THE SCHOOLS.

Good Opening of Fall Session.

All the schools began their fall terms today, and some have the best opening in their history.

The public school for this district began with 43 pupils present.

The Male Academy (Prof. W. H. Ragsdale) opened with 44 pupils, the largest number ever present on the first day.

The Masonic Hall School had 40 present with several more enrolled who could not get in on the first day. This was a splendid beginning for the new school.

Mrs. Forbes' School had eight present with more to be added during the week.

Miss Annie Perkins' kindergarten school opened with 20 present.

We learn by telephone that C. C. College at Ayden had 63 enrolled, with many more expected soon. Prof. A. J. Manning is principal; Prof. Stancill Hodges teacher of latin, mathematics and book keeping; Miss Lizzie Anderson, of Farmville, teacher of primary, English and elocution; Miss Mattie Moore, of Washington, D. C., teacher of music.

Two Women Fought.

Kate Bradley and Rebecca Green, both colored, became engaged in an altercation early yesterday morning on James street between Harnett and Swan, and it resulted in the stabbing of the Green woman. The wound was inflicted in the left cheek and it bled profusely. Dr. Price dressed it and pronounced that it was not very serious.

The Bradley woman was arrested and brought before Justice McGowan for trial. She waived examination and was bound over to Criminal Court in the sum of $25, in default of which she was sent to jail.—Wilmington Star.

New Instruments.

Saturday the Osceola Band received ten new instruments to be added to the band equipment. They came from C. G. Conn, Elkhart, Ind., who makes the finest band instruments in the country. Those received here are beautiful. The ten instruments cost something over $500 and during this week our people will be waited on for subscriptions to assist in paying for them. The boys are entitled to your help and will appreciate any donation.

Gone to School.

Mr. J. B. Harding, who for the last few months has been local reporter on THE REFLECTOR, left this morning to enter the A. & M. College at Raleigh. Jarvis was indeed a valuable helper on the paper and we never saw any one more faithful to his duties than he. While we regretted to give him up, it is commendable that he desired to complete his education and enters college for that purpose. He will make his mark in whatever calling he applies himself to.

Pactolus Store Robbed.

On last Friday night the store of J. J. Satterthwaite & Bro., at Pactolus, was broken into by robbers. The entrance was made by prizing open the back door. The robbers got no money, and only about $20 worth of goods, consisting mainly of liquor, pistols and shoes, has been missed.

MARKETING OF COTTON CROP.

Good Advice to Southern Farmers.

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—The second annual convention of the Association of Agricultural Commissioners, came to a close tonight. Tomorrow the delegates will leave for a rip through the State, as the guests of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. The next session of the association will be held at Hot Springs, Ark., in the early part of October.

The most of to-day's session was devoted to a discussion of the live stock industry, seed testing and the encouragement of immigration.

The most important action taken was the passage of a resolution in regard to marketing the cotton crop, and the adoption of some recommendations looking to control of the sale of seed, and the incorporation of an amendment to the by-laws, providing for payment of the incidental expenses of each annual session by assessing pro rata each State represented in the association. The resolution adopted urges upon the cotton growers the importance of distributing the sale of cotton over the entire year so that the market may not be depressed by dumping the entire crop upon it at once, and to the end that the farmer keep informed as to the statistical situation of the crop, the Department of Agriculture is requested to give out to the press from time to time any information they may have touching the condition of the crop, the acreage planted or the stock on hand. The recommendations in regard to the sale of seed are as follows:

1. That this association endorse the idea of State inspection of seeds in the interest of the purchaser.
2. That the association at its present meeting appoint a committee to draft a uniform law intended to secure effective control of the seed market.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

Ten-Cent Cotton This Fall.

Special Correspondent of Reflector.

RALEIGH N. C., Sept. 3rd.

The meeting here during the past week of the Cotton States Association of State Commissioners of Agriculture was an interesting one. While only about a half-dozen States were represented, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson was present and the address delivered by him, the State Commissioners and others invited to do so (including President Winston of the N. C. College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts) were very timely, instructive and interesting.

A 9,000,000 BALE CROP OF COTTON. Probably the most important outcome of the meeting was the estimate, prepared and given out after careful inquiry and consideration made of the size of the cotton crop for the year 1900, viz., 9,364,500 bales. The crop of 1899, which was a short one itself, was estimated at 10,250,000 bales, so that the crop of 1900 will not be only one of the smallest of recent years but will be, according to the estimate, nearly a million bales less than 1899, or, to be exact, 885,000 bales less.

North Carolina is put down at 495,000 bales, which is considered a very liberal estimate, for unless the balance of the season is very propitious and the supply of labor (said to be short in many counties) ample to pick it, the crop this year will hardly reach those figures. This short crop means that our farmers ought to and doubtless will receive ten cents for all their cotton raised and marketed during the season of 1900-1901, and if the market does not approach that figure at the start it will be good policy for every cotton grower who can do so to hold his cotton, and hold it as long as he can, for the price is certain to reach ten cents before the season is far advanced. The foreign crop, especially in India (on account of the famine), is relatively even shorter than in the United States and of course the foreign demand for our cotton will be heavier than usual. In addition to all these, and other facts tending in the same direction, there has been an unprecedented growth in the cotton manufacturing business of this country, particularly in the South, and hundreds of thousands of new spindles must be fed this year for the first time. So the increased price will largely compensate our farmers for the damage done by the drought—I am very glad to be able to add.

SOUTH TO GET PRICE OF COTTON.

One of the most important and gratifying points made by U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and others was the declaration that the South now has more to do with setting the price of cotton than ever, and that it will eventually be in a position to do so absolutely, instead of having it set in Liverpool, Manchester and other English manufacturing centers and in New York. The change is being wrought largely through the rapid growth of cotton manufacturing in the South. The "estimates" of the growing crop each year should be made in the South also—at least the controlling one, and this new Association of Cotton States Commissioners will largely figure in this hereafter, instead of having one man or firm in New York and one in New Orleans do it, with the chances of attempting to control the market in their own commercial interests and that of their "friends" on the inside—as has been the case of recent years.

NORTH CAROLINA MANUFACTURERS ABROAD.

North Carolina is certainly coming to the front rapidly, in the acquirement of a reputation with the outside world, as a manufacturing State. Not only as the cotton manufacturing leader of the South, but along other lines. The new industry is especially attracting attention at present, viz., the splendid patent Electric Felt Mattress manufactory of Messrs. Royal & Borden at Goldsboro, whose claim of turning out the "most comfortable and best bed on the face of the earth," has just met with a great recognition at two of the greatest expositions of the year, one in New York State and another in the West, and from other outside sources. The result is that these felt mattresses (every portion of the material as well as the beds themselves being made at Goldsboro) are now selling "like hot cakes" all over the country, and the manufactory, already a large concern, will soon develop into one of the biggest in the country, in order to supply the demand. All our home folks should provide themselves with with these splendid North Carolina beds which are in the reach of all, and if they will drop Messrs. Royall & Borden a postal at Goldsboro, they will send them a descriptive pamphlet explaining more in detail the merits of their product, a picture of which you will see in this paper.

L. LEWIS.

Population Flowing South.

The Southern interests are now getting to work on the right track. From railroads down to country merchants, they are going in to increase the population of the South by immigration and by bringing in people from the North. It is population that makes wealth in a country like this. The South has superabundance of natural wealth, and it only needs the labor of man to bring it out. It is easier and more certain to secure wealth by bringing in people to develop than by hunting around for capital that does little good to a country if it has to be begged to come in, for then it wants the earth. Let the people of the South show their wealth to those who with the labor of their hands can develop it and the result will soon be such improvement that capital will come in seeking for something to develop and will then become a real help. The "capitalists" who buys for a thousand dollars a property having in it possibilities of a hundred thousand, then sits down and waits for some one to pay him $5,000 for his chances is of no help to the country. The man who can show better results from tilling the soil, who can get money out of his timber, or his minerals, or utilize a water power and start a settlement, is worth a dozen of the so-called "capitalists" who are sitting down on the chances of making a fortune out of somebody else instead of out of the ground. The South is rich in opportunities for settlers. It was the settlers who made the West. And the chances for them in the South are greater and opportunities more varied than they were in the West in the early days.

A friar who had spent forty years in the Philippines was asked to write a book about the Filipinos. He agreed on condition that the book should not be opened until after his death. He died not long ago, and the book was found. It contained 300 pages, on the first of which was the title, then came blank pages till the last, on which was written, "This is all I know about the Filipinos after studying them for forty years."—Wilming-

PRESS CONVENTION.

Interesting Meeting at Asheville —New Officers and Other Incidents.

The twenty-eighth annual convention of the North Carolina Press Association, held in Asheville on the 29th and 30th of August, while not very largely attended by the editors of the State was in every way a most pleasant and interesting meeting. Most of those in attendance stopped at the College, a place attractive alike for its beauty, comfort and excellent entertainment. The sessions of the Association were held in the auditorium of the College.

The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning by the president, D. J. Whichard. After the opening exercises, call of the roll and executive committee report the president read his address, presenting several matters deemed of interest to the Association. The remainder of the morning session was devoted to routine business and appointment of committees.

In the afternoon W. C. Dowd, of the Charlotte News, presented the Historian's paper, Col. W. S. Pearson, of the Morganton Herald, read an essay on the "The Press—Its Duty to Itself," and Rev. J. C. Troy, of Trojan's Notion, read an essay on "The Source of an Editor's Power." Each of these papers was of an exceptionally high order and declared by all to be the best that have been presented at any meeting of the association.

After adjournment the editors and ladies accompanying them were given a complimentary trolley ride by the Asheville Street Railway to various points of interest around the city. At night a banquet was given them at the Swananoa hotel. The menu, which was in seven courses, was excellent, and when full justice to that had been done, Will Aiken, editor of the Asheville Citizen, took charge of the banquet as toast master and on hour wit and brilliant repartee flowed. He called for several impromptu responses to toasts, the interest in the situation being added to by no one having been notified in advance that he was to be called upon. It put one's "standing" thoughts into activity when it all must be done after getting on his feet, yet the emergency found its equal when subject and speaker were introduced.

Thursday's session of the convention were given to miscellaneous business, discussion of topics suggested in the presidents address and the election of officers. The latter took place at 11 a. m., the officers selected for the next year being as follows:

President—Dr. T. N. Ivey, of the Raleigh Christian Advocate; first vice president, J. G. Boylin; second vice president, J. A. Robinson; secretary and treasurer, J. B. Sherill; historian, C. L. Stevens; orator, Rev. J. C. Troy; poet, J. D. Boone; executive committee, T. N. Ivey, J. B. Sherill, H. A. London, Thad. R. Manning, J. B. Whitaker, R. R. Clark, R. A. Deal; delegates to the national convention at Buffalo, H. A. London, J. B. Sherrill, J. B. Whitaker, Jr., W. C. Dowd, Will Aiken; alternates, J. A. Thomas, J. J. Farris, L. W. Crawford, Z. W. Whitehead, A. J. Maxwell, J. J. Stone.

Among the prominent gentlemen who dropped in at the convention were Hon. Locke Craig and J. D. Murphy, of Asheville, and Gen. J. S. Carr, of Durham. Each of these were introduced and made short talks. Bishop Fitzgerald, of Tennessee, was also present at one session and entertained the body delightfully for a short while. He is an ex-typo and ex-editor and said he never felt more at home than when about a newspaper office or among newspaper men.

Asheville had no notice of the coming of the editors to the city, but was ready to give them most cordial treatment and to see that their stay in the mountain city was made pleasant. The members were placed under lasting obligations to the force of the Asheville Daily Citizen and also to G. L. Hackney, editor of the Epworth League.

Resolutions were passed by the convention upon two of the suggestions offered by the President. One was that the users of ready print or patent outside sheets shall demand that the makers of such sheets insert no advertisements over which the editor does not have control. The other was the establishment of a paper mill in North Carolina. A committee was appointed to investigate the cost of such an enterprise and the members of the association pledged its support, all things being equal. We understood that Gen. J. S. Carr said he would head the list with $10,000 stock in the mill.

The entire meeting of the Association was very pleasant and there was not one present who did not enjoy it, as well as the stay in Asheville.

The selection of time and place for holding the next meeting was left with the executive committee.

Richmond will put on gala attire during the Fourteenth Annual Convention of the Virginia State Firemen's Association, to be held September 26-27-28. Fire fighters from all over Virginia, and a number of companies from other states will be in attendance, and it is confidently expected that thousands of people will avail themselves of the low rail road rates and "take in" the big show.
