THE EDITOR ASSAULTED.

Outrageous Attempt to Stifle Freedom of The Press.

THE REFLECTOR is not a maker of history, but it is the mission of the paper to record events as they occur. Neither does the paper have the making of court records, but when people violate the laws and the cases become matters of public record, it is the unquestionable right of any newspaper in recording the events of the day to publish such records, and it is more or less done the country over.

When Mayor J. G. Moye entered upon his administration he requested THE REFLECTOR to publish every week a record of the cases disposed of in his court, stating at the time that he wished this done because he believed it would have a deterring effect against violations. Some people who had violated the law, overlooking the fact that all should be treated alike without discrimination, seemed to think that because it was them, their names should be omitted from the published records, even going so far as to make threats against the editor. This coming to the knowledge of the Mayor he published a card over his own signature stating why he had made the request of THE REFLECTOR, and that he would continue to furnish for publication all cases coming before him. And THE REFLECTOR has continued to publish them just as reported. So much by way of explanation.

Monday night the editor of THE REFLECTOR left the office about 6:30 o'clock to go to his home. He had gone but a short distance from his office when he was waylaid on the street and assaulted for publishing the proceedings of the Mayor's court. Being armed at the time he protected himself against harm. For this assault a warrant was sworn out against Chas. John O'Hagan and Charles James. The case was heard by Mayor Moye this morning and he adjudged both parties guilty and fined them $10 each and costs, from which judgment they took an appeal to the Superior court and were bound over accordingly.

The editor being the person against whom this assault was made does not make any comment upon the character of such an outrage on the public streets, and the effort to stifle the freedom of the Press, but leaves the people to form their own conclusions.

Rev. John E. White, secretary of the Baptist State mission board, has accepted the call to the Second Baptist church of Atlanta. This is one of the strongest churches in the South, and has a new and very handsome house of worship. Mr. White is a native of North Carolina, has been secretary of missions for five years, and is a fine public speaker.—Charlotte Observer.

The auction sale of lots on the Cobb and Davis property, on Fifth street, takes place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is going to be a big thing, and all interested in Greenville real estate should be there. The investment will be gilt-edged.

Latter Day Proverbs.

Can we begin life at 50? Theoretically, yes; practically, 'no; habit is the sum and substance of life at that age.

The idealist is employed and paid by nature. If wise, he will not present his bill to society.

For God to imagine is to create; and to man also, in his limited degree.

Creation is a transcendent scheme; do not insist knowing all the details at present.

Man is a fragment, dreaming himself a whole.

Selfish determinations are our death warrants.

To minimize life, be mean.

Moral divination is odious in proportion as it is true.

Our lives are notes of hand payable on demand with interest, but we lose no sleep on that account.

Variety is genuine coin, but not legal tender.

Woman seldom makes a false inference; she never gives a true reason.

Irresolute characters have gentle and pathetic voices.

Some of us are so economical we economize on success.

Horses and men, most eager to start are often the least patient in going.

The fox is foxy, but there is always some ore a bit foxier; therefore we see the fox's pelt tacked up to the barn door.

Time mellow us before death as autumn ripens up fruit before frost.

Study time backward year by year and there would remain few infidels.

The godlike in us defies space and time—the true idealist grows younger as he grows older.

The living body is but an appearance of life, the dead body only an image of death. We are not yet arrived at reality.

A dream is life's best image. We have not yet realized that existence of which full wakefulness is the emblem.—H. A. Kendall in Boston Transcript.

Abdicated Rather Than Polish the Shoes of Negroes.

John Sullivan, white, has been running a bootblack stand in the city hall so long that he has for some time been designated with some semblance of authority as "official" bootblack for the city hall building. A few days ago he refused to shine the shoes of a well-known negro citizen and took occasion to announce that rather than shine the foot-gear of negroes he would "resign" his position. Mayor Felischman took a hand in the matter by ordering Sullivan to polish the shoes of white and negro men alike at the same price or to abdicate from his city hall stand. Sullivan resigned.—Cincinnati Dispatch.

A dispatch from Pittsburg, Pa., says Edward Henry, reputed to be the oldest man in the country, died Friday, aged 116 years. He was born a slave in Culpepper, Va., in 1784. During his long career he was married five times, and is survived by his fifth wife, by whom he had 13 children. He is said to have been the father of 60 children.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1900.

Twice Hanged.

A former police sergeant of this city interests his friends occasionally with reminiscences of his career on the force. One of his stories is that of a man who was hanged twice. The old man had become weary of life and determined to end his earthly existence by hanging himself. He arose one night after the other members of the family had retired. Procuring a rope he fastened one carefully around his neck and the other to the stair rail, and then threw himself over the balustrade.

His sons awakened at the usual hour in the morning, but upon starting down stairs were horrified to see their old father hanging at the end of a rope. They cut down the body and then hastened to apprise the neighbors of the tragedy. Some of the neighbors, being great respecters of the law, advised the sons that in cutting down the body before obtaining permission from the police or coroner made them liable to imprisonment in the penitentiary. Frightened by this information, the sons hurriedly returned home and, obtaining another rope, fastened it about the neck of their father and let the body down in the position in which they had found it.

They then hunted up the police sergeant and told him of the suicide of their father. When the police sergeant reached the house, he cut down the body, but was quite surprised to find that there were two ridges around the throat. He asked for an explanation. The sons hesitated for a time, but finally confessed to the whole affair.—Baltimore Sun.

Too Much Bass Music.

"Speaking of negro music," said a Charlotte man yesterday, "you often see a good negro orchestra made up of stringed instruments, but did you ever see a first-rate brass band composed of negroes?" There was silence.

"And you never will see a good colored brass band," continued the critic. "The reason is that the trombone and bass horn men drown all the rest of the instruments—and the general effect is a jar. It's just like a nigger. The band may be playing the softest air imaginable, but when the time comes for the bass horn and trombone players to pipe in they try to blow their brains out, and ruin the piece. Watch the next colored band you see and you'll find I am right."—Charlotte Observer.

Freed by Witty Retort.

Few if any judges can be severe with a prisoner who has made them laugh. Just why this should be so is a problem for the psychologists, but that such is the case can be testified to by any one who has much to do with the courts. A case in point occurred not long ago in Center street police court. An old darky had been arraigned on a charge of shooting craps.

"Deed, jedge, I didn't shoot no craps," protested the prisoner.

"How about it, officer?" asked the court.

"I saw him with my own eyes," said the policeman.

"No, no, jedge," still protested the darky, "he didn't see me shootin no craps. I wasn't playin, 'deed I wasn't."

"Now, look here," said the magistrate, "which am I to believe? The officer swears positively he saw you playing, and you swear equally as positively that you were not. What am I to do?"

The prisoner evidently appreciated the unfortunate position of the court. He scratched his head in perplexity, heaved a long sigh and said:

"Waa, I dunno, jedge; we all has our troubles."

He was discharged.—New York Mail and Express.

One of the current reports about one of the candidates for United States Senator from North Carolina is that he left college owing a bill and has never paid it yet. Of course it is not true. One of the current reports about the other senatorial candidate is that in another town than that in which he lives, he has a sister who is in rags and that he refuses to extend assistance to her. Of course the report is not true. Republicans and Populists never told such stories as these upon either of these gentlemen, and they go to show that there is no fight so fierce as a family fight. A South Carolina paper recently said that in that State the primary system has reduced politics to that level that soon no man of any sensibility will offer for office, knowing that if he does he will emerge from the contest with his character destroyed.—Charlotte Observer.

The Marriage Bells.

Decorated with ferns, trailing vines, palms, and chrysanthemums the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Clark was the scene of a pretty home marriage this morning at eight o'clock. Their daughter, Miss Etta Belle Clark, and Mr. Edward J. Monaghan, of Fayetteville, were united in holy matrimony by Father Lester, of New Bern, Mr. E. J. Goddard, of Fayetteville, serving as best man and Miss Lena Matthews, of Greenville, as maid of honor, with Miss Nina James at the piano. After receiving the congratulations of their friends the happy couple left for their future home at Fayetteville.

It is a Hogshead Ride.

Mr. E. B. Ficklen informs us that the Senatorial bet between himself and Mr. J. D. Gwynn is not exactly as stated in THE REFLECTOR Monday. The difference is this: The ride is to be in a tobacco hogshead instead of a wheelbarrow. If Simmons is elected Mr. Gwynn goes inside the tobacco hogshead and Mr. Ficklen rolls him from the Planters warehouse down Ninth street to the hogshead factory. If Carr is elected Mr. Ficklen takes the inside of the hogshead and Mr. Gwynn will do the rolling. Whichever one does the rolling promises to send the other along at a 2:40 gait. Everybody invited to see the fun Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Domestic science affords an opening for bright and clever girls. Household economics are yet in their infancy. By the time that friends who are fifteen and sixteen years old have reached the twenties there will be chances here for young women with quick brains and deft hands.—Margaret E.
