OUR RALEIGH LETTER.

Special Correspondent of Reflector.
RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 10.

CRYING OVER SPILT MILK.

A good many people in Raleigh appear to be on the "stool or repentance" just now and are regretting their action in allowing the bond issue voted on last month to be defeated, by remaining away from the polls—it being necessary for the bonds to receive an actual majority of all the names on the registration books. Therefore, while nearly 1,000 voted for the bonds and less than 200 white men against them, over 750 voters did not vote at all and the bonds lacked 81 of polling a majority of all the votes that could have been cast.

OTHER MATTERS OF INTEREST.

Trouble with the school-book publishers continues and on account of the lack of depositories (which they are required to establish) in many counties the "cheaper books" are costing more than ever because postage has to be paid on them from a distance. Superintendent Toon is trying to remedy the trouble and have the books deposited in every county for sale.

Col. John S. Cunningham, president of the North Carolina Tobacco Growers' Association, calls a meeting of the Association to be held in Raleigh during Fair week about the 23d or 24th of October. As many tobacco growers as possible should attend. Col. Cunningham himself is the largest tobacco grower in the United States and is deeply interested in the welfare of those interested in the same business.

Ex-Treasurer Worth's trustee has made payment of all of the $16,000 stolen by his clerk Martin except $1,300. The latter sum will soon be turned over to Treasurer Lacy. It has been a great hardship to this honest old man and every one hopes he will yet get most of it back out of the insurance company that bonded Martin, and which has refused to pay a dollar, so far.

The State Pension Board is now purging the pension lists sent in by the various counties. In some counties from one third to one half the names have been stricken out and many eliminated in most of the counties. Still the number of pensioners will be larger this year than ever.

Are Book Agents Peddlers?

Treasurer Lacy has made a ruling that is calculated to jar the book agent.

This official holds that these peripatetic libraries are peddlers, and therefore liable to peddler's tax.

His authority for this is section 54 of the Revenue Act, which says: "Any person who shall carry from place to place any goods wares or merchandise and offers to sell or barter the same, or actually sells or barter the same shall be deemed to be a peddler, and shall pay a license tax."

This question has recently arisen in several sections of the State, and the Treasurer has replied that not only are book agents peddlers, but all who sell by sample and then deliver the goods or have them delivered in broken packages.—Raleigh News & Observer.

Ten Years the Maximum Penalty for Buffalo Crime.

Following are the definitions in law of the crime committed in Buffalo:—

Assault in the first degree defined:—

"A person who, with an intent to kill a human being, or to commit felony upon the person or property of one assaulted or of another.—

"1. Assaults another with a loaded firearm, or any other deadly weapon, or by any other means or force likely to produce death; or,

"2. Administers to, or causes to be administered to or taken by another, poison, or any other destructive or noxious things, so as to endanger the life of such other.—

"Is guilty of assault in the first degree.

"Assault in the first degree—how punished:—

"Assault in the first degree is punishable by imprisonment for not less than five nor more than ten years."—Richmond Times.

DIED.

Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock, at her home near Grindle creek, Miss Sallie Abrams died of typhoid fever. Until about four weeks ago she and her brother lived together. He was taken with fever and she nursed him faithfully until he died. A week later she was taken with the fever and died yesterday. She was about 42 years old.

Mr. Purley Manning, the young man who dislocated his spinal column while swimming in Grindle creek several Sundays ago, died in the hospital at Tarboro last week.

A Karsaq minister informed his congregation just before the plates were passed around that the members who were in debt were not expected to contribute. It is, perhaps, unnecessary to state that the collection that day more than exceeded the minister's expectations.

Unpleasant remarks are by no means remarkable.

Some men are like razors—too sharp for their own good.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1901.

Since the chances are becoming so favorable to the recovery of the President, the penalty that can be pronounced upon the assassin is being discussed. A clipping from the Richmond Times published elsewhere, says that the maximum punishment for the crime is ten years imprisonment. This is the punishment for assault in the first degree or assault with intent to kill. So far as people go the law is no respecter of persons, but a crime like this at Buffalo ought to be considered an offense against the government and the penalty ought to be death. If there are no laws to make the punishment of such cases meet the demands of justice, then such laws should be enacted without delay. An attempt to kill the President, or to kill the Governor of a State should be regarded as a higher crime than against a person not in high authority, and the punishment should be made to fit the crime.

Judge Timberlake was in the city yesterday and told an amusing story of court week in Wilson. The court was held in the opera house, as the court house is being remodelled. A young fellow during the proceedings was smoking. Judge Timberlake told Sheriff Sharpe to have this stopped and to tell the young man he was fined $5. This was remitted, however, when the transgressor told the judge that he had never been in a court before, and as it was in the opera house he thought he was attending a free show.—Raleigh News and Observer.

The Only Remedy,

There is just one remedy for lynching, and it is idle to talk of any other. The communities that are victims of one particular crime must be taught—not by precept, but by unvarying example—that such outrages will be promptly, certainly, and terribly avenged through the agencies of justice. In default of that assurance, made doubly sure by unmistakable and overwhelming proof, all the preaching in the world will avail nothing. If the law does not give them vengeance quick and thorough, men will take it for themselves.—Washington Post.

There are more women in the medical profession in this country (in proportion to population) than anywhere else in the world. The first was Elizabeth Blackwell, who received her diploma in 1849. In 1889 there were 3,000 in the country; in 1896 there were 4,555, and now there are about 6,000.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.

The terrible calamity which has befallen President McKinley has been almost the sole topic of conversation in Washington since Friday night. The news came just as people employed in the department were going home to dinner, and just before the shops closed for the night. There were hundreds of people who did not go home to dinner at all. They stood about in front of the bulletin boards watching for the latest report and discussing the news. The three great newspaper offices, the Times, the Post and the Star, all occupy buildings on Pennsylvania avenue within about four blocks of each other, and that part of the great thoroughfare was black with people. To one standing in front of the Treasury and looking toward the Capital it might have seemed that an actual shadow had fallen across the pathway which has been twice traversed by President McKinley on his way to take the oath of inauguration. These crowds were not mere curiosity impelled sensation hunters. They felt a sense of personal affliction, for there has been no more popular President in the White house since its erection than Mr. McKinley has been so far as his private character is concerned. His enemies are made by his public acts and the party to which he belongs; his personal friends are found in all parties.

The lesson taught by this tragic event was pointed out immediately. As one energetic person put it, in discussing the first bulletin, "This means 'Round up the Reds!'" While to the masses of the people the tragedy was unexpected and unaccountable, it was not so to many astute observers of public events in this city and elsewhere. The assassinations of the Empress Elisabeth and of King Humbert foreshadowed only too plainly the selection of another victim in the near future, and the United States, as yet untouched by Anarchistic plots of this kind, was the field most likely to be selected for the next coup. President McKinley owed his misfortune to the fact that he happened to be President at this particular time, not to anything whatever that he may have done.

This is fortunate, since it relieves all his antagonists from the fearful odium of having suggested or encouraged any crazy fanatic to commit such a crime. The matter had been carefully arranged and planned by a society of Anarchists, and the man selected to the deed calmly did as he was told. The question is, how such things can be prevented in the future. It is futile to expect to prevent them by guarding all public men. The network of police in Russia does not protect the Czar. There is no way of shutting out immigrants which will absolutely nullify the danger. The suggestion of a morning paper the day after the event, that restriction of immigration is the lesson which it teaches, became absurd when it was found that the assassin was born in this country. The remedy seems to be strict police supervision of such dangerous societies. They are against the law, as much as burglars' association or a murder club would be; in fact, they are murder clubs. They should be compelled other to hold their meetings in public, with the understanding that incendiary speeches will not be tolerated, or they should be suppressed and deported. It will not do to tolerate such epidemics, any more than to let small pox remain unquarantined.

retary of State, has gotten himself into a little very hot water. He wrote a letter to Director-General Buchanan of the Pan-American exposition advising him not to invite the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York to come to the exposition. The letter was personal and unofficial, and intended to save embarrassment to everybody. Mr. Ade, in his official position, was aware of the fact that the Duke and Duchess would not leave Canada on their tour, that they had declined all invitations to foreign countries, and that they would either have to decline this one or be obliged to ignore it, neither of which would be very pleasant for them or for Mr. Buchanan. The diplomatic circle of Washington has talked about the letter more or less, and the general opinion seemed to be that Mr. Ade should not have written it even in an entirely personal and unofficial way. Such are the troubles of kind-hearted people who want to do some good in the world.

Celebrated the Deed.

McKeesport, Pa., Sept. 8.—Two hundred Italian anarchists celebrated President McKinley's assassination today at Guffey Hollow, a mining hamlet across Youghiogheny River from Buena Vista. Beer, whiskey, speeches, songs and praises for Czolgosz were the order of the day. This one of the largest anarchist groups in the country.

The fact that one good turn deserves another is what keeps things going.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa, Ridge, Ill., says: "Your bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

We want to send to every sufferer a trial treatment of Asthmalene, similar to the one that cured Mr. Wells. We'll send it by mail post-paid, absolutely Free of Charge, to any sufferer who will write for it, even on a postal. Never mind, though you are despairing, however bad your case. Asthmalene will relieve and cure. The worse your case, the more glad we are to send it. Do not delay, write at once, addressing Dr. Taft Bros' Medicine Co., 79 East 130th St., N. Y. City. Always Good.

The Greenville Warehouse had such a large sale Monday that people had to be turned away, there not being room for any more tobacco on the floor. Prices are always good at the Greenville and the farmers appreciate the work Moorman, Evans & Co. do for them.

Big Sales Continue.

This week is no exception in large tobacco sales. The prices continue good and farmers are hurrying it to market. We have heard that some farmers have already sold their entire crop. If this is so the selling season is going to be very short. The crop is smaller this year than last and the big breaks will soon exhaust it.

Killed Himself Accidentally.

Noah Woody, one of the firm of Andrews and Company, at Pee Creek, Ashe County, accidentally shot and killed himself on last Thursday morning. He and a friend were examining a pistol, at the store, when it fired, taking effect in his heart. He died immediately. He was about 25 years old and a splendid young man.—Wilkesboro Chronicle.

How Boys Learn Mischief.

The increase of loafers is really alarming. In a certain village we counted 17 negro youths, and nearly as many white boys who seemed to have nothing to do but smoke cigarettes, play marbles and watch trains. Some of these were bright, intelligent-looking lads who should have been at home at so early an hour. Perhaps their mothers had done as a mother in the waiting room said she did: "turned my boy loose." Only 14, and "turned loose." We heard one of these—aged 9—say, "My mother don't care where I go."—Laurinburg Exchange.

A seven story building in Chicago has just been raised with jacks twenty-one and one-half feet without cracking a pane of glass or injuring a wall.
