WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

WINTERVILLE, N. C., July 12.

The teachers and their many friends at the Institute have had no richer feast than that given them Thursday night by Rev. J. N. Booth, of Greenville, in his "Reminiscences of My School Days" He first read the "Chapter of Life" that was published in THE DAILY REFLECTOR of Thursday, and then took his "text" from the 3rd verse of that chapter: "The banister of life is full of splinters and man slideth down it with considerable rapidity."

He said the banister of life denotes the way we are going, the splinters the difficulties with which that way is beset, and we are doing the sliding act. He did not propose to ransack the mines of Rabbinic lore, to force ancient languages into service, or to conjure up the history of long extinct nations to get a critically exact exegesis of the "text" but in a simple way to illustrate its meaning by relating some of his own recollections of his school days.

Then in his own inimitable way the speaker took us back to the country school house, built of logs daubed between the cracks, with one door and as many windows, and pictured the scenes and incidents therein enacted. It was indeed a feast to all who heard him, a kind of relaxation from the hard work over difficult problems that the teachers had been engaged upon. And the lessons taught us of finding the splinters in the banister of life and removing them out of the way of others, were such as to do all good. We hope Mr. Booth will come down again before the Institute is over.

All the teachers and visitors express themselves as having a delightful stay in Winterville, in addition to the great benefit they are deriving from the work of the Institute.

RURAL DELIVERY.

The Routes Will Begin Sept. 1st

WASHINGTON, N. C., July 11.
EDITOR REFLECTOR:

Referring to the 4 rural free delivery routes from Greenville, N.C, I beg to quote from a letter received from the Superintendent of Free Delivery, Post Office Department. He states, "I take pleasure in informing you that orders will be issued for the establishment of the 4 rural free delivery routes from Greenville, N. C., to become effective September 1st, in accordance with your request." I regret very much that the establishment of these routes will not take place at an earlier date, but it is due to no fault of mine, as I have been insistent with the Department for their immediate establishment. However, I do not believe there will be any further postponement and that they will become effective on the date named." Kindly publish this for the information of your people and greatly oblige me.

Yours very truly,
JNO. H. SMALL.

FRIDAY, JULY 12, 1901.

Ex-Judge Spier Whitaker died Wednesday afternoon at his home in Raleigh after a long illness.

What would people do without a newspaper such days as this? Yet how little they think of the work it requires and of those who make the paper for them.

The Democrats of Ohio held their State convention at Columbus, Wednesday, and nominated their State ticket.

The recently appointed directors of the North Carolina railroad met Thursday and elected H. G. Chat-ham, president, D. H. McLean, secretary and treasurer, and W. B. Gattis attorney.

Folks in Texas want to go to Congress as bad as they do in some other States. The Congressman for the sixth district in that State died recently and a convention was held at Dallas to nominate his successor.

It is a most peculiar case that is reported from Dresden, Ohio. Husband and wife divorced, husband marries his governess and divorced wife takes latter's place; newly wedded away on honeymoon, leaving the home in charge of its former mistress.

"I suppose if you had your way," said the temperance man, "you'd abolish water altogether." "Not at all," replied the candid saloon-keeper; "there wouldn't be much profit in whiskey if we couldn't get any water to put in it."

Happenings in North Carolina

The town of Laurinburg had a big fire Thursday.

The LaGrange Sentinel has enlarged and improved in appearance.

James Latta, formerly of Durham, was drowned at Roanoke Rapids while swimming in the river.

The present jury system is alright provided some means could be found to prevent lawyers from packing them.—Durham Herald.

The Raleigh papers state that ex-Senator Butler returned $8,000 cash on hand for taxation—more ready cash than was returned by any other citizen of Raleigh—and also listed some valuable securities. It is evident that the ex-senator is a thrifty citizen if he saved $8,000 out of his salary as senator for six years.

An exchange, in showing the staunch Republicanism of those in Pennsylvania who vote that ticket year in and year out in spite of the corrupt administration that party furnishes in the State, makes the following comparison:

"Bredder in' and sister in', I been a mighty mean nigger in my time, I had a heap er ups and downs—'specially downs—since I jined de church. I stoled chickens an' watermillins; I cussed; I got drunk; I shot craps; I slashed udder coons wif my razor, an' I done a sight er udder things, but, thank the good Lawd, bredder in' an' sister in', I never yit lost my religion!"

In the name of Republican such crime has been accomplished that Philadelphia's evil fame has become a national by word. The city has been given over to rapine. Popular government has been abandoned whilst a few profligate and conscienceless men, naming their own agents and officials, lord it over the people.

All these things are acknowledged and deplored year after year; and year after year the situation becomes more and more intolerable. But the cry still goes up from respectable stalwarts: "Thank the good Lord, brethren and sisters, we never done lost our Republicanism!"—Kinston Free Press.

A new ordinance recently passed by the Tarrytown (N. Y.) Council reads: "Any owner of a dog found at large without being muzzled will be subjected to a $10 fine." This arrangement is said to be heartily approved by the dogs.

According to the Associated Press reports there were during the hot spell 4,475 prostrations from heat, 1,288 of which were fatal. But few of these were in the southern states.

The Faison Journal says 41,000 crates of huckleberries were shipped from there in one day and the woods is yet full of them.

Some men put on their best manners just as they put on a dress coat.

The first girl a fellow ever kissed usually pales into insignificance before the last.

One way of giving the professional barber a chance to rise in the world is to give him a good blowing up.

The Advertising Appropriation.

When a business man has decided that newspaper advertising is vital to his success common sense suggests that he should not fix a cast iron limit to his advertising expenditure.

His Hog Burst Open.

Mr. D. Hunt, who lives at Stem, entertained a number of his friends at his home last Thursday night, and there was of course a quantity of scraps left from supper. Mr. Hunt had quite a nice pig, and next morning the fragments, including melted ice cream, were given him, which he greatly relished. In a short time after partaking of the sumptuous meal his pigship swelled up and burst open. This is a true bill.—Oxford Ledger.

Farmer Wanted to Be Struck, and Had His Wish.

Crisfield, Md., July 9.—During a raging storm yesterday Farmer Philip Walls paraded about his farm with a portion of a lightning rod tied to his head. He said he wanted to experience the feeling of one struck by lightning.

He had started across a field and had gone but a few rods when a huge oak near by was struck by lightning and a fly splinter rendered him unconscious. He is severely injured.

FAITHFUL AND TRUE.

GREENVILLE, N. C., July 12th. EDITOR REFLECTOR:

There are a few who know, and many who do not know, the faithful service of a long life that has been rendered by one of the Old Dominion Steamship Company employes, W. H. Carter, the engineer on the O. D. line on Tar river. He is 65 years old, has been on Tar river as engineer for 46 years, and has never lost a trip.

The old veteran is a man of that high character that inspires a strong like for him by all who come in contact with him. Quiet, unassuming, but true as steel, and although he has been at his post of duty constantly, he is a man of very broad information and a real pleasure it is to sit down and talk with the old veteran and hear his life as he tells it, modestly but thrillingly.

To him the young sterling boatman may pattern in those virtues that make a man of emergency. Although he is old his frame is erect, and his firm tread shows that he is a man, a real man that handles the throttle.

The writer has always been impressed with the high bred manner of Capt. Carter, and loved to sit and talk with him. Long may he live to enjoy the glory of his youth and manhood in the retrospection, and may his last days be his best and happiest. His friends are legion, his enemies none. Faithfulness will have its reward.
