GRIFTON ITEMS

GRIFTON, N. C. May 17, 1900.

J. C. Griffin attended court at Kinston last week.

DeWitt McCotter was here Saturday and left on the evening train for Kinston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Harvey went to Vanceboro Sunday.

B. L. Gardner returned to Kinston Saturday.

"Uncle Pig" Forbes and son, Gus, came down Friday to make music for the entertainment.

Some of the most talented young people of St. John's gave a play Friday for the benefit of that church. They played "Miss Topsy Turvy" which all enjoyed. They deserve much credit as all acted their parts to perfection. Quite a delegation went from this place.

W. L. McLawhorn and Miss Annie Smith were married Thursday at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Cicero Smith.

Z. B. Bland returned Tuesday from Whitsett Institute.

Miss Eloise Wooten, of Dover, is visiting Miss Ethel Wooten.

W. S. Blount went to New Bern Friday and returned Monday.

Hamlins Witch Hazel Ointment representatives gave a free show Wednesday night from eight to nine.

Jacob McCotter, Dr. Nobles, Geo. Kilpatrick and Geo. Johnson left Tuesday morning for Richmond.

Joe Harvey and wife and Miss Bessie Harvey, of Vanceboro, came up Sunday.

The annual picnic at Faulkner's seine beach has been changed from first Saturday to third Saturday in May.

The M. E. Sunday school convention will be held at Gum Swamp next year.

Joseph Quinerly returned from Chapel Hill Wednesday.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, Almighty God in His providence has removed from us our Brother, Louis B. Elks, Tyler of Grimesland Lodge, No. 475, A. F. & A. M.,

Now therefore be it resolved, that while we bow in humble submission to the will of God we deeply feel the loss of our beloved Brother, who was always a faithful one among us.

Resolved further, that we extend to his family our sincerest sympathy in this their sad bereavement.

Resolved further, that a copy of these resolutions be entered on the minutes of Grimesland Lodge, No. 475 A. F. & A. M., that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased, and that they be published in THE EASTERN REFLECTOR.

Dog Stops a Horse

Yesterday afternoon Dr. Wilder and driver were driving along South Tryon street, when the horse shied at the car, and ran. A large gray hound was following the buggy. Seeing the horse running, the dog, thought it was a challenge for a race, and put out to beat. It soon caught up with the horse, and running to its head, jumped up and caught the bridle, bringing the horse to a stop.—Charlotte News.

A Public Treasury Leak.

Charges for transportation and subsistence of officers and enlisted men discharged from the Federal army have been very heavy since the beginning of the recent war. The government under takes to pay the cost of sending the discharged man from the place of his discharge to the place of residence when appointed if an officer and to the place of enlistment in the case of an enlisted man. With troops scattered far and near, the existing law offers a pecuniary advantage to soldiers quitting the service when far from their homes which quite throws into the shade the ancient mileage charge permitted to Federal civil officials. The moldy statute of 1812—the only law on the subject—allows commutation of travel and subsistence to discharged men at the rate of one day's allowance for every twenty miles of travel. Twenty miles a day was a fair rate of progress ninety years or so ago, but we have changed all that, and the law should be changed with it.

A colonel of the United States army who was appointed at the Federal capital, and was subsequently discharged at San Francisco, found himself entitled to draw from the Treasury on his arrival in Washington $1,520.81 for travel pay and subsistence. He was five days en route, paid $77 for his ticket and about $40 for sleeping berth and meals. A discharged major general traveling over the same distance would be entitled to draw from his trip $3278.12, although he would probably spend no more than the colonel for actual transportation.

Under the terms of a bill recently passed by the House of Representatives it is proposed to allow four cents per mile for traveling expenses of this sort, with commutation of two cents per mile for subsistence where transportation alone is furnished. The final enactment into law of this measure would close a petty Treasury leak through which public money now runs in an unduly excessive volume. Philadelphia Record.

Fifty years ago Germany had 35,000,000 people, while the German population at the present time is about 53,000,000. This vast advance in population is the more noteworthy when the steady emigration of Germans, year by year, is taken into consideration. Germany receives practically no immigrants, while the great German population of the United States shows how heavily the fatherland has been taxed to aid the census of the younger nation.—Chicago News.

W. C. T. U. Annual Convention, Asheville, N. C., June 14-18.

The eighteenth annual convention of the North Carolina Woman's Christian Temperance Union is called to meet in the city of Asheville, June 14-18, inclusive.

In the beginning of our national life as a society twenty six years ago, the brave women who led the crusade bands systematized a work against the legalized saloon that has not only found favor in every state of the union, but is an organized force in every civilized country of the world.

The basis of representation in the State Convention is one delegate from each local union and one for every twenty members thereof. Presidents of local unions and State members are ex-officio members of the annual meeting. Every union should send its full quota this year.

Asheville with its picturesque setting amid the "Alps of America" is the most inviting city to our eastern constituency and the pride of the western. In opening her doors she has honored our organization and a full convention alone can reflect our appreciation of her kindness.

The program in course of preparation promises to be one of special interest. Reduced railroad rates will be secured, through summer rates will be as cheap perhaps and give passengers more time.

All friends of the temperance cause are invited to attend the convention and aid us in our efforts to so educate public sentiment against the liquor traffic as to speedily banish every saloon from the State.

MARY E. CARLAND, Pres.
 C. E. CRAVEN, Cor. Sec.
 MARY M. DAVIS, Rec. Sec.

Divorces too Easy.

What is the matter with the marriage state of late? Never were there so many divorces in high life as in the past year. The principal business of society appears to be to get divorces, if married; if single to so conduct themselves as to make divorces for others possible. The other day the newspapers contained the particulars of the institution of three divorce suits in which the participants are people of wide distinction.

Never was divorce so notoriously prevalent as to-day, despite the fact that for several years efforts have been on foot to secure restrictions in the divorce laws. The divorce law of some States is made ridiculous by the temporary emigration of one or both of the parties to wedlock to another State. Divorces are obtained simply because both parties are desirous of change, and evidence is manufactured to serve their purposes. It is high time that radical steps should be taken to abate the divorce fever. Respect for marriage has arrived at altogether too low ebb in the so-called higher walks of life.

Divorce is altogether too easy and marriage is contracted, apparently, without due consideration of adaptability and mutual regard. The growth of divorce and the methods by which it is secured have become notorious. It is time that State laws should be amended or a general law passed to the end that some degree of unanimity be attained.—Durham Sun.

It is said that in Washington there are more children cigarette smokers, in proportion to population, than in any other city in the country. Washington is always a badly demoralized town when the Republicans are in control.—Wilmington Star.

Promises Much That Is Good and Uplifting.

The adoption of the amendment will settle the race question in North Carolina as it has in Louisiana. The negro will practically cease to vote, while all white men will continue to vote as in Louisiana. When the negro is out of politics he will become a better citizen and better laborer, and he and the white man will get along better together. The amendment will not only disfranchise the negro, it will free the white man by making it possible for him to vote as he pleases, instead of on race lines, as now. It will dignify the white man by conferring upon him a high privilege which the negro does not enjoy. It will remove the fear of negro control, thereby inviting immigration and outside capital to help us make our State what it ought to be. It will give such an impetus to education that in the next generation but few of our boys and girls will be unable to read and write. Surely no measure has ever been presented to the people that promises so much that is good and uplifting as does this measure.—Raleigh News and Observer.

If You are White Vote That Way.

The Radical convention denounced the amendment and the Democratic party, the amendment because it disfranchises the negro and lets the white man vote; the Democratic party because that party has said in the amendment that a white man is better than a negro by inheritance. Let every white man who believes that he is no better than a negro vote the Radical ticket and against the amendment, and every white man who knows he is better than a negro vote for the amendment.—Shelby Star.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

Every time a widower gets a new suit half the women he knows roll up their eyes.

A woman can never propose as artistically as a man because she is always in too big a hurry.

When a girl tries to hold a man's eyes she is generally doing it so he won't notice her freckles or something.

The average man loves his wife most when she is always visiting and least when they are house cleaning.

A man can always make his wife proud to death of him by referring to the hired girl as "the maid" before company.—New York Press.

Temporary Heterophemy.

"What is your occupation?" asked the magistrate, entering the name of John Georgeson on the docket as a "plair drunk."

"I'm a cammon sanner," replied the inebriate, whose nerves were still somewhat shaky.

"A sanner cannon, y'r honor."

"That's something I never heard of before," the magistrate said.

"I didn't get 't right y'r honor. I'm a cammer sanner. No that ah't right, either. I'm a sanner—"

"Where is your home?" interrupted the court.

"Oregon."

"Then you are a salmon canner, are you not?"

"Thats right, y'r honor. Yov've saved m' life."—Chicago Tribune.

Women reach a conclusion first and argue it afterwards—and the argument never stops.

Labor conditions never affect the matrimonial tie-up.

An Unwilling Balloon Passenger.

When Professor McDade ascended in his balloon at the circus here to-night young Walter Cartwright, who had helped hold down the balloon but unwittingly failed to loosen his hold on the guy rope, was hauled rapidly up into the air.

"Wrap the rope around you!" yelled the excited aeronaut to the dangling fellow, and Cartwright, a muscular fellow of 20, was able to obey. Then, when the balloon had reached a height of about 400 feet, it collapsed, and both the professor and his unwilling passenger descended unceremoniously together to terra firma. Marvelously, both escaped with slight injury. The weight of the two was too much for the parachute.—Philadelphia Record.

Easy to Reach.

"Suffering cats!" exclaimed the war editor of the yellow journal, "I can't make head or tail of this dispatch from our special correspondent in South Africa."

"Neither could I," said the assistant.

"James," called the editor to the office boy, "ask the South African war correspondent to step in here a moment."—Times and Standard.

In Norway married couples are permitted by the railroads to travel for a fare and a half. This deprives the husband of an excuse for leaving his wife at home when he wants to run around.—Wilmington Star.

The Prince of Wales busies himself in collecting pens used by the famous writers during his mother's reign. He finds time, however, to play the races and incidental festivities.—Wilmington Star.

Eliminate selfishness from the world and the devil will have to retire from business.

There are very few men who preach what they practice—it would ruin the vast majority.

Some people feed only on fritters of flattery—a most delightful diet, but not very substantial.

The devil delights in a religion that makes people sour and sad and wear a face like a fence-rail.

Religion is often the armor which some people put on when they want to make sure of overcoming their enemies.

IT WILL PAY YOU TO INVESTIGATE the new policies of the Bankers. The Life, Limited Payment Life and Endowment policies contain all the up-to-date features, many of which are original.

Good Things.

Did you ever look for the "good things" in your life insurance policy? Unless it was in the Bankers Life Insurance Company of the City of New York, you probably found side issues labelled "Grace" "Incontestability," "Loans," and the like, made prominent as "good things." Of course we have these features, too, for the "Bankers" is nothing if not progressive; but—

Did you ever see a policy with which the Company keeps an Individual Account?

Or one in which all earnings are guaranteed to the policy-holder?

Or one which guaranteed both reserve and surplus if surrendered?

Or one which gives all withdrawable surplus at death, in addition to face of policy?

Or one, in fact, which treats the policy-holder with absolute equity, confiscating no portion of the net premiums, and allowing a policy-holder to control his own money at all times, as far as is consistent with a conservative system which embraces the best points of banking and insurance?

If you have never seen any of these "good things," investigate the new policies of the Bankers Life Insurance Company of the City of New York.

Who are its officers and directors? Among them are many of the best known men in New York financial circles.

The Company's record has been unequalled for economical management, safe investments, equitable dealings with its policy-holders and low cost of Insurance Protection.

An Economical Buyer of Shoes is the woman who recognizes the fact that it is true economy to purchase nothing but the highest grade shoes for her own wear, as well as for the children. We will fit mamma and the misses, as well as the boys and girls, with elegant, durable and comfortable shoes at prices that no one can touch, when quality is considered.

There's Great Comfort

afoot where our shoes are worn. They adjust themselves to what they cover so easily, yieldingly and coolly that they meet all the conditions of ideal foot wear. You walk into pleasure when you step into a pair of these stylish twins for the house and street. Soles, heels, points and uppers, all reflect the mode admirably.

Died.

Mr. Allen Harper, and aged citizen of Greene county, died at his home Wednesday with consumption. He was seventy-five years old and an uncle of H. M. Hardee of Greenville. He was buried today near Ormondsville.

Preparing for the Census.

Dan W. Patrick of Snow Hill who has been appointed Supervisor of Census in the second district in the place of A. M. Moore, who was appointed Judge, has been here a few days getting his office in shape.

The Supervisor's office will remain in Greenville and all the business will be transacted from here. Mr. Patrick is ex-President of the A & N. C. R. R. and as such showed himself a first class business man and a highly efficient officer, commanding the respect and esteem of the people with whom he came in contact. He is a prominent Republican and a successful farmer of Greene county.

Mr. J. R. Riding, of Virginia, and Miss Isabel Turner, of Durham, were married Tuesday night. They are both deaf mutes and an interpreter had to assist the minister in the ceremony.

The meeting in the Methodist church, tonight which closes the protracted services, may give some people in Greenville the last opportunity they ever have of becoming a Christian. It is important to think of this.
