The report of the jury on the public roads in Greenville and Belvoir townships was accepted and ordered to be recorded.

Dr C O'H Laughinghouse was re-elected Superintendent of Health for the ensuing year.

Several citizens of Chicod township petitioned that a road be laid off between the Stocks road and the County Home.

Several were allowed to list their taxes for the year 1899.

Stores Will Close Early.

A position was circulated Tuesday among the merchants here asking them to close their stores at half past seven o'clock during the summer months. All the merchants with a few exceptions signed the petition which went into effect Tuesday. This is a good move, as the clerks are entitled to some recreation after working in the stores all day.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1900.

The Democratic candidates on the State ticket closed their itinerary together at Washington yesterday. They touched both the western and eastern sections of the State and received great ovations everywhere. Now they divide up into twos and visit other towns where they have not been. The party never had a better ticket than at present.

"When thieves fall out honest men get their due." The recent Republican State convention adopted a platform. That platform was engineered by one Richmond Pearson who is contesting the seat of Congressman Crawford, Democrat from the ninth district. The platform, in referring to the State administration, did not so much as mention the name of Governor Russell. The Governor, too, was not allowed to be a delegate at large to the Republican National convention, though he was very anxious to be chosen as one. And now the Governor is taking a turn at the hat. He is out in a long interview in the Raleigh Post in which he shows up, Pearson in a bad light, and the latter's contest against Crawford is declared a case of "contemplated larceny."

Mr. T. J. Emerson, of near La-Grange, tells us of a sad accident that occurred in his section yesterday. Julia, the 14 year old daughter of Mr. Jno. T. Hill, of Falling Creek, was in the field in company with her two sisters, aged about 12 and 17, burning some corn stalks when her dress caught fire. She attracted the attention of her sisters by hollowing, and they ran to her aid. They were unable to put the flames out so they carried her to a ditch, which was about thirty feet distant, and by the use of mud and what little water could be gotten out of the ditch at length succeeded in extinguishing the flames. While being badly burned, it is not thought her injuries will result fatally.—Kinston Free Press.

This year's Republican State platform, like that of 1898, with the exception of attacks upon the amendment and election law, fails to speak out State issues. It is perhaps better to make no promises than to make promises and to break them, but we think a political party should define its position on every public question in which the people are interested.—Progressive Farmer.

What the Tobacco Trusts has Done for Danville.

The Danville Va., Bee, of Thursday had a candid editorial, entitled "A Local Sermon" which opens thus:

"It is apparent to all thinking people of our city that tobacco has reached the height of its usefulness here and can contribute little more to the development of Danville, and that the further growth of the city will not be, by tobacco, alone.

It is true that the quantity of the weed handled here has not decreased, and prices are as high as ever, but it is also true that the business is in fewer hands, and does not afford profitable employment to the same number of people as formerly. It follows that the capital and energy thus left idle must seek other channels."

When one thinks of Danville it is in association with tobacco. The general idea of the outside public is that there is no interest here than the buying, selling and manufacture of tobacco. The further therefore, of the article of which we quote, that "there was never so favorable a time as the present for starting new manufacturing enterprises," carried the idea of wiping off the slate and beginning again—of building a new town, on a new basis. We have heard that our own neighboring city of Winston is suffering from decadence of the tobacco interest, and these things remind us that about fifteen years ago the late Senator Barbour, of Virginia, said in a private conversation that our North Carolina and Virginia towns could not depend upon tobacco as a basis of permanent prosperity. It would be unsafe to say that he foresaw then the formation of a gigantic tobacco trust which would throttle competition and put the tobacco business "in fewer hands," but if it is seen, if our Danville contemporary speaks truly, as of course it does, that the spirit of prophecy was upon him.

There are those who defend trusts upon the ground that they cheapen productions. It is true that in many cases they have made the product cheaper to the consumer. But we have heretofore made the point that in every such case there is somebody behind—out of sight, it may be—who is suffering.

We see in the foregoing extract that in the case of the tobacco trusts it is the city of Danville, for one, that is suffering, the industry there not affording the same profitable employment as formerly to the same number of people. We are quite astonished at The Bee's statement that the price of leaf tobacco is "as high as ever," on information being exactly reverse to this. One cannot quite understand why the trust, having a monopoly over the bright tobacco business, should maintain prices at their natural level, and upon this point we await further information. By our contemporary's statement it is seen that this great charitable institution, the American Tobacco Company, has done the work for the city of Danville, and unless our information is wholly at fault it has done the work also for the tobacco-growers of the contiguous territory.—Charlotte Observer.

And what is true of Danville is true of every other town that is regarded among the tobacco markets. The tobacco industry, is a builder of towns and a producer of profitable employment for any considerable number of people, has seen its best days. The handling of tobacco and business incident thereto has been the making of some towns, but those that expect much progress from now on must turn into other channels. And the trusts are responsible for this. It has reached out and taken such control of the market and business as to kill competition and destroy the sources of labor and income for a large army of people. All is being manipulated in the interest of the great octopus, and until its power is broken no town need look for much more prosperity or development from the tobacco industry.

Why Not Quit It.

There is one sin everywhere, and by everybody is underestimated in valuations of character. It is the sin of fretting. Watch any ordinary coming together of people and see how many minutes it will be before somebody frets—that is, makes more or less complaining statements of something or other. It is simply astonishing how much annoyance and discomfort may be found in the course of every day's living, if one only keeps a sharp eye put on that side of things. Even Holy Writ says we are born to trouble as the sparks fly upward. But even to the sparks flying upward, in the blackest of smoke, there is a blue sky above, and the less time they waste on the road the sooner they will reach it. Fretting is all time wasted on the road.—Helen Hunt.

Relationship of Subscriber and Advertiser.

The genuine bona fides subscriber, the person who pays for his or her subscription does not fully appreciate their full value to the paper as an asset of the paper.

This is indistinction to the person who may read the paper, but does not pay for it.

Newspaper borrowers, or those who have the habit of just picking up some one else's paper, and reading it, as their tribe increases in a community, adds just so much weight to the newspaper publisher's inability to get out a creditable paper, for as the receipts decrease or increase, so will the average newspaper in a community reflect in its columns the condition of the publisher's cash drawer.

It is not a sign of special intelligence to be able to criticize a newspaper for its lack of news, quality of its paper, or its up-to-dateness.

But it does require a high grade of intelligence on the part of the newspaper publisher to get up a fairly respectable, up-to-date paper in a community where the borrowers of the paper exceed those who pay regularly for the paper.

Readers of newspapers, very many of them, will severely criticize the newspaper publisher for not giving them two columns of reading matter to each column of advertisements.

And yet this very critic never thinks, much less realizes, that this very advertising, which seems so space filling, is what gives the reader the paper, and whatever excellence of matter it may contain.—New Bern Journal.

The Monroe Enquirer says:

"Owing to the constantly advancing price of oil a number of merchants here, not long since, clubbed together and bought a car load of independent oil. The Standard Oil Co. immediately, by their system of rebates, put two negro merchants in position to retail oil by the gallon at less price than merchants handling independent oil could buy in car lots. This looks like anything but white supremacy. The surprising part of this business is that Monroe is in the Wilmington division of the Standard Oil Co. Evidently the Standard Co. wanted to make it odious for the merchant here who handled independent oil."

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman Knows Woman.

ZURICH, KAN., Jan. 31.
 I used Wine of Cardui for nervousness and weakness in the womb. After taking one bottle I was well again. I am a midwife and always recommend Wine of Cardui to my lady friends during pregnancy and after birth as a tonic. Every lady who takes it finds that it does even more than is claimed for it.
 MRS. V. M. BOISVERT.

WINE OF CARDUI

Nobody knows woman like woman. Men go to medical colleges, study books and listen to lectures. They learn indirectly of the diseases of women, but they are men and can never fully understand the ailments, the sufferings, the agonies of mothers, wives and sisters. A woman knows. Mrs. Boisvert knows. She has passed through the trials and tribulations of her sex. She has been near by when her sisters suffered. She has seen them relieved and cured with Wine of Cardui. Is it any wonder she recommends it? Is it any wonder that thousands of other women recommend it? They know. They have actual experience to prompt them. They spread the tidings from mouth to mouth, telling how Wine of Cardui helps young girls, helps the weak of all ages, helps and cures all womanly ills.

IT WILL PAY YOU TO INVESTIGATE the new policies of the Bankers. The Life, Limited Payment Life and Endowment policies contain all the up-to-date features, many of which are original.

Good Things.

Did you ever look for the "good things" in your life insurance policy? Unless it was in the Bankers Life Insurance Company of the City of New York, you probably found side issues labelled "Grace" "Incontestability," "Loans," and the like, made prominent as "good things." Of course we have these features, too, for the "Bankers" is nothing if not progressive; but—

Did you ever see a policy with which the Company keeps an Individual Account?

Or one in which all earnings are guaranteed to the policy-holder?
Or one which guaranteed both reserve and surplus if surrendered?
Or one which gives all withdrawable surplus at death, in addition to face of policy?

Or one, in fact, which treats the policy-holder with absolute equity, confiscating no portion of the net premiums, and allowing a policy-holder to control his own money at all times, as far as is consistent with a conservative system which embraces the best points of banking and insurance?

If you have never seen any of these "good things," investigate the new policies of the Bankers Life Insurance Company of the City of New York.

Who are its officers and directors? Among them are many of the best known men in New York financial circles.

The Company's record has been unequalled for economical management, safe investments, equitable dealings with its policy-holders and low cost of Insurance Protection.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee held in Greenville on the 14th day of April, 1900, a convention for the nomination of Democratic candidates for the Legislature and the various county offices and for the appointment of delegates to the First Congressional District Democratic convention, was called to meet in the Court House, in Greenville, at 12 o'clock M., on Saturday, May 19th, 1900.

Township primaries, for the purpose of appointing delegates to said county convention, were called to meet at the usual places in each township on Saturday, May 12th, 1900, at 3 o'clock P. M. The said primaries will also elect an Executive Committee for each precinct, composed of five members, and also nominate candidates for Justices of the Peace and Constable. The number of delegates and alternates each township will be entitled to is as follows:

Beaver Dam	5
Belvoir	5
Bethel	9
Carolina	8
Chicod	20
Contentnea	21
Falkland	8
Farmville	7
Greenville	29
Pactolus	4
Swift Creek	11

All white men in the county of Pitt who favor the white people controlling the affairs of State and county, and who intend to vote to that end, are cordially invited to attend and participate in these meetings.

A SPRING GREETING IN A MERRY MOOD.

Good Fortune Smiles

and you ignore rightful advantages if you do not claim the benefits offered in this Announcement.

Many are the needs that confront you with the advent of Spring. It is concerning these requirements and how they may be supplied with satisfaction and economy that we wish to speak. Our new line is now ready. We present the latest and best Spring goods at a scale of uniformly low figures—so low, in fact, that they may be truthfully called, "price concessions." These goods are fully as attractive in style and quality as they are in price, and we are perfectly confident that they will appeal to your best judgment as a careful buyer in every way. This is a conservative statement regarding facts which can be easily substantiated any time you visit our store. Our greatest recommendation have you call and see our new Spring line. It will speak for itself—the quality and style will be apparent and the price will present its own argument. In extending this invitation we are not urging you to become a buyer on the strength of our statements but to become a visitor. We do not ask you to buy; but bring your experience and best judgment with you and compare our reasonable attractions with your most cherished memories of cheap buying—we'll leave the rest to your own inclination. Our stock is of the practical, popular kind, that shows in a marked degree the evidences of a careful and judicious selection from the best markets. Variety, new novelties, and a thorough up-to-date quality in all things is everywhere apparent. Our Spring goods are marked for quick selling. It is a time for you to decide quickly as to whether you shall select from our full assortment of fresh, desirable styles, or take chances on perfect satisfaction a little later on, when stocks of necessity, must be more or less broken. We should prefer to see you today or tomorrow; later in the season we should be very likely to please you but now we are certain to do so. Remember, such opportunities do not have to wait long for new comers. A look will convince you these are no idle words—will you call and give it? Yours respectfully,

J. B. CHERRY & CO.

Staple and Fancy Goods
