Happenings in North Carolina

Andy Winecoff, colored, who has served a 30-year term in the penitentiary, was released a few days ago. He was sent there when he State prison was only log huts.

In Cleveland county a man around Hutchins got drunk and tried to break in the house of Clayton Humphries. The latter shot Hutchins with a rifle, killing him almost instantly.

The British steanship Camperdown, bound for New York loaded with 20,000 sacks of sugar, is stranded on Cape Lookout shoals, seven miles from the beach.

Ernest Boon, 10-year-old son of John Boon, of Greensboro, died Saturday night under rather peculiar circumstances. Some days ago he had a tooth pulled. An abscess formed on his jaw, giving the boy a great deal of pain and resulting in death.

Large quantities of mullets, and very large ones, are being offered for sale in the market, and no less than a half dozen carts from the vicinity of the river shore are on the streets offering them for sale. The river, from three to four miles below town is working alive with these fish.—Washington Messenger.

The Danbury Reporter says that the farmers of Stokes county are showing less interest in another year's crop of tobacco than ever before in its memory. It does not believe the crop being prepared for will exceed 75 per cent. of last season's production. A number of farmers have been heard to say that they did not expect to use any commercial fertilizer under their tobacco the coming season.

Captains R. D. Evans and H. C. Taylor, who have been advanced five numbers for service at the battle of Santiago, are commissioned as rear admirals, to date from February 11th last.

BLACK JACK ITEMS

BLACK JACK, N. C., March 5. Abram Dixon attended services at Bear Creek last Sunday.

Miss Mary Mills, of this place is visiting her sister near Galloway's X Roads.

Robert Dixon returned yesterday from Grindool.

C. W. Reuss passed through today enroute for Washington.

Little Miss Beckie Mills is visiting her papa near Clay Root.

Miss Lula Smith was the guest of Miss Lucy White yesterday.

Our school here closed last Thursday, and W. H. Wynne, our most successful teacher, made his departure for Birmingham, Ala., where he will enter a business college.

Representative Brick, of Indiana, has a constituent who thinks he should have a pension because he sent a substitute to the civil war. "I am old and feeble," he wrote to Mr. Brick, "and I don't suppose I shall live a great while, but I need money while I do live. I think the Government owes me something. I paid a man $300 to take my place in the war when I was drafted, and he was killed in action. Now, I think I am entitled to a pension or should get the $300 back. Will you please see that I do?"

Honor Roll.

At the close of Mrs. Manning's school, the following names deserve being enrolled upon the roll of honor:

MALES.

Walter Forbes.

FEMALES.

Nora Forbes, Neva Forbes, Hattie Sutton, Nannie Sutton, Nancy Smith, Carrie Smith, Mary Parker, Mand Sutton, Juanita Manning.

With Fitzhugh Lee and James H. Wilson finally retired as brigadier-generals of the regular army the hour of final fraternization of the blue and the gray should be measurably advanced. Fitting honors have never been more worthily bestowed than in recompense accorded by a grateful nation to these two officers of the volunteer army.—Philadelphia Record.

BRIGHT JEWELS.

What the Little Folks are Doing

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

I am sure the parents of my Bright Jewel children would be glad to know something of what they have accomplished during the missionary year of 1900-01, which ended March 1st. Will you kindly publish the following items:

We have thirty-two members enrolled and with the exception of November, when prevented by rain, have held our regular business meeting on the first Sunday in each month. We have remitted to our Conference Treasurer:

Dues, (for the salaries of missionaries) $20.15
 Twentieth Century Fund, 10.45
 For Mary Black Hospital, 10.68

Total $41.28
 MRS. G. E. HARRIS,
 Lady Manager.

[We do not feel like letting this pass without adding a word of commendation for these little folks. It takes but a moments calculation to show that their contributions to the objects named amounts to $1.29 per member, which is remarkable for a band of little children. They are indeed Bright Jewels, adding gems to the coronet of the King and laying up for themselves treasure in Heaven.—Ed.]

There seems to have been some very gross negligence practiced at Washington in the matter of paying government employes for work they have not done. According to a recent report of a special committee of the House to investigate the employment roll, a number of persons have been paid for work not done and for time not accounted for. Employes are much absent from their post of duty. It was stated that one employe had not worked more than six months in the four years he has been employed, has been drawing his salary all the time and has not been in Washington for eleven or twelve months. All these abuses ought to be corrected and the people look to their representatives in Congress to do it.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Make A Note Of It.

The newspapers of the State will make note of the fact that the new libel law is quietly sleeping in the House committee. Some of the members of House are opposed to granting the newspapers of the State a just and reasonable libel law. They want the support of the newspapers in the campaign, but whenever the newspapers ask for simple justice, they want to refuse them the slightest consideration. The newspaper that spends its days and nights working for the election of such men is foolish.—Raleigh Times.

Captain George Doughty, who has been connected with steamboating between Washington and Tarboro for a number of years tells us the water in the river has been lower constantly the past two years than in his experience, and it is so low at the present time that the boats can scarcely run at all.

No, Maude, dear; we have never heard of a Society for the Suppression of Vice-Presidents.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1901.

Cotton keeps going right on down. And McKinley has just been re inaugurated. The Emperor's reign of prosperity does not seem able to hold the staple up.

The Education Committee of the Legislature has decided to appropriate $200,000 to the public schools of the State. This is an increase of $100,000 over the last appropriation.

The Supreme Court Judges appeared at the bar of the Senate Wednesday, with their attorneys, and filed their answer to the impeachment charges brought against them by the House. It took one hour and thirty-five minutes to read the answer, three reading clerks taking a turn at it.

Charlotte, always up-to-date in everything, has established two day nurseries in that city. These nurseries take care of the little tots whose parents are compelled to go out and work by the day. Such humane institutions prove a great blessing to the children and relieve parents of much anxiety through the working hours of the day.

The state should provide for public schools and let the normals come after, if there is anything left.—Durham Herald.

Right. But those in charge of the normals don't look at it that way. They are looking out for appropriations that will make soft places for themselves first, and then if there should be any leavings the crumbs to be thrown to the boys and girls who can never hope to get in sight of a normal.

Remarkable Presence of Mind For Boys.

On last Friday, during a high wind the roof of Sheriff McDowell's residence on West Union street caught on fire from a spark from a chimney. There were no men near and the flames kindled rapidly. Two small boys, Isaac Tull and Ben Davis, who live near by, did not do as most boys would have done—run for help—but bravely set to work to put out the fire themselves. They secured a long ladder, placed it by the house and before help came carried water and stopped the fire. It showed remarkable presence of mind for boys and their heroic work proved the kind of stuff they are made of.—Burke County News.

Some people would rather do a thing twice than do it right in the first place.

Contagion a Crime.

The phrase of Major Moses Veale that "contagion is a crime" is not empty rhetoric. Contagion which has resulted in the death of an innocent person, and which can be traced to the indifference or neglect of another, should be classed as a crime by the statutes. Most if not all contagious diseases could be prevented by means known to the world, and in nearly every instance the extension of a contagious malady has been the result of somebody's neglect of reasonable precautions. That such diseases have not been stamped out has been due to the refusal of people to take the trouble or to endure the inconvenience of secluding a patient and disinfecting their own persons and belongings.

It is the opinion of Major Veale, a former Health Officer, that all persons who may be attacked by a contagious disorder should be sent to a hospital or pest-house. A law to effect this in every case, however, would defeat its own object. There are families that are well able to place a patient in complete isolation, and intelligent enough to prevent danger to others. If forced to choose between sending a beloved parent or child to a hospital, to be cared for by strangers, and concealing the nature of the ailment most persons would prefer the latter course, provided they could be sure of preventing the spread of the disease. There would be less concealment and a more effective war on contagion if health officers should be authorized to send to the hospital any patient who could not be isolated at home and properly cared for by relatives. It is the fear of the pest house that causes some persons to refuse to report the true character of a contagious malady. The exercise of a wise discretion on the part of health officers would win public sympathy for the fight against preventable diseases. The prosecution of persons who should have caused the spread of a disease through neglect would have a wholesome effect. The education of the ignorant concerning the rules to be followed to prevent contagion is also important.—Philadelphia Record.

The South Getting Along.

After the Civil War the South was very poor, and it emerged from that condition slowly. During its poverty it acquired a habit of complaining that it was poor which it has difficulty in shaking off. But for several years it has been making money out of iron and cotton mills, and its cotton crops have been remunerative and it has been getting out of debt and investing its earnings where they paid good dividends. It is beginning to cease ringing the changes on its poverty. It never was very much in debt on its land, and it has been fast getting out of debt for current supplies, and has been buying property and securities. Mr. George B. Baker, of Baltimore, who has just returned from the South, says the Southern banks are full of money and home capital is being invested freely in industrial enterprises as well as securities. It is doubtful whether Texas, the Carolinas and Georgia will need any outside capital to move the next cotton crop. Interest in North Carolina has fallen from 12 to 6 per cent. The South is raising more and buying less of its supplies that formerly, and cotton is taking its proper position as a money crop after local subsistence has been provided for.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

VACCINATION NOTICE.

At a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen of the town of Greenville, held on Monday night, March 4th, the following ordinance was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, it has been made to appear to the Board from representations by the members of the medical profession, and from other good and satisfactory sources that smallpox, a contagious or infectious disease is now prevailing in the neighboring county of Greene, and that it has made its appearance in several well developed cases in this county near the town of Farmville, and this Board being desirous to prevent its appearance in Greenville, and in order to protect the health and lives of its citizens and to protect the commercial interests of the town and believing that vaccination is one of the great means to prevent the spread of the disease,

It is therefore ordered by the Board that all residents of the town of Greenville who have not been vaccinated or who should be revaccinated shall appear before the Superintendent of Health for Pitt County on or before the 12th day of the present month and when deemed by him necessary shall have themselves and their families vaccinated or revaccinated as the case may be.

Any person failing to submit themselves and families to be vaccinated shall upon conviction before the Mayor be fined five dollars.

And to the end that this order may be fully complied with it shall be the duty of the Chief of Police in connection with the Superintendent of Health of Pitt County to visit each and every family in the town and see that this order is carried into effect.

I shall see that this ordinance is strictly enforced and carried out to the letter, and to this end all citizens of the town are asked to comply with its requirements.

J. G. MOYE, Mayor. Greenville, N. C., March 7, 1901.

Bond Election.

The Legislature having passed the law authorizing Greenville to hold an election on the question of issuing bonds for improvements, the Board of Aldermen at their meeting tonight will take the necessary steps for holding the election, which will be on the second Tuesday in April.

The amount of gross gold in the treasury yesterday was $489,412.158, the highest point ever reached in the history of the government.

Newspaper Worth.

The Journal is not disposed to exaggerate the value to a community of the local paper. But it is a fact that there are few people who realize that value or to any great degree appreciate it. The "power of the press" is to them an unmeaning term and the only time they manifest any recognition of the influence of the paper is when something occurs that they desire suppressed.

You will, in any city, find more people who are disposed to belittle
a paper and its influence than there are who give it their support, and it is not infrequently the case that the man who most persistently and industriously misrepresents and depreciates the paper also most persistently and industriously evades the collector.

This is not true of many who are alive to the fact that the papers of a town have much to do in moulding the future thereof.

If the Czar of Russia were to present these cities with $1,000 everybody would think him the most generous man alive—or even if one of our own people were to make a like donation he would receive, though in a less degree, the plaudits of Tom, Dick and Harry. That is all right. But there never was a paper published in any community that did not every year give column after column and page after page to the town, giving publicity to its enterprises, exploiting its resources and doing all that was in its power to promote the material, intellectual and moral welfare thereof. At whose expense? Its own. Does the appreciation of the average man take tangible shape?
Does he pay in advance? Not often He takes its endeavors in behalf of the community as a matter of course. He may have some vague idea that paper, ink, composition, etc., cost money, but that is the editor's business and not his.

There are, of course, many and notable exceptions to this rule.
The class of people that appreciate the work of the paper in community building is constantly growing and it is not too much to hope that the millennial day will some day dawn when the value of the newspaper will be recognized by all the people, when it will be conceded that a paper like this is worth more to the town in which it is published than all the papers published elsewhere in the world.
But that day is a long way off.—
Winston Journal.

As the theatre crowds were pouring up Thirty-fourth street toward the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel the other night a Sixth avenue car collided with a heavy truck and scrambled 2,000 eggs, ruining dainty evening dresses and other apparel in the operation. Such an oulet was never seen in the borough of Manhattan. The eggs had spent the winter in cold storage, and were in transit to a downtown dealer who supplies "strictly fresh" ones to his customers. Some of them had a "past" and spoke for themselves.
