WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3rd.

Representative Livingston, of Georgia, said of the action of the Governor of South Carolina, in declining to accept the resignations of Senators Tillman and McLaurin:

"Gov. McSweeney did exactly right. Tillman and McLaurin did wrong in resigning. A campaign would tear the state all to pieces and no good would come to anybody. Such a campaign would have been full of bitterness. The people of the state have been torn by politics for eleven years and a hot campaign this year would undoubtedly have been detrimental." The same sentiment has been expressed in Washington by many other democrats.

Representative Bankhead, of Ala., who has just returned from a visit to the Constitutional Convention of that state, now sitting, said: "I am confident that wisdom will characterize their course and that they will solve the suffrage problem satisfactorily. It may be some little time before a form is definitely decided on, but there is no doubt about proper restrictions and qualifications for suffrage being provided."

Attorney General Knox has done his part toward avoiding a decidedly embarrassing matter, by rendering an opinion that claims resulting from the destruction of the battleship Maine, in Havana harbor, are National and therefore barred by the Treaty of Paris from consideration by the Spanish claims Commission. But some lawyers have doubts as to whether that opinion will stand a legal test, and they are still filling claims of the Maine victims and their heirs with the Commission. In order to decide claim seither way, it would be necessary to fix the responsibility for the destruction of the Maine.

Has Mr. McKinley deserted high protection and become a disciple of Blaine reciprocity and Babcock tariff reform? That interesting question has been more or less discussed in Washington for some time, and the number of those who take the affirmative side is steadily increasing. It will be remembered that Mr. McKinley was unusually persistent in his efforts to get the Senate to ratify the reciprocity treaties negotiated by his direction, and he made no effort to hide his chagrin at the failure of those efforts. Interest in this matter was increased by the telegraphed report of a speech made at Montreal by M. Stegfried, a French statesman who was a recent caller at the White House, in which he quoted Mr. McKinley as having said to him that he was no longer an extreme protectionist; that the time had come when it was necessary to obtain new and wider foreign markets and that tariff concessions would have to be made to get them. That statement is believed to be substantially correct, although White House officials decline to either deny or affirm it. Another witness along the same line is Mr. Charles A. Moore, President of the American Protective Tariff League, who was with Mr. McKinley on his trip to the Pacific Coast, and who has publicly stated that Mr. McKinley was no longer an extreme protectionist and that he was intent upon trying to extend our market through commercial reciprocity. Mr. Moore went further and said that unless we could get more foreign markets, over productions would soo make serious trouble for us. Compare this sort of talk with the speeches, made when the McKinley tariff bill was before Congress, and you get an idea of the radical change of mind these high protectionists have undergone. The original McKinley tariff bill did not provide for reciprocity at all, and it was only by reading the riot act that the late James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State, succeeded in having a reciprocity amendment added thereto. There is food for the brains of thoughtful democrats in this subject:

Daughters of The Confederacy.

On Monday afternoon, June 3rd, in obedience to a requirement of their national constitution, the Singletary Chapter met to celebrate the birth day of Jefferson Davis, the President of the Confederacy. The charming home of Mrs. John Ricks was the scene of this interesting gathering, and the hostess with her well known ease and cordiality of manner, received the members.

Mrs. Jarvis the president called the Chapter to order and after the routine work gave a brief sketch of the great scholar, statesman and orator. The Chapter then decided to take a recess, during the summer months to be called together again on the 3rd Thursday in June.

After adjournment Mrs. Ricks served her guests with delightful refreshments.

North Carolina's Progress.

The industrial progress of North Carolina during the last few years has been wonderful.

When the present generation came upon the scene North Carolina was hardly known as a manufacturing State, but now in the extent, variety and prosperity of its manufactures it will compare favorably with any State in the South.

North Carolina is not satisfied with what she has already accomplished in this direction, but is pressing forward with increasing vigor, more intelligent efforts and better methods.

The State now has a large number of mills for the manufacture of cotton and wool. She wants more and is determined to give increased attention te the manufacture of the finer grades of cottons and wools.

In order to do this she must have a larger supply of skilled labor. Instead of depending upon other countries and other sections of our own country for this North Carolina is moving to increase her supply of skilled labor.

The first necessary step toward this achievement has been taken. A textile school is already operating in connection with the North Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical College at Raleigh, and is being greatly enlarged and improved. Its new building is now approaching completion. In its construction arrangement and equipment it will be a model.—Atlanta Journal.

TUESDAY, JUNE 4, 1901. The Interesting Situation of a Young Man at Burlington.

She was standing in the waiting room at the depot one evening this week, listlessly gazing upon the open stretch of track that leads towards the sunset, when suddenly within her ken there appeared another young lady walking rapidly toward the station. The face of the first lady mentioned flushed as the second party drew near, and it was noticed that the greeting was exceedingly frigid when the second young lady entered the waiting room. They evidently knew each other—in fact knew each other too well—and a young man, who later appeared upon the scene, knew the one entirely too well to please the other. And thus the trouble brewed. Lady No. 1, with a features indicating firmness, and a determination to accomplish her purpose, quietly removed a ring from a finger of her left hand and tossed it toward the young man in her presence. Not a word was uttered, but one could read volumes in the countenances of the two. Lady No. 2 was quick to grasp the situation and likewise removed a ring from a corresponding finger of the left hand and returned it to the donor, who now stood aghast, nervously handling the rings. With a confiding glance the ladies left the young man in the waiting room and repaired to a safe distance to compare notes. If any of our readers are confronted with a dilemma of this character seek solace in reading Proverbs 20:19.—Burlington Messenger.

Is a Good Breakfast Necessary? Yes.

A good breakfast is the physical basis of a day's work. The American breakfast, regarded with so much horror on the European continent, has contributed largely to make the nation what it is today. It enabled our fore-fathers to do an amount of work which it appals foreigners to contemplate.

As a rule there is something wrong with the man, or with his habits, if he cannot eat a good breakfast. A man who works at high tension all through the morning hours without this substantial foundation is working entirely upon his nerves. That means disordered nutrition, and sooner or later, bankruptcy and collapse.

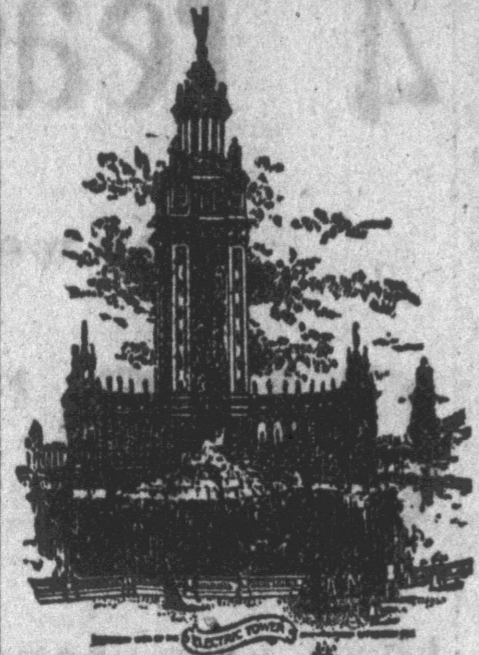

If a man gets up in the morning with a bad taste and no inclination for food, it is because his system is full of waste and his circulation of obstructions. Let him make a radical change in his habits, and train his digestive organs to accommodate a nourishing morning meal.—Medical Brief.

PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION WILL GLOW WITH WONDERFUL RADIANCE.

Electrical Illuminations and Other Features in Which Buffalo's Fair Will Excel All Former Enterprises of This Description.

Even the Buffalonian cannot comprehend the exquisite character of the great Exposition he is building. Is it any wonder, then, that the distant native still asks what it is to be? Indeed it is to be everything that is graceful, harmonious and beautiful. Form and color will join their wonderful forces to please the eye and delight the sense.

"Magnificent" is not too strong a word to express the character of the completed work. He is a man of dull imagination who, now visiting the grounds, cannot picture in some degree the comeliness and stateliness of the finished enterprise.

The Pan-American Exposition is intended to be in every way an artistic triumph. From the very beginning it has been the purpose of those who have been entrusted with the making of this Exposition to present to the world the most artistic creation ever conceived for a like purpose. The arrangement of the buildings, the style of architecture, the decorative work, the embellishment of the grounds and the electrical illumination are some of the features that will stand out prominently in the Exposition picture. There are 33 acres in the courts around which stand the principal Exposition buildings. While the whole Exposition plot of 350 acres will be as beautiful as nature, with the artistic help of man, can make it, the several courts will be the particular center for formal decorative work. The courts are arranged in the form of a cross, the north and south courts bearing the names of Court of Fountains, Plaza, Fore Court and Approach and being nearly 3,000 feet in extreme length. The Transverse Court is known as the Esplanade and is 1,700 feet from east to west. Two subordinate courts open into the Esplanade, known as the Court of Lilies and Court of Cypresses. The combined area of these courts is approximately two and a half times the area of the courts at the World's Columbian Exposition and for this reason gives a far greater opportunity for artistic treatment.

It has been said of this Exposition that it would outrival all former enterprises in a number of important features. The first of these is in the court settings just described. The second is in the plastic ornamentation of buildings and the elaborate use of sculpture for decorative purposes. As a third may be mentioned the hydraulic and fountain effects. These are of a most elaborate character and are to be seen in all of the courts. A fourth feature is the horticultural decorative work. Sunken gardens and formal floral ornamentation will be employed at every point where the bright colors of foliage and flowers will add to the beauty of the scene. As a fifth feature may be noted the color decoration of the buildings. This is a very elaborate undertaking, the result of mature study upon the part of the best mural painters of the world. Considered a very difficult, if not embarrassing, problem at first, it has been worked out by patient study until results very pleasing and happy have been achieved. A sixth point of excellence will be the electrical illumination of all the courts. Then the brilliance of the gardens and the radiant beauty of the buildings will be heightened by the glow of 200,000 electric lamps arranged with artistic conception and illuminating with fantastic hues the numberless fountains and pools and turning the scene into one of unrivaled splendor.

The style of architecture is what is described as a free adaptation of the Spanish renaissance. It is particularly appropriate for the purposes of an Exposition since it gives opportunity for the employment of many architectural features of a festive character. Thus the visitor may see many lofty towers and lanterns, graceful domes and minarets, airy pavilions and other decorative work that will produce a sky line free from any suggestions of monotony or severity.

The Electric Tower, standing in a broad pool between the Court of Fountains and the Plaza, is to be the centerpiece for electrical illumination. The tower is 80 feet square and 375 feet high, with circular wings curving from the east and west sides to the southward and forming a semi-circular space in which are to be many beautiful fountain features. From the southern face of the Tower a cascade will gush from a niche, 70 feet from the ground, and fall upon a terraced base. At night this cascade and the fountains and pools will be illuminated in fantastic colors, reflecting lights upon all the pools will form an interesting feature of the general scheme of illumination.

How He Makes Friends.

A Missouri paper says that Senator Cockrell keeps in closer touch with the people of his state than any other man in the senate. One of his habits, according to capital gossip, is to read in the senate the name of every constituent who sends him a petition. Other senators content themselves with presenting petitions in an indefinite bunch, and in this impersonal fashion they are noted in The Congressional Record. Cockrell's way is different, and when The Record appears there are the names of his constituents, looking very large. Forthwith to each person thus distinguished goes a copy of The Record, which is shown with much pride at the country store or postoffice, and the voter is a friend of Cockrell for life.

By order of Capt. J. T. Smith Commanding Company.

J. B. JARVIS, 1st Serg't.

Calendars.

THE REFLECTOR has taken the agency for one of the largest and best calendar printing houses in the country and is ready to take orders. A beautiful line of samples have been received and can be seen at the office, or we will take them to your place of business if preferred. Our line is so large that purchasers can have an exclusive design if desired. Place your orders early.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer the other day hired a new office boy, and on the very first day he leaped into prominence a full-fledged newspaper man. A Cleveland paper had offered 50 cents apiece for jokes. The Plain Dealer's new boy wrote out two, took them to the office of the afternoon paper, received a crisp $1 bill, and, coming back with an impish grin on his face, told of his success. "But where did you get the jokes?" asked the city editor. "Oh, I heard 'em at the Cleveland Theatre week before last," said the youth.

Fine Safe.

The large safe received Monday by the Greenville Banking & Trust Company is the best ever seen in this section, in fact it is one of the best made and does not look like it could be improved upon. The safe is painted a silver color and presents a handsome appearance on the outside. The interior is equally attractive with glass cases showing the mechanism that locks the massive outer doors. The upper half of the safe is fitted with safety deposit boxes, and the lower half is the cash vault. The latter is the most marvelous part of the safe, being fitted with both time and combination locks and closed with a screw door that is absolutely burglar proof. The safe weighs 6,000 pounds and cost about $1,000.

The Way to Prosperity.

A successful man once said this was his

Motto:

Early to bed, early to rise, hustle like thunder and advertise.

Advertising

in THE REFLECTOR will bring you success. Don't lag behind in the race, but let the people know what you are here for.

The easiest, quickest and best way to sell anything is to advertise it in THE REFLECTOR. Such an advertisement goes straight to the people, they learn what you have to sell and you reap the benefit.

We have just purchased a large supply of bright and attractive cuts to illustrate REFLECTOR advertisements, and you are at liberty to use them. If you don't know just what you want to say, we will help you get up your advertisement. That is our business, to help you talk to the people.

The cost of an advertisement in THE REFLECTOR is the easiest part.
