A MEAN LOOKING LETTER-HEAD

Has lost many a dollar for business men. If a man is judged by the coat he wears, he is also judged by the letter-head he uses. An artistic, nicely printed letter head may be looked on as a good investment.

It will be done right. The price for doing it will be right, too.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1901.

Lawyers in Chicago.

The Chicago Tribune estimates the average income of the attorneys of Chicago at $750 a year. If this average income were evenly distributed it would be little enough, but when we consider that out of the total amount to be divided, some lawyers take $40,000, a large number $30,000, a still larger number $20,000 the proportion of the average lawyer must be cut down to $500 a year. This is about what an unskilled workman would earn if he has steady work, and much less than a skilled mechanic would earn under ordinary circumstances. In both the legal and medical professions the sons of well-to-do parents constitute quite a large proportion of the poorer paid members of the legal fraternity. A fairly successful business man who society has overlooked is often willing to make sacrifice of money to place his son where society can see him without departing from its accustomed haunts. A young lawyer with little practice, whose drafts upon the old gentleman will be honored to the extent of $1,000 a year may make a fair social showing. A good many young men who scoff at society find their prejudice against it fade out in the light of its smiles. They would rather enter a profession that promises social advancement than an occupation which from its nature limited social aspiration to a large but well defined sphere. So young men will continue to become lawyers and doctors with the expectation of working twenty years or so for a bare livelihood. There is always room at the top and there are grades below the top where the rewards of professional work are greater than general business averages.—San Francisco Bulletin.

A good story is being told about a gardener who was for many years in the service of Missioner.

This gardener was not only wonderfully skilled in the art of cultivating flowers and vegetables, but he also was a true scientist, and, as he was endowed with a phenomenal memory, he was able to give off hand the botanical name of any plant that was shown to him. Some of his employer's friends frequently tried to baffle him by handing him seeds or cuttings of exotic or other out-of-the-way plants, but they never succeeded.

Now, Missioner was proud of him, but he vowed that he would, once at least, bewilder him, and one day, he summoned the gardener, and taking from his pocket a small paper package, in which he had previously placed some eggs of dried herring, he said to him: "Here are some curious seeds. Can you tell me what they are?"

"Of course I can, sir," replied the gardener, and after examining them for a moment or two he gave them a most impressive Latin name.

"If you sow them now," asked the painter, how long will it take for them to appear above ground?"

"A fortnight," was the reply. "Well," said Missioner, "I wish you would sow them at once, for I am curious to see what kind of plant it is."

A fortnight later Emile Augier, desiring to see the end of this joke, came to breakfast at the painter's villa, and as he and his host were at table the gardener presented himself and said: "If you gentlemen will oblige me by stepping into the garden, I will show you the plants that those curious seed have produced."

The two friends followed him to the conservatory, where he pointed out to them twelve odd-looking objects in a box filled with freshly watered brown earth. They stooped to examine them more closely, and the next moment they burst into shouts of laughter, for the strange objects were the heads of twelve red herrings. — Raleigh Post.

A Chicago husband shut a door the other day in such a way as to injure his wife's hand, whereupon she applied for a divorce upon the ground of cruelty and Judge Dune, of a Chicago court, granted it within ten minutes. The triviality of causes of divorce in America is one reason for their multiplicity. We are bragging a good deal today of our progress as compared with Europe, but other nations, including wicked France, regard the marriage tie more highly than America does. The divorce statistics of one year show that in the United States 23,472 divorces were granted in France 6,245, in Germany 6,161, in Russia 1,789, in England 508.—Charlotte Observer.

Rev. A. D. Betts, D. D., of the North Carolina Conference, celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday on last Sunday. We received a message of love from which we appreciated more than we can express. Our wish is that his useful life may be spared yet many years, and that he may have before him a great number of happy birthdays. That the sunset may be bright and glorious and prove to be the golden gateway to that world where there are no shadows or sorrows, but where peace and love abound and where friendships abide eternally.—N. C. Advocate.

The laws of the Medes and Persians were unchangeable and unto this day we hear of men who cannot and will not change their minds, though they be shown their error. The old, old saying, convince a fool against his will and he will be of the same opinion still, will hold good right up to and including the day when Gabriel's final toot of the trumpet shall call all men to the judgment bar.—Lexington Dispatch.

In speaking about compulsory education State Labor Commissioner Varner says the development of the movement is remarkable, as all the replies from his report show. He expects it in five years. It is much stronger in the west than in the east. He says this is, however, because a majority of the white people in the parts of the State where the negroes are numerous do not want the negroes educated at all. In the western counties where negroes are few, this attracts no attentions.—Oxford Ledger.

Mr. B. N. Scarborough showed us a lot of cotton bolls today in which were worm holes. He says the boll worms have destroyed a large part of the bolls in his field. Mr. Scarborough thinks the cotton crop will be almost as bad as in 1889. He has not heard of any other farmers in this section being troubled with boll worms. He thinks the farmers should examine their cotton patches carefully to see if the boll worms are in them.

Moralists in Trouble.

A double suicide in New England has brought to light the fact that a married man had been for years making love to working girls and borrowing their money in order to get means to support his family, and moralists do not know whether to condemn him for falsehood to his sweethearts or praise him for fidelity to his wife.—San Francisco Call.

Best Averages Made.

Thursday O. L. Joyner at the Farmers Warehouse sold more pounds of tobacco at higher averages than were ever sold before on any warehouse floor in Greenville. The farmers and the buyers all complimented him upon making such a fine sale. Joyner certainly is a judge of tobacco and he knows how to run a sale. The farmers always feel safe when they put their tobacco on his floor.

What Experience Teaches.

"Even the most meritorious article needs thorough advertising in the newspapers in order to make its way. An article which is without real merit may have a considerable sale if it be well advertised; but within six months or a year the venture will fail. You don't feel the full effects of newspaper advertising at once, as a rule. You have to wait to get the cumulative effects. No advertiser can afford to suspend advertising for a time." These are the opinions of a successful proprietary medicine man.

The Greatest Evidence of the dangers of cholera morbus, diarrhoea, and dysentery is the increase in the death rate during the summer months. You cannot be too careful, and particular attention should be paid to diet. A supply of Pain-Killer should always be at hand for it can be relied on at all times as safe, sure and speedy. A teaspoonful will cure any ordinary case. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. Price 25c and 50c.

TOWN MATTERS.

Proceedings of Aldermen—Charges Against Chief Police.

The Board of Aldermen held the regular monthly meeting Thursday night, all the members being present.

The standing committees had no regular reports to make. The Street committee was authorized to purchase tiling for some of the street crossings.

The matter of opening a street across West Greenville from Skinnerville to Dickinson avenue was brought up and the Street committee was instructed to investigate the matter and ascertain the best location for the street and proceed at once to construct it.

The White Cemetery committee reported that there were no funds in hand to make needed improvements, and recommended taking a sufficient amount out of the general funds to keep a man employed at the cemetery the year through. The Board did not concur in the recommendation.

The Street committee was instructed to notify A. Forbes and B. F. Patrick to repair their sidewalks on Evans street with brick or cement within thirty days.

The Tax Collector and Police made their reports of collections during the past month. The report of the Chief of Police showed fines and costs collected amounting to $191.42, which indicated an unusually large number of offences committed during August.

The Ordinance committee was authorized to make some amendment to the dog ordinance. The committee was also instructed to draft an ordinance confining houses of ill repute to a certain territory of the town and report the same at next meeting.

A new ordinance was adopted making it unlawful for any person to go out on the sidewalks or streets and draw or attempt to draw a person into any store or other place of business by taking hold of or laying hands upon such person, the penalty being $5 for each offense.

License to conduct restaurants were granted to Laughinghouse & Co., Laura Everett, Samuel Gibbs, Joe Forbes, and Weathington & Moye.

A petition from a number of citizens was presented asking that the street sprinkler shall sprinkle on Third street from the corner of Cotanch street to the corner of the lot occupied by D. E. House. The petition was denied, and this was followed by a motion that no section of the town shall be sprinkled except Evans street between Third and Fifth streets.

An affidavit signed by John A. Kinion was presented to the Board, preferring charges against Chief of Police J. T. Smith of having violated Sec. 5. Chap. 14 of the ordinances of the town, by going into a barroom and taking a drink when not on his official duties. After the reading of the affidavit by counsel for Kinion, the Board set Monday night, August 16th, for an investigation of the charges.

The monthly ballot for assistant Policeman was taken again resulting in a tie vote between E. B. Dudley and A. A. Forbes, Jr., when the matter once more went over to next regular meeting. A motion was then made to declare the office of assistant Police vacant, which motion was lost, so officer Dudley continues to hold the place until a successor is elected.

The tax list taker presented the tax books for 1901 and the Clerk was ordered to turn them over to the Tax Collector with instructions that he proceed to collect the same. This order was afterward reconsidered to give the Finance committee opportunity to examine the books. A. A. Forbes, Jr., who had been reported delinquent in his taxes for 1900, appeared and stated that he was not a resident of the town that year. It was ordered that the election poll book for that year be examined and if it was found that he voted in the town election for that year he shall be liable for the tax, but if he did not vote in said election to be released from the tax. [His name is not on the registration book.]

An account of D. C. James for $10 for a dog belonging to him which was killed by the police, was rejected on the ground that the dog had not been listed for taxation and therefore was not considered property.

The Mayor was instructed to write Engineer J. L. Ludlow to meet with the Board at a special meeting on Tuesday night, 10th.

Accounts were presented and ordered paid to the amount of $309.93.

The estimated value of all farm products of the United States for 1900 was $3,000,000,000. Should the demand ever come, the South could sell at present prices cotton enough to reach this sum. Take the value of the products of the South to be $122,500,000, estimated, and it will approximate the value of nearly one-half of all the agricultural products of the United States. There is only 20 per cent. of the lands of the South improved. Concede that only 50 per cent. is susceptible of being improved, then the South could easily produce more than $3,000,000,000 of agricultural products on 50 per cent. of its territory without employing any improved methods of cultivation or fertilization and employing ignorant labor.—Manufacturers Record.

At Work Again.

Paul Metrick the Tailor, has recently returned from the hospital where he underwent an operation. He has not regained his strength sufficient for heavy work yet, but expects to be all right in a week more. He has a card in today's paper advising about winter suits and overcoats.
