BULLET STOPPED HIM.

Colored Man Shot By Officer.

Hoyt Harrington, colored, is a thief with something of a reputation. It has been told on him that he would take most anything, little of big, a horse and buggy, and a bale of cotton being among his large hauls, and such things as shoes being among the small ones. For the taking of a pair of shoes many months ago a warrant was outstanding for Harrington which could not be served on him because of his departure for other quarters. Recently it was noticed that he had returned to this section, and late Saturday afternoon Constable J. B. Sutton learned that he was in the colored bar room on Fifth street. The officer went there and found Harrington and told him he had a warrant for him. Harrington asked what it was for and Constable Sutton read it to him. About the time the reading was finished the negro dealt the officer a blow and started to run. Instantly the officer drew his gun and fired four shots in quick succession after the running negro. Three of the shots took effect, two in the leg and one in the body. The latter shot struck in the back and went through the body coming out at the breast. The negro was soon caught after being shot.

Harrington was moved to the court house and medical attention summoned. An examination of his wounds showed that the one in his body was serious.

Mayor's Court.

Mayor J. G. Moye has had only a light docket this week, the following cases being disposed of since last report:

David Royster, drunk and disorderly and profanity, fined $1 and costs, total $3.30.

John Gorham, disorderly conduct and assault with deadly weapon, bound over to Superior Court.

Wm. Grimsley, riotous and disorderly, fined $250 and costs, total $5.30.

OUR RALEIGH LETTER

Interesting Event in Our State's History Recalled By An Occurrence of this Week.

Special Correspondent of Reflector.

RALEIGH N. C., Sept. 17.

I can begin our journalistic family talk this week with nothing more interesting than a little unfamiliar State history, which has unusual interest because of an event which has just occurred here. Yesterday the beautiful new Presbyterian church (occupying the old site on the s. w. corner of Morgan and Salisbury streets, across from the Capitol building) was formally dedicated—and thereby hangs this tale: This church is on historic ground. Before 1818 the congregation held service in the Capitol building, but in 1818 a handsome brick building was erected and remained in use up to three years ago.

Before the building of the Church the pastoral arrangement in Raleigh was a novel one. The town took much interest in its academy, and from about 1803 to 1816, its principal was called the "Principal of the Academy and Pastor of the City." The incumbents were all Presbyterian ministers, except one Huguenot minister who filled the position for only a few months. In 1835—the first Capitol building having been consumed by fire and the present building not being completed—the State Convention met in this city. In return for past favors, the Presbyterian church was loaned for the sittings of the Convention.

WHEN CATHOLICS COULDN'T HOLD OFFICE.

It was in this building that William Gaston made his memorable speech which resulted in a change of the Constitution regarding Roman Catholics. Under the Halifax Constitution of 1776, section 32 was supposed to exclude Roman Catholics from holding civil office in North Carolina. This section was so amended in the convention of 1835 as to be objectional to Mr. Gaston, (who was a member of the Catholic Church) and to that element in the State. It is said that the Pope wrote Judge Gaston an autograph letter, thanking him for his successful effort in the matter.

The Supreme court of the state was also tendered the use of the Sunday School building, which was accepted and the building so occupied. With some changes, the main walls remained practically as built in 1818, this Historic building stood as a memorial of the past, until 1898 when, it was taken down to be replaced by the present handsome building. Rev. Walter W. Moore, of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, yesterday preached the dedication sermon and the pastors and members of the other various churches attended the services, some closing their own churches to give all an opportunity to attend.

MINOR MENTION.

State Convention of Daughters of the Confederacy will meet at Raleigh October 10th and 11th.

Walter R. Henry, national bank inspector for this territory, states that North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia are now in a more prosperous condition and the people better supplied with money than at any time during the last 40 years. The statement is based on quotations on bank collateral in his possession. During the coming decade the South will show up as the most prosperous section of this country, unless all signs fail. We're strictly in it, brethren!

While Raleigh and other North Carolina towns were subscribing funds for the relief of the Texas flood sufferers last Friday afternoon, Washington and Chapel Hill in our own State were stricken with disaster in the shape of fire, "little Washington" suffering severely by the loss, in scores of building, of about one hundred thousand dollars in value.

The Agricultural Department here is in receipt of many letters from farmers, cotton growers of the east especially, complaining of the lack of farm labor. From other sources, also, it is learned that many negroes have emigrated and others are preparing to leave this State, some going North where they expect (vainly, they will find) to "find better treatment." As a farm hand the negro is the best laborer for the South, and this is the best section for him, and if honest, frugal and industrious, he can succeed here better than elsewhere. And, moreover, if well behaved, he will find in the Southern people, the North Carolina "white folks," his best friends—the very men who do not intend to allow him to dominate them politically, but who will assist him in all proper ways industrially and morally.

LLEWXAM.

Those people who want the earth will get it in the graveyard when they die.

No wonder nails are high when so many political lies are to be fastened this fall.

The tattlebacks in every town keep up a turmoil which makes people awful tired.

The Republicans will lose many a vote by the working of the tongue in Teddy's throat.

Bishop Fitzgerald Before the North Carolina Press Association.

"I feel like repeating my short creed: I love every body in the world—some more than others. This includes all newspaper men. I love all of them—some of them are more lovable than others. Shall I class the members of the North Carolina Press Association as lovable, more lovable, and most lovable? Or as lovable, less lovable, and least lovable? Take your choice, gentlemen.

"It has been said that a man who has been bitten by the newspaper tarantula never loses the virus. To this hour I love to loaf around newspaper offices. Great is the force of habit. I read somewhere of a refractory convict in a State prison who was made to work a tread mill in order to tame him; from force of habit he got to love the exercise, and declared that if he ever lived to get out of this institution he would have a tread mill of his own. I am now, and have been for many years, chaplain of the Tennessee Press Association. My heart says just here: God bless North Carolina and Tennessee—mother and child. North Carolina is my native State, and Tennessee, the State of my adoption—with Virginia, Georgia and California thrown in as gracious step mothers. I was once also chaplain of one branch of the California legislature. But I could not say as the chaplain of one of our State prisons said when asked how the members of his flock were getting on answered: 'The most of them are under conviction.'

"I have one word to say to you, gentlemen of the North Carolina Press Association—and it is a word of cheer. The best things are ahead of us, not behind us. Only an atheist can logically be a pessimist. The movement of humanity under the rule of an all-wise, all-gracious, all-mighty God, is forward, not backward. Up here in this Land of the Sky, it is easy to believe in a divine government of a God who is good to all his creatures, and whose tender mercies are over all His works. From Sunset mountain, overlooking Asheville, the jewel set among these mighty hills, this morning I looked out upon the wondrous scene spread around, below and above me, and felt the glow and rapture of worship in the depths of my soul, and from my heart went forth a benediction upon North Carolina, my mother State, from where the first beams of the sunrise glorified the summits of her mighty mountains piercing the heavens to where the blue billows of the sea beat upon her Atlantic coast."

Not The Worst on Record

Whenever there is a drought, a storm or any unusual calamity, especially when there is great destruction of life and property, we are all prone to say that the last is the worst on record. The Galveston horror is generally thought to be the worst of modern times, but memory is short and the record shows otherwise. The Baltimore Sun, one of the most accurate and reliable newspapers, says on this point:

Disastrous as the Texas flood is proving to have been, it will not measure up to the frightful catastrophe of May 31, 1889, when Johnstown and a number of adjacent towns in Pennsylvania were swept away by a flood released by the bursting of the South Fork Fishing Club's dam.

The dam broke at 3 p. m., and in three quarters of an hour the three miles of water behind it, about 480,000,000 cubic feet in all, had drained out and was precipitated upon Johnstown. A swath of 1,000 feet was cut through the iron works and the principal business and residence portion of the town by the water, which rose to a height of 30 or 40 feet. In three-quarters of an hour between 5,000 and 6,000 had perished and about $40,000,000 damage had been done.

This has not been the first visitation of the kind Galveston had experienced, although it is the worst. Beginning on September 15, 1875, the city was half submerged and cut off from the mainland from Wednesday until late Sunday night. Scores of lives were lost and the damage aggregated a quarter of a million dollars.

Following is a list of a few of the notable floods and cyclone disasters of the past decade.

June 20, 1892—Breaking dams flooded Titusville and Oil City, Pa. Oil and gasoline tanks burst and the flood became a seething mass of flames, in which 300 persons lost their lives.

March 27, 1890—Tornado swept Louisville, Ky., 93 killed; 500 injured.

May 15, 1896—Tornado struck Grayson and Denton counties, Texas; 100 killed.

May 27, 1896—Tornado in St. Louis and East St. Louis; 500 killed and 1,500 wounded. Property loss, $200,000,000. Part of the two cities razed to the ground.

September 29, 1896—A tornado and tidal wave destroyed part of Cedar Keys, Fla., and wrecked many vessels. Many lives lost.

June 12, 1899—A tornado in southern Wisconsin and Minnesota partially destroyed the cities of Hastings, New Richmond and Hudson; 500 killed, 1,000 wounded.

August 8, 1899—A hurricane swept the Little Antilles, Porto Rico, Santo Domingo and portion of the Florida coast. Loss of life, about 1,000.

Arrest For Refusing Information to a Census Enumerator.

Col. H. C. Cowles, United States commissioner, had Avery Williams white, of Coddle creek township, before him Tuesday, charged with refusing to give information to the census enumerator. Williams was found guilty and required to give a bond of $50 for his appearance at Federal Court. This he did Wednesday, with Mr. J. R. Wallace as surety, and was released from jail.

The circumstances of the case are about these: When Mr. D. H. Brantley, the enumerator, called at Mr. Williams' house to take his census, Mr. Williams was away. Mr. Brantley found Mr. Williams in the field cutting wheat and stated his business. Mr. Williams replied that he didn't have time to fool with him and that it was no use any way. After some parleying Mr. Brantley went on without the information. He reported the case as required by law and the arrest followed. Mr. Williams says that he intended to give the information later but Mr. Brantley didn't return.—Statesville Landmark.

Work Stopped.

Because three stubborn, unwise men just beyond Macclesfield refuse to grant a right of way to the East Carolina railway, work on the extension of this road has been indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Bridgers has had the convicts returned to the penitentiary.

It may be that these three persons are in the right in refusing to permit this road to pass through their lands, but they have certainly stopped the extension of a railroad into a section which would have been greatly benefitted. A little more of such encouragement and Mr. Bridgers might make this purely a lumber road to be torn up as soon as the timber is cut and hauled off. This would be very unfortunate.—Tarboro Southern.

THE ERA OF HASTE.

Everybody's runnin'—runnin' night an' day;
 Doesn't seem to be no chance fur sittin' down to play;
 Runnin' after office an' a-runnin' after wealth,
 Runnin' off to Europe in the hope o' findin' health;
 Runnin' fur policemen an' a-runnin' fur the car—
 It re'ly ain't surprisin' if we don't know where we are,
 Ain't no time fur restin' an' there ain't no time fur fun,
 Everybody's got to keep a-goin' on the run.

It wouldn't much astonish me if I should find, some day,
 This earth had caught the fever an' completely broke away,
 An' started in to run amuck among the distant stars;
 An' scarin' all the senses out o' people up in Mars.
 Let's settle down more quiet in the country an' the town,
 Before we all discover that we're totally run down.
 I'm we-ry of the hustlin', bustlin', rustlin' modern style!
 Suppose we stop this runnin' an' jee' walk a little while.

It used to be said that a man's word was as good as his bond, but nowadays his word is not much account or his bond either.

The world is wonderfully winsome, the skies always sunny and the flowers ever fair when love's golden glow first fills the soul with its soothing sweetness.

When we were young—very young—we used to think that everybody was honest and sincere and that what they said was always true. We regret to say that we are not so young now.

For Galveston.

Collections were taken in two churches here Sunday for the Galveston sufferers. At the Methodist church $20.45 were raised, and at the Baptist church $5.

Found Dead in Bed.

Mr. Tom Letchworth, deformed died sometime during Sunday night at his home in Beaver Dam township. He was found dead in bed this morning when his mother woke up. He had been sick about a week but was up part of the time. Deceased was 28 years old.

Two Added.

Sunday afternoon Mr. S. V. Priddy was baptised in the river near the wharf by Rev. J. N. Booth, pastor of the Baptist church. Sunday night the right hand of fellowship was extended by the church to Mr. Priddy and Mrs. Lula Cleve, the latter having been received by letter.

Rang the Alarm.

When the shooting of the negro by Constable J. B. Sutton occurred on Fifth street, Saturday evening, another negro ran around to the engine house of the Hope Fire Company and rang the fire alarm. Just what his object was nobody knows, but a warrant has been issued against him for it.

More Than 5,000 Dead.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 14.—The Post today prints a list of 2,701 names of the Galveston dead, compiled from various sources, but believed to be authentic. There were hundreds of bodies burned, buried at sea and in the sand, of which no identification was possible; there were other hundreds who were buried on the beach of the mainland, few of whom have been identified. There are many bodies still in the ruins of Galveston and scattered along the beach of the mainland and in the marshes, where they were thrown by the water. Some of these bodies have been sent 20 miles inland, along small water courses by the rush of high waters. Taking all things into consideration there seems no longer any doubt that the number of dead will reach beyond the estimates of 5,000, which has been made by Mayor Jones, Major R. G. Lowe and other reliable citizens of Galveston.

J. J. Martin For Congress.

Weldon, Sept. 14.—The Republican executive committee of the second congressional district met here today and nominated J. J. Martin for Congress on the second ballot. There were five negro members of the committee present, and but three white men.

J. J. Martin, of Edgecombe, and D. W. Patrick, of Greene, were put in nomination. The first ballot was a tie, one of the negroes voting with the whites. The second ballot showed the color line strictly drawn and Martin received the five negro votes, while the three whites voted for Patrick.

E. A. Simpkins, of Lenoir, was elected district elector. Wayne and Wilson counties were not represented. 3TX
