DR. C. J. O'HAGAN DEAD.

Passed Away Tuesday Night.

Dr. Charles James O'Hagan died of apoplexy at 10:30 o'clock, Tuesday, at his home on Pitt street. His death was very sudden. He had suffered a stroke of apoplexy some days ago, but had apparently regained his accustomed health. All day Tuesday he seemed as cheerful and bright as usual. After supper he spent the evening in looking over his mail, and upon retiring was giving his son some instructions about arranging the light in his room, when suddenly he was noticed to struggle slightly and in a few minutes he had passed quietly away.

The death of no citizen has filled the community with such profound sorrow as does the death of Dr. O'Hagan. He was in every sense of the word a noble man, and occupied a place in the affections of the people that no other man has ever held. His loss to the town, the community and the State is irreparable.

Dr. O'Hagan was in his 80th year. He was born and educated in Ireland, and spent a short while of his early life in England and Scotland. Hearing of the possibilities of the land beyond the sea, he set his face toward America. He landed in New York, a young man and poor in this world's goods, but possessed of a determination and ambition that would never stop short of success.

His first work in our country was clerking in a New York grocery store, and speaking of his career there, he said he used to see the elder Vanderbilt padding his scow loaded with cabbage across the river and often made purchases from him. A friend one day advised him that he could find work more congenial and more remunerative if he would come South and teach school. Acting upon this advice he came to North Carolina, first teaching school at Kinston and then at Hookerton, then coming to Greenville. Many of the older people of this town went to school to him.

While teaching in Greenville he took up the study of medicine, then attended the Medical College of the New York University from which he graduated with distinction. Dr. O'Hagan returned to Greenville and began practicing here. This was in 1852, and for nearly a half a century he continued his practice without changing his location. His skill and ability easily won him rank with the leading physicians of the State, and as years went by his fame spread even beyond our borders. His reputation brought him flattering offers from large cities with handsome salaries guaranteed, but he always declined these, saying that while he remained here would keep him more in obscurity than to be in a city, yet he felt that he was serving humanity better to stay where he was.

Of course with such a practice as he had throughout this section he accumulated considerable means, yet Dr. O'Hagan's practice was a work of love and service to humanity rather than the making of money. A more thoroughly unselfish, generous, magnanimous man has not lived. Thousands and thousands of times in his visits to patients he not only administered medicines, but from his own resources provided delicacies and comforts wherever they were needed. His hand was never withheld from a deed of charity, yet it was all in that quiet way of which the world never has knowledge. No woman was ever more tender in the sick room than he.

In his career Dr. O'Hagan was Vice-President of the American Medical Association, was President of the North Carolina Medical Society, and for years prior to his death was a member of the State Board of Health. Several times the American Medical Society elected him a delegate to the Medical Congress of the World, but he would not take the time away from home to attend these meetings in a foreign country.

When the war came on in 1862 Dr. O'Hagan enlisted as a surgeon in Gen. Matt W. Ransom's brigade, and served through the four years in the army, coming back at the close of the war to resume his practice in Greenville.

He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Eliza Forest. To them two daughters were born both of whom are now living—Mrs. J. J. Laughinghouse and Miss Martha O'Hagan. His wife died in October, 1871.

His second wife was Miss Elvira Clark and to them one son was born, C. J. O'Hagan, Jr. His second wife died in Nov. 1888.

He also has a sister, Miss Matilda O'Hagan, living in Greenville, and a brother, Mr. John O'Hagan, in Wilson. He was grandfather of our townsman, Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse. The sorrowing family have received many expressions of heartfelt sympathy.

A volume might be written of Dr. O'Hagan without half his nobility of heart being told. Intellectually he might well be termed a giant, as few men possessed such broad information as he. Socially he was a polished, courtly gentleman, with a magnetism that made him at once interesting.

THE REFLECTOR hopes that some older person than this writer, who knew him well through the struggles of the years long ago, will favor its readers with a tribute to him.

The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

A colored child died in Durham, Saturday night, of hydrophobia. The child was bitten by a mad dog about six weeks previous.

The Well Dressed Man

We have everything that is the rage in New York, and a visit to our establishment will give you a complete knowledge of all that is new and "Chic" in the fashionable world. In regard to our prices: We know that you will not utter a word of complaint. Drop in when you have a little time, we want to see you.

Reasonable and Right.

If our prices are reasonable then they are bound to be right. If our merchandise is right then it is bound to be reasonably priced. Fair pricing is a basic principle in this store. To buy the right thing at the reasonable price is better, far better and more economical than the wrong thing at most any old price. The poorly priced is meanly made, got a wrong twist in it somewhere, you can't depend upon it.

When you want good dry goods you don't want to be shown makeshifts apologies for good dry goods. We cannot too strongly emphasize the goodness, the reasonableness of the following items:

WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 19, 1900.

Indiana, like some others of the western and northern states, has caught on to the hemp idea and adopted its use with telling effect. Some negroes committed a murder, and in two nights three of them paid for their crime at the end of a rope manipulated by Judge Lynch. A hundred men went to the jail, and being refused admission proceeded to batter a hole in the wall. The rest was easy. The community in which the lynching occurred upholds the action of the mob. Don't cast such things as this at the south any more, if you please.

Two Negroes Lynched.

Indianapolis, Dec. 17.—Governor Mount when informed last night of the lynching of two negroes, Rowland and Henderson, at Rockport, said he would make a thorough investigation. He was emphatic in the declaration that the ring leaders of the mob should be punished.

Mrs. Simons, the widow of the man for whose murder the negroes were lynched, is so ill and nervous from prostration that she may die. Walter Evans, a citizen of Rockport, is a maniac from the excitement caused by the murder and lynching.

Prince Is Acquitted.

Norfolk, Va., Dec.—After a full week of legal battling the trial of Michael H. Prince, ex-captain of the Norfolk police force, for the murder of Charles J. Cannon, on August 3rd, ended this afternoon with a verdict of not guilty of the charge.

At 3:06 p. m. the jury retired to the jury room and after being out an hour and a half returned with a verdict. As the jury filed back into the presence of the court a death like stillness pervaded the room. The court ordered the prisoner to stand up. He arose, pale and trembling, and as Judge Waddill asked the foreman for the verdict, the reply came. "Not guilty as charged."

For a moment there was silence, then the court told Prince he was free. As he did so the great crowd in the court room broke into cheering. Deputy sheriffs and court officials tried in vain to restrain the outbreak.

As Prince left the court room hundreds shook him by the hand. The general expression is one of satisfaction at the verdict. Both the defense and prosecution were conducted in a brilliant manner. The crime for which Prince was tried was the open killing of Cannon on August 3rd, in the arway of the custom house building. Evidence showed that Cannon had been intimate with Prince's wife. It was Cannon's wife who first told Prince of the intimacy between her husband and his wife.

WINE OF CARDUI

THE LINK THAT BINDS.

JACKSON, TENN., NOV. 23.

I was subject to miscarriage for three years, and suffered constantly with backache. I wrote to you for advice, and after using three bottles of Wine of Cardui, according to your directions, I am strong and well, and the mother of a fine girl baby.

Mrs. E. N. JOWERS.

Wine of Cardui

There is no use talking—a baby in the house is the link that binds husband and wife together. Nothing is sadder than fruitless wedlock. The prattling and cooing of the little ones offset a thousand times the occasional worries and trials of life. When a wife is barren, there is a derangement somewhere in the genital organs, caused by one or more of those common disorders known as "female troubles". Wine of Cardui is the remedy. It puts the organs of generation in a strong and healthy condition, fitting the wife for the sacred duty of reproducing her kind. During the period of gestation the entire system of the expectant mother is built up to withstand the ordeal of labor, and when the little one makes its advent it is lusty and strong, well-fitted to grow to maturity in perfect health. The mother, too, passes through the trial with little pain and no dread. Wine of Cardui is truly a wonderful medicine for women.

MUNFORD'S BIG NEW STORE.

Well may the good people of Greenville and surrounding country be thankful and proud of their Big Store and the wonderful bargains that come from that great institution. For the third time this season has the buyer been north, picking and scouring the New York, Boston and Philadelphia markets and quickly snapped up all the "Juicy Plums." This was securing a leading manufacturer's fall shipment of fine clothing for men and boys intended for a clothier in Galveston, Tex., but which was countermanded on account of the flood. The result is, we can offer mens and boys highest grade clothing at just one-half the old time clothier's price. They will be ready and placed on the tables on

OUR STORE GROWING.

What has made our store such a busy place? What we advertise we do. The throngs that daily fill the store is the very best evidence that we rather understate than otherwise the remarkable value we have to sell.

Our Popular Store.

We leave it to you if there is not a snap, vim or go, about this business not perceptible in any other business in Greenville. It is no secret. The "old foggy" dry goods and clothiers are sleeping, waiting for you to come in and pay them their 50 per cent. profit. Will you do it? Or will you trade with a live, hustling, progressive concern that is working like a Trojan and making your dollar buy two dollars worth. We have doubled the business since we are in our new building already, and now want to triple it.

Holiday Goods.

Brief Mention of the Comers and Goers.

Miss Lelia Thornton one of the teachers at the Masonic Hall school is sick.

Mrs. W. R. Brown and children left this morning to visit her father near Richmond, Va.

J. R. Barnes, of Richmond, Va., chief foreman of the construction force of the Western Union Telegraph Company, came Tuesday evening to arrange for having the telegraph office moved to the new quarters in the Rialto building.

Do you want to send some friend a subscription to a magazine for a Christmas present? Let the Reflector Book Store have your order and save the trouble and expense of sending for it yourself.

The crowds going in and out daily at Munford's big new store is an evidence of what advertising will do. He has an elegant stock and tells the people about it, and they go there to find that all that has been said and even more is true.

Ed. H. Shelburn, J. L. Starkey & Bro. and Greenville Supply Co. will be glad to redeem any and all quantities of the American Tobacco Co's. cigarette box fronts, at one cent for each, of the following cigarettes: Duke of Durham, Cross Cut and Columbia.

To WOOD BUYERS.—If you want your wood split fine say so when you give your order and it will be filled accordingly. My pine wood is green but when split fine will season in a very short time. If you will let me know exactly what you want I will please you and save you money. O. L. JOYNER.
