THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

What it Accomplished and the Results to Follow.

SALISBURY, N. C., Aug. 6th.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

There are two very essential things a county institute can and ought to do, viz: to increase and broaden the knowledge of teachers relative to the subjects taught in the schools and also to show the teachers the best way to teach those subjects to children.

These were the aims of the recent institute and summer school at Winterville. That it, in some degree, attained the aims just set forth is confidently expected, judging from the regular attendance of the teachers of the two counties as well as from their four weeks' study. It would, perhaps, not be modest for me to refer to my own work, which consisted largely of instruction in primary methods, in any way other than to say that every teacher enrolled attended almost every lesson and manifested more interest than I have ever seen manifested in any similar school. I have no reason to doubt that the same was true of the work of all the instructors.

I take this opportunity to thank the teachers of the two counties, the people of Winterville, Superintendents Davis and Ragsdale, and many others for making my stay in the East pleasant and profitable. CHAS. L. COON.

Two Dead in One House.

On Sunday, Aug. 4th, Mary Eliza, wife of Abraham Briley, died on the farm of Matthew James, near Bethel. Next day their son, Samuel, died. She had been sick only about seven days and he about five. They were buried at the same time. She was a good Christian. He was a good little boy. A. D. BETTS.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 7, 1901.

Mosquitoes And Malaria.

The most prevalent disease in North Carolina, certainly from now until frost, is malarial fever in one form or another. It is by no means confined to the low lying Eastern section of the State, but is quite abundant in many localities in the hill country, having been reported even from Cherokee.

By recent scientific investigations the cause of the fever has been shown to be a microscopic animal known as the plasmodium malaria or hen-amaeba vivax, which feeds upon the red corpuscles of the blood—hence the pallor of persons suffering from chronic malaria. The development of this little parasite in the blood is as follows: One of the spores, or baby germs, so to speak, enters a red corpuscle and, feeding on its contents, grows until at the end of twenty-four hours it has become nearly as large as the corpuscle. It then, by a process known as segmentation, splits up into a dozen or more little spores again, which for a short time are free in the blood and unattached to the corpuscles. It is just as the segmentation occurs that the chill comes on, which explains the periodic recurrence of the chill every twenty-four hours, and as it has been found that quinine is most effective in killing the germs while they are free in the blood and not buried in the substance of the corpuscles, the best time to give quinine is just before the chill is expected.

The method of the introduction of the malarial poison, the plasmodium, certainly the chief method, has been demonstrated beyond all question to be the sting of a certain variety of mosquito known as anopheles, the common mosquito, which while more abundant is innocent as a carrier of disease, being known as culex. The latter species will breed in still water of any kind, no matter how pure, but the former, our enemy, will only breed in stagnant pools in which there is a certain amount of vegetable matter, especially if there are no fish, such as top minnows or sun-perch, which feed upon the larvae or wiggle-tails. This explains the fact that malaria is much more abundant after freshets, in the course of which the stream, getting out of its banks, washes holes in the ground, and speedily falling leaves there stagnant pools with few or no fish in them. Mosquitoes are very much more abundant this exceptional year of freshets than usual. It also explains the danger of brick holes.

The larvae, or wiggle-tails, as we generally call them, are the young mosquitoes. Although they live in the water from the time they are hatched from the eggs which were laid on the surface until they reach maturity they cannot live without air—they must breathe. Contrary to the general rule, they breathe "wrong end foremost"—through a long breathing tube which springs from the body near the tail and which they stick out of the top of the water they want air. The bearing of this arrangement on their destruction will appear later.

There is a popular misapprehension in regard to the movement of mosquitoes. The general impression is that they are carried by the wind, and people at the sea-side say that a land breeze brings mosquitoes. It is a fact that they are more abundant when the breeze is from the land or in a calm, but according to those who know best the fact probably is not that they are blown from the swamps to landward, but that they simply come out again from the trees and shrubbery and the sea side of houses where they had taken refuge from the strong sea breeze which was too rough for their fragile bodies. With rare exceptions they travel, it is said, seldom more than a mile and generally not so far. When one is troubled with mosquitoes a careful search will almost always reveal stagnant water in the near vicinity.

The destruction of mosquitoes and the consequent prevention of malaria is accomplished in two ways: First and best, by the thorough drainage of all stagnant pools of water, and second, by keeping the surface of such pools covered with petroleum, what is known as light fuel oil, or even the crude petroleum being better and cheaper than ordinary kerosene. The film of oil prevents the larve from breathing and smothers them. The quantity necessary is one ounce or two table-spoonfuls to every fifteen square feet of surface, repeated every two weeks. This oil method was employed with great success last year by the city of Winchester, Va., and our own town of Tarboro has recently shown a most commendable spirit of enterprise in adopting it. Some care and a little expense in securing protection against mosquitoes and in providing a supply of pure drinking water will practically insure against malaria.

To those interested in this subject I cordially commend a very interesting and valuable book on mosquitoes written in popular and entertaining style by Dr. L. O. Howard, the Chief Entomologist of the United States, and published by McClure, Phillips & Co., New York, at a cost of $1.64, postpaid.

Go List Your Taxes.

Register of Deeds T. R. Moore has a notice to delinquent tax listers that all who come under that head should give heed to, otherwise they may be sorry when September court comes. The law against failing to list taxes is strict.

Never!

When a man proposes to put a saloon on a public road, and some one says a neighbor's daughters have to pass there in caring for a sick, old grand-mother, would people count me a gentleman if I should coolly suggest that the girls could walk over a plowed field and go through a piece of woods, to reach the grand-mother's bed side?

A. D. BETTS.

A Sunshiny Woman.

What a blessing to a household is a merry, cheerful woman—one whose spirits are not affected by wet days or little disappointments, or whose ceaseless kindness does not sour in the sunshine of prosperity! Such a woman in the darkest hours brightens the house like a piece of sunshiny weather. The magnetism of her smiles and the electrical brightness of her looks and movements infect every one. Her children go to school with a sense of something great to be achieved; her husband goes into the world in a conqueror's spirit. No matter how people annoy and worry him all day, far off her presence shines and he whispers to himself, "At home I shall find rest." So day by day she literally renews his strength and energy; and if you know a man with beaming face, a kind heart and a prosperous business, in nine cases out of ten you will find that he has a wife of this sort.—Christian Work.

Woman's Horror

Modest women dread to consult a doctor about diseases peculiar to their sex. They have a horror of private examinations and surgical operations. For this reason treatment of dangerous derangements is neglected. But the Wine of Cardui treatment, which can be adopted at home without the knowledge of any one but the patient herself, is now coming into general use. Women who take Wine of Cardui do not have to submit to a physician's local examination nor to a surgical operation. Wine of Cardui cures in the privacy of the home. No publicity, no cutting and torture and no physician or examination, while Wine of Cardui is quietly building up and strengthening the female organs. Menstruation is regulated, the drains of leucorrhoea stopped and the fallen womb restored to its place. The terrible pains which rack the body are but results of the ailments, which yield so readily to the soothing properties of Wine of Cardui. The medicine that cured Miss Garlen will certainly help you.

Wine of Cardui

Rockford, Tenn., Aug. 16, 1896.
I have suffered from womb trouble for five years. Last spring a year ago I was bedfast for six months. I paid $52 to one doctor, and he said he had done all he could for me. I had about given up, but called another doctor, who said I would have to have surgical treatment. I decided I might as well die a natural death as that. I happened to get hold of a Ladies' Birthday Almanac, and in nine days after I commenced taking Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught I could walk across my room, and in three weeks I made myself a dress. This was after my neighbors, and even my brothers and sisters, said I would never be any better. I am now in good health.

THE NORTH CAROLINA EDITOR.

To begin with, what would any town worthy the name be without a newspaper and the factotum of a man who runs it—often more for accommodation than for the dollars and cents realized from its conduction? Echo answers, What!

As an individual who has had some experience I state it, and with firm belief, that the most important man in any town is the cussed and muchly discussed newspaper editor. If he runs a nondescript, battered, blurred and blotched excuse for a paper my proposition still holds good, for all that I do not even excuse the minister, the doctor or the banker. To be sure these men are prime essentials—but the newspaper man is not only an essential; in these days, he is a necessity—a kind of "sine qua non" kind of go-lucky, hail fellow well met individual.

It has always been strange to me—it is to-day—why a newspaper editor is expected to use his time, his press, his type—in short put everything in himself and in his shop, at the disposal of the men of every attire, class and profession, oftentimes, not only not receiving any cash emoluments, but more often not so much as a hearty "thank you." I say, the strange part of it to me is why should an editor—as a business man—be expected to give of what he is and has, when every other business is not out for such fun, but for the ubiquitous dollar? Is it his fault? or, if not whose is it. I have my opinion but I prefer some one else to give an expression of the truth.

All is not shadow in a newspaper man's life, for does he not have the glorious privilege for riding, at his own sweet will, on a piece of card board, otherwise sometimes called a pass? But alas! this does not run his business, or add much to the financial end of his business; but "miracle dictu!"—for all this and all this, he manages to be more cussed and discussed than any man in town, and as for living—well, he manages to exist from one issue to another.

Let me whisper this into the ear of the reading public at large: Barring a few—a very few—there is no more solid, loyal, progressive citizen in any town than the fellow who gets out a newspaper. Paste this in your hat, and when you are disposed to fall out with him because he does not conduct his paper so well as you would take off your hat and read and ruminate. O it is the plain home made unvarnished truth. I can prove it by several hundreds of unpaid fellows of the craft, who ought to thank me for telling the truth on them.

To the North Carolina editors—es a class, and a whole—I lift my hat. A more loyal sturdy, nevy, progressive set of fellows are not harbored within the confines of this good State.

WILLIAM M. SHERRILL.

Notice to the School Committeemen.

You cannot now employ teachers as formerly. The law requires that you advertise at three public places the place and time at which you will elect a teacher. You meet at that time and place and elect your teacher and at no other time or place. This is the only method now of employing teachers and you will please observe it or your contracts with the teachers will not be valid. Teachers also will do well to see that they are thus employed.

You will receive blanks in a few days on which to take the census. The law requires that these be returned by the first Monday in September. The party taking the census will receive two cents a name for so doing.
