Reflections of a Bachelor.

If an umbrella was made of our rib, like a woman, you would never be able to shut it up.

A woman never hears a new cute baby story that she doesn't tell it afterward on her own child.

It always jars a man terribly when he wakes up after he has dreamed that his wife got married to another man.

Nowadays, if a man only says he wishes some one would teach him how to save money to a girl, she gets a queer feeling where she thinks her heart is.

A woman who will admit that her husband is the only man who ever proposed to her is as rare as a man who will confess that he doesn't know how to play poker.

Doing the Impossible.

Most of the great things of the world have been done in the face of the cry of "impossible." To the minds of his generals, Napoleon's plan to cross the Alps was sheer madness. From a conventional standpoint, the winning of American freedom was impossible, and so were nearly all the great deeds of history that thrill us most.

We find it impossible to walk around a park on a rainy night without over-shoes, yet many an explorer has waded water and lain out of doors for weeks without catching cold. If our eating departs a hair's breadth from the routine we see no hope of escaping dyspepsia and other ills. We were, some of us incredulous when we heard that a college president had proven his ability to live on fifteen cents a day. Thoreau lived for two years at the rate of twenty-seven cents a week. When General Fremont was crossing the plains it is recorded that his bill of fare for many days was "roast mule, fried mule, deviled mule, and—mule." Nansen and his lieutenant lived for a whole arctic winter on bear meat and had one bath each in half a teacupful of water; yet they came out well in the spring.

All these things were impossibilities according to the usually accepted standard. Looking at them, we learn that so called impossibilities are not necessarily real ones.—Saturday Evening Post.

The special committee appointed by the State Democratic Executive Committee, for that purpose, has framed a bill to govern primary elections in North Carolina and a copy has been placed in the hands of each member of the General Assembly. In view of the experience with the Senatorial primary, the bill is likely to cause considerable discussion. In considering the bill in this light it is well enough to bear in mind that the Senatorial contest was not a legalized primary. It should be noted, too, that the bill, as we understand it, does not make the holding of primary elections imperative, but simply provides for the machinery of holding primaries, so that it will be optional with the different political parties whether or not they will nominate their candidates by the primary method. If a primary is decided upon, then it must be conducted in conformity with the law upon the subject, if the bill passes.—Winston Sentinel.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1901.

No Governor previously inaugurated in North Carolina has made a finer speech than that delivered by Governor Aycock at his inauguration on Tuesday. His principal subjects were education and fair elections, and he showed a determination to fulfill his campaign pledges along these lines.

A correspondent of the Charlotte Observer urges the Legislature to levy a tax on dogs. The correspondent must want to scare our lawmakers out of a years growth, for if there is anything a North Carolina Legislature has seemed afraid of in the past, it is the dog. They can tackle almost anything else, but are afraid of the man who owns a worthless dog.

Wouldn't Marry Because He Drank.

Because he drank and because she learned that on the morning of the day upon which he was to wed, her prospective groom was confined in the station house as the result of drunkenness, Miss Maggie Ormsby at No. 309 Wooster street, yesterday refused to marry young George Vernon, who had already procured a license from the Register of Deeds and was in waiting for the ceremony. She stated to him that if he loved whiskey better than he loved her, he must depart, and despite his pleadings, he was forced to go his way without his bride. Young Vernon does not appear to be addicted to drink and has a very pleasing appearance, but Miss Ormsby detected that he had been drinking when the hour for the marriage came and his pleadings to the contrary were without avail.—Wilmington Star.

This young woman was right. No doubt the decision almost crushed her own heart, but it is better for her to suffer disappointment now than to have linked herself to a life of wretchedness. If every woman had the moral courage displayed by this one, and would refuse to marry a man who drinks, much misery and suffering would be avoided. A woman approaches a dangerous chasm when she places her life in the keeping of drunkard. It would have a great influence for good if the young women today would not allow men who drink to wait on them.

The man who can't say anything good of his fellowmen realizes that there is a knocker on the door of adversity.

An Opposite View.

Representative Wright, of Rowan, has introduced in the Legislature a bill requiring the Bible to be taught in the public schools. On the face of it this measure sounds all right but it is fraught with mischief and we sincerely hope that for the peace and welfare of the State it will be defeated. In the first place the average country school teacher is not competent to teach the Bible, and if they were competent they would teach it and interpret it as they had been taught—in accordance with the doctrines of the Church to which they belong or in which they were trained. It is impossible, we think, to have the Scriptures taught from a non-denominational standpoint and teaching them in any other way will certainly cause trouble. In the second place, teaching the Bible in public schools is teaching upon the prerogatives of the Church and Sunday school and is bordering upon a union of Church and State. The idea is a breeder of strife and mischief. Away with it.—Statesville Landmark.

Boys Read This.

Idleness is the devil's own workshop, and especially is this true of boys. We never feel sorry for the boy who has to work, even if it be to help make a living for himself and family; but we do pity the boy who has nothing to do, and whose parents are able to keep him from having to labor. The boy who may work and get only a stipend of a dollar or even less per week, is learning habits of industry. It is from the boys who begin early the life of industry that come the successful men of the nation. The boy who waits until he is grown, or until he acquires an education, before he begins to labor or learn a profession, is apt to start in life handicapped and outstripped by his seemingly less fortunate competitor who started in ahead of him. It pays a boy better in the long run to work for twenty-five cents a week and learn a trade with habits of application to business, than to do nothing and be supported at the expense of his parents. Boys, do something, be something.—The Gazette.

What All Boys Should Know.

Don't be satisfied with your boy's education says the "School Supplement," until you are sure that he can—

The children who are to take a part in the tableaux for the King's Daughters tea on Tuesday night, are asked to meet in the opera house Friday afternoon afterschool.

First Shad.

The first white shad of the season was caught by skimmers in the river here today. Mr. Kleibacker, manager of the Carolina Cafe, bought the shad.

Employment for Families.

Wanted—Families to work in a cotton mill and learn the business. Good wages paid after learning. Write to editor of this paper—if you have a family wishing such employment. 12-22-1m.

Attention Soldiers.

The Greenville Light Infantry will meet in the armory Friday afternoon, 18th, at 2:30 o'clock. Every member is ordered to be present. R. L. CARR, Captain.

A Fool of a Farmer.

Now this was a fool of a farmer. He came to town with a load of fine hogs and felt so good at the nice price they sold for that he filled up on 25 cents worth of poor whiskey and fell off his wagon as he going home and broke his neck. This was bad for him, bad for his family, bad for the parson who had to preach his funeral sermon and bad for the local editor who had to write the obituary. Three fingers of whiskey or four beers too often make bad work on the farm—Exchange.

MUNFORD'S BIG NEW STORE.

Well may the good people of Greenville and surrounding country be thankful and proud of their Big Store and the wonderful bargains that come from that great institution. For the third time this season has the buyer been north, picking and scouring the New York, Boston and Philadelphia markets and quickly snapped up all the "Juicy Plums." This was securing a leading manufacturer's fall shipment of fine clothing for men and boys intended for a clothier in Galveston, Tex., but which was countermanded on account of the flood. The result is, we can offer mens and boys highest grade clothing at just one-half the old time clothier's price. They will be ready and placed on the tables on

OUR STORE GROWING.

What has made our store such a busy place? What we advertise we do. The throngs that daily fill the store is the very best evidence that we rather understate than otherwise the remarkable value we have to sell.

Our Popular Store.

We leave it to you if there is not a snap, vim or go, about this business not perceptible in any other business in Greenville. It is no secret. The "old fog" dry goods and clothiers are sleeping, waiting for you to come in and pay them their 50 per cent. profit. Will you do it? Or will you trade with a live, hustling, progressive concern that is working like a Trojan and making your dollar buy two dollars worth. We have doubled the business since we are in our new building already, and now want to triple it.

Holiday Goods.

Over 2 car loads of fancy goods suitable for Christmas presents. The entire store presents a big Bazaar. Everything you can think of is right here. And the Price is One-Half.

The Hotel.

Wednesday Mr. B. F. Patrick showed us through the new hotel which is now nearing completion and will be ready to open by February 1st. The building is beautifully finished inside, and will be well furnished. It has its own electric light plant and water works. The hotel is a creditable one to the town, and Mr. Patrick has done Greenville a great service in building it. Mr. C. C. Vines will conduct the hotel.
