WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AND BUSINESS NOTES.

WINTERVILLE, N. C., Sept., 1st.
Mr. B. F. Manning has just received a full line of school books, geographies, arithmetics, histories and spellers and in fact all of the newest additions used in both, common and higher schools.

The A. G. Cox Mfg. Co. calls special attention to their Tar Heel wagons which cannot be excelled either in quality of material out of which they are made, or durability. They are first class in every particular and will last almost a life time. Call on or write this firm if in need of a tip-top article.

Prof. G. E. Lineberry went to Rocky Mount yesterday to meet his wife and escort her to her new home. They arrived on last evening's train.

The handsome new residence of Mr. A. G. Cox is nearly completed. Mr. Carlos Harris and Lewis Laurence have the contract for painting it, and it promises to be a "Thing of Beauty."

Lumber is being sawed for our college and work will commence on it right away.

Rev. Mr. Bryan Jackson, of Kinston, is visiting relatives and friends near town.

Mr. W. L. Hurst returned from Newport News last Thursday evening.

Mr. Sylvester Fleming, of Washington, was here yesterday in consultation with Prof. Lineberry and as a result of his visit several new names have been entered on our school record.

Mr. W. G. Fair, father of our townsman, Mr. C. E. Fair, has accepted a position with the Hunsucker Carriage Co.

M. G. Bryan, salesman for the Winterville Cigar Co., returned from a two weeks trip on the road yesterday just loaded down with orders. The growth in public favor for our cigars is something truly wonderful. From a force of one or two hands we are now working some 12 or 15 and in a very short time this force will be very greatly increased. We just can't help it, our trade demands it. We make nothing but first-class goods and these with an indomitable perseverance must tell.

Mr. Ward and wife who have been visiting in and near Washington returned one day this week.

Sick and Wounded Soldiers From China.

San Francisco, Aug. 30.—The transport Thomas arrived last evening with a large number of sick and wounded soldiers, marines and officers. Some of the men who are in the ship's hospital are from the battlefield at Tien Tsin and among these is Captain Edward V. Bookmiller, of the Ninth United States infantry, who fell in advance of the American forces on the Chinese outworks.

The wounded from China were transferred to the steamer at Yokohama. The Thomas came through from Manila. Of the sick and wounded, 221 are from Manila, while 4 are men of the Ninth infantry who served in China.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31 1900.

Mr. McKinley and his Cabinet, or rather the five members of it who are in Washington, have been giving a continuous diplomatic performance this week. They have been holding daily sessions—one day they held two sessions—to wrestle with communications from the imperial partners with whom Mr. McKinley has been doing business in China. The contents of those communications have not been made public, but the semi-official news disseminators say they relate to a united agreement for a settlement of questions relating to China, and that the Emperor of Germany now stands obstinately in the way of an immediate settlement. That may or may not be true, but there are reasons for the belief that the Emperor of Germany, or anybody else, who prevents an agreement that would necessitate a show down of the administration's Chinese hand until after the Presidential election would be regarded by Mr. McKinley as an almighty good find.

Washington is entirely in the dark as to what is going on in and around Pekin, as no telegrams have come through that were not more than a week old when received and they have contained little that was important.

History teaches that it is the usual thing for nations to do what their rulers had declared they would not do. Perhaps that is why so little attention has been given to the declarations of the diplomats of the allied nations as to the intentions of their respective governments in China. This government was first to declare that it wanted no Chinese territory and that it was opposed to any other nation taking any; that was followed by similar declarations from Germany and Japan, and now Russia has come forward to say that it wants nothing but peace and the preservation of the Chinese empire, and that it stands ready to give up the Chinese territory it recently seized to restore order. These have been official statements publicly made. England is said to agree with them, although no official statement to that effect has been made public and there are some rumors to the contrary. It must be apparent to the observant that if those five governments really held the sentiments expressed by them, there would be no further talk about a general land grab in China: they have the power to compel a settlement on the lines they wish. That there is continued talk is why it is believed that these official utterances have merely been made for effect—to keep the world in the dark while the plans for cutting up China are perfected.

Representative Davey, of Louisiana, was at democratic Congressional headquarters this week. He said of the republican claim of Louisiana Congressional districts: "The Republican National Committee were told sometime ago that the second and third districts would be republican; also the sixth. I do not understand why all the Louisiana districts were not included in the claim. Personally, I have no doubt about all six of the Louisiana democrats being re-elected. The republicans in Louisiana are united this year, but that will not win them any Congressional seats."

The Democratic Campaign Text-Book is ready for distribution. It is a very warm book of fifty chapters, seventeen of which are devoted to imperialism. One chapter is devoted to evidence showing the existence of a secret alliance between the McKinley administration and Great Britain; the Porto Rican legislation, which is described as imperialism applied, gets several chapters and one of the longest chapters is given up to republican stealing in Cuba. Other chapters show the attitude of the republican party toward trusts; railroad discriminations in favor of trusts, the proposed ship subsidy job, etc. The book is a corker.

Representative Hay, of Virginia, who is recognized as one of the best friends of the National Guard in Congress, says in a signed statement on the dangers of militarism: "The republican party advocates a large and permanent standing army and it will insist upon a large increase in the standing army, should it continue in power. Apart from the immense cost which such a military establishment entail permanently on the government the effect of its maintenance would be to discourage the formation of National Guard organizations, and to sap the military spirit of our people. This large standing army is necessarily a part of the imperial and military system which the present administration is seeking to force upon the country. It is an open secret that the people who are advocating this system desire to use these troops at home as well as abroad, for the suppression of the liberties of the people. The policy of the democratic party is to oppose militarism, and it denounces in its national platform the maintenance of a large standing army."

Representative Gaines, of Tennessee, has been looking up Mr. McKinley's inconsistent record on the trust question. He finds that Mr. McKinley declared in a speech in the House, May 18, 1888, that Congress had the power to crush home trusts. Mr. Gaines also asks very pertinently why Mr. McKinley has done nothing toward crushing the trusts since he became President, and why he should be a trust follower instead of a party leader? Mr. McKinley has been inconsistent on almost every important public question. He can't help it. By nature he is a wobbler.

Cupid must be making his headquarters in the town of Peru, Illinois. He got such complete possession of the young folks that the city fathers passed a law making it a finable offence to be caught "courting," "making love," or "spooring" any where on the streets of that town. Judging from the phraseology there must be three grades of it out there. But the old fellows did not like it because on one of the principal thoroughfares they were constantly stumbling over wooing couples and it recalled reminiscences, and reminded them of what simpletons they once were themselves.—Wilmington Star.

A New haven man who was jilted presented his ex-sweetheart with an itemized bill for $316 for presents, ice-cream and sundries which he had been presenting her for three years. She reciprocated by presenting an offset bill for kisses at a dollar a piece and brought him in debt several hundred dollars, enough to break him. Nothing like keeping tab in matters of business.—Wilmington Star.

On the Beach.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 30.—The body of a woman about 32 years old was found today on the shore beneath the cliffs here. On it were diamond earrings, a diamond finger ring and a wedding ring on which was the inscription "H. W. K. to E. H. W., June 20, 1900." The body is believed to be that of Harriet Wilson Kimball, wife of Horace W. Kimball, of Norway, Me., who jumped from the steamer Horatio Hall on its way from New York to Portland last Sunday morning.

Swedish Government.

New York, August 30.—Albert H. Wiggin, vice president of the National Park Bank, said to-day that it was true that the bank had been approached by representatives of the Swedish government with inquiries as to the chance of placing a $10,000,000 loan in this country at 98 to bear 4 per cent. interest for ten years. Mr. Wiggin said he was not prepared to say yet whether the proposition had been favorably received.

Looked Down Pistol Barrel.

Williamston, N. C. August 30.—A twelve-year-old negro boy accidentally shot and killed himself here yesterday. He was playing with a broken pistol which was of course, unloaded! He was looking down the barrel when it went off, the ball taking effect just above the eye and penetrating the brain.

The man who lends money promiscuously usually borrows trouble.

You can't always tell how rich your neighbors are by the quantity of ice they buy.

When a man blames himself for his own misfortunes, his friends say he is essentrick.

When a millionaire dies without heirs the undertaker regards him as dead easy.

Industry, with some people, is a disease that they take every possible precaution against.

From the point of view the struggling young author the editorial position is on the decline.

Can you blame a young man for wearing corsets when his sister wears his collars and neckties.

The difference between practice and theory is the difference between a man who learns to swim and the man who spends all his life in studying a frog.

Elopes With Farm Hand.

Charlotte, N. C. August 30.—Tilden Harrison, a farm hand of W. H. Johnston, of Davison, N. C. has run away with the 14-year-old daughter of his employer, and the father is now searching the country for the runaways. Harrison is only 20 years of age, and no one had any idea that he and the girl ever met each other except casually.

Trolley Boys.

The Raleigh Electric Company have just placed a new arrangement on their cars called a "trolley boy." The object of the contrivance is to take up the slack in trolley rope, and to hold down the trolley when it jumps the line. This prevents the danger from the trolley breaking against some of the cross arms when it has come off its line.—Raleigh News and Observer

Speaking of "smoked Yankees," there is a promising specimen in Kansas City—a negro school teacher who makes a profitable thing of his color by buying houses in select white neighborhoods and exacting good bonuses from adjacent property owners who wish to get him out of the neighborhood. He admits that he plays this successful skin game, and says that he has a right to it.—Louisville Courier Journal, Dem.

Base Assault on a Woman Foiled

Washington N. C., August 30.—One of the most dastardly deeds in the history of our town occurred early tonight. Mr. Geo. Styron, one of our citizens left his home to make some purchases at a store near by. He left his wife and children at home, the former seated in the front room.

Mr. Styron had not been gone five minutes before some one entered by way of the front door and advanced towards Mrs. Styron, who was sitting with her back towards it. The man placed his hands on her shoulder. At first she thought it was her husband, but looking around discovered that it was another man, wearing a mask. Mrs. Styron commenced to scream. The wretch caught her by the throat and threw her violently to the floor.

At this she screamed so loudly that the man became frightened, and as he heard neighbors coming to her rescue he fled.

After his escape Mrs. Styron found a mask lying on the floor. She also discovered that her hands were smutty. Her assailant evidently must have been a white man, although Mrs. Styron says he was black.

As he left the house he was heard to say: "D— you! I'll get you some time." There is no clew as to the guilty party.

Drowned in a Tank of Beer.

John Ludwig, employed in the Prospect Brewery, Oxford on Mervine streets, fell into a tank of beer last night and was drowned. The accident was not discovered until some time afterward.

It is supposed that Ludwig was overcome by the heat while working over the tank, and this caused him to fall in.
