions created through false allegations and aspersions of some of the office holding gang, particularly a few western counties, where the revenue heelers and other official hirelings have been industriously at work trying to mislead the illiterate white men. But even these will have eyes open to the truth before election day, and their opposition or lethargy will be overcome.

EX-POPULISTS IN LINE.

One of the most encouraging features of the present gathering is in the presence of numbers of the old-time Democrats, who were fooled and seduced by Butler and his crowd in deserting their old allegiance temporarily, but who are now once more safe aboard the old craft again at her original moorings—and some of them are now better and stronger Democrats than ever because of their sad costly and humiliating experience with these non-principled political tricksters. These are the men who are going to materially assist in rolling unprecedented majority for the ticket and the Amendment in August. And we are glad to have most of them back, for most of them were honest in their intentions, even if they were made the tools of designing self seeking demagogues for a time until they could see through the latter's rank hypocrisy.

STATE CANDIDATES TO SPEAK—WHEN AND WHERE.

The following schedule has been arranged for the "White supremacy Rally and Ratification Meeting" to be participated in by all the nominees for State offices (except judicial) at each of the following places: Burlington, Monday, April 16th; Winston Tuesday April 17th;

Greensboro, Tuesday, night April 17th; Hickory, Wednesday, April 18th; Asheville, Thursday, April 19; Murphey, Saturday, April, 21; Bryson City, Monday, April 23rd; Waynesville, Tuesday, April 24th; Marion, Wednesday, April, 25th; Shelby, Thursday, April 26th; Charlotte, Saturday, April 28th; Fayetteville, Monday, April 30th Rocky Mount, Tuesday, May 1st; Wilmington Wednesday, May 2nd; Newbern, Friday, May, 4th; Elizabeth City, Saturday, May, 5th.

At these meetings the several candidates will be present to discuss the subjects of good government, the Constitutional Amendment, and White Supremacy, and everybody is invited to attend.

NUMEROUS NEWS NOTES.

The Fourth annual conference of the Epworth League of Christian workers was held last week, and there was a large attendance of delegates. A number of elegant addresses were made, among them being one by Gen. Julian S. Carr, whose subject was "Laymen and Liberty." It was an excellent production and finely delivered. The Raleigh papers of Sunday printed in full.

President Alderman of the State University has been elected president of Tulane University, of New Orleans La. The salary is $5,000. Dr. Alderman has not yet indicated his acceptance, and it is earnestly hoped by his friends of the N. C. University that he will decide to remain where he now is.

White Supremacy campaign buttons have begun to make their appearance in the State. Chairman Simmons has arraigned with a firm for the manufacture of large numbers of them.

At the Y. M. C. A. convention at Charlotte last Friday W. N. Hendren, of Winston, was elected president and W. B. Marks, of Elon College, Secretary.

The death of ex-State Treasurer J. M. Worth, at the age of 89 years last week, was recognized here by a display of the flags on the capitol building at half mast. He made one of the best Treasurers North Carolina has ever had.

Dr. E. D. Ferree, formerly of Camden county and of late years of Norfolk, was last week elected second assistant physician at the Central Hospital for the Insane of Raleigh to succeed Dr. Davis, resigned.

The belief is growing here that Secretary of State Cy. Thompson will be the Rep-Pop nominee for Governor, if he will accept the empty honor. As to that, he refuses to speak at present.

At the exceptional time this letter is being written, just on the eve of the nomination of the Democratic State ticket, it is both difficult and impolitic to be engaging in "predications," and I will cut this letter short without indulging in that sort of thing. Next week we will have a great deal to talk about.

He Once Knew Something.

A middle aged gentleman who has been teaching in the school examination papers to the Academy expressing his opinion on the discovery of the fact that he knows less than he did years ago. In those some things then a dilemma. For example. Today I am at the mercy of any writer who brings me change. At looking offices I keep just copies waiting and missing that trains while I do laborious subtraction sums in my head, but at school what a hand I was at figures! Look at this:

"Three graziers, A, B and C, rent a piece of pasture land for a month. A puts on 27 cattle for 21 days, B 19 for 24 days and C 23 for 25 days. If at the end of the month the rent and other charges amount to £23 5s. 10d., how much of this ought to be paid by each?"

"I could do that by hand. I couldn't do it now. I have no place where to begin. It may be easy, but the point is that I have not the key. There used to be a jugglery with x, and I could manage it. Now that I pay income tax and have statements of account from my publisher every half year I can manage it no longer. And I seem to have known zoology too. Zoology! I seem to have been able to describe and draw diagrams of the heart and principal blood vessels of the crayfish. Once—good heavens—once I was a well informed boy. Today I don't see how I should pass the third class college of preceptors."—London Academy.

The Navy Man's Life.

"Laymen call our life exciting and think that we see a lot of the world," said the navy man. "but it's a big mistake. What do we know of any of the ports we visit? The pier, other boats that may happen to be there at the same time, and the English club of the town—that's all we see. And it's all we know about. After you've touched at a few ports and gone through the same performance over and over again, you get mighty tired of it.

"As for our life, what is it but a perpetual club life? There are a few professional club demands, but the rest of our time is spent in much the same way that a man spends his at his club—in smoking, reading, in swapping lies, in making oneself agreeable to one's friends who may do him the honor of a visit and in making oneself agreeable to some other fellow's friends who may do him the honor of a visit—that's the sum of our existence, and when you think that's it for day in and day out, you can but agree that a whole lifetime of it might begin to pall.

"It's like wearing evening clothes all the time or spending one's life at the opera, or always having dessert and nothing else for dinner. All play and no work makes a dull boy of almost any Jack. I sometimes wonder how any of us navy men manage to rise superior to our opportunities for sinking into stupidity's lowest depths."—New York Sun.

Started His Muse.

"It seems so strange," said the lady who had returned to visit the old scenes again, "that your son Arthur is a poet. When I knew him, I never suspected that he had an inclination in that direction. I suppose, though, that you have seen it in him from the first?"

"No," the young man's mother replied; "he never gave any indication of it as a boy. His schoolbooks are not, as one would naturally suppose, scribbled full of rhymes. He did not lisp in numbers, as we read that other poets did. Indeed Arthur was about as plain and practical a boy as could have been found anywhere."

"That's the way he always seemed to me. When was it discovered that he had this gift?"

"Well, the first time we noticed it on him was one day after a heavy sign, which had projected out over the street, fell as he was walking along and struck him on the head. As soon as he regained consciousness he seemed to be a poet."—Chicago Times-Herald.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT

Young Man Killed by a Runaway Team.

[Special to Reflector.]
Tarboro, N. C., April 9th.—Glennie Hedges, son of John R. Hedges, of the firm of Day and Hedges, of this place, was killed by runaway horses this afternoon. The young man was assisting in the loading of baggage and standing on the singletree of the wagon, when the horses became frightened and dashed off, throwing young Hedges between them, dragging him fully two hundred yards and kicked him to death. It is a peculiarly sad accident and the town is in gloom.

MEETING CALLED

Now for the Cotton Mill

The subscriptions to establish a cotton mill in Greenville is now in round numbers about $40,000, and it has been decided to call a meeting of the subscribers on Thursday, April 26th. This meeting will be held in the Court House at 2 o'clock p. m., at which time all subscribers and all others interested are requested to be present.

Those who are interested in the future of Greenville and want to see a cotton mill established should help along the movement. This opportunity should not be allowed to pass without getting a mill. It would prove a vast benefit to both the town and county, and everybody should work for it. Every cotton farmer in the county should be interested.

Date Changed.

An error occurring in the date as published yesterday, we republish the article calling a meeting of the subscribers to the cotton mills. It was first intended to hold the meeting on the 19th, but that coming during the New Bern fair the date has been changed to the 26th.
