Financial Statement.

In this issue will be found the financial statement of the town for the last fiscal year. This statement shows the income of the town for the year from all sources, and also the expenses for running the town. Every taxpayer or the town should read the statement carefully.

To Meet Mr. Harriss.

One of the pleasantest social events of the season was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ricks at their home Monday evening in honor of Mr. Robt Harriss, of Wilmington, N. C., brother of Mrs. Ricks.

The parlor and veranda were alive with beaming faces, and the scene was one of gladness and cheer. The pleasure of the evening was much enhanced by the music rendered by several of the talented young ladies present. Delightful refreshments were served, after which the young folks at a late hour reluctantly took their departure, declaring Mr. and Mrs. Ricks the most charming host and hostess.

BLACKJACK ITEMS.

BLACK JACK, N. C., July 18.

Quite a rainy season for the past several days.

We were very glad in deed to see little Miss Becca Mills Sunday evening. She has been visiting her papa Henry Mills, of Beaufort county.

Mrs. Ella Mills, is very sick. L. H. White, Jr., took his best girl out driving Sunday evening.

Mrs. Jane Cox, of Ayden came in Saturday to visit relatives near here.

W. H. Wynne, came in Sunday evening and returned Monday.

Gus Roach, an old colored man and ex-Federal soldier near here, died very suddenly this morning.

The tobacco farmers are now curing tobacco and grumbling because the weather is so wet.

Osborn Clark was here Sunday visiting his sister, Mrs. S. W. Tyson.

L. H. White went to Greenville Saturday.

Abram Dixon was out driving with his best girl Saturday evening. Listen for the wedding bells again.

W. L. Clark and little son, George, went to Greenville Saturday.

Misses Lula Smith and Lucy White went to visit Mrs. Linier Dixon a few days ago.

The people can hardly travel the public road for the unpleasant scent of dead hogs. It is said that one man lost from fifty to seventy five head in five weeks. Send the cholera hog doctor immediately.

BETHEL ITEMS

BETHEL, N. C., July 17, 1901.

V. E. Staton left Monday morning for Senoia, Ga., where he will take a course in telegraphy.

Miss Roland James, of Pactolus, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. R. Carson.

Miss Patience Whitehurst, who has been visit relatives in the country, returned Sunday afternoon.

Our big manufacturing plant will soon be completed.

Maj. H. Harding, who is agent for all kinds of machinery, tells us that he has recently sold ten cotton gins. This looks like the cotton growers are expecting a good harvest, and we hope they will get it.

That there is more opportunity of increasing the value of cotton by manufacture over other crops raised in the South is shown by recent government statistics of some of the staple crops of the United States. In 1900 the corn crop was valued at $757,000,000; hay, $445,500,000; cotton $357,000,000, wheat, $323,000,000. Cotton is the only one of these that can be materially increased in value before it goes to consumption. Corn is very largely consumed in the state in which it is harvested. Hay is entirely so consumed. Wheat, when turned into flour, is increased less than 50 per cent in value. Cotton, when turned into fabrics, may be increased two-, three-, four and in some cases many-fold in value. The crop of $357,000,000 value may easily be made by manufacture into fabrics, worth two billion dollars, or more than all other crops put together, the raw cotton included.—Charlotte Observer.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

What is Being Done at Winterville.

The splendid reports that have from time to time come to THE REFLECTOR from the teachers' institute for Pitt and Greene counties that is in progress at Winterville, have given our readers a fair idea of what is being accomplished in the work, yet if one can make a visit there and go personally through the different departments of the institute he will find that not half of its excellence has been told.

Such is our experience. We have just had an opportunity of going down and looking in upon the work, and it has impressed us that nothing ever yet undertaken is so productive of permanent good to the teachers of this section as this institute. And not to this section only will the benefit be confined, for already its influence is spreading and no doubt will be felt throughout the entire State. In fact the summer schools that have been held at colleges in various parts of the State fall far short in practical results of what is being accomplished at this institute at Winterville. No summer school yet held has had so large an attendance of teachers as is present at the institute, and such thorough work has nowhere been done.

Up to this time the enrollment of teachers has reached more than 130. These are divided into sections and each day they go through a thorough course of practical and systematic instruction. Perhaps no better idea can be given of what is being done than by mentioning in detail the work for the day of our visit to the institute.

The teachers assemble in the chapel at 8:15 to engage in devotional exercises, and at 8:30 march down to the recitation rooms. There are so many teachers that they have to divide in sections and rotate to the classes, 50 minutes being given to each recitation. There are four regular instructors, the lessons for the day being divided in five periods, two sections being taught at the same time, then alternating, all assembling in the chapel again for general instruction before dismissal.

In the first recitation room Prof. C. L. Coon, Superintendent of graded schools of Salisbury, has charge of the classes in reading, writing, spelling and geography. In the second room Prof. G. E. Lineberry, principal of the Winterville High School, has charge of the classes in physiology and civil government. In the third room Prof. F. L. Carr, principal of Snow Hill Academy, has charge of the classes in arithmetic. In the fourth room Prof. Z. D. McWhorter, principal of Bethel High School, has charge of the classes in history and English grammar. These constitute four of the periods, the fifth being with all the teachers together in the chapel where Prof. Lineberry gives them a lesson in physical culture, followed by Prof. Coon in theory and practice of teaching and primary arithmetic.

It will be seen from this that all the teachers at the institute are at work during the whole five periods of the day's instruction. The work is simply wonderful and we do not see how the teachers could get so much knowledge in any other way as they are getting here. Every instructor seems especially fitted for just the work he is doing. In addition to the class work, nearly every night the teachers are addressed by prominent men from various parts of the State.

We went through the institute in company with Gen. Toon, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and he said it eclipsed anything he had ever seen in North Carolina, and that he hoped the example would be followed throughout the State by a union of counties in like work.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, County Superintendent of Pitt, and Rev. M. P. Davis, County Superintendent of Greene, have oversight of the entire institute, and those familiar with their capabilities along educational lines can account for the great success seen here.

The institute is held in the splendid building of the Winterville High School, which is most admirably arranged and equipped. We remember that when the institute was first appointed to meet at Winterville to have heard the question asked: "What in the world the Boards of Education meant by taking a teachers' institute for two counties combined to a little place like Winterville?" Now if those who asked such a question will just go there and see the institute in progress they will have to confess that there is not another town in the two counties so well prepared to take care of the institute in every way as Winterville.

Many of the teachers spoke to us of how delighted they were in Winterville. They never saw such generous hospitality anywhere, and every person in the town does everything possible for the pleasure of the teachers and the success of the institute. It was told on some of the teachers that when first notified that they would have to go there and attend the institute for a month they tried to rebel against it, but now they are inquiring if arrangements cannot be made to continue for two weeks beyond the allotted time.

THE REFLECTOR congratulates the teachers of the two counties upon having such pleasant surroundings for holding their institute, and more heartily congratulates the people of Winterville for the part they take in making it such a splendid success.

We thank Mr. A. G. Cox, that prince of clever gentlemen, for his courtesy to us while there.

Miss Aylmer James, of Salisbury, was found dead in the sitting room of her home. She was found kneeling at a sewing machine, with her arms thrown around the machine. Heart disease did its work so quickly that the members of the family in an adjoining room did not hear a struggle or a sound. She was a very popular young woman, twenty-five years of age.
