

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina.

The North Carolina Negro State Conference meets in Raleigh Thursday.

The Wilmington Morning Star is thirty-three years old. It shines better and brighter as the years go by.

John Thomas, a deputy sheriff of Henderson county, was killed by two drunken men whom he went to arrest. The murderers are in jail.

J. H. Sossamon, of Charlotte, was run over by a street car and killed. He was on the car intoxicated and jumped off, falling so near the track that a wheel ran over him.

The Board of School Directors of Durham county has sued the city of Durham for over two thousand dollars the city has collected in fines, the claim being under a late decision that all municipal fines belong to the public schools.

There was a runaway marriage in Snow Hill Saturday night. Mr. Lum Dail, of Snow Hill, and Miss Lena Carr, of Willow Green, were married. The lady left home to visit friends and was married while on her visit.—Kinston Free Press.

The Atlantic tobacco warehouse with stables and barns, at Kinston, was destroyed by fire Saturday morning. The buildings were the property of B. W. Canady. The loss is about $6,000 with no insurance. The Free Press says the burning of the warehouse will in way interfere with the Kinston tobacco market.

Mr. J. B. Whichard, who since the spring of 1897 has owned and edited the Robesonian left yesterday, accompanied by his family, for Albany Ga., where he will be engaged in book and job printing. Under his capable editorship the Robesonian maintained its high standard of excellence with an increased circulation, and during the past campaign did as much effective work as any county paper in the state. The Press of North Carolina will part with him with regret. His friends in this and other sections are sorry that he feels called elsewhere and the Robesonian joins them in best wishes for his success in the new field of his labors.—Lumberton Robesonian.

Superior Court.

The following cases have been disposed of:
Henry Tripp, secret assault with deadly weapon, not guilty of a secret assault, but guilty of an assault with deadly weapon.
Jas. A. Sutton, assault with deadly weapon, not guilty.
Chas. Barrett and John Curtis, convicted of larceny, were given three years each in penitentiary.

Who can Vote.

An intelligent and accurate correspondent, writing in another column, surprises us by his quotation of what purports to be a resolution adopted by the Democratic State executive committee at its meeting week before last, prescribing the test for voting in the senatorial primary in November. Under this resolution as quoted, those whites and Croats who vote the Democratic presidential and congressional tickets in November are eligible to vote in the primary, "as well as those who voted with us in August but who will vote for McKinley at the time said primary is held." It had been our understanding that any one who voted Democratic ticket in August might vote in the senatorial primary, but if our correspondent quotes the resolution correctly it certainly shuts out a person who votes for neither Bryan nor McKinley in the coming election, no matter how he may have voted in August.

There was nothing in the resolution adopted by the State committee about those "who will vote for McKinley at the time said primary is held." That was in the first resolution offered but was eliminated by consent of the man who offered it. The situation as to voting in the senatorial primary is this, and it is so plain that nobody need get mixed on it. The Democratic State platform provided that those who voted the Democratic ticket in August can vote in the senatorial primary. This stands. The State committee did not try to change it—it had no authority to change it if it had tried. Therefore, those who voted the Democratic ticket in August can vote in the senatorial primary, no matter how they vote in the congressional and presidential boxes, or whether they vote in these boxes at all. But the State committee passed a resolution supplementary to the State platform and enlarging the electorate. This resolution provides, in substance, that those who vote for Bryan and Stevenson and the Democratic congressional nominees in November, can vote in the senatorial primary, regardless of how they voted in August. That's the whole business.—Statesville Landmark.

The Life of Competition.

"Competition is the life of trade," and advertising is the life of competition. No business man who hopes to keep within shouting distance of the front in the race for commercial supremacy can afford to let his competitors monopolize the attention of the public. He must tell the people what facilities he has for supplying their wants otherwise they will assume that he has no facilities at all, and their dollars will jingle in the pockets of some wide-awake rival whose business announcements appear regularly in the public prints.—Philadelphia Record.

An exchange compresses a solid chunk of truth into rhyme in this fashion:
If every person in every town,
Would tend to his own biz,
This would be a better place
To live in, than it is.

The candidacy of our townsman, ex-Governor Jarvis, for the United States Senate, is meeting with much approval over the State.

The Raleigh Post complains of not having received a copy of THE REFLECTOR for several days. We are unable to understand why this is so, as we mail it to The Post just as regular as the week days come around. But since our esteemed contemporary calls attention to this we will state that several complaints have come to us recently about failure to get papers at the Raleigh postoffice. Some of our boys going to school there have been writing us that it is seldom they can get a copy of the paper. We hope the Raleigh postmaster has no spite against THE REFLECTOR.

It is now but a little more than three months before the General Assembly will be in session again, and Greenville should by all means have an application before that body to permit the town to vote on the question of issuing bonds for the establishment of water works, an electric light plant, and a graded school. All three of these, as well as better streets, are imperative needs for the town. To have them means progress; not to have them means continued stagnation and dragging along several years behind the times, behind our opportunities, and behind our neighboring towns. Already Greenville has suffered for the lack of these much needed improvements. In many respects we have one of the best towns in the State, but our people have been entirely too slow in taking hold of matters that are for the greatest public good. The next few months should be full of discussion of these important measures. THE REFLECTOR is going to agitate them, and its columns are open to any one who wants to be heard on the subject.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent.
 WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24.
 Ex-Senator Quay came to Washington several days ago for the purpose of holding conference with some of his lieutenants and doing some figuring on his chances for controlling the legislature and getting back to the Senate. The fact that Mr. Quay came to Washington to hold these conferences in his own house indicates a fear of treachery in Pennsylvania, on his part. Among those who participated in the conference were Senator Penrose, Chairman Reeder, of the Republican State Committee; Representatives Bingham and Young, and Insurance Commissioner Durham. Mr. Quay refused to even say whether he expected to get back to the Senate, which indicates that he doubts, as he has heretofore pretended to regard his election to the Senate as a matter of course.

The extent of Mr. McKinley's control of Mr. Hanna will be shown by Hanna's future conduct. Mr. McKinley left Washington last week, fully determined to stop Hanna's speech-making, having been convinced that it was making Bryan votes by the thousand all over the country. Since then Mr. Hanna has spent a day with Mr. McKinley at Canton. If Hanna makes no more speeches, it will show that Mr. McKinley retains some say in the conduct of the republican campaign; if Hanna continues to make speeches, it will show that he is the supreme boss of the whole republican outfit, including Mr. McKinley.

The administration isn't taking as much interest in the coming Constitutional Convention in Cuba, since it became known that a majority of the convention are men who will not take their orders from Gen. Wood, as to the sort of constitution they shall make. It is practically certain in advance, that the constitution which will be made by the convention will not be accepted by the republican majority in Congress, and that the Military Government of Cuba will be prolonged indefinitely, instead of being ended next year, in accordance with the official announcement made by the McKinley administration for effect in the present political campaign.

Representative Babcock, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee stopped in Washington long enough on his way from New York to Chicago, to throw a fresh scare into the republicans, by telling them that unless something could be done to head off the rapid growth of anti-republican sentiment, the next House was bound to be democratic. The information in possession of the democratic committee shows that Mr. Babcock's scare is the real thing.

The Home Paper.

We feel sorry for the man who does not read his home paper. He is no better than a man without a country. He is like the homeless cow that has no regular pasture, but grazes around promiscuously on weeds and thistles. No matter what other papers he may read the solid, safe and straightforward citizen always insists upon having his home paper.—LaGrange Sentinel.

Market it Slowly

Again we would say to our farmer friends, don't rush your cotton to market. Hold it. For years you have been obliged to take the prices fixed by others. This year the cotton growers have it in their power to force those who want cotton and who must have it to pay a just price for it.

The individual farmer can afford to "shut down" more easily and for a longer time than the manufacturer.

Market your cotton slowly.—Charlotte News.

Governor Jarvis has been a leader in the Democratic party for more than thirty years. As speaker of the House, Lieutenant Governor, Governor for seven years, Minister to Brazil, and United States Senator, he has shown ability of a high order and has done the State great service in every crisis since he shouldered his gun in 1861 and fought under Lee, until 1898-1900 when, with the wisdom of age and the earnestness of youth, he was one of the half dozen men who did most to redeem the State from bad rule. The half of his valuable service in these two campaigns are not known to the people. To no man more than Governor Jarvis is due the credit of planning the line of battle in both those campaigns, and it is not detracting from the ability of others to say that no abler vote-making speeches were made in those two campaigns than were made by Governor Jarvis. He is a great big man—that is what he is—and in the brief term he sat in the Senate as a successor of the immortal Vance he showed that he was worthy to wear the mantle of the great Commoner. If the people shall elect him, North Carolina can point with pride to its Democratic Senator.—Raleigh News and Observer.

It is strange in this day to hear of wolves in North Carolina, but these voracious and dangerous animals have appeared in large and destructive numbers in Hertford county, so the Murfreesboro Index informs us. Several have been killed and a number trapped and taken alive. They are exceedingly fierce, and have destroyed many hogs and the "last vestige of a sheep" in the Como section of the county. Ten dollars are offered for the scalp of each of the animals and the people are preparing for a wholesale hunt.—Raleigh Post.

Mr Jarvis' card announcing his candidacy for the senate appeared in Friday's Greenville REFLECTOR. The card is in good taste and is what could have been expected of him. While we do not believe the ex-governor has one chance in ten of the election, he would be our choice if a Durham man was not in the field against him. We will publish his card Tuesday morning.—Durham Herald.

Dull as is the Presidential campaign, it is not wholly wanting in strokes of humor. In North Carolina the Populist, who do not like the substitution of Stevenson for Towne, propose to vote for McKinley for Vice President on the ticket with Bryan. Could there be a more happy Presidential combination than Bryan and McKinley.—Philadelphia Record.

Ex-Senator Jarvis announces himself a candidate for the United States Senate. It matters not who is chosen by popular vote there will be no better man elected than the ex-governor and ex-senator.—Wilmington Messenger.

Attacked by an Eagle.

While hunting Friday afternoon, E. D. MacNair's dog was attacked by an eagle. Upon Mr. MacNair's appearing the eagle took flight only to make a second attack. A shot from his gun brought it to the ground unable to fly, and it showed fight being finally mastered by Mr. MacNair with a stick. The eagle measured five and a half feet from tip to tip. —Tarboro Southerner.

The Useful Onion

Onions are a kind of all-round good medicine.
A whole onion eaten at bed time will by the next morning break the severest cold.
If an onion is smashed so as to secure all the juice in it will make a most remarkable smelling substance that will quiet the most nervous person.
The strength of it inhaled for a few moments will dull the sense of smell and weaken the nerves until sleep is produced from sheer exhaustion.
It all comes from one property possessed by the onion, and that is a morphium.

Sunday School Meeting.

Rev. J. W. Bryan, Field Secretary of the North Carolina Sunday School Association, delivered two instructive and inspiring addresses in Ayden on Sep. 21st.
A county association was organized and the following officers elected:
Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, of Greenville, was elected President, Prof. J. A. Manning, of C. C. College, Secretary and Treasurer.
Rev. E. T. Phillips, of Ayden, W. F. Harding, of Greenville, and Mrs. J. D. Cox, of Winterville, were appointed Executive Committee.

On Sunday morning Mr. J. J. Cherry, "Uncle John" gave two barrels of fresh fish to the poor of the town. This act made many people enjoy the Sabbath more than they otherwise would have done.

Will Be Fine.

From the preparation going on at the mammoth stores of J. B. Cherry & Co. we can assure all who anticipate attending their opening Thursday that a real treat awaits them. We have no more thoroughly up-to-date merchants than this firm.

Fell From Scaffold.

A colored man named Wash Hayes, one of the brick layers on the new hotel, fell off a scaffold Monday afternoon. He fell a distance of 18 feet, but fortunately sustained only a few bruises. He went to the doctor but was back at his work in a short while.

Lady Still Living.

We learn today that Miss Jennie Moore, the young lady who was shot in Williamston Saturday night by Jos. Bennett, a discarded lover, is still living but her condition is critical. She can only be kept resting quietly by means of opiates. Bennett is yet at large and there is no tidings of his whereabouts. A reward of one hundred dollars has been offered for his arrest.

A colored preacher when asked to define perseverance said: "It means firstly to take hold, secondly to hold on, thirdly and lastly to nebbber leave go." This definition is recommended for the special consideration of advertisers.

Stuffed Oysters.

Stuffed oysters are something of a novelty and require delicacy and care in the preparation. Put the grated yolks of four hard-boiled eggs into a basin of minced bacon or salt fat pork; and a little pepper or chopped parsley and make them all into a paste by adding the uncooked yolk of one egg. Split open one dozen oysters, stuff them with this mixture, put them in large oyster shells, coat them over with bread crumbs, put a little warmed butter on top, place them in an oven and bake until done. Put them on a dish, garnish with pieces of fried bread and serve.

$5,000 Missing.

Richmond, Sept. 23.—Local banking circles are considerably exercised over a report that it has been discovered that the cash account of one of the leading Richmond banks shows a discrepancy of $5,000. It is not understood as yet that the bank is actually loser to that extent, but that the case is of such a character that the president of the institution has offered a reward of $50 to the person detecting the error or indicating what has become of the money, and that this inducement has been doubled by the paying over of the bank, who has charge of the funds in vault.

Even fashionable schools teach vulgar fractions.

Idle money must be the kind that people worship.

Rum and relatives have broken up many a happy home.

The motto of the oyster is: "Don't be a clam."
