ASTHMA CURE FREE!

Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief & Permanent Cure in all Cases. SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa, Ridge, Ill., says: "Your bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

We want to send to every sufferer a trial treatment of Asthmalene, similar to the one that cured Mr. Wells. We'll send it by mail post-paid, absolutely Free of Charge, to any sufferer who will write for it, even on a postal. Never mind, though you are despairing, however bad your case. Asthmalene will relieve and cure. The worse your case, the more glad we are to send it. Do not delay, write at once, addressing Dr. Taft Bros' Medicine Co., 79 East 130th St., N. Y. City. Sold by all Druggists.

GOV. AYCOCK ON LYNCHING.

Raleigh, N. C., August 26.—Gov. Aycock said today that he is actually afraid to take up a newspaper every morning for fear he will see accounts of lynchings. The situation is, he says, simply appalling and he don't know what to do. The crime for which lynching is administered, seems to be increasing at an alarming rate. He says the offerings of rewards for the lynchings is of no avail, and even if some party or parties should be reported there is no grand jury to be found that will find a true bill, or petit jury that will convict.

The Governor charges the newspapers with being largely responsible for the lynchings, in that the action of the lynchings is invariably endorsed by them and the statement made that nothing else was to be expected. He also takes the position that the lynchings tend to increase the crime of rape in that the disregard of the law by lynchings who are generally of the better class of people infuses the lower element with a disregard for it which manifests itself in the commission of the nameless crime. He says he is powerless to put down either the lynching or the rape, and don't believe conditions can be changed until a public sentiment is created which will put a stop to lynching.

The newspapers of the State deplore the occurrence of lynchings equally as much as does Gov. Aycock, and it instead of blaming the newspapers the Governor would lay the responsibility to the courts and the lawyers he would be nearer right. Let the Governor, if it is in his power, take some steps—or at least advocate them—that will lead to the enactment of fewer farces in the name of trials in court, and there will be less ground for the newspapers to say "nothing else was to be expected" when there is a lynching.

The manner of trial of perpetrators of crimes that cause lynchings is wrong. Who wants to see the victim of such a crime dragged into court and forced to repeat the horrible story in public? Who wants to see her subjected to a cruel cross examination by some lawyer whose sense of honor and justice is for the time being blinded by the fee he gets for defending a criminal, the purpose of such examination being to confuse her and catch some word by which her testimony can be broken down, further humiliation heaped upon her, and the criminal turned loose?

And if a conviction takes place and sentence is passed for execution at some future day, who knows but what the Governor will by relieve, commutation or pardon, set aside what the jury and court have done?

These things have been done, and they grate heavily upon the feelings of the people who want to see the virtue and lives of our women protected. Let measures be provided by which such criminals can be tried immediately, shield the victim from publicity and humiliation during the trial, and as soon as the guilt of the criminal is established let him be executed without delay. Bring about these reforms and there will be no danger upon picking up a newspaper of reading an account of a lynching.

THE REFLECTOR wishes another lynching would never occur in North Carolina, but it believes they will continue to occur until there are such changes about the courts that people can see criminals will be properly and speedily dealt with by the law.

Takes The Dose With a Wry Face.

The Messenger has never favored laws of the character of compulsory education and for reasons it has set forth. It is not democratic or southern but federal and New England. The Charlotte News is pleased to say:

"The Wilmington Messenger strenuously opposed such a measure, but the Messenger has since the legislature adjourned, seen the error of its ways and now thinks compulsory attendance is one of necessities to stamp out illiteracy."

It accepts the undemocratic measure simply in preference to stopping the common schools. Of two evils it selects the lesser as less dangerous and less disastrous. With a large proportion of the two races for whom the white are taxed refusing steadfastly to avail themselves of the benefits of the schools created sustained by others for them, it becomes necessary to either discontinue the tax or to impose compulsion. The latter is very bad, and the necessity is to be deplored, but one remedy is needed to reduce the tremendous illiteracy in North Carolina, and to remove a stigma and a stain from its escutcheon. A free government like our own is based upon the supposed virtue, intelligence and morality of the people. With negroes showing between five and six per cent. increase, and the whites showing only some two per cent. it is high time that better schools were furnished and the children between certain ages be required to attend. Do not allow factories to interfere with the health and schooling of the children. The Messenger takes compulsory education as an extreme measure—as a delicate stomach receives a dose of nauseous physic.—Wilmington Messenger.

Yankee Soldiers Started Lynching.

We published a few days ago a letter from Hon. Daniel R. Goodloe stating that the first case of rape of white woman by a negro of which he ever heard happened in Franklin county nearly three quarters of a century ago. In that case the negro was tried by a jury and hung after conviction. No lynching was even suggested.

Speaking of Mr. Goodloe's letter yesterday, Mr. Joseph Blake, surveyor of Wake county and a well known citizen, said that the first lynching of which he ever heard was conducted by soldiers in Sherman's army. It was in the spring of 1865 when Sherman's advance corps was on its way to Raleigh. They came to a house near Archer's Lodge, near the edge of Johnson and Wake county, and found a woman in a deplorable condition, crying and moaning. Asked where her husband was, the woman said he was in the Confederate army. At first she was afraid of the Yankee soldiers, but when they assured her that they would befriend her, she told them that she had been assaulted by a negro who had just gone up the road. She described the negro perfectly, and the soldiers found him within less than a mile of the lady's house. He was taken back, identified by the lady, and those soldiers of Sherman at once all fired at the negro, riddling his body with bullets. They then buried him in the road and built a causeway across his grave and all that Sherman's army marched over his body.

This shows that there is no difference between men in the North and the South when the honor of the women are in peril.

That tells self takes when I don't mind.
I wish I could this rare bird find!
Again, "I'll never disobey."
That I am sorry, and I say
And look at me with eyes so sad
For fear mamma might call me bad
When I do things I would not tell
Although I look and hear well
"This strange I cannot hear a sound,
Mamma says, "Oh, he has found!"
But ever of it I have heard
Yet still I never saw this bird.
And tell mamma all this heart me:
This little bird has eyes to see
And I creep through the door ajar
From party where no windows are
Or even a small bit of eave
And if a piece of pie I take
She says, "A little told me so."
But when I ask, "How do you know?"
I know all what she's going to say.
Then she calls me "My little son."
And tell mamma just what I've done:
This bird is surely to drop in
Whenever I have naughty been
A bird that always tells of me.
There is a bird I'd like to see.
The Terrible Bird.

MISS BESSIE PATRICK.

To Halifax is accredited the distinction of being the first town in Eastern North Carolina to solve the water problem. It boasts of an artesian well on the court house square furnishing an abundant supply of pure cold water. Lumberton may not claim priority in securing good water, but it does claim superiority over any town in the eastern part of the State. It has within the corporate limits three flowing artesian wells, and four deep wells, while within less than a quarter of a mile of town there are four other flowing wells. The analysis first made by the State Bacteriologist of the water showed up too well so another sample was sent him and showed the same analysis—that is, the water was as pure as water could be.—Lumberton Robesonian.

To Prevent Kitchen Odors.

A preservative of the odors that arise from cooking vegetables is a bread crust, very hard and very stale. Drop it into the water just as it strikes a boil and let it stay ten minutes, then skim it out. Most of the oil will come with it. Further, the spongy crust will have kept it from vaporizing. Cauliflower not quite fresh always smells tremendously. The best thing for it is a scald in weak salt water, boiling hot, before the cold soaking. If the heads are big, cut them into pieces so as to make sure of removing every bit of discolored curd.

Even when summer heat puts an open fireplace out of commission, a quick flare as of straw, excelsior, light shavings, even newspapers, will set up a purifying draft and help to free the kitchen of unpleasant odors. Failing an open fireplace, the kitchen ought to have a range hood. There are hoods and hoods, at almost any price you choose, from the big burnished copper affairs in the great hotels to the modest sheet iron contrivance which is an integral part of so many among the newest stoves. There is a movable hood, working up and down like the shutter of a roll top desk—that is in theory all a hood ought to be—with something to spare, but in practice has proved much less satisfactory than the stationary ones.

No mechanical contrivance can wholly make up for the lack of care and intelligence in the cook notwithstanding it is a fact that a hood well set in a large measure carries away the fumes of food.

BACK TO FIRST LOVE.

Married Same Man the Second Time.

Goldsboro, N. C., August 27.—The story of fiction of Laura Jean Libby, entitled, "He Fell in Love With His Wife," has been eclipsed in Greene county by an actual occurrence in every day life, where a woman fell in love with her husband, and married him. The pages of fiction, on which are founded the wild and fanciful imaginings of wonderful minds, do not contain a story more strange than the one of which The Post correspondents has just learned and which will be related as follows:

Some several years ago there resided in Pitt county, near the town of Farmville, a young lady named Miss Addie May, who was as well known there then as she is now, and has a father still living, who is a merchant in the town of Farmville. Over across the line in Greene county resided a young man whose initials we could not learn, but whose surname was Dupree. These two young people met, loved and were married. The young man was somewhat dissipated and after two years of married life, which was not altogether pleasant and congenial, Mrs. Dupree sued for a divorce in the courts of Greene county and obtained it. Somemonths afterward she met a foreigner who had come into the community by the name of Viscontes. He was intelligent, attractive and handsome, and when he asked Mrs. Dupree to become his wife she readily consented. This match was no more successful than the first. The foreigner was also dissipated and in addition to his bad habits he was lazy, it is said, and failed to provide for his family. On these grounds Mrs. Viscontes sued for a divorce, which was granted. Her last experience with matrimonial life covered a period of several years. After she had been separated from her last husband for some months she again met her first husband, Mr. Dupree and fell in love with him and he with her, the second time. This peculiar love match resulted in a wedding in Greene county yesterday and Mr. Dupree was the groom and Mrs. Viscontes was the bride. For the second time they were married yesterday, and the writer trusts that their experience on the present happy occasion will be different from the one which preceded it some years ago.—Raleigh Post.

While most of the above is true, there are some errors in it. The bride has not a father now living and in business at Farmville, as her father died a number of years ago. Nor did the foreigner she married come in the community before she met him. After obtaining the first divorce from Mr. Dupree she saw an advertisement of a gentlemen in Texas wanting a governess. She answered the advertisement, terms were agreed upon, she went to Texas to be governess in Mr. Visconti's home, and while there married him. This was in March 1890, Mrs. Dupree having obtained an absolute divorce from her husband, Mr. F. M. Dupree, the September term of Pitt Superior Court previous, 1889. Four years before, 1885, she obtained a bed and board divorce from him. The divorce from her second husband, whose name was James A. Lorenzo de Visconti, was obtained at April term, 1901, of Pitt Superior court. The second marriage to Mr. Dupree took place at Snow Hill Tuesday morning.

A church sensation—drowsiness.

The much borrowed V. knows what it is to go through life entirely a loan.
