GRIMESLAND, N. C., Mar. 18, 1901.
John Warren went to Pactolus Sunday to see his best girl.

We were glad to have Mr. Hunsucker, from Winterville, to visit our town Thursday.

W. E. Proctor and his little son, Nat, went over the river Sunday.

Quite a number of our people attended church at Black Jack Sunday.

F. Powell went to Vanceboro Sunday.

J. W. Moye went to Jamesville Sunday.

L. E. Elks went up the road Sunday.

J. B. Galloway is in town today.

Austin Grimes is in town today.

Our streets were crowded with farmers Saturday.

It was developed a few days ago that Rev. Dr. Tompkins, a so-called Christian Science healer of Philadelphia, had been administering kisses to his female patients as a part of the Christian Science treatment. One of the lady patients, who in addition to undergoing the kiss treatment daily had sold her goods and given the doctor $4,000—all she had—finally rebelled and exposed the whole business. She said she objected to the kissing because she had never before been kissed by a man and her conscience hurt her. She submitted, however, on the doctor's insistence that the kissing would benefit her health, but when her health didn't improve she stopped the treatment and asked for the return of the $4,000, which she didn't get, of course. The Raleigh Visitor observes that if this method of Christian Science treatment becomes popular the ranks of the Christian Science physicians will be largely augmented. But one hardly knows who to have the most contempt for—the woman who was so easily deceived or the scoundrel who imposed on her.—Statesville Landmark.

Several truckers in this section report that a close examination of their cabbages show them to be injured by the recent cold weather.—New Berne Journal.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings in North Carolina

The Queen City telephone plant at Charlotte has been purchased by a New Jersey syndicate.

A young negro who worked in the Goldsboro postoffice has been arrested for robbing the mails.

A long trestle near Fayetteville on the Atlantic Coast Line, was destroyed by fire Sunday. Through had trains to take the old route by Wilmington.

Several of our exchanges in various portions of the State are speaking of the reappearance of the blue birds after an absence of several years.

A Dangerous Practice.

There is a movement on foot to discontinue the use of Paris green on tobacco. If the tobacco growers will not unite in an agreement to cease the use of the deadly poison then the matter will be carried to the legislature and the enactment of a prohibitory law procured, with heavy penalties for its violation.

The green, which adheres to the tobacco even through the manufacturing process, is ever a menace and danger to the life and health of the user of the weed. As is well known the ingredient in the green depended upon to do the work for which it is prepared and used is arsenic, a deadly mineral poison. Arsenic may not always kill when first taken, but if used regularly, as in tobacco chewing, it is accumulated in the system and trouble is sure to result.

Those familiar with the matter assert that the use of Paris green in tobacco cultivation will have to be stopped or measures to the detriment and loss of the producer will follow.—Cynthiana (Ky.) Times.

Must Tell the People.

A busy merchant once complained that he did not have time to attend to his advertising properly. After a long experience he has come to the conclusion that advertising is the most important thing about any business—the "vital spark." He exclaims: "What good does it do a man to have the best stock of goods or a great bargain if people do not know about it?"—Philadelphia Record.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Hall of Greenville Lodge, No. 284, A. F. & A. M.

Whereas, Death, the grim monster, who knocks with equal hand at the door of the palace and the cottage, has been busy at his appointed work.

Again, he has invaded the sanctuary of our fraternal home, and wrested from us one of our ancient landmarks, who loved the Order of Free Masonry, almost as he loved his Creator; always cheerful, willing, charitable; with an open hand, a listening ear, to the demands of humanity.

On Monday, the 12th day of March, 1901, at the hour of 1:30 P. M., our beloved brother, J. B. Johnson, was called from labor on earth, to rest in the great beyond. For more than a quarter of a century, he had been a faithful, ardent and splendid member of this lodge, and while a great sufferer, as the sun of his life went down, he bore it with a fortitude which characterizes those who love and revere the principles of Free Masonry.

Therefore, be it resolved, by Greenville Lodge, No. 284, A. F. & A. M. that in the death of brother J. B. Johnson, there is a missing link in our fraternal home. That his widow, his orphan and his friends have our loving esteem and sympathy.

And we extend to his widow and orphan child our condolence in this our bereavement.

That the Secretary of this Lodge be instructed to dedicate a proper page upon the records of the Lodge suitably draped, to be held in sacred remembrance of our deceased brother.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased brother; that they be published in the papers of the town of Greenville, and a copy of the same be sent to the Oxford Orphans Friend with a request to publish.

That the usual badge of mourning be worn for thirty days.

I. A. SUGG,
F. C. HARDING,
T. R. MOORE, Committee.

Was It Hydrophobia?

Little Ellen, the five-year-old daughter, of L. E. Barrow, near St. Lewis, bitten by a supposed mad dog about six weeks ago, died last Friday.

After being bitten she was taken to Baltimore, where the physicians declared that they found no trace of the rabies in her system. A few days before her death she became strangely affected, had spasms, especially after drinking water.

She died in convulsions. Some believe she had hydrophobia, and others meningitis. The physician who attended her did not say positively what her ailment was.—Tarboro Southerner.

The Remedy for the Wandering Boy.

If instead of humming the old song: "Oh, Where is my Wandering Boy To-night?" the fond parent would get a stove and go out and hunt him up and give him a good paddling, the wandering boy, when reached maturity, would at least be much obliged.—Danville (Va.) Bee.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18.

When one is rewarded for having turned one's political coat, the size of the reward is apt to be regarded as the value put upon the services of the turncoat by the other side. Upon that theory, Hon. Irvine Dungan, who was sent to Congress a few years ago by the democrats of the thirteenth Ohio district, and who turned his political coat during the last campaign and took the stump for McKinley, must be very small. Senator Hanna has just had Mr. Dungan appointed to a $1200 clerkship in the Treasury Department.

"If some of the good things that are said of a man after he is dead were said of him and to him when he was alive, this world would be a much more satisfactory place to live," remarked a philosophic and somewhat cynical Senator who had been discussing the praise bestowed upon the late Hon. Benj. Harrison, by prominent members of his party who had for years lost no opportunity to sneer at him. It does seem that the death of a man of prominence serves to bring out striking bits of hypocrisy in other men of prominence. Why, is one of those mysterious things which no one is ever able to account for in any satisfactory way. It is known to all the world that while he was President, and since, Mr. Harrison was hated heartily by nearly every prominent member of his party, for one or another reason, but since his death, these men have been trying to outdo each other in saying extravagant words of praise of him. The public is very forgetful, but it isn't quite so forgetful as the talk of these men indicates them to believe.

The friends of Mr. Meiklejohn, late Assistant Secretary of War, and present candidate for the U. S. Senate, before the Nebraska legislature are saying publicly that he retired from the War Department voluntarily, while in private they are saying unprintable things about Secretary Root, for pushing Meiklejohn out, which they fear will queer whatever chances he had for election to the Senate. Secretary Root was doubtly actuated largely by selfishness in getting an assistant secretary who would perform the work of that office—during the past six months Meiklejohn has been away from Washington practically all of the time, but has regularly drawn his salary—but even if he was, his doing so was creditable as an indication of his belief that a man should not draw a public salary without performing any public duties. It is also creditable to Mr. Root that he refused to be bluffed by Senators Platt and Depew and insisted upon having Col. Sanger, his personal friend, for Assistant Secretary of War.

There is a growing suspicion that there is a close connection between the opposition of some of the big syndicates operating in several lines of Cuban industry against the withdrawal of American authority from the island and the conditions imposed by Congress for American withdrawal and that if a close investigation were made, it would be found that these syndicates were using money to influence the Cubans, just as agents for those syndicates brought influence to bear upon Mr. McKinley for the purpose of persuading him to take no steps toward carrying out the pledge of Congress that our authority should be withdrawn as soon as the Cubans were in a position to govern themselves. Public sentiment was so strongly in favor of keeping our pledge that Mr. McKinley would not be persuaded. If the Cubans refuse to fill the conditions American authority will continue until Congress sees fit to change the conditions, which it might not do at all.

Modish Mention.

Fancy mesh veils still hold their own, with some white dots on black grounds appearing as the spring advances.

Gilt or metallic ornamentation on neckwear having become too popular to be desirably exclusive, is soon to be superceded by little bunches of colored ribbons, pinks, forget-me-nots, buds, etc.

New Persian bands on mouseline grounds, are one of the newest and smartest trimmings for this summer's gowns.

White slip linings are preferred to colored. The requisite touch of color is given at the waist and throat.

Skirts to be correct should be very, very close fitting to the knees but should flare tremendously at the bottom, where countless ruffles and flounces give the desired flourish.

White summer gowns heavily trimmed with yellow guipure are the extreme of fashion.

The great considerations of the lady of fashion of the spring of 1901, is to appear long of limb, long of waist, and long of neck.

Separate top coats for spring are entirely out of favor this season. All the prettiest and most stylish coats form part of complete costume.

Among the lace trimmings, Venise, Cluny and Irish guipure take first rank. Black chantilly is very swagger for gardishing white muslins.

Large, wide, low crowns and lavish brim trimmings, mark the smartest millinery creations. Large flat bows of tulle, or lisse or lace backed with satin often conceal these crowns.

Bands of sprigged net run up in bonilounes with edging on either side, are one of the fashion modes of adorning foulard gowns.

She Obeyed.

"You must not see him any more," She heard her mother say. And, though she did her fate deplore, She promised to obey.

"I must not see you, sir!" she cried, When he appeared that night.

"Why, then," the thoughtful youth replied, "We must turn out the light."

Thus did the maid so true and sweet To parents mandate bow; Although, as heretofore, they meet, She does not see him now.

The expenses incurred in connection with the funeral of Queen Victoria were £35,000. Of this amount £11,400 was expended for the entertainment of foreign guests. It would thus appear that it takes less money to bury a monarch in England than to install a President in the United States.—Philadelphia Record.

Policy players will soon be indulging in the shad roe. No, Maude, dear; the spider is not a web-footed animal.

The disappearance of the "Shut the Door" sign is another sign of spring. Proprietors of gambling houses don't believe in free trade. Protection is more in their line.

The trouble with many social reformers is that they don't to realize that reform-like charity, begins at home. The fellow with his first camera believes in taking things just as they come. Some people are so disagreeable that even what they eat doesn't agree with them. At least the people who suffer from insomnia are not troubled with bad dreams.

The higher branch of the Wisconsin Legislature has defeated a resolution for a constitutional amendment which would permit women to vote.

In 1800 only 4 per cent of the people of the United States lived in cities. Today 30 per cent live in cities.

A flying wedding recently took place in a Nevada town. In order to catch a train, the bride and groom, minister and witnesses, all bundled into a hotel omnibus, and the ceremony was performed while the driver whipped his horses to the railway station. "It was a close squeeze," says the ambiguous report, "but they caught the train, and everybody was happy."

The retail cigarette dealers of Greensboro this morning received notice from the American Tobacco Company that this firm would no longer give premiums for cigarette box fronts. This is taken to mean that the American Tobacco Company people have given up the fight against the Carolina Brights cigarettes.—Greensboro Record.

Our Folks.

We get these two items from the Sanford Express:

The Express learns that both Mr. and Mrs. B. O'Pearce have been confined to their room with sickness since going to Baltimore and have had to call in a physician.

Miss Lillie Harris, who has been spending a few weeks with her people in Greenville returned last Friday and will be with Mrs. Pearce again this spring.

PERTAINS TO PEOPLE.

Those Coming and Going These Spring Days.

Fred Medley is in town.

Adrian Savage went to Norfolk today.

A. E. Palmer left this morning for his home at South Boston, Va.

Dr. W. H. Bagwell left this morning for Norfolk on a business trip.

W. B. Glover, of Raleigh, who has been spending some days here, left this morning.

Warren Cobb went down to Grifton Monday evening and returned this morning.

Little Miss Margaret Higgs returned Monday evening from a visit to Scotland Neck.

Miss Lela Shields, of Scotland Neck, arrived Monday evening to visit her sister, Mrs. Ed. Higgs.

Miss Blanche Barden, of Plymouth, arrived Monday evening to visit the family of W. B. Wilson.

Mrs. A. L. Blow returned Monday evening from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Fuiford, at Washington.

Miss Lizzie Quartermus, of Williamston, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. R. Walker, returned home today.

Fewer Mortgages.

Register of Deeds, T. R. Moore, says the number of mortgages coming in for registration this season is the smallest for years. This indicates that the people in the country are in a more prosperous condition and able to get along without giving mortgages.

Small Egg.

We have had large eggs and curious eggs, but Mat Duke brought THE REFLECTOR the smallest hen egg on record. It is no larger than the end of a man's little finger, but it is the genuine article as Mat says he found it in the hen's nest himself.

A bank at Freeport, Pennsylvania, employed a father and son named Ludwick. A shortage of $25,000 was discovered. The son shouldered the responsibility and fled. Then the father stepped up and confessed that he and not his son was guilty of the theft. The bank officials are in something of a quandary. They do not know whether the son is trying to shield the father, or the father to shield the son. What they do know is that the bank is short $25,000.

A New Messiah.

A negro woman, who claims to be the Second Christ and hails from no one knows where, is creating considerable excitement near Stagville. She has been in that community for about two weeks and has gathered about her a large following of negroes, who have quit their work and stand ready to obey her bidding at any and all times. The woman is a stranger in that section and will not tell her name or where she came from.—Durham Herald.

Other Counties Can Do Likewise

The commissioners of Buncombe county are taking the matter of tax assessment in their own hands. Their examination of several corporation officials Saturday revealed the fact that about $75,000 worth of capital had not been listed for taxation. They promptly secured its listing. If such were done in every county of the State, not only corporations, but individuals as well, the Legislature would have no further occasion to discuss the revenue bills, and no bonds would be necessary, as our taxes would be sufficient to meet all demands and more.—Lumberton Robesonian.
