Hypocrisy And Demagogy.

Of course the right of the citizen to work where he can find employment is unquestioned. But when the Steel Trust pretends that it is making a fight to maintain that sacred right the public is moved to laughter. The trust is making the fight because it wants to be in a position to cut wages without precipitating a strike. It is not worrying about the sacred right of the citizen to earn a living. What it wants is the sacred right to gouge the citizen out of a living on occasion. There is no need to complicate the issue with hypocrisy or demagogy.—Norfolk Pilot Virginian.

Fine Field of Forage.

The farmers of North Carolina ought not to buy one pound of forage. Instead they ought to raise enough for home use and to ship. Mr. J. A. McAllister, of Robeson county, has shown what can be done. He sowed one half an acre in oats and Canada field peas last November. He cut in July and it yielded 6,500 pounds of forage. He hauled it in partly green, but allowing 2,000 pounds for imperfect curing, he has 4,500 pounds of good forage from half an acre. What Mr. McAllister has done, others can do.—Raleigh News & Observer.

A special term of Greene Superior Court is ordered held beginning September 9, Judge Oliver H. Allen to preside, and is to be for both civil and criminal cases.

The Tobacco Gombine Files a Mortgage for $150,000,000.

New York, Aug. 13.—

There was filed in the Hudson county court in Jersey City to-day a mortgage for $150,000,000 made by the Consolidated Tobacco Company of America to the Morton Trust Company to secure an issue of 4 per cent. bonds not to exceed $150,000,000. It is dated June 15, and bore revenue stamps to the amount of $75,000. The papers show that the Consolidated Tobacco Company has absorbed the American Tobacco and the Continental Tobacco and subsidy concerns.

To Make Trade.

An experienced merchant has told beginners how to make trade when business is slack, and he has concluded with this advice: "Don't sit down and wait for the coming of a busier season, but hunt up good things which you can offer at bargain prices, and tell about them in your newspaper. It will keep you busy to serve the customers you will draw."—Philadelphia Record.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1901.

At the Gubernatorial convention of Virginia held in Norfolk, Wednesday, nominated A. J. Montague for Governor by acclamation, and J. E. Willard for Lieut. Governor. The platform embraced an anti-trust plank and favored general primaries for the election of United States Senators. Free silver was not mentioned.

Careful estimates by the department of agriculture of crop conditions up to August 1 point to a corn crop not exceeding 1,400,000,000 bushels. This is the smallest corn crop since 1890, except in the calamitous year 1894, when the yield fell to 1,212,000,000 bushels. Fortunately, wheat, oats and forage crops are heavy, so that this year will by no means be recorded as a season of general crop failure.

Within one year, ending 30th of June, 1901, in North Carolina there have been either completed or in course of construction 37 new cotton mills. Nineteen will operate 184,000 spindles and 3,600 looms. There are eighteen from which there are not yet any available statistics. There are 261 mills in all. The known total spindles is 1,581,771, and 33,289 looms. Alamance county leads with nineteen cotton mills, one woolen, and one knitting mill, operating 92,244 spindles, 4,740 looms and 22 machines. A great variety of goods is made including gingham, plaids, chevrons, sheetings, stripes, etc. Mecklenburg is second. Charlotte has 13 mills, with two new ones on the way. That is a favorable report from two counties in a great manufacturing State. One account we see claims 49 new cotton mills for first six months of 1901. A big mistake.—Wilmington Messenger.

Too Much Water In The Ice.

Folks who have to deal with the public hear all sorts of complaints. Mr. J. B. Boyd, in charge of the Avon ice plant, tells it for a fact that one of his consumers—a lady—complained of the quality of the product he was sending her. Anxious to please his customers, he enquired to know what was the matter with the ice, so that he might remedy the trouble. Her answer was a stunner: "I tell you what's the matter with your ice, right now you put too much water in it up there!" It is not known whether Mr. Boyd promised his fair customer some ice frozen from dry air or just begged her to please look over the dampness in the ice this season, as it had been a mighty wet summer anyhow.—Gastonia Gazette.

The silent watches of the night must be those that have run down.

About Girl Babies And Girls At Work.

"Its a girl," said a long-faced father to the writer when asked to which sex his wife's latest belonged. He said that his garden was poor, his horse was lame, his taxes were high and he was the father of four girls. His complaints were pitiful and his luck was hard. Well, he is not the only citizen of Sanford whose boys are all girls. The fact is, Sanford is becoming a city of girls. And pray tell me why any one should complain when a girl comes into the family? It is popular to have girls. Mrs. Cleveland has three (I suppose the Lord did not want the Cleverlands to get a monopoly on the Presidency) and the beautiful Queen of Italy has a brand new girl. It is fortunate to be a girl. If Victoria and Elizabeth had not been girls they would not have made the two greatest Queens of earth. It is a cruel fate, it is a barbarous age, it is an uncivil civilization that does not give as royal a welcome to sweet and delicate little Mary as to prattling and bustling little Freddie.

The fact is that in nearly every community there are more girls than boys. It is so in Sanford and I suppose no one will undertake to deny that it is so in Jonesboro. There are not only baby girls, but there are grown girls and some mighty pretty girls in both towns. And as the girls outnumber the boys they are beginning to reach out for more of the work that is to be done. One of the very best farmers in Moore county is a woman, and one of the very best writers and scholars the county has ever produced is also a woman. Both of these are self-thinking, independent women. In Sanford women are to be found doing various kinds of work and they seem to give satisfaction. They clerk in stores, run hotels, serve as stenographers and typewriters, conduct millinery stores, run boarding houses, look after telephone exchanges, and teach school. Some of these women make excellent wives. There are many other things that our women can and will do as they become educated and more independent. Here are some things that they ought not to do: Run railroad trains, practice law, go into politics, or support a lazy husband.—Sanford Express.

Lively Row At Morehead.

Goldsboro, N. C., Aug. 14.—A gentleman returning from Morehead, tells of an interesting scrap there the other night. It seems that a negro and a couple of white men all under the influence of liquor, entered the hotel while the guests were for the most part asleep and the negro proceeded to give the clerk some rather choice selections in crude rhetoric. They were ordered out but refused and made themselves so offensive that a gentleman in the room jumped into the crowd, knocking them right and left. The intruders sought refuge and re-inforcements and returned bent on severe mischief. They met a most hospitable reception at the hands of the hotel people, who pressed all kinds of things on them especially one old gentleman who from the porch above gathered an armful of spittoons and hurled them down on the heads of the offenders, who were finally driven off. No serious damage was accomplished.

Thomasville Charity and Children: If we would only practice the sturdy virtue of economy as our fathers did with our improved facilities for making money, the cry of hard times would never be heard, and peace and contentment would take the place of unrest and wretchedness.

The Farm Boy.

There is no question of the influence which the sturdy outdoor life has upon country boys; and the fact that the life is harnessed to regular, imperative duties is to the boy's advantage. He is developed gradually and healthily his mind following his physical strength rather than the reverse. And around him, for his everyday observation and study, are the very best object lessons possible for a boy's developing life. He associates familiarly with nature during his work and recreation; and even during his sleep, the air which enters his open chamber window is laden with the odors of apple blossoms, or the harvest season, or perhaps is the pure, stimulating atmosphere of the white, undulating winter fields. But it all goes toward making him stronger, sturdier, more self-reliant, more ambitious, more observing. He is healthy all through, physically, mentally, morally.—Farm Journal.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Little Talk About Savings. A distinguished economist felt that it was as necessary to teach a child to save as to train him to earn, says American Boy. He formulated a system of savings for the lower schools of France so wise and efficient that in ten years there were in France 21,000 school savings banks, with 442,020 depositors, whose weekly average deposits of 15 centimes had amounted to 10,248,226 francs, or over $2,000,000. The establishment of the banks was left to the voluntary efforts of the teachers. The children deposited pocket money only, and it was made a part of every Monday morning exercise.

The French cultivate the saving habit. Mme. Carnot gave a dinner to 400 of the poorest children of Paris and at its close gave to each one a bankbook containing a credit of 10 francs. When floods spread desolation and want in the south of France, the children of the schools of Bordeaux freely gave from their savings $400 for the relief of the sufferers.

There are some school banks in our own country, and when the penny depositors of the school bank of Long Island city heard of the great Johnstown flood they sent $452 out of their savings as their contribution.

Every boy as soon as he is old enough to spend money should be given a legitimate means of earning it or a regular allowance, which at first may be made to cover his pleasures and gradually increased to include his necessities and charities. A boy ought to learn how to give as well as how to save and so should give his own money to the church or Sunday school. Let the boy take care of his own money.

Ida M. Bodman in The Mother's Journal says in writing on this subject: A child seldom has sufficient will to enable him to work for a distant object steadily. He lives in the present, but every time he denies himself some trifling, pleasant gratification in order to save a few dollars to buy something of real value he has received a valuable lesson. Our primary object is not to persuade him to accumulate money, but to prevent him from spending it unwisely. In some cases in order to stimulate the boy to put aside his pennies for a specific object it is helpful to promise to add a certain amount to the savings.

Whistle Again.

"George, George, mind; your hat will be blown off if you lean so far out of the window!" exclaimed a fond father to his little son who was traveling with him in a railway carriage. Quickly snatching the hat from the head of the refractory youngster, papa hid it behind his back.

"There, now, the hat has gone!" he cried, pretending to be angry, and George immediately set up a howl. After a time the father remarked:

"Come, be quiet. If I whistle your hat will come back again."

Then he whistled and replaced the hat on the boy's head. "There, it's back again, you see." Afterward, while papa was talking to mamma, a small, shrill voice was heard saying:

"Papa, papa, I've thrown my hat out of the window! Whistle again, will you?"

Jackie's Lesson.

It was Jackie's birthday, and he was 6 years old. In the evening his Uncle Fred, who was a soldier, came up into the nursery to play with him and Bobbie, much to their delight.

"I mean to be a soldier one day," said Jackie during the game.

"Ah, my little man, you've a lot of lessons to learn first of all," replied Uncle Fred, with a smile.

"Come, Master Jack, it's bedtime," said nurse.

"I'm not coming yet, nurse," said Jackie, crossly. "Can't you see I'm busy?"

"Do you know, my boy, that the first lesson a soldier has to learn is to obey?" said Uncle Fred gravely.

Jackie thought a minute, and then, like a good little boy, he put away his playthings and said, "Good night."

An Eagle That Flies in a City.

A handsome bald eagle spends two or three hours every morning catching fish at a place within the city limits in plain view of the passengers on a trolley car line. He perches on an oak tree near the shore of a lake in which carp and catfish are plentiful. When his "eagle eye" spies a fish in the shallow water near the shore, down he swoops and, seizing the fish in his talons, flies back to the tree, where he eats, and then watches for another victim. The bird of freedom has chosen the position well, as the tree is on the extreme end of a long peninsula which no one can approach without being visible for half a mile.—Portland Oregonian.

The Initial J.

Has it occurred to you that the initial letter J played a not inconspicuous part in the recent game of pitch and toss in Wall street? In former times of storm and stress we had J. Gould and J. Fisk. Now we have J. Pierpont Morgan, J. R. Keene, J. J. Hill, J. Stillman, J. Schiff, J. H. Moore, J. W. Gates, J. Loeb and George J. Gould. Put a J in your name if you would be a power in the street.
