One More in Jail.

Marion Brown, a negro, was brought here this morning and put in jail for giving a false mortgage. He claimed to have a cow and gave a mortgage on same, when in fact the negro did not own any cow. He was given a Magistrate's trial and bound over to court. This makes twenty six prisoners now in the county jail awaiting trial at September court.

George Dudley disorderly conduct and using profane language, guilty, fined $5 and cost amounting to $8.75.

STATE ALLIANCE.

The fourteenth annual session of the North Carolina Farmer's Alliance, met in Hillsboro last week. Among other business transacted was the adoption of the following resolutions:

"Whereas, the North Carolina Farmers State Alliance has been from the time of its foundation the earnest friend of education, and whereas there is now imperative necessity for greater school advantages within the borders of North Carolina than ever before. Now be it

Resolved, That the legislature of North Carolina be and hereby is, petitioned.

1st. To levy a special tax, under Article 9, Sec. 3, of the State Constitution, sufficient to run our public schools for four months, and that in addition the special appropriation of $100,000 be continued.

2. To appropriate a sum sufficient for the support of the State University, the Agricultural and Mechanical College, and the State Normal and Industrial College upon a permanent basis, such appropriation to enable free tuition in those institutions to be offered to every white student in North Carolina.

3. To enact such laws as will compel the attendance of all children, between the ages of 7 and 15 upon the public schools.

4th. To prohibit the employment of children of immature age in manufacturing industries.

5th. To establish reformatories for young criminals."

A resolution was passed on the death of Ex-Governor Elias Carr, ex-president of the State Alliance, also resolutions thanking President Winston of the A. and M. College for an excellent address before the body, commending and endorsing the official organ, The Progressive Farmer, and its non-partisan policy, and appointing a committee to confer with the A. and M. College authorities about the education at the college of practical and theoret-tical farmers.

The Alliance also decided to offer a number of premiums for agricultural displays at the State Fair in October.

Editor Poe of The Progressive Farmer, when asked about the present and future of the order, said: "I never care to refer to the politics of Alliance officials, as such matters are not considered in their selection, but to show the falsity of the prejudice of some, it may be well to say that the president and trustee, the secretary-treasurer, and State business agent, and assistant lecturer are all influential Democratic farmers, while the remaining offices are filled by wide-awake farmers and educators, belonging to other parties or none. The prejudice against the Alliance is rapidly dying out and the outlook for re-organization is very bright. Democrats, Populists, Prohibitionists and Republicans attended the State meeting, all worked in harmony and devoted themselves to the agricultural and educational lines along which the Alliance will work, and all will assist in the re-organization to be affected this fall and winter."

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

The Greatest Tarheel—Unveiling of the Splendid Bronze Statue of Vance at Raleigh.

Special Correspondent of Reflector.

Raleigh, N. C., August 20.—The chief event of the present week in Raleigh, one in which every true North Carolinian feels a personal and patriotic interest, is the unveiling of the splendid and life-like bronze statue of the immortal "Zeb." Vance, "the great commoner," and the most beloved man of the people of his State ever raised up among us. The unveiling ceremonies will take place Wednesday, in Capitol Park, at the east entrance to which and facing the rising sun, about 50 yards from the east front of the state-house building, the statue stands—on a native granite pedestal, which rises through a grass-turfed mound—some thirty feet high in all.

The bronze statue, which is a little larger than life size, represents the great Carolinian in an erect attitude, such as he assumed when addressing the Vice-president and his colleagues in the U. S. Senate—with one hand resting carelessly on a corner of his desk, the other half outstretched and holding between his fingers the eye-glasses he was accustomed to remove while speaking, bringing them into use occasionally as he read from some authority or quoted an extract from the coinage of another's brain. The attitude is unmistakably that of Vance—as the writer had many times seen him in the Senate—and the features and facial likeness, "lion mane hair" and all, are very life-like. In short, the bronze counterfeit is a splendid one, and not only in its resemblance to the original, but the work is first-class and splendidly executed in every particular. The statue has been in position for several weeks, but has been kept veiled up to this time, of course.

The "vell" will be moved by Miss Espey Vance, grand-daughter of the "governor" (as North Carolinians were wont to call him years after he entered the Senate) and daughter of the late David Vance, his second son. The latter married in Louisiana and the young lady is now a resident of that State, where she has her home with maternal relatives. She gets her first name "Espey" from her grand-mother, the Governor's first wife, who was a Miss Espey.

VANCE STATUE AT WASHINGTON.

When the legislature meets it ought to provide for a statue of Vance to be placed in the national capitol building at Washington, where space is provided for the statues of two of the sons of each of the States. North Carolina has already too long been without representation in either niche of this "temple of fame," and of course a counterfeit of Vance should be one of the offerings from this State.

I presume that the molds have not yet been destroyed, and it is probable that a duplicate of the statue now being unveiled here could be secured for but a small portion of the cost of the original. Let the law-makers take up this matter when they arrive here next January and put it through.

MAXWELL.

Senator Ingalls Dead.

Las Vegas, N. M., Aug. 16.—Former United States Senator John J. Ingalls died at East Las Vegas at 2:25 a. m., today. He was surrounded by his family. The funeral will be held in Atchison, Kan.

Senator Ingalls' illness dated from March, 1899, when, at Washington his throat began troubling him. He worked steadily, writing political articles for newspapers throughout the country. He was treated by several specialists, but received no relief, and on their advice, returned with his family to Atchison. At home he grew no better. Ten months ago he sought another change of climate, traveling through New Mexico.

Charlotte Drink the Water.

Charlotte, N. C., August 15.—The police commission today unanimously voted to discharge Policeman Cunningham, who is one of a party charged with bathing in the pond where the city water supply comes from. The party also included an alderman and constable. The affair is all the talk here now, and much indignation is felt and the parties may be tried in the criminal court.

When To Stop Advertising.

An English journal requested a number of its largest advertisers to give their opinions concerning the best time to stop advertising, and the following replies were received:

When the population ceases to multiply, and the generations that crowd on after you and never heard of you stop coming on.

When you have convinced everybody whose life will touch yours that you have better goods and lower prices than they can get anywhere else.

When you stop making fortunes

GREENVILLE, N. C.

The editors and lawyers of North Carolina did their full duty in the late exciting campaign, and deserve much praise for the valuable services rendered by them in securing the adoption of the suffrage amendment.

The editors filled their papers for several weeks with the best campaign literature. In addition to what they themselves wrote for their papers, they also published in every issue several columns of matter furnished by the State Executive committee. All this was published without charging or receiving one cent in payment. And not only this, but many editors gave away a large number of their papers every week.

The lawyers also did much good by their active and thorough canvass, going out among the people and speaking by day and night in every county. Many of them shut up their offices, and, neglecting their business, devoted their entire time to the canvass.—Pittsboro Record.
