WINTERVILLE DEPARTMENT.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

WINTERVILLE, N. C., July 24.

The sociable at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tripps last Thursday evening complimentary to the young ladies who are visiting them was a very enjoyable occasion. Only a few special friends were invited and the evening passed only too rapidly away. Ice cream and other refreshments were served and the little tete-a-tetes of a private nature as well as other amusements indulged in will long be a source of remembrance and grateful appreciation of the effort by the genial host and hostess in affording an opportunity so pleasantly spent.

Our young friend Dr. James Green, formerly of Greenville, now of Snow Hill, was in to see us Monday. Jim is a bright young man and deserves success wherever he may go.

Miss Hattie Kittrell, is on a visit to friends below Greenville.

John I. Smith and sister spent Thursday here attending the summer school.

Dr. D. L. James and Mr. Pulley, of Greenville were here Thursday night.

Another young school teacher. This time at the home of W. J. Wyatt, still we grow.

Maj. H. Harding and W. L. Brown of your city were here last night to take in the institute.

A representative of the News & Observer was here yesterday to give us a write up for his paper.

Fernando Ward, of near Pactolus has been spending a few days here.

Miss Effie Kittrell is visiting friends in Greenville.

Mr. G. R. Dixon has a Jersey heifer nine months old that weighs 441 pounds. It is the finest calf for its age we ever saw.

Since so many pretty girls have been here attending the institute it is told that one young man has become a very popular letter mailer. He does not stop to see about the change for stamps.

One of the first educators of the South is Dr. Theo. F. Bratton, President of St. Mary's College in Raleigh, and the teachers were very fortunate in having an opportunity of hearing him for a short while Tuesday night.

His subject was Henry Timrod the South Carolina poet who was great but almost unknown. He lived in a time when library work was not appreciated or encouraged. Dr. Bratton gave a brief sketch of his childhood and school days and coming on to maturer years he read sketches of his poems which gave a clear insight to Timrod's style and thought. It really seems that no one could help enjoying such poems as Spring Mother's Wail and Flower Life. His Ode to the Captive Owl was his only attempt at humor but is an excellent poem.

The Mother's Wail is one of the most pathetic and touching we ever heard. Except Sydney Lanier he puts Timrod the sweetest American poet. It is impossible to report a speech like Dr. Bratton's so we will not attempt any formal report. His talk was well prepared and delivered and was purely a literary treat. Well might Superintendent Davis say at the close that he had enjoyed it more than any of the season. It was indeed a very fitting close to a series of excellent lectures delivered by the most prominent men in the State. In these lectures the teachers have had opportunities which few ever enjoy and they are to be congratulated.

The Farmer's Worst Foe

There is on exhibition at the agricultural department a bunch of Bermuda (or crab) grass that shows how the farmer's worst foe flourishes these rainy days. This particular bunch of grass was taken from the garden of Mr. J. W. Denmark. Though only five weeks old and only one main root, it has 915 joints either rooted or ready to root. The longest sprig or branch is 90 inches in length, and the joints on it are from 3 to 5 inches apart. The grass roots and spreads out branches from each joint.—Raleigh News and Observer.

It take a lot to satisfy the average man with his lot. The waiter should not get tipsy on his tips.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 24, 1901.

Mr. R. B. Crawford, a merchant of Winston and a son of Dr. L. W. Crawford, editor of the North Carolina Christian Advocate, attacked Dr. J. C. Kilgo, President of Trinity College, on the train between Greensboro and Burlington. The attack grew out of remarks Dr. Kilgo had made about Dr. Crawford in a speech at Greensboro, and his insulting Mr. Crawford when approached about the matter on the train. Such affairs are to be regretted, as they only create sensation and accomplish no good for any of the parties concerned.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22th.

The anti-Schley gang in the Navy Department over did their last attack on Admiral Schley, and they are now trembling for fear of the result, as Schley's friends are up in arms and determined to have the thing fought to a finish once for all, in Congress. Mr. McKinley has also had a finger in the pie. It was after a warm telegram from him that Secretary Long declared his ignorance of the abusive and blackguard language toward Admiral Schley in the third volume of Maclay's history of the U. S. Navy, written by a clerk in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and announced that he had ordered the volume stricken from the use of text books used at the Naval Academy. But in his anxiety to stand by the gang Mr. Long showed his own prejudice against Admiral Schley, even while expressing his belief in his bravery and gallantry, by saying that he had advised his being court-martialed, for disobedience of orders, but Mr. McKinley had refused to order a court-martial, and a lot more of the rot that was put in circulation by the anti-Schley gang at the time they were paving the way for an excuse to give the command of the West Indian Squadron to Sampson. If Mr. McKinley was like some President's who might be named, there would be an immediate vacancy in the Cabinet. When Secretary Long made the positive statement that Schley should have been court-martialed, and followed it by saying that the President to order a court martial, he went dangerously close to insubordination and disrespect to the President.

There must have been a doubt in the mind of the Postmaster-General as to the carrying out of his orders, for the enforcement of the laws relating to second class mail, since he had the orders followed by a letter to postmasters from the Third Assistant P. M. G, telling them that their bondsmen would be held responsible for any losses sustained by the government through the improve admission to second class mail of any publications by them. This looks a little like a preparatory step towards shifting responsibility from the Post Office Department, where it properly belongs, to the Postmaster.

Representative William Allen, of Ohio, more generally known as "Old Bill" Allen, once gave a definition of democracy on the floor of the House, that is good enough to be pasted in the hat of every democrat, and is as timely as though it had been given only yesterday instead of years ago. Said Mr. Allen: "Democracy is a sentiment not to be appalled, corrupted or compromised; it knows no baseness; it cowers before no danger; it oppresses no weakness. It is the sole conservator of liberty, labor, and property. It is the sentiment of equal rights, of equal obligations—the very spirit of liberty itself invading the land."

It doesn't require expert knowledge to understand the impossibility of a ship that has been used by the government, which had every reason for keeping it in good condition, depreciating in value more than 50 per cent in about two years. Yet that is precisely what happened in the case of the transport Rawlins, for which the government paid $450,000 at the beginning of the war with Spain, and which it has now sold for $200,000. No wonder that Abner McKinley and other men were credited with having acted as go-between when the government was in the market for the purchase of ships, now ride about the country in private cars and patronize the most expensive hotels.

Baby Highwaymen in Court.

Wilmington, Del., July 20 — Grant Weldin, aged 13, and Frank Collingham, aged 5, faced Judge Churchman this morning on a charge of highway robbery in "Wild Western" fashion.

Cline Wier, aged 10, was driving home near Newport, having served milk here. Just after passing Maryland Avenue tollgate the young bandits jumped out from behind trees and commanded him to stop. Wier pulled up, and Weldin jumped into the wagon, assistant watched the horse. Wier was compelled to hand over 31 cents, all he had, and the "highwaymen" scampered away.

Lynching Must Be Stopped.

The Governor realizes that to put an end to lynching radical measures must be adopted. Obedience to law is the highest civic virtue. The crime which provokes lynching is so horrible that the guilty scoundrel is sure of conviction and hanging by legal and orderly methods. Instead of joining with others, when the crime is committed, good men ought to unite to do two things: 1. To see that no lynching stains the good name of their county; and, 2. That no guilty scoundrel is permitted to escape for the lack of evidence.

It will not do to say that the way to stop lynching is to stop the crime. The majesty of the law should be invoked to secure speedy trials and speedy executions, and forever put an end to the execution of the death sentence by any body of unauthorized men, however righteous and just the indignation.

The law is the only protection to life, to honor, to peace, to safety. Let the people lose faith in the law, let them substitute lynching for legal hanging, and the time has come when society is in peril.

The press and the people, with a high resolve to punish crime and to uphold the honor of the Commonwealth, should hold up the hands of the Governor in his honorable determination to prevent lynchings in the borders of this sturdy, lawabiding State.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. With her whole being undergoing a change, the seeds of female troubles are sown. Little menstrual disorders, if neglected at the time, will follow the woman all her life and grow into fatal complications. That female troubles are robbing homes and filling graveyards, proves this. Yet, irregular and painful menstruation are often permitted to go on, sapping the life and energy, while Wine of Cardui, the positive relief for these ills, is on the shelf of every drug store. Wine of Cardui helps the maiden sustain the shock of puberty by inducing a painless and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Wine of Cardui is an emmenagogue of great power, and works wonders in strengthening the delicate and sensitive female organs. Many young women owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. No woman should give up hope until she has given Wine of Cardui a trial. If thousands have secured relief through it, why not you?

WINE OF CARDUI

Tully, Kas., Feb. 24, 1899.
I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time; was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything; in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui with Black-Draught when needed and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me.

A Breeze from the West.

Will Greer, of Baltimore, sailed up and cast anchor here Tuesday evening. He has just been on a trip out in the great west and has lots of interesting things to tell about his trip, as well as having a fund of new jokes. By the way he must have "struck oil" out there, too, for he did not even offer to pay his subscription in potatoes this time but came right down with the cold cash. It was the most comforting breeze that blew our way this warm day.
