CUT BY A NEGRO.

Mr. J. H. Adams Assaulted.

Late Monday afternoon one of the negroes who works in the stemming department of M. P. Jordan & Co's. factory became disorderly and boisterous. The head workman of the stemmers told him he must keep quiet or go out of the factory. The negro continued his bad conduct when Mr. J. H. Adams, manager of the department, admonished him that he must behave himself or leave the factory. The negro started out but in going by Mr. Adams was so insulting that the latter struck him. The negro turned on Mr. Adams and began slashing at him with a knife. Mr. Adams defended himself with his fists as best he could, but happening to stumble in the encounter was cut right severely under the shoulder near the kidney. Mr. Adams had on his overcoat which doubtless prevented him being cut more seriously. The coat had several gashes cut in it.

We see in a Georgia exchange the statement "according to the North Carolina experiment station the flavor of eggs is affected by the food given the hens, just as milk is affected by the cow's food." Why not? The statement is easy of belief. The late Sam'l J. Pemberton, of Stanly, was full of all knowledge of beasts, birds and fowls, and the day after the Democratic State convention of 1888, a number of the delegates remaining in Raleigh to talk it all over and to enjoy them, he entertained a party for an hour with discourse upon animals, fowls, etc. Among other things he said that the chickens and eggs of Stanly were far superior to those of Richmond, and adjoining county. Why? Because Stanly was a wheat county and Richmond a cotton county. The Stanly chickens lived largely on the wheat grains that they found in the fields and about the cribs, while the Richmond chickens had to scratch for worms, which were a large part of their subsistence. These observations of Mr. Pemberton square exactly with the findings of the State experiment station.—Charlotte Observer.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina.

Tarboro is discussing the establishing of a dispensary at that place.

Shelby had a big fire a few nights ago. Several stores and offices were burned.

Mrs. V. L. Martin, wife of J. J. Martin, the late postmaster at Tarboro, has been appointed to succeed him.

The Oaks hotel property at Asheville is to be converted into a large sanitarium.

At a hog killing at W. H. Fly's last week, four miles east of Rocky Mount, nine hogs were killed, total weight, 1,514 pounds. Nine men assisted at killing, total weight 1,514, may not happen again in 100 years.—Tarboro Southerner.

The Cigarette.

We would rejoice with exceeding great joy if the Legislature would pass a law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes in the State. It is too much to hope that such a law will be enacted. The business is so entrenched in North Carolina it will take a mighty, united effort to uproot it. But it can be done. True, the breaking up of the business would mean the loss of vast capital and the removal of some of our wealthiest citizens; but better this than the untimely death of a thousand boys. We have no doubt in the world that the evil effects of the cigarette habit are more to be dreaded and deplored than those which follow the drinking of liquor. And yet how softly we speak of the former, and how we berate and abuse the latter. Whiskey drinking is disreputable (as it deserves to be) and decent public sentiment is arrayed solidly against it; cigarette smoking is quite popular, and a young gent suffers no loss of social favor though he blow smoke through his nose in the finest parlor. It is high time that we call a spade a spade. The pale face of many a bright boy tells the tale of the work of the monster that we have nourished in our bosom. Some day when the sacrifice is great enough our people will lift their voices against this deadly enemy as the voice of one man. But the hour has not yet come.—Charity and Children.

Woman's Generosity.

Mr. J. Ed. Dorton, of Gold Hill, spent yesterday and this morning in Salisbury on his way home from Concord, where he had been looking after the estate of his father-in-law, the late Benjamin Burleyson. Mr. Dorton's wife is dead but left a little daughter, who will come in for her mother's estate. Connected with the settlement of the estate comes a story as strange as true. Mr. Dorton called our attention to the following item in the Concord correspondence of the Charlotte Observer:

"An instance of generosity and unselfish sacrifice occurred in this county when the estate of the late Benjamin Burleyson was in the hands of his administrator that seldom has a parallel in the records of any court. Mr. Burleyson's last wife was Mrs. Blakely, of Lancaster, S. C., who brought to her new home one son by her first marriage. Mr. Burleyson had seven children and thus a family of eight children were gathered under one roof. Their home at Flow's, in this county, was one of plenty and prosperity and to all human view, a long and peaceful life was before a happy family. On one sad evening last year Mr. Burleyson was fatally hurt and died in a few hours. The widowed mother, with broken hopes, thought only of the welfare of those left to her care and considered the financial prospects which were before her family, and declaring to the administrator that her property in South Carolina was sufficient for the maintenance of herself and her son, refused to accept any part of her legal right in Mr. Burleyson's estate."

Mr. Dorton says that Mrs. Burleyson stated that she knew that her deceased husband had saved and accumulated for the sake of his children and as she had been married to him only three years and having means of her own she would refuse her dower.

The estate is valued at $12,000.—Salisbury Sun.

The new century will doubtless be characterized by new departures in international politics. Fortwo-thirds of the nineteenth century five towering figures shaped, more or less, the policies of the nations. Three of them have been gathered to their fathers—Gladstone, Bismark and Victoria. Two others, tottering and snowy-haired, must soon follow—Franz Josef and Pope Leo. These five great figures in European politics stood for what was old and tried. They had aligned themselves in their youth with certain methods of government and procedure and consistently maintained the same to old age. They were to a certain extent restraining influences in the stream of world currents. When the last one of them shall be taken out of the way it will be the breaking of a great dam of conservatism, and the rivers of international political and politico-religious events will flood out into new channels.—Charlotte Observer.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1901.

Queen Victoria will be buried on Saturday, February 2nd. The interment will be at Windsor by the side of her husband. The preparations for the funeral indicate the greatest pageant ever known to the world.

The last few days have been quiet ones with the Legislature. There has not been much doing except discussions on bills that came up on their passage. Maybe, after all, it is best that not too much of a new character be done. A Legislature cannot be judged by the multitude of laws it creates. It is often better to undo or modify old laws than to make new ones. A Legislature every four years would be as often as we have much need for one.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28th.

If an extra session of Congress has to be called to pass the Ship Subsidy bill, as now seems probable, the republicans are going to make Philippine legislation the excuse for the extra session. After leading republican Senators had repeatedly said that there was to be no Philippine legislation by this Congress, and Senator Spooner had abandoned his bill, which by the way gives the President about the same authority over a Civil Government in the Philippines that he now exercises under his authority as Commander-in-Chief of our Military forces, and announced his intention to try to get a Congressional Committee sent to the Philippines, it was a little surprising and at first confusing for Mr. McKinley to send a report from the Philippine Commission to Congress, urging the immediate passage of the Spooner bill, reinforcing it with the indorsement of Secretary Root and his own. Mr. McKinley knows the absolute impossibility of getting the Philippine legislation asked for in the short time left of this session, and only sent the report and message to Congress to prepare the way for an extra session of the next Congress, in which some of the most active opponents of the Ship Subsidy bill will not have seats, if it becomes necessary.

Mr. McKinley has tried to lessen the republican scramble for Army Commissions in the expanded regular army, by announcing that he intended to give those commissions to men who had served in the Philippines with the volunteers, as far as possible to do so. The qualification was doubtless added because he knows very well that some of those commissions will be demanded by men whose demands he dare not turn down. A big republican row is probable over the distribution of these places.

Senator Towne, whose successor is expected to present his credentials during the present week made his farewell Congressional bow in what many of his admirers declare to have been the best speech he ever made. The speech was nominally made on the following resolution, offered by him: "That the justice, the public welfare, and the national honor, demand the immediate cessation of hostilities in the Philippine islands, upon terms recognizing the independence of the Philippine people, and conserving and guaranteeing the interests of the U. S.," but it was not confined to the Philippines. It embraced the general political conditions and the outlook for the immediate future, incidentally showing how unwise Mr. McKinley and his advisers have been in most of their policies.

Senator Bacon has been given the honor of being designated to read Washington's farewell address to the Senate on Washington's birthday. The brewers put the screws on Senator Hanna, and he in turn put them on the Senate Committee on Finance, and the result is that the amended bill for the reduction of War taxes as reported to the Senate keeps Hanna's promise to the brewers in exchange for their campaign contributions, and reduces the tax on beer to $1.50 a barrel. And it is dollars to brass buttons that the House will agree to this, although when the bill was before the House, an amendment fixing the tax at those figures was voted down.

The House Committee on Banking and Currency has reported two financial bills, but whether either will get acted upon is not yet certain. The Committee has adopted a resolution, making one of them, the Hill bill for establishing the parity between the silver dollar and gold, a special order in the House with two days for debate, but that resolution will have to be ordered by the Committee on Rules before it becomes effective. The other measure reported is the Overstreet bill for maintaining at all times the parity of the Standard silver with gold. Two democratic members of the Committee, Driggs, of N. Y., and Thayer, of Mass. voted with the republicans in favor of reporting the latter bill.

Hugged School Girls.

The sudden disappearance of Dr. Geo. Wharton, the Lothario-like president of the Hillman Female College has created a profound sensation in religious and educational circles throughout Mississippi. The affectionate president departed for his old home in North Carolina even before the board of trustees of the college could take the testimony of the young ladies who had preferred charges of attempting to hug them. Not less than a dozen young ladies who had been submitted to indignities by Wharton left the college before the matter became public, and the undue liberties finally became so marked that the exposure followed. Wharton is about 50 years of age and anything but a Romeo in personal appearance. He is an ordained minister of the Baptist church and had been in charge of the college for several years. The board of trustees has not yet named his successor. About 15 young ladies are on the student roll of the college.—Jackson, Miss., Despatch in Atlanta Journal.

One Woman's Ruling Passion.
 "There goes a woman," said the girl, "who hasn't a thought on earth except dress. I know that superior man attributes this particular weakness to all women—but it's a canard, as of course are nine out of ten of male estimates of women."
 She conquered a refractory button on her glove before she continued: "But that woman who passed us is, without doubt, the most dress-crazy woman I have ever met. She knows no topic save dress—can speak of no other subject. She spends one half of her time at her dressmaker's, and the other half is used in exploiting the handiwork of the modiste. Goodness only knows when she manages to get anything to eat. She's dead to every feeling, I believe, except that which has to do with dress. And what do you think she said Saturday? I met her as we were going out of a house of mourning. A young woman whom we both knew had died, and we had been at the funeral. Coming down the steps I noticed my friend, but the feeling of sorrow was too fresh upon me to permit anything more than a nod of recognition. For half a square we walked side by side. Then I said, 'Poor, dear Clara—alive and well one week ago, and now—and she's gone!' " "Yes," answered my friend blandly, 'but wasn't she dressed beautifully? Really, it was a treat to see her!'"

A lady on the street today was carrying her grip in her hand. That was much better than some folks carrying it around in the head, in the back, in the joints, or anywhere that it can make aches and pains.

The Fire Drill.

Chicago, Jan. 26—Through training the fire drill exercises saved the lives of a hundred and fifty pupils in the St. Louis French Parochial School today at Kensington. While all the children were at lessons on an upper floor fire broke out, and before it was discovered the whole underside of the first floor was blazing furiously. The upper stairway was cut off. Father Bourassa, who discovered the fire, quickly notified the teachers who in turn gave the fire drill signal and as the pupils fell in line they were quickly marched down the outside stairway safely. The school house was completely destroyed.

On the Menu in Chile.

For several days I noticed the word "panqueque" upon the bill of fare at the hotel and did not know what it was. There is a brand of wine from one of the Chilian vineyards with that name, and I supposed it was perhaps the same thing referred to, although it was difficult to understand why it should appear among the desserts on the menu at the dinner table and on the bills of fare for breakfast. The best way to find out about such things is to try them, and the next morning, being in an experimental mood, I ordered a "panqueque," which, to our amazement, was an ordinary griddle-cake. Then it dawned upon my dull perceptions that "panqueque" spelled pancake. I called the attention of the head waiter to the discovery, and he seemed quite astonished. He could speak English well and claimed to be familiar with the cuisine of America. Therefore he did not see anything unusual in my discovery, and I rather think he wrote the bill of fare himself, for he remarked in a surprised tone: "What do you call a pancake in America?"—Cor. Chicago Record

The driest of all fishes is perhaps the river eel. Yet, according to an analysis by a German chemist, 99 per cent of its substance is water. Salmon comes next, with 61.4 per cent.

MUNFORD'S BIG NEW STORE.

Well may the good people of Greenville and surrounding country be thankful and proud of their Big Store and the wonderful bargains that come from that great institution: For the third time this season has the buyer been north, picking and scouring the New York, Boston and Philadelphia markets and quickly snapped up all the "Juicy Plums." This was securing a leading manufacturer's fall shipment of fine clothing for men and boys intended for a clothier in Galveston, Tex., but which was countermanded on account of the flood. The result is, we can offer mens and boys highest grade clothing at just one-half the old time clothier's price. They will be ready and placed on the tables

OUR STORE GROWING.

What has made our store such a busy place? What we advertise we do. The throngs that daily fill the store is the very best evidence that we rather understate than otherwise the remarkable value we have to sell.

Our Popular Store.

We leave it to you if there is not a snap, vim or go, about this business not perceptible in any other business in Greenville. It is no secret. The "old foggy" dry goods and clothiers are sleeping, waiting for you to come in and pay them their 50 per cent. profit. Will you do it? Or will you trade with a live, hustling, progressive concern that is working like a Trojan and making your dollar buy two dollars worth. We have doubled the business since we are in our new building already, and now want to triple it.

Holiday Goods.

Over 2 car loads of fancy goods suitable for Christmas presents. The entire store presents a big Bazaar. Everything you can think of is right here. And the

A curious lawsuit has just been commenced in Omaha, Neb. David Kolnitz, of that city, had a son who was suffering from appendicitis. The father engaged an eminent physician to perform the usual operation, but when the appointed time came the doctor was out of the city. Another surgeon was called in, the operation was performed and the boy died. Now the father is suing the first physician for $5,000, claiming that if the knife had been wielded by the one who had previous knowledge of the case the boy's life would have been saved.

YOU'RE IT.

If you're sore
To the core,
With aching bones
And husky tones
When you speak,
And you're weak
In the knees,
And you sneeze,
And often cough
Your head near off,
And you note
That your throat
Feels quite raw,
And your jaw
Feels as if
You'd got a biff,
And dull pains
Vex your brains,
Then you've caught it,
You have got it—
It's the grip.

If you feel
The heat steal
O'er your frame
Like a flame,
And you burn
Till you yearn
For chunks of ice
At any price,
Then like a flash
The shivers dash
From head to feet,
A chill complete.
And you shake,
And you quake,
And there's desire
For a fire,
And something hot
Right on the spot
To quickly drink,
And you think
Right there and then
You'll ne'er be warm again,
Then you've caught it,
You have got it—
It's the grip.

It's in the air,
It's everywhere;
The microbe of the grip
Is on another trip,
And up and down,
Through all the town,
By night and day
It seeks its prey
And it's the fad
If you are sad,
Or even mad,
Or if you sneeze,
Or cough or wheeze,
Or feel to warm,
Or chills alarm,
To wear a look of grim dismay
And hoarsely say:
"I've caught it,
I've got it—
It's the grip!"

WILL PLAY TONIGHT.

And a Good Performance Can Be Looked For.

Owing to the late arrival of the Palmer Stock Company they were unable to present the comedy "Too Much Money" in the opera house last night. They will positively appear in that popular play to night, the performance beginning at 8:30 o'clock. As the company can now be here only one night all who want to enjoy a good play should be on hand.

The Wilson News telephoned to THE REFLECTOR Monday evening that nothing too good could be said for the Palmer Stock Company. "Too Much Money" was presented in Wilson last week, and the News says "the various characters were all well played and the performance showed that artists of ability were being seen. While all were good, it can be truly said that Mr. Sam Hunt, as Carydon Foxglove, the lawyer, was a gem (a big one) in the performance. The "troubles" which began, increased and ceased were of the rich order and were enjoyed."

Knew What It Meant.

A verdant youth dropped into Snider's jewelry store and after gazing at some fraternity pins in the showcase said to the proprietor: "Them's mighty nice breast-pins you got there, mister." "What kind of a pin would you like to look at?" "How much is this one with a square and a pair of compasses?" pointing to a Masonic-pin. "Five dollars." "Five dollars, eh? You haven't got one with any handsaws on it, have you? I'm just outter my time, and as I'm going to set up as carpenter and joiner I thought I'd like to have something to wear so folks would know what I was doin'. Well, I'll take it, though I'd like one with a handsaw. But I guess maybe that's plain enough. The compass is to mark out your work and the square is to measure it when marked out, and any darn fool knows that G stands for gimlet."—Durham Sun.

Negro Mill Labor a Failure.

The owners of the Vesta Cotton Mills, of this city, decided to abandon the property and move the textile machinery to a new mill at Gainesville, Ga. The admission is made that the experiment of negro labor for the cotton mills is a failure, and this is known after a fair test. Two years ago the Vesta Mill began operation under the reorganization with negro labor. The experiment was practically the first made in the South and was watched with interest by mill people. The managers said today that the negroes were trifling and lazy and would not stick to the work. Some mornings the mill would start and would be short a hundred operatives. This was destined to wreck the property and the owners quit. The majority of the stock is owned in New York.—Charleston, S. C., Dispatch.

Open the Schools.

County Treasurer J. B. Cherry tells us that several of the public school districts of this county have money enough to their credit to run schools for seven or eight months, and another apportionment will be made in July. This being the case the schools in those districts should be opened and kept running as long as the money lasts. The money should not be lying idle with the children not getting the benefit of it. Pitt county is perhaps in as good condition for carrying on her public schools as any county in the State.
